Where And How They Are

DENT WILLIAMS NOW LIEUT. COL. IN RESERVE

Notification of the promotion of Charles D. Williams to the rank of lieutenant colonel has been received here at the Montgomery Army Reserve Officers School.

Col. Williams, a native of Clanton and automobile dealer, has been associated with the reserve school here since 1952 as both a member of the faculty and as a student.

Wililams helped organize and instruct the first school for artillery officers in the Central Alabama region and lately has been associated with the school as a student in the advanced artillery class.

Col. Williams makes his home in Clanton with Mrs. Williams and two children, Charles, Jr. and Nancy.

A veteran of World War II, Col. Williams entered active service as a sergeant in the 31st Dixie Division and served in the Southwest Pacific campaigns. Promoted to the grade of second lieutenant from the ranks, he worked his way up to the rank of major with the 117 Field Artillery Battalion of the Dixie Division.

Returning home in 1946, Col. Williams entered business in Clanton and helped organized the first National Guard unit in the area, Company B of the 167th Inf. Reg.

He is entitled to wear the Bronze Star for Valor, three battle stars and the Phillipine Liberation Campaign ribbons as his service awards.

Our sad-faced friend is Bill McGoo,
Who thought he'd bought a car brand-new;
And while he got a "special deal"
His disappointment he can't conceal!

While others drive in Swept Wing style
Poor Bill just mutters curses vile:
"They got new styling, features, too—
"I bought a 'deal'—boo-hoo, boo-hoo!"

Moral: Yesterday's looks and features are no bargain at any price!

No car is a bargain if it's obsolete in styling and engineering features. And the Swept-Wing Dodge actually obsoletes other cars in its field with its low, low look of tomorrow and revolutionary advances like Torsion-Aire Ride, Push-Button TorqueFlite and Total-Contact Brakes. So don't get "bargain-talked" into yesterday's styling and features. The same money buys the car that's years ahead. See your Dodge dealer. Join the swing to the Swept-Wing Dodge.

The winless Kiwanians are still looking as the Methodist Braves trounced them 17 to 4 in June 21st's opener.

The Braves scored their 17 runs on 8 hits and 15 walks, as Kiwanis pitchers are still having trouble finding the plate. Mims had a good [illegible] at the plate [illegible] three hits, [illegible] a home [illegible]. Church had 2 hits and 2nd base position, played by Ellison and Maddox had four walks and one H.P.B. Braves' pitcher, Jones, gave up 3 hits and issued 4 passes for the Kiwanis' 4 runs. Walker, Carter and Glasscock hit safely, with Barker driving in 2 runs.

In the nightcap, the Lions went down to defeat before the Jaycees 7 to 2. The Jaycees came up with 7 runs on 5 hits, the Lions 2 runs on 4 hits. Tuesday night's game will mark the half-way point for the Litle Leaguers and we will have the standings plus some statistics after that game.

Tomato Growers Gross $36,000 In Mid-June

GOOD MARKET ALSO BRINGS $1600.00 WORKER INCOME

By M. R. Glasscock
For The News

As reported by Earl Marit[illegible] ager Clanton Be[illegible] Grower [illegible] and James Kincaid, Man[illegible] [illegible] County Fruit and Truck [illegible] [illegible], approximately 10[illegible] growers received a gross of $36,000.00 for 8,000 bushels of green tomatoes during the mid-June shipping period. In addition to the farmer income, part-time workers received approximately $1,600.00 labor income in the tomato grading and packing operation.

Chilton County green tomatoes were distributed to Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Illinois and Ohio re-pack houses.

The bulk green tomato market supports the Chilon County tomato industry in a number of ways. Certainly turning green tomatoes into cash within the County simplifies the time and effort involved in marketing. By moving a large volume of "greens" out of the area, the local pink market has remained fairly stable. Also, the practice [illegible] ng grown green tomatoes from vines increases the vines' ability to produce volume of fruit.

Tomato market managers are continuing to hold their buyer con[illegible] if weather conditions im[illegible] possibly be moving green tomatoes to distant points again this season.

In Midst of Big Project--

Local Lions Elect Hayes President

At a luncheon-business meeting, Friday, June 28th, the Clanton Lions Club elected the following as officers of their Club for the coming year.

As new president of that organization [illegible] Hayes, local veterinarian, takes over from the very capable Glen Bashore, local lawyer, retiring president.

First vice-president is John Fo[illegible] local gas dealer; second VP is Raymond Hamilton, Auto Parts Manager; third VP Chester Miller, Trans Gas employee. Back again is C. E. Tucker, chief-of-police of Clanton to fill his own shoes as secretary and C. W. Hand will handle the funds.

Tail Twister, the fellow whose job it is to see that a harmonious atmosphere prevails at the meetings is Leonard L. Traywick.

Also installed were four new members of the Board: Herb Salter, W. A. Crowson, B. A. Adams and Lewis "Pig" Headley.

Lion Tamer, the custodian of the Club's properties and keeper of the peace is R. C. Veazey of the Clanton Home & Auto Store.

Installing these new officers in their respective duties was a fellow Lion, Judge Edwin Sanford of Wetumpka, who has recently been elected president of that distinguished group.

Some of the prominent guests at this installation were: Probate Judge M. D. Tingle, County Court Judge J. B. Atkinson, Sheriff of Chilton County Hugh Champion, and Mayor of Clanton J. Hollis Jackson. Other guests also enjoyed the meal and installation services with the Lions.

At the time of installation the Club was right in the middle of a huge project which they have adopted concerning the Blackwood Memorial here in Clanton. The annual Memorial Singing, sponsored by Chilton Lions Clubs was held this past Sunday afternoon and from all reports was a success, thanks to cooperative endeavors on the part of each individual Lion working as a whole.

The local Lions expect a good year with their new officers. You'll be hearing from them.

Lecroy Appointed Supt. of Education

Lecroy Writes On Accepting Position

On July 1, I assumed the duties of Superintendent of Chilton County Schools to fill the unexpired term of Mr. J. H. Boockholdt who on the same date became Superintendent of Green County Schools. In filling this office I realize fully the [illegible] responsibilities, problems and challenges which confront us in education. It is the inherent right of every child to receive a free public school education and to develop his abilities to his maximum capacity. In making it possible for our boys and girls to do this I am seeking your cooperation and interest. Without it little or nothing can be accomplished. There is no problem too big, no obstacle too high to surmount when we pull together for the welfare of our children.

In the history of public education there have been many problems to solve and many bridges to cross but [illegible] the problems have been solved and the bridges have been [illegible] in a satisfactory manner when people worked on them cooperatively. Let us not change that plan. The Board and I invite you to contact us at all times to discuss question or problem concerning children—our children. We will welcome you, your ideas, suggestions and constructive criticisms always.

[illegible] past nine years I have [illegible] of Education, four [illegible] as vocational agriculture teacher at Chilton County High School [illegible] five years as school bus transportation supervisor. In both positions I have worked closely with the youth of the County and I sincerely believe our boys and girls deserve the best in educational advantages and opportunities. It is up to us to see that they get them. During the years I have been in the County I have been aware of the fine spirit of cooperation that has existed. For this I am most appreciative and I have no fear that it will not continue to exist.

The Education Office is open from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to noon on Saturday. You will find us ready and eager to see you at any time.

If it is not possible to see us during office hours, we can arrange a time. The Board, my staff and I want the opportunity and privilege to serve you, patrons, teachers and youth of the County. Please let us.

W. A. LECROY,
Supt. Chilton Co. Schools

Boockholdt Resigns!

To the People of Chilton County

On June 30th I ended, by resignation, my work in Chilton County as your County Superintendent of Education, thus closing the books, so to speak, on 22 years of almost continuous work with the boys and girls of your county.

These have been satisfying years for me. Each year I have been happier over the fact that I chose education for my life's work. It has been even more gratifying that most of this work has been with the people of my own home county. The time has come when the family and I feel it better for all concerned for us to move on. I began my duties as Superintendent of Greene County Schools on July 1st. Plans have been made for the family to move over within a few weeks. We are looking forward to our life and work with the good people there.

I am writing this letter to express as best I can my deepest appreciation to you people. As a group you have been wonderful to my family and me. Three times you have elected me to be your Superintendent. Each time I felt more humble for your vote of confidence and never have I felt more grateful and humble than at this moment. We are leaving you without any ill feeling or malice and are encouraging ourselves to believe that there is no great amount to [illegible] us. You have been extremely [illegible] and gracious to us since the announcement of our departure. Again my family and I say "thank you".

My deepest desire is to see our home county continue to go forward, especially in education.

We can all agree on the fact that the industrial progress of a county depends upon the educational progress of that county. I have thoroughly enjoyed my work as your Superintendent and hope to see this job in our county reach a more professional status in the future. This could be a great step in educational progress.

May God's richest blessings rest upon Chilton County, its people and all its efforts toward progress.

Your friend,
HOWARD BOOCKHOLDT

MANY a train of thought runs into a head-on collision.

IT'S so much easier to solve another's problems than it is your own.

A MAN can move in the best circles and still be a square.

MANY a fellow finds he has to break a bad habit or it breaks him.

SELF-MADE obstacles often keep men from getting into their stride.

GOSSIPS are receiving tellers, but don't bank on their statements.

ANY man who attends strictly to his own business has a steady job.

GOOD resolutions never amount to much unless constantly practiced.

WHO'S NEXT?----

LOOKS like Governor Folsom is changing his Cabinet.

The past week he has fired three of his top men and from rumors, more are to go.

First it was Billy Partlow, Adjutant General, and in our opinion, one of the most popular men in the Governor's Cabinet. Then Eugene Wells, director of Industrial Relations and Ward McFarland, director of the State Docks at Mobile.

Some press reports are that more are to go, but if so, who's next?

STORM DAMAGE----

LITTLE old Audrey, the first hurricane of the season, turned out to be a "Lulu".

Widespread damage was reported from the Gulf to the New England States, but most heavy damage was in the South.

Chilton County was hit heavy in many ways. Damage was done to crops, personal property, homes and highways. It will take a long time for some of us to get over Audrey's visit.

Pressing Need For Small Loan Law----

WHILE most other states have done something about loan sharks and put an end to their "traffic in misery," Alabama has sat idly by and talked a good fight.

Legalistic double-talk is poor consolation to the unfortunate wage earner who is gouged unmercifully by being charged an interest rate which, by sworn testimony has ranged as high as 2085.6% in Alabama. Under the present law, the sharks are free to prey as they will upon the helpless, because they know there are "no teeth" in the law which purports to regulate them.

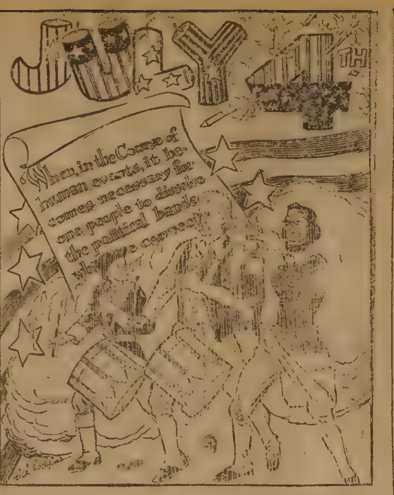
Inhuman? Yes. Un-Christian? Yes. Unwise and unhealthy for our economy and society? Yes. Everyone agrees, except those who are guilty of carrying on this vicious practice.

But what are we doing about it?

Are we as individual citizens letting our representatives in the State Legislature know how we feel about it? Are we demanding that they bring a halt to such ruthless profiteering. . . profiteering which not only robs the poor borrower but the legitimate businessman as well by taking away money that should be spent on the necessities of life?

If any situation ever needed correcting in the name of Christian principle and human wisdom, this is it. With 90% of the nation's population already protected from loan sharks by proper legislation—and Alabama's people still mong the unprotected 10%—how can our legislators stomach the continuation of a practice which protects greed among the few at the expense of wage earners and their families, lawful merchants, and others?

Surely no one wants the loan sharks to go on devouring the pitiable earnings of the wage earner. But only public sentiment, forcibly expressed to our representatives in the State Legislature, will bring an end to this detestable practice. Let them know that you want a law that is adequate to protect the people from the ravages of usury—and that you expect them to get such a law enacted during the present session of the State Legislature.



JULY 4TH
When, in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected

THE DAY when everybody does something different. Something out-of-the-ordinary that they have never done or at least for a long time.

Remember what the 4th of July signifies. The Independence of our great nation. While you're enjoying yourself on the 4th this year, pause for a moment and give thanks to the Good Lord that you can have these things: Freedom, Independence, Equality, Happiness, Peace of Mind and the fact that you can be with your family and get away from it all on this day, or for that matter, any day you choose. For there is no one to tell you what to do. It's wonderful, isn't it?

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

By "TUCK"

It seems to us that the folks who are asking most of the questions about the Community Center are doing darn little to promote the project. When one question is answered, they're ready with another and it never ceases. They are antagonists. They find a question you can't answer and then say "I told you so!" What do they want? Well, they must be the type of folks who like seedless grapes and fish with no bones. They're just plain dyed-in-the-wool lazy, but have big appetites and loud mouths. Good questions do arise, but some run that line of thought completely into the ground. If you're interested in the project, stop asking so many questions and answer a few; it will indeed be appreciated. We're not sure that's interest anyway; but, what is it.

It's strange the effect friendliness will have on a human being. Take us, for instance. We know a man, whom we speak to practically every day, by gesture usually, and we haven't the faintest notion of the man's name or anything about him. The point is: though we know nothing of him, we respect and trust him, simply because of the daily friendly gesture. You might say, we'd be easily fooled, but we'd stal a lot on our judgement of this fellow. He apparently cuts lawns and does odd jobs for a living and he doesn't live high on the hog. He is always ready with a wave of his hand, and in it, to us, is a warmth that you couldn't find in many handshakes. In other words, he's a friend of ours, and we don't even know his name, yet that seems unimportant. We still consider him a friend. It works; try it!

A man who is not criticized is obviously not getting anywhere. Everyone knows that for some unknown twist of fate, there are 9,999 critics for every individual who does anything; whether it's good, bad or straight down the middle.

Ole Clif Parrish says he has a rather personal interest in the robbery which occurred at the Quick Freeze the other morning. Don't get us wrong, he had nuthin' to do with the "takin'" but he was "took" himself. He says the cotton pickin' chicken thieves stole two of the luscious hams that he was looking forward to enjoying so this winter. He also says that the job was pulled off so smoothly that inside shenanigans are suspected. That's fairly obvious Clif, but inside where?

You may cut a man down to size with words, but if you're not careful you'll be ashamed of the size you make him.

And speaking of words: there are words floating around, entirely too loosely these days, about some of the finest folks in this or any other town, and they burn us up. It plain old stinks, and we can't understand why anyone would feel so righteous that they could condemn others so frequently and so maliciously. It doesn't usually hurt the innocent party, but look what it does to the community. Why can't these folks remember the time when Jesus said "he who is without sin among you, cast the first stone." We've never heard anything that hit so smack in the middle as that one sentence. Apparently, there are those of us who feel they're pretty near perfect. If there are such perfect specimens, they are in the wrong place; the rest of us here on this earth are just human and if you don't know what the Bible says about being human, let us suggest that you perfect something besides your ego and read a little more. Like it or not, and hurt though it does, you ain't perfect!

Wonder what they say about the critic who criticizes the critics? Guess he's a Hypocritic.

What To Do In a Tornado

- People in open country can view the approach of a tornado and move at right angles to its path. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression, such as a ditch or ravine.
- In towns or cities, seek shelter inside, preferably in a substantial building. Stay away from windows.
- The southwest corner of the basement of a frame house is safer than in a brick or stone house. If there is no basement, lie down on the first floor under a table or bed (preferably in the southwest corner).
- Urban schools: Stay inside, away from windows; remain near an inside wall on a lower floor. Avoid auditoriums and gymnasiums.
- Rural schools of frame construction: Teachers should remove children to a ravine or ditch if storm shelter is not available.

A Matter Of Opinion; But There's Also A Bare Facts Side

And Here's Both. . .

My Opinion And THE FACTS!

By Bob Tucker

Some of you will agree that, though two sides prevail in a situation, neither is necessarily right, or for that matter, wrong. In other words, it depends on which side of a discussion you're standing on in order to determine what color it

We know there are numerous opinions, both pro and con on the Drag Strip that has been es[illegible] near Clanton

To those of you who refuse to condone this project let us remind you of the responsible position of the responsible adults who represent and control the organization.

Some of you may have in mind that they, like some of the younger set are a bunch of "wild indians" and by some standards, they possibly are.

However, your standards, if they are so confining, need revising to fit the changing times.

This is no longer the horse and buggy days and anyone trying to harness the younger folks are in for an insurmountable task. A will and a way. . . and they have the will. So realizing this, a group of sincere, civic-minded men have joined together to try to "lead" the youngsters in the right paths.

It should be brought to light here that these men urge every young man, who feels the need to "let go" with his or someone else's car, to come on out to the drag strip and stay off the streets and highways.

Sunday morning, for instance, there was a good bit of horseplay going on around the Methodist Church here. That's the sort of thing these men want to do away with.

Sure the police could put the violators in jail, but what would that accomplish. The Drag Strip organization is trying to help keep law and order, save lives and at the same time entertain the youngsters.

The Drag Strip has standards and specifications which have to be met by any party taking part in its activities; thus, it does have law and order. There are any number of rules and regulations and the Club sticks to them to the best of their ability.

Some shenanigans have occurred, but the guilty parties were punished accordingly by the Club members or banned from the track.

The whole idea is to "lead" these so-called "thrill-crazy" kids instead of trying to snuff out their energetic ambitions and the few men who are trying need cooperation.

The name "Drag Strip" evidently makes some folks blood run cold. Would it be any different, if they called it the "Old Maid's Quilting Bee"? Some of us aren't being fair to the men in this organization.

They are, in their own way, doing what they can for their community. If you don't feel they're doing the job properly, we know of no one who would stand in your way to improve the situation.

If you're a'gin it, say so; that's your privilege. We're not, and that is our privilege. We are not hot-rodders, but we have nothing against the guy who is, providing he either has a sensible head on his shoulders or has someone to think for him.

You are by no means judge and jury or either. This organization, with its programs and teachings could spare a young boy the tragic humility of coming before a "real" judge and jury for a crime, not intended, but, nevertheless real.

As the organizers put it: "The Drag Strip is to promote safety on our highways and with the cooperation of the public and local businessmen, we can attain much greater success, and we think, save lives."

In its own way, if handled properly, this project could mean as much to our youth as a Community Center or a City Park or the Little League. All kids aren't the same age. Give it a chance.

Rest assured, that if proper leadership did not prevail, this newspaper and the City and County officials who support this project would be the first to let it be known.

As we said, it won't hurt you to give it a chance; you might even support it a little. Two heads are better, by far, than one.

OF THOSE BRAVE MEN WHO SIGNED

On that memorable July 4, 1776 when the Continental Congress met in Philadelphia to adopt the Declaration of Independence, John Hancock, Massachusetts merchant, signed first—and boldest—as President of the Congress. Josiah Bartlett, New Hampshire doctor, signed second.

Benjamin Franklin was the oldest signer, at 70; Edward Rutledge, South Carolina lawyer, the youngest, at 27. The longevity of the founders of our independence was remarkable for that time—3 lived to be over 90, 10 over 80 11 over 70.

They represented many vocations, 24 were lawyers, 14 farmers, 4 doctors, 9 merchants, 3 prepared for the ministry and one was a minister. Three were born in Ireland, 2 each in England and Scotland, one in Wales.

THE BEDROCK

America was conceived as a land in which the individual would be paramount.

No matter how productive we become, how high we are able to lift ourselves in material way, how clever the ideas advanced by our scientists, inventors and social thinkers, we can never afford to lose sight of the fact that individual liberty and responsibility are the bedrock on which our American system was built.

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

One of the most significant speeches of modern times, was made in the House of Representatives by Rep. Frank Thompson (N. J.) in which he stated that due to present policies, the forces of the United States government are being used to destroy independent business.

C. W. Harder

Rep. Thompson points out that through Charles Wilson's Defense Dept. huge sums are being dished out annually for business to carry on research and development programs.

What makes the situation alarming, he points out, is that 98.1% of the money is being given to firms that employ over 500 people, with most of it going to the huge giants.

Annually, he states, government is giving these huge companies around $1.5 billion for research and development, or equal to 100,000 times as much as government loans, not gives, to men to help solve problems of expansion and existence brought about largely by unrealistic taxing and credit policies.

And due to a strange quirk in nation's laws, even though huge corporations receive millions from government to carry on research which results in development useful not only for defense, but also for civilian consumption, the companies are permitted to patent these discoveries.

To cite an example of the extent that these patents are being taken out, in past five years firms engaged in research with government grants have taken out patents on a minimum of 6,788 inventions deriving from this research.

It is significant Herbert Brownell, U. S. Attorney General, is concerned about situation.

He says "Processed foods, electronic devices, and penicillin, to list only a few present day commercial products, were all originally developed under research and development programs for defense programs. What indications are available warn that government expenditures may not run counter to the industry trend toward concentration, but rather in some degree may even enforce it."

* * *

Congress is even proposing a full scale investigation be made of why defense officials, in awarding money for research, lean so heavily to the giant corporations.

Seemingly, according to contemporary line of bureaucratic thinking, it was quite cheeky of Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Edison, Henry Ford, and thousands of others to even attempt to invent anything without first being surrounded by a multi-billion corporation.

This is a strange concept, but perhaps not stranger than allied permitted practice for huge firms to receive grants for research from public tax funds, then patenting the fruits of this research so they can shut out competition as well as force the public to pay royalties for discoveries the public financed in the first place.

This, it would appear, is an attempt by government to collectivize brains in a few huge corporations in much the same manner Russia collectivized farms into huge agricultural combines. Or as Rep. Thompson terms it, by present policies government attempts to give independent enterprise the kiss of death.

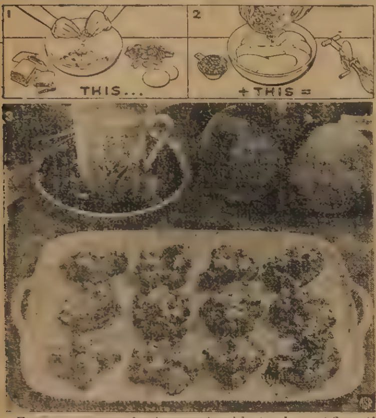
Quick Tricks...

Figaroons: New and Nifty



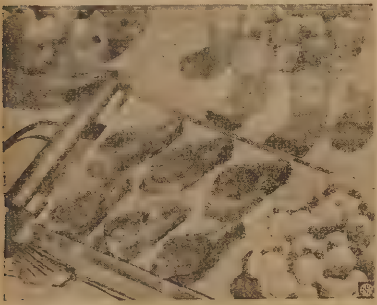
Here's a recipe for the season's quickest and easiest dessert! It's "Figaroons", a tasty all-new version of macaroons that you can make in a jiffy and enjoy munching for days. Rich square fig bars, crumbled into small bits, and chopped pecans are the special ingredients of this delicious new treat. Make enough for the family in 15 minutes, this troublefree way:

Figaroons

1 9¼-oz. package (20) Sunshine Fig Bars	¼ cup sugar
2 egg whites	⅛ teaspoon almond extract
	½ cup chopped pecan meats

Heat oven to 400° F. (moderately hot oven). Crumble fig bars into bits the size of peanuts. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually add sugar, continuing to beat until meringue is very stiff. Fold in almond extract, crumbled fig bars and nut meats. Drop by tablespoons onto greased cookie sheets; bake at 400° F. for 10 minutes, or until cookies are lightly browned. Remove to cool on cake racks. Makes 24.

Lamb Choplets Star At Brunch



Sunday Brunch, that happy combination of breakfast and lunch, is a good time to have friends join the family on Easter. Served buffet-style with a warmer to keep foods hot, this menu stars Lamb Choplets with creamed potatoes and peas and bow knot rolls made into little rabbits by pulling the loops into long ears. Eggs, hard cooked and colored, and posies serve as the centerpiece.

Lamb Choplets combine the virtues of riblets cut from inexpensive lamb breast, with ground lamb, giving a reasonable facsimile of the favorite lamb chop at a most modest price. This is a do-it-yourself creation that calls for lamb riblets—1-inch thick strips of lean streaked with fat, attached to a rib bone. Your meat dealer makes these for you by cutting between the ribs in a breast of lamb. You'll need also some lean ground lamb.

To make the Lamb Choplets: With a sharp knife make a slash along the bone starting just above one end of the bone and extending about two-thirds the length of the riblet. Into this slash, stuff ground lamb, patting it flat so that it resembles a rib chop. Better allow 2 to a person.

To cook the Lamb Choplets: Place choplets on broiling rack located so that surface of chop is about 3 inches from source of heat. Allow about 10 minutes for broiling time on each side. Turn choplets with tongs or cake turner. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, a dash of thyme or garlic salt if you like. Continue broiling. Serve on very hot platter and on hot plates. Or keep hot on food warmer tray.

NATIONAL WARNING System, or NAWAS, of the Federal Civil Defense Administration is activated at the control center in the Continental Air Defense Command headquarters at Colorado Springs as Gen. Earle E. Partridge (above), CONAD commander, uses the new 28,000-mile net for the first time on May 1. From this control center, or one of two similar centers on the East and West Coasts, information on an impending attack can be voiced directly to 200 warning points throughout the nation. From these points, local warning nets would take over. By a simple switching process, State civil defense directors can also use the net locally to transmit detailed warning and survival data to CD forces in the field. (U. S. Air Force Photo)

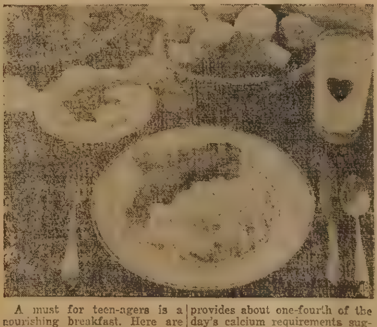
Hearty Breakfast for Teen-Agers



A must for teen-agers is a nourishing breakfast. Here are suggestions to mothers emphasizing the essential proteins, calcium and riboflavin — all found in economical instant Starlac nonfat dry milk, the heart of milk.

The high-quality milk proteins provided by instant nonfat dry milk are vital for normal growth and vigor. Instant nonfat dry milk is the most inexpensive source of calcium needed for strong teeth and bones. Also, it is rich in the B vitamin, riboflavin, necessary for general good health. Instant nonfat dry milk — regular top-quality pasteurized milk with only the fat and water removed — is so inexpensive. The family-size package makes 12 quarts of nonfat milk for as little as seven cents a quart.

For breakfast enrichment, add a tablespoon or more of instant nonfat dry milk powder to scrambled eggs. Nutritionists recommend a quart or more of milk nourishment daily for teen-agers. A good start is an eight-ounce glass of liquefied Starlac which provides about one-fourth of the day's calcium requirements suggested by the National Research Council. And to make marmalade muffins, instant nonfat dry milk is a natural.

Marmalade Muffins
(Makes 18 2-inch muffins)

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg well beaten
- 1 cup liquefied instant Starlac nonfat dry milk
- ¼ cup melted shortening, cooled
- ½ cup orange marmalade

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Combine egg, liquefied instant Starlac nonfat dry milk and shortening. Pour into flour mixture; stir just enough to dampen ingredients. Do not beat. Divide the batter in half. Fill greased 2-inch muffin tins about ¼ full; drop a teaspoon of marmalade into each. Fill two-thirds full with remaining batter. Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) about 25 minutes or until medium browned.

ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

At 7, Veronica, Born Blind, Sees World for First Time

The above is the "heading" of an article from a South African newspaper. It tells of a marvelous healing that is very dear to me. It is from the "Sunday Times," Johannesburg, Transvaal, South Africa. This issue was published in May, 1956. Read the story as the reporter has written it:

"Veronica, a 7-year-old girl, totally blind since birth, gained her sight suddenly after attending a prayer meeting.

"'It was so wonderful that we can hardly believe it is true,' Veronica's mother, pretty young-looking Mrs. A. R., told me yesterday in their home at Ontdekkers Road, Roodeport. 'Veronica was a premature baby. She was injured at birth, but I didn't realize she was blind until she started walking and kept bumping into things. Then I took her to doctors and specialists who confirmed my fears.'

"When she heard of a famous American doctor visiting Durban, Mrs. R. took Veronica to him. For a week the 18-month-old child was kept at the Addington Hospital under observation. At the end of that time the American doctor confirmed the diagnosis that the child was totally blind. 'I told him that my husband and I were willing to sell everything we had and take her overseas for treatment if that would help, but he said he could hold out no hope of her recovery,' Mrs. R. told me.

"Veronica grew into a timid, nervous child. . . . Her mother she identified by the scent of her face powder—her sisters by the fact that the younger wore socks and the elder wore stockings.

"When she was taken to a service where prayer was made for her healing, it was as a 'last resort.'

"The day after the prayer meeting Mrs. R. noticed that Veronica no longer groped her way around the house, feeling for objects with her hands. When questioned, it was discovered that the child could distinguish bright lights and identify objects held close to her face. A few days later, while passing a shop window, Veronica pointed to a doll and asked her mother to buy it. 'I burst into tears then, for I knew Veronica could really see,' Mrs. R. said.

"And what does the world look like to a little girl when she sees it for the first time? 'It's nice and it's pretty,' Veronica told me yesterday. 'When I couldn't see, everything seemed big and hard, and I hurt myself when I bumped into things. I didn't know it would be so pretty,' she said, pointing to her frilled blue nylon frock, the flowered curtains, and a small bright red toy piano.

"During the week, when I spoke to a doctor who had treated Veronica, he said: 'The blindness was caused by a condition at birth, and the return of her sight could not have been predicted.'" Thus writes the news reporter.

This healing took place in our meeting in South Africa. It reminds us again that our God is able and willing to show us His goodness.

Mrs. Alred Hostess To Friendship HD

Report heard [illegible] [illegible]. Roll call [illegible]. Treasurer's report given by Mrs. [illegible]. Announcements for next meeting were heard. Meeting was closed by repeating Club woman's creed.

Refreshments served to seven members, Mrs. Johnnie [illegible] five visitors by the hostess.

Clanton Stars Took Two The Week-End; The Hard Way

Stars Barely Take Billingsley In Low Scorer

By B. B. BATES
News Sports Reporter

Clanton 3 - Billingsley 2

After being silenced for three successive times at bat Pete McKee brought his home run bat out of moth balls and blasted an 8th inning 2 run round tripper that enabled the Stars to edge tough Billingsley Saturday afternoon 3 to 2. The big blow scored B. Easterling who had led off with a triple to deep centerfield.

The first baseman's homerun broke up a fine pitchers duel between the Stars Richard Easterling and Billingsley's Charles (Lefty) Jones.

Easterling gave up only 2 hits to Billingsley and struck out 7. The 2 singles went to Jones and Mims.

Clanton tailied one run in the second on a single by Seales and a double by Bannister. Two walks and a single by Mims gave Billingsley a 2 to 1 lead in the 6th. The score remained the same until McKee's 8th inning swat.

Leading the Stars attack was [illegible] Easterling with a double and triple and Seales with a single and double.

Mars Hill Makes Stars Work For Sunday Scorcher

Spotting the Mars Hill team 2 runs in their half of the first inning Sunday afternoon, the Stars came storming back with 9 big runs to take a commanding lead that Mars Hill could not overcome.

However, the Mars Hill team came dangerously close to topping the Stars as the game ended 11 to 10.

The Mars Hill nine tallied twice in the first of a single by Porter and doubles by Hicks and Alexander. The big gun for the Stars 9 run outburst was Ellison whose 2 singles drove across 3 runners.

The visitors added 1 in the second, 2 in the 3rd, 3 in the 4th and 2 in the 9th. B. Easterling accounted for the Stars 10th run on a 3rd inning, inside the park homer. Harry Ellison added the clincher when he alertly scampered home from third on a low throw from catcher Scott to pitcher Lovejoy in the 8th inning.

Bobby Wyatt pitched all the way for the Stars to get his 4th win of the year with no losses. Johnny Gaines who started for Mars Hill was the loser. Relief pitcher Lovejoy held Clanton to 2 runs and 4 hits in 7 innings.

The Stars have now won 5 and lost 2. The leading hitters are McKee .400; J. P. Easterling .375; B. Easterling .370; Seales .368 and Bannister .347.

Be still, and know that I am God...(Psalm 46, 10).

Often, when we feel that we have "lost touch" with Our Heavenly Father, it may be that we have been talking to Him too much—telling Him what we want—beseeching His mercy and His love, when all we have to do to receive is to be silent, and listen.

Fans Promised Plenty Action This Week At Armory Bouts

Another outstanding card has been promised local fans, when wrestling matches will be presented at the Clanton Armory on Saturday night, July 6, beginning at 8:15 p.m.

Featured as main event of the evening will be Tor Yamato, the Japanese Jawbreaker, with Tarzan White, Alabama All-American.

Reports have it that the ring will be enclosed with six feet of wire for this match because Tarzan says Yomato ran out on him during their first match last month.

White is out-to-get "Tor" and the fur will be flying high when they clash in the main event.

Also on Saturday's card will be Billy Watson and Jack Holland, who put out to the limit and had the crowd in an uproar during their last exhibition.

These fellows really go-to-town. An added attraction this week will be Henry Spindola and Pete Peterson for their first appearance together.

A top-notch card has been planned this week for your entertainment. Come on out and see the performances. See advertisement in this issue.

Salt Water, That Is-

50 Pound Stripes? That's What The Man Said

LARGEMOUTH BITING MOST ANYTHING

[illegible] says here, and we quote: "How would you like to [illegible] a twenty or thirty pounder [illegible] fishing?"

According to our report [illegible] Thrash of Wetumpka, [illegible] ambition is to hook into one of the monsters. Demp is a barber by trade and a fisherman at heart

Each year, salt water stripes find their way over two hundred miles, from the Gulf of Mexico up the Alabama and Coosa Rivers to the shoals at Wetumpka.

They also branch off at the confluence of the Tallapoosa and fight their way up to the shoals at Tallassee.

Each year these monsters swim inland to spawn, and the [illegible] of Wetumpka and Tallassee and neighboring towns gather along the rocks to try their luck.

Many stripes, ranging from eight to better than fifty pounds are taken each year.

If you have a hankering to land a sho'nuff big one, just come down and try your luck. One thing tho': come early; the rocks are usually [illegible] by 3:30 a.m.

[illegible] to Thrash; he has caught his [illegible] of the big one's, but they were caught with a deep sea fishing rig. It's great sport to set your hooks into a big stripe, but the real fun is in playing him in the swift rocky waters. It requires much skill, hard work and just plain luck to get a large stripe safely to shore.

Demp has an idea that he can land one of these whoppers with a fly rod. It is highly doubtful that anyone could land a forty pound stripe from these waters with a fly rod, but if it can be done, most of the fishermen in Wetumpka agree that Demp would be the likely man to succeed.

Johnnie Langley, Tallassee, caught a nice stripe last Saturday from the rocks below Thurlow Dam at Tallassee. Johnnie's catch weighed in at 20 pounds 4 ounces, it measured 35 inches from tip to tip and had a 21-inch girth. A heavy duty rod and reel and a Skip Jack were the tools used in making the catch. Johnnie's stripe is not an entry in the Ala Power Company Fishing Contest, as it was caught out of the contest area and a sea stripe is not a contest species. However, it is always good to hear of these nice catches in Alabama's fertile fishing waters.

Hot spots during the past week have produced nice largemouth bass catches, as the following contest [illegible] show:

LAKE LAY

[illegible] weighed in at [illegible] 12 [illegible]

Billy Watson, Bessemer, [illegible] up his lunker while [illegible] home-made popper. Billy's bass was 5 pounds 5 ounces

Dickie Edge, Leeds [illegible] pound [illegible]

LAKE MITCHEL

[illegible] West's Camp Walnut Creek [illegible]

[illegible] Rev. J. [illegible] Adams, Sta[illegible] with yellow flies and boated a [illegible] yellow Popper Seed [illegible] 6 pounds 2 ounces each.

LAKE YATES

H. E. Dopson's Store, Red Hill Community, reports: [illegible] Tallassee, used a [illegible] get to hook the first stripe [illegible] entry for the year. It [illegible] pounds 8 ounce[illegible]

That's the way the [illegible] bounces this week, folks [illegible] ing the 4th and a holiday [illegible] you come on down [illegible] fish. Who knows: [illegible] up feeding you!

CHIEF ALAPOCO SAYS:

[illegible] you don't know right now [illegible] ve just about reached [illegible] it you'll know. The [illegible] may be too late. You may be too [illegible] shore to get back. Why take chances? Water looks just the same near the bank as it does [illegible] middle of the lake. . . and unless you use commonsense your lack of this knowledge could cost your life. If you must be alone, stay at home. Don't seek solitude by trying to swim further han anybody else. . . and perhaps farther than you can.

HORN FLIES—

MENACE TO YOUR CATTLE, AND CAN THEY BLEED YOUR POCKETS!

YOU BET THEY CAN; AND HERE'S HOW YOU CAN CONTROL THEM

Estimates indicate that 1000 flies can take two gallons of blood a day from animals, and it is not unusual to find this many on one cow. Horn flies, may cause as much as a 20% decrease in milk production or loss of one-half pound gain per day in beef animals.

The common name came from the fact that they often are found feeding in a band around the base of the horns. But they more often appear as a black blanket over the back of some animal. In hot weather the flies move to the belly of animals in order to avoid the hot sun.

In appearance, the horn fly closely resembles the common housefly, but it is only half as large.

The eggs, which the female lays only on fresh animal manure, require only a few days to hatch. The larvae then develop and change to the pupal stage in this medium. Only two weeks are required for this pest to develop from egg to adult.

Horn flies are constantly moving from one animal to another, and an interesting fact is that they have a preference for dark colored animals.

For these two reasons, it is not essential to spray every cow in a herd to effect good control of the pest. Young calves running at their mother's sides do not have to be sprayed, but recommended sprays are not harmful to them.

While this pest can be controlled on beef animals with sprays of DDT, toxaphene or chlordane, it usually is found that DDT is the cheapest. Animals usually need to be sprayed about once a month when this chemical is used.

Recommended control practices call for mixing 25 pounds of 50 percent wettable DDT 16 pounds of 40 percent wettable toxaphene, 10 pounds of chlordane in 1[illegible] gallons of water and applying the mixture with a spray under enough pressure to wet animals to the hide. One gallon of the mixture is enough for three or four cows. Backrubbers are also effective in the control of horn flies. This device consists of a chain, wire cable, or several strands of barbed wire well wrapped in burlap. Suspend the backrubber about four feet off the ground between two posts spaced about 16 feet apart. Let the center of the rubber drop down to about 18 inches above the ground. Soak the burlap with one gallon of a solution made by mixing one gallon of 25 percent DDT emulsion with four gallons of oil. The rubber usually needs rechanging every two weeks. Spraying with 25 pounds of 50 percent wettable methoxchlor in 100 gallons of water gives effective control on dairy cattle. Back rubbers with a five percent methoxchlor solution in oil as the control agent can be used to control the pest on lactating dairy cows.

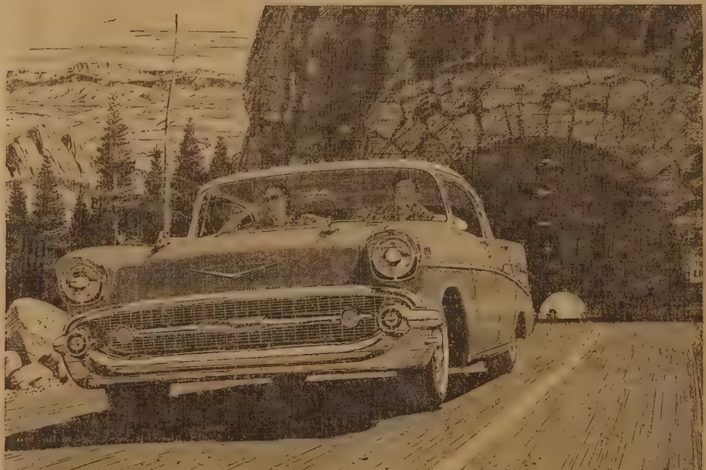
DON'T BUY ANY CAR BEFORE YOU DRIVE A CHEVY . . . ITS BEST SHOWROOM IS THE ROAD.



Beauty in motion—Chevrolet Bel Air Sport Sedan with Body by Fisher.

Here's why Chevy's best showroom is the road!

Because Chevrolet's sleek good looks, its advanced features, are only part of the story. The big bonus is its remarkable roadability, the crisp precision handling that has posted an entirely new standard for cars in every price class. There are reasons for this, of course: Chevrolet's balanced weight distribution that takes excessive loads off the front wheels, the wide stance of outrigger rear springs, Ball-Race steering, spherical-joint front suspension. Sure, you can admire the sculptured lines in the showroom. But Chevy's a car specifically designed for beautiful motion—you have to travel in this one to know just how terrific it is. Try it, this week!

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Representative Francis Speaks went before the Board of Revenue & Control Monday and agreed to present a Bill in this session of the Legislature whereby Chilton County will buy five voting machines. Our understanding is that it would be at the discretion of the Board as to where the machines would be placed. Of course we suppose that would be at the boxes where voting is heaviest. It would cost the County about ten thousand dollars to buy these machines, but it would be well worth it if to eliminate the doubts that crop up in every election as to whether or not each candidate got the number of votes that were cast for him. Another thing is the time element. When the polls closed the votes would be counted—by pulling a lever—no all night sessions by the election officials who are so over-worked and underpaid. We hope the County officials see fit to go forward with this progressive step.

See where a guest in a local home commented on a rare and beautiful vase that set on the living room table. "And what does the vase contain", asked the visitor. "My husband's ashes," the hostess answered. "Oh, I'm sorry. How long has he been dead?" "He's not. He's just too lazy to hunt an ash tray," was the answer.

Lots of winners at Avoline LeCroy Beauty Shoppe last Saturday and more than 500 people registered. Mrs. Effie Binson, Opal Eiland and Clara Allison won the permanents. In that order, we might add. The shampoo and sets were won by Mrs. W. M. Pool, Mrs. Dolphus Jones and the hair cuts were won by Lois Mims and Mrs. J. Sam Jones. Mrs. LeCroy was highly pleased with the wonderful reception that her new beauty shoppe was given.

Judy Ruth Hicks is not exactly out of this world, but she sure is a fer piece off. She is in Toronto, Ontario, Canada this week attending the 36th International Convention of the Pilots, representing the Clanton Pilot Club. Mrs. Hicks is president of the local Club. The Convention runs the 10th through the 13th and then she will be on her way back to the States and home.

Mrs. George Polk and little Beverly Hicks accompanied Mrs. Hicks as far as New York on the trip mentioned in the foregoing paragraph. They will visit there with a sister of Mrs. Hicks while she is attending to Pilot affairs.

Thomas Moats, the barber at West End Barber Shop was telling us the other morning that he once cut the hair of a boy that lacked one day of being a month old. The boys mother held him in her arms while he did the cutting. The child is three years old now and still has a shock of hair, but Thomas had never had the experience before, or has he since, of cutting a head of hair like that.

The tower on the Dallas County Courthouse at Selma crashed last Sunday morning at 9 oclock. According to a statement from Selma, if it had happened during the week with the courtroom full, any number could have been killed. The same think could happen here could it not? As we have been told many times, by men who are experts in their line and in a position to know.

There will be a regular Annual Singing somewhere next Sunday, according to one of our correspondents by post card this week. We'll just quote the card to you as we received it: "Next Sunday is our regular anual All-Day Singing and diner at the noon hour. Everybody is invited out to help us make it a good one. All singers and listeners to. We are looking for some quartets. Hope they will be here. —Reporter". Now the card was mailed from Jemison, so if you know of an All-Day Singing in that vicinity. . . you are invited. Wish we had more of the facts to tell you.

LITTLE LEAGUE LOWDOWN

Lions Smash Kiwanians; 19 Runs On 4 Hits

Special To The News
By Louise Glasscock

Friday night the Lions roared. They beat the Kiwanis team 19 to 0 on only 4 hits. Three Kiwanian pitchers couldn't find the plate and gave up 16 walks. Brock got 2 of the 4 hits, with Powell and Johnson getting one each.

Lions pitcher, Johnson, pitched a splendid game giving up only one hit.

That was of the scratch variety, but good enough to spoil his bid for a no-hitter.

The second game of the night was much closer with the Jaycees edging the Braves 6 to 2.

Cox and Coe made up the Jaycees battery with Miller and Ray for the Braves.

Both pitchers were touched for 3 hits. Cox struck out 14 Braves and Miller fanned 10 Jaycees.

Cox had the only homer of the game.

Chicago Sales Company footed the light bill for the night.

Coe Gets First No-Hitter Of Season

Last Tuesday night the Jaycees pitcher, Coe came up with a brilliant performance against the Lions, pitching the first no-hitter of the season and winning 3 to 0. He was in trouble in only one inning when he gave up 3 walks, but he settled down and got Brock to pop to second to preserve his shut-out.

Wyatt turned in a good pitching job for the Lions, giving up only 3 hits. The Lions scored all their runs in the second. Cox singled, Puckett, Williams and J. Fulmer all drew passes and Wray singled for the 3 runs.

In the nightcap, the Braves beat the Kiwanians 14 to 3. Jones gave up 3 runs on 3 hits, while his teammates were scoring 14 runs on only 7 hits.

Carter got two hits for the loser, Mims, Miller and Murrah had 2 hits each for the Braves.

Umpires for the first game were Wright, Maddox and Traywick. For the second game umpires were Bodden, Walker and Lawrence.

Gulf Oil Company paid for the lighting.

Senior High School Likely For Thorsby

PROPOSED PLAN WILL INVOLVE MANY PUPIL CHANGES

The Chilton County Board of Education has had a [illegible] trustees of Thorsby Institute and the school patrons of the Thorsby area to consider the possibility of establishing a senior high school at the Thorsby Institute site. The Board has instructed the Superintendent to call an open [illegible] Friday, July 19 at 7:30 [illegible] Thorsby Institute Auditorium for the purpose of discussing the proposed senior high school.

At that time, patrons will have the opportunity of expressing their opinions and having questions answered and clarified.

Senior high school pupils who will attend the proposed school will come from the following communities: (1) East of Thorsby including Collins Chapel, Mineral Springs, Cane Creek, and Lay Dam (2) Pupils from the bridge north of Lomax on Highway 31 to Pine Hill Cemetery south of Jemison on Highway 31. (3) Pupils living west of Thorsby on Highway 191 from Porter's Store to Fleetwood Rasberry's Store. (4) Pupils living in the area between Posey's Crossroads and the Randolph Road. (5) Pupils living southwest of Thorsby to the old Crossroads School.

If the school is established, it will be necessary to change some bus routes. In some cases both elementary and high school pupils will be affected.

The Board can not afford to transport pupils to Thorsby and then remake the route and pick up elementary and junior high pupils and take them to all schools formerly attended. Therefore, pupils who rode the following buses during the 1956-57 school term will be affected:

(1) Elementary and high school puipls riding no. 23 and no. 26 to point east of the Gap of the Mountain to Lay Dam. (2) High school pupils riding no. 54 south of Collins Chapel. (3) High school pupils riding no. 39 from Mineral Springs east. (4) High school pupils riding no. 52. (5) Elementary and high school pupils riding no. 27 north of Lomax from the bridge on Highway 31. (6) High school pupils riding no. 35. (7) Elementary and high school pupils riding no. 32 and no. 9

The Board is most anxious to have the meeting on July 19th well attended.

If you have children who will be affected, please be there.

Patrons will have the privilege of registering their children at the close of the meeting if they wish. It is the Board's desire to cooperate with the people in this project in a way that is acceptable to them. This cannot be done unless those concerned are present at the meeting.

You are invited to express your approval or disapproval of this project so that the Board of Education will know just how the patrons feel

IF we always had our way, in all things, life would soon grow dull.

THE secret of success lies somewhere between dreaming and doing.

WHY don't those individuals who set out to brighten the world do their best shining at home.

SUCCESS is doing common things uncommonly well.

STRANGE isn't it, but the man that has the least to do is always worrying about what to do next.

MANY a man is so popular with himself that other people feel they are in the way.

WHERE CREDIT IS DUE----

Let's give the State Highway Patrol and especially Col. Bill Lyerly credit where credit is due in holding down the highway accident deaths during the long Fourth of July holiday.

Of course the radio, newspapers, and every media avalable was used to keep the people accident conscious and the highway patrol stopped thousands of automobiles and cautioned the drivers by word of mouth to be careful.

Regardless of others lives, there are always a selfish few. We believe the accidnet rate in Alabama this holiday was held to an absolute minimum; thanks to Bill and the men in grey, who made it possible.

You Can't Buy Friendship----

Alabamians alone this year will pay $39 million to Foreign Aid. Helping others is good, but charity begins at home. Countless small businesses are going broke because of inflation and the powers that be, now in Washington, can't see one inch in front of their nose.

When the small business, the backbone of our economy, is finally destroyed where will our glorious country be—in the hands of big business and the corporations. It will no longer be the voice of the people, but the voice of the rich, the pompous and the corporations grown fat on the blood of the little man.

Until we get a President and a Cabinet that can say no to big business and the chosen wealthy few, the average man has got no more chance than the proverbial snowball had in Hades.

SO, WE'RE RICH?----

We are reminded by the Council of State Chambers of Commerce that the Congress has got to really bear down with its shears on the President's Foreign Aid request—or go home with very red faces.

Thus far the Senate has cut a mere $227 million out of the $4 billion, 338 million White House request. Just to maintain its cutting average for the past five years, Congress will have to raise that figure to $979 million—or almost four times! And in view of the public clamor against the budget in general and this very foreign aid item in particular, the gentlemen will have to do a lot better than that if they are to receive a brass band welcome on their homecoming!

But, just in case they have forgotten what you told them earlier in the year, or assume the President's TV speeches changed your mind, perhaps you had better tell them again. Without protest mail from the constitutants, the Administration's pro-spending lobbyists, who are swarming the halls of Congress are pretty likely to have their way.

Looking back, you and your fellow ciizens have given away out of your tax money since July 1, 1945, a net total of $55.8 billions in Foreign Aid. Written out, it looks like this: $55,287,000,000. In addition you have loaned a net $13,849,000,000, during that period. The total, together with the current request as presently trimmed in the Senate, amounts to $73,297,000,000.

We continue our outlandish aid programs when we are unable to whittle down a national debt officially reported at the statutory ceiling of $275 billion. Perhaps another way to bring these huge figures into focus is to consider that all the gold in Fort Knox is worth only $22 billion, and that Virginia's Sen. Byrd got Treasury Secretary Humphrey to admit the other day that $13 billion of this gold or 58 percent, isn't ours! It belongs, Mr. Humphrey said, to foreign countries and foreign citizens.

Who, after all, should help whom? Want to ask your Senators and Congressmen again?

ACCIDENT VICTIM TAKES TIME TO PRAISE SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY

"NOTHING LIKE IT UP NORTH" SAYS HE

Chilton County News
Clanton, Alabama
July 2, 1957
Gentlemen:

I am writing this letter of "thanks" to the townspeople of Clanton, Alabama that I have become acquainted with.

On April 14th (of this year) I was involved in an accident near Maplesville, on the University Highway. My wife, son, myself and the driver of the other vehicle, a Mr. Murphy, were removed by Martin Ambulance Service to the Chilton County Hospital there at Clanton.

An accident always is a dreaded thing and when it happens away from home, it makes it worse. Dr. Chas. Moore gave up a Sunday afternoon to care for us. We received wonderful care there at the hospital. Townsfolk came to visit us and inquire if they could be of any assistance.

A very unusual kindness was extended to us by the ambulance driver, Mr. Erskine Popwell. He offered to care for our son in his home while we remained in the hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Popwell gave him the care he needed as he was a frightened youngster that afternoon. Mr. Popwell took time to bring our son to visit us twice daily in the hospital. This assurance of his care was heartwarming to his mother and I. It was also a lot of responsibility for Mr. Popwell considering the size of his own family.

Kindnesses like this is not extended by people here in the North. My family and I were truly shown and know what the saying of "Southern Hospitality" really means.

You also have a highway patrol to be commended by having such capable men as Mr. R. W. Head and J. B. Pemberton in their department. They were of great service to us, looking after personal belongings we had with us.

When we were ready to depart for St. Louis, Mr. Popwell again assisted us in our departure.

May I ask that you extend through your newspaper, our heartfelt "Thanks" to your townspeople, whom I hope to see and visit with sometime in the future.

Yours very truly,
RALPH B. CRAFT and

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

By "TUCK"

It is good to do well; but better to do your best. And, we might add, that "your" best and "the" best are not necessarily one and the same.

You can almost count on it: the "optimist" who says "somebody has to lose", is more than likely on the winning side.

Well, if you were going to be a June bride and ain't better luck next time.

A'LITTLE FLAG-WAVIN'

We can't help but proudly sit up and take notice of the American Congressman. Especially during these turbulent days when turmoil is increasing, it would seem that the representatives and senators of our country keep a cool head, a sharp tongue and above all, an eye out for the rights of the people they represent. We have had patriots in the years past, but it is our firm belief that some of our patriots of today measure up quite impressively alongside those gone before. One reason for our impression is the fact that the biggest thing the old timers did is what the history books tell us the most about. The newspapers of today, in their never-ending search for truth, must give the good and bad, pro and con of every individual and thereby gives us only one alternative: we have to form our own opinions of who's great and who isn't. It is a simple case of publicity: the history books tell us the facts important to our history, or one side of the man; the newspaper must give both. That's why there seems to be no "great" men these days. Because there isn't any chalk line to measure them by. No doubt, had you lived in the days of some of the older patriots, you would have seen, in the local press of that day, just what we are speaking of. We are certainly not saying that those gone before were not true, blue American patriots, they were. But, we feel we also have some fine, outstanding examples of Americanism right in our own generation. We also think that credit should be given where credit is due before these "big" men become "cold" statistics in the history books. We're proud of our congressmen and their backbone.

"IMPRESSION" NEEDED

If you ever ask yourself why some children have a distinct disregard for public property, you might also include "why do some parents have such apparent disregard for their children?"

We noticed some youngsters the other day enjoying to the fullest the defacing of some public installations around the Clanton Grammar School. Now, our first impulse is to take those young scalawags out and spank the daylights out of them; but wait a minute: what are we going to do with their parents, the scalawags whose fault it is in the first place? You should not have to remind them, but you do, right on!

TRASH, IS IT?

And speaking of impressions: we are of one that the folks around Chilton County are regarding garbage signs mighty well, or the city trucks are mighty busy one. We think the folks are becoming increasingly more thoughtful of the other fellow in keeping their trash where trash is designated to be kept. In other words, it isn't being dumped here and there except on occasions. It didn't hurt a bit, not to throw it on the side of the road, did it? We're proud of the fact that our people have not disregarded the pleas of public officials and other institutions regarding this particular problem. Keep it clean, folks! Let us here say "thank you" in behalf of your neighbor and your public concerns. You are showing good American citizenship.

THE COMMON END—

'Stead of a common enemy,
Let's gain a common friend;
To work with us, and pray with us,
To attain a common end.

And make the end to which we work
A noble, sincere goal.
To strive for right,
And fight the wrong, that wells up in our soul.

A common friend, with common thought,
And heart that beats with pride,
To say of you, his common friend,
"I'm proud I'm on his side".

It takes a friend to make a friend,
And you can have your's too;
Forget the wrong your neighbor's done,
He'll do the same of you.

We can't all meet the Master's Plan,
The common end of all;
But strive we must, to give our trust,
To a neighbor when he falls.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

The mutual security program proposed by President Eisenhower for fiscal year 1958 calls for an appropriation in new funds of $3.8 billion. For the past several weeks the House Committee on Foreign Affairs has been conducting hearings in connection with these recommended expenditures.

Last Friday a measure authorizing funds for the 1958 mutual security program was opened for committee amendments. The first amendment that was adopted reduced military assistance funds for foreign nations from $1.9 billion to $1.5 billion. This $400 million reduction was the result of an amendment I had offered. In addition to this reduction, defense support funds were cut from $900 million to $700 million.

Other Changes

I also had the opportunity of introducing two additional amendments of importance that received committee approval. The first of these has the effect of shifting all mutual security military funds into the Department of Defense budget. At the same time, the amendment provides for the annual review and authorization of these funds by the Committee on Foreign Affairs. I have always contended that our only justification for extending military aid to other nations is the contribution that aid will make to our own national security and that such aid should be considered as part of our defense budget.

The second of these amendments limits the authorization for the proposed economic loan fund to one rather than three years. This eliminates an authorization of $750 million for both fiscal year 1959 and 1960. While this amendment will permit the establishment of the new economic loan fund, both the committee and the Congress will be able to take another careful look at the fund before further authorizations are made.

Careful Review

While I believe it would be extremely dangerous to abandon our mutual security program at the present time, I know that it is often possible for the appropriate committees of Congress, by a careful review of the program, to ascertain where reductions can be safely effected.

The Committee on Foreign Affairs will continue this week its consideration of the mutual security bill. Although I realize that my amendments may still run into difficulty before the bill is finally enacted into law, I am confident these amendments will not jeopardize in any way the security of this country in its foreign policy objectives and should be adopted.

Resolution Adopted

A committee-amended version of the Hungarian resolution introduced recently by three other members of the Foreign Affairs Committee and myself was approved by the House of Representatives last week.

The resolution, which calls for an immediate reconvening of the U. N. General Assembly to consider the report recently issued by the U. N. Special Committee on Hungary, has been passed by the Senate in a somewhat different form. Therefore, it will be necessary for a House-Senate conference committee to compromise on a resolution that will be acceptable to both houses. I have been appointed by the Speaker of the House as a member of the conference committe, and it is my hope that we will be able to agree upon a compromise resolution in the very near future

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Probably nothing since the approach of His Britannic Majesty's forces waving torches in the 1812 hassle has thrown such a chill into Washington as State Secretary John Foster Dulles' tub-thumping for a foreign aid plan that will span the next ten years.

C. W. Harder

Sen. Homer Capehart (Rep., Ind.) voices the sentiment that instead of giving away economic aid, loans should be made instead, and that military aid should be handled by the defense department.

Now the question of economic aid more or less seems to boil down to this basis. Are the American taxpayers supposed to submit to ten or more years of shelling out under the name of foreign aid a global dole. Or is foreign economic aid to be considered as helping finance building up undeveloped economies? If the latter, then it follows that there is expectation of a profit from these developments.

If that be true, then the question is asked, should not those nations seeking help come to the U. S. with a business proposition much as any American businessman goes to a bank for a loan? And should not the approach be made to private capital?

* * *

Probably England, for example, with its record of defaults on loans from the U. S., would have a hard time selling a program to private enterprises. On other hand, Finns would probably not encounter much difficulty.

* * *

In fact, the records show that a lot of the money given to England and France was for the purpose of developing the economy of their colonies. Surely, some profit is expected from these developments. And surely, if there is good faith, security could be given that would not require the presence of a U. S. fleet to guarantee it.

Actually, with the announcement of the British "New Look" in armament whereby their forces are to be pulled down to what amounts to an electronic home defense, defense of British possessions has now become almost solely job of the U. S.

So the British have worked out a cozy little scheme. Unless the U. S. gives money to develop these colonies, the restless natives will turn to communism. But if they do turn to communism, the U. S. Navy and Air Force will be the only instrument left in the world to keep Russia from moving in.

Therefore, freeing themselves from the costs of defending these possessions, and with U. S. tax dollars creating a wealthier economy in these colonies, the British are in a position to sit back and make greater and greater profits, at least the great British owned monopolies will do so.

Thus, John Foster Dulles is making a name for himself that will rank with that of "Wrong Way" Corrigan. Never has common sense business been turned around backward to come out with a formula that would even astound devotees of Alice in Wonderland. As every businessman on every Main Street of America knows, the loaning and borrowing of money is a cold business procedure, in which such matters as interest and security, plus character, are involved. Members of Congress who have had business experience find at times the situation so fantastic as to be beyond belief.

ALICE IN ALASKALAND — "White Alice" is the name of a defense communications system telephone folks are setting up in faraway Alaska for the Alaskan Air Command. For the first time, huge antennas will send and receive radio-telephone messages over 150 miles, bouncing them off a layer of air seven miles up. The first links are already in service. When completed, White Alice will help our defense forces spot enemy aircraft quicker, and will also bring telephone service to remote Alaskan areas. Telephone folks working on this top-'o-the-world project are part of the same team that keeps your phone ringing right here in town and makes it possible for you to keep in touch with almost anyone, anywhere, any time.

And don't get too much sun. Take your tan in short, easy doses for best results. For extra peace of mind, phone ahead for advance reservations. And plan to keep in touch with home or office by telephone. Long Distance is quick, easy to use, and it costs so little. Civic Clubs Have Kept Blood Program In Chilton County

Now It's Our Turn; Roll Up Your Sleeve Friend!

Clanton will be visited by the Bloodmobile Unit from the Birmingham Blood Center on July 16th. (Tuesday). The local Blood Center here will be open from noon until 6:00 p.m. at the First Baptist Church.

We have been informed by our Regional Blood Center in Birmingham there is a very real need for blood around July 15th. During the hot months of July and August we usually experience a slump in blood collections. However, there is always a need for blood and you never know when someone in your own family will be in need of same. Remember, Someone must give before another can receive. One pint every 8 months is not too much for a person to donate in order for himself and family to be eligible to receive any amount of blood needed.

The Chilton County Chapter is proud to announce we have on record 37 persons who have donated one gallon of blood or more. We now have 6 other persons, who, if they will donate July 16th, will have donated one gallon each.

Some of these people will never need the blood themselves, but they realize that their donation could save a life and its a wonderful realization—to know you may be saving a human life.

Civic Clubs in Chilton County raised enough last year to keep the program in effect through the month of March 1957.

Sweet "16"—Chocolate, Too

A 16th birthday is pretty important to most girls—and Nancy Priest, of Washington, D. C. is no exception. The big chocolate "16" on the cake is proof of its importance in the Priest household. Helping out with the candle-lighting ceremony is Nancy's mother, Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, the Treasurer of the United States. Nancy has often been reminded that she shares the same anniversary with the Series E Savings Bond, and it is fitting that her gifts should have included the two U. S. Savings Bonds shown in the lower right-hand corner. Like most girls her age, Nancy is looking forward to college, and her Bonds will come in handy to help out with the expenses. Many thousands of students are in college today because their parents regularly bought Savings Bonds in their names—some for all 16 years.

New Mystery Dessert With Fresh Peaches

Is it a pie? Or is it a cobbler? It's actually a cobbler but the dough for the topping is rolled into a slender rope and cut into balls. These are arranged, piece-of-pie fashion on the heated, sugared peaches and baked. No trick at all to do!

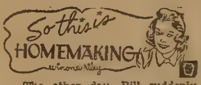
FRESH PEACH COBBLER PIE

Fill a 10-inch pie pan about three fourths full of sliced and sugared ripe peaches. Dot with butter or margarine and place in hot oven (400°F.) to heat through. Lay a piece of foil over the peaches so they won't dry out on top. While peaches are heating, mix a rich dough as for shortcake. Stir together:

1-½ cups packaged biscuit mix
1-½ tbsps. C and H pure cane granulated sugar
½ cup light cream

Knead soft dough gently a few seconds on floured board until smooth. You may need to add a little more cream. Then, with floured hands, roll quickly into a rope 1-inch thick. Cut off inch pieces and shape into biscuit balls.

Remove foil from hot peaches. Over fruit arrange balls of dough in triangular groups, 6 each, to suggest pieces of pie. Brush with melted butter. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) about 20 mins. or until biscuit balls are done underneath and nicely browned. Sprinkle granulated sugar over biscuits to make them sparkle. Serve warm, with cream or whipped cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.



The other day, Bill suddenly announced that he just had to have a workshop. "And while I'm at it," he decided, "I'll fix up the basement—tile the floor and put up some wood paneling—make it into a real game room. How about that?"

"I don't want to curb your enthusiasm," I replied, "but need I remind you that your golf bag mildewed down there? Our basement is so damp, we could grow mushrooms in it!"

"It so happens, my dear, that I think of everything," Bill grinned. "Before I buy a foot of paneling, we're getting an RCA Whirlpool dehumidifier."

"A what?" I yelped, visualizing a monstrous machine.

Bill explained patiently that this appliance doesn't look like a machine at all. I was relieved when he described a compact green and gold cabinet less than 18 inches high.

"If it's that small," I suggested, "maybe we need two."

Bill laughed at my ignorance. "Hardly! This dehumidifier removes over three gallons of moisture from the air a day—enough to control the humidity in a room 40 by 30 feet. And it can be hooked up to a drain to dispose of the accumulated water. Incidentally, it's mobile, too. Rolls on casters so you can take it where you need it."

Well, who am I to talk myself out of a game room? We'll get the tile and the wood paneling as soon as we get that dehumidifier.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible

So that we may boldly say, The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do to me.—(Hebrews 13, 6.)

It is with such wonderful confidence, such calm and courage, that we can face every trouble, every trial and tribulation, when we know God is with and within us—when our love and trust is wholly in Him and His good.

$100 FINE
THROWING
HIGHWAY

Coming at the outset of the vacation travel season, introduction of a new Chevrolet accessory—the Litter Bag—calls attention to the year-round responsibility of keeping streets and highways free of trash. A purse-style plastic container which fits beneath the glove compartment and slips off easily for emptying, the Litter Bag is demonstrated here by Barbara Sias. The accessory helps combat a highway littering problem which cost taxpayers over $30,000,000 last year. States levy stiff penalties against those who toss litter on the highways.

[illegible] the 11 hits garnered off Wyatt came after the visitors should have been retired. Loebler was Huffman's winning pitcher.

The "Stars" took a 1 run lead on McKee's 1st inning home run over center field fence. The visitors took advantage of Clanton errors to score 2 second inning runs. The visiting [illegible] of manager Dick Morgan mixed their hits well with Clanton mis-cues to tally a pair of 2nd and 4th inning runs and single tallies in the 3rd, 5th, 6th, 8th and 9th frames.

The Stars were hitting well enough although a couple of clutch hits could still have won for them.

The [illegible] single markers in the 1st, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th inning. Pete McKee [illegible] Clanton [illegible] with his homer and a pair of singles [illegible] in 3 runs. [illegible] the visitors with 3 singles.

The fine defensive play of Huffman's second sacked Mize was possibly the difference in the 2 teams. His 3 put outs and 4 assists came on difficult plays and his work as pivot man on 2 fast double plays halted 2 Clanton rallies.

Huffman returns to City Park Sunday, August 11th.

Dependent Parents Who Lost Sons In WW II -- Notice!

Parents of veterans who died as a result of service in World War II, of course, we don't have to remind you that that conflict has been over now for just about 12 years. It's been longer than that since some servicemen lost their lives, and left parents behind.

At the time of death of the servicemen, perhaps the mother or father had a fairly good income and saw no reason why they should apply to the VA for compensation as dependent parents. Or, maybe they did apply and the VA turned down their claim because they could not prove dependency upon the serviceman.

If you lost a son during World War II [illegible] claim for compensation was turned down, or you never [illegible] during the past few years [illegible] has been [illegible] no longer able to work it is possible that you may now qualify for compensation as dependent parents. As we pointed out before, you are 12 or more years older now than when you lost that son, or daughter for that matter. Many changes can take place in 12 years, or even less. The fact that your claim was disallowed several years ago, does not mean that it will eb disallowed now. So, let me make this suggestion:

If you are a parent of a person who lost his life as a result of service in any war, and you are not now receiving compensation from the V. A. and you are in need of assistance, please contact your nearest County Veteran's service officer of the department of veterans affairs. He wlil re-open your claim for you, and if you are entitled to benefits, he will see that you get them. Remember, the fact that your claim was turned down before does not mean that it will be turned down now.

ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

FAITH SAVED HIM FROM SUICIDE

Bobby R. was born in the hills of Kentucky on a mountain farm. He attended a two-room school house as a barefoot boy While going to school he met a girl with brown eyes and black hair. He married her on Easter Sunday two years later. One year later he moved to Ohio and began a grocery business with his brother. The first year they lost $600 but then the business began to grow.

He opened a dry goods store, then a used car lot and began to sell semi-trailers; after that a furniture and appliance store. Finally the brothers bought up a whole block and built nice buildings on it. Business continued to boom until May of 1956.

At that time he had just built 15 new houses. He owned the franchise on new and used cars as well as trucks and trailers. He also owned a trucking line.

Then pressure began to build up. By August the appraisals on his houses showed an inability to even meet costs. Bankruptcy reared its ugly head, and the fruits of his years of hard work hung by an eye-lash. The last of August he called in his brothers and told them his plight but they could not help him.

Desperately he sought an answer—he searched for one ray of hope. Where was "the way out?" . . . the way out . . . THE WAY OUT! . . . kept drumming through his mind. Suddenly it flashed upon him—suicide—"that's the way out!" But on that day someone put on his desk a little book: God's Formula For Success and Happiness. It is the story of ten men—one, whose name was Clifford Ford, had reached the same depths that Bob was in, but he had discovered the way back to success through faith in God.

Bob read it. It inspired him. Maybe there was some hope after all.

Then he said, "I knelt before God and prayed this prayer: 'Lord I've come to the end of the road. I have nothing left. You are my only hope—please help me!'"

"Suddenly," he said, "I seemed to get this message from God. 'Do not doubt or fear, simply believe.' "At that moment," Bob said, "I knew what I wanted. I wanted God as my partner—not just in my business, but in everything. And so I invited Him to be my partner—with controlling interest in every part of my life. And I felt a strange assurance that He had accepted the invitation."

A few days later he felt an inner urge to go to a big truck corporation and tell his story. He told them that no one would loan him money but that he was honest and felt that God was with him. He asked this corporation, "Do you want to take a chance on me?" They answered, "Yes, we will take a chance on you." So he began to sell their tractors and trailers—one unit at a time.

In four and one-half months, he sold 23 tractor-trailer units as well as other trucks and used ones. During this time he paid off $52,000 of his obligations. He is on the road back to success. God is a wonderful Partner.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE: A SYMPTOM

When your blood pressure rises above a normal range you are said to have high blood pressure. This is not a disease in itself, but a clue or symptom that must be linked to a cause. For this reason, your physical examination must include a number of tests, apart from a complete case history of yourself; that will tell your physician many things to help not only in his diagnosis, but in his treatment of you.

You have two levels of blood pressure, apart from the normal [illegible]: systolic and diastolic. The former is the pressure within an artery at the moment your heart contracts, forcing your blood into the arterial system that extends throughout your body. At the moment it contracts, your heart is said to be in systole.

Diastolic pressure is the blood pressure within the arteries at its lowest level, that is, between heart beats and at the moment when no blood is being pumped into the arteries. Here your heart is relaxed, and your arteries are least distended by the contained blood. Diastolic pressure represents the actual resistance to flow of blood within the arteries, a factor which the heart must overcome to keep the blood moving forward.

In controling high blood pressure, your physician seeks to establish the underlying cause. It may stem from or be associated with a large group of different conditions. One may be nephritis or Bright's disease, an infection of the kidneys. Hypertension is also associated with a variety of tumors which may affect the adrenal glands and brain.

High blood pressure ranks second in importance in making heart disease the major cause of death in the United States. Yet with proper medical management, the condition need not be as serious as many people seem to think. Certainly the outlook for the patient with high blood pressure is brighter today than in years past.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS
from The Bible

By faith we understand that the world was created by the word of God, so that what is seen was made out of things which do not appear.—(Hebrews 11, 3.)

We have never "seen" electricity, or the "waves" which carry radio and TV sounds and images. Yet we have faith in them, for we know that they are, and that they don't just happen. Truly, how can anyone then doubt for a moment that, God is?

"Who Says You Need Costly Shots To Relieve 'Hot Flashes' And Irritation From Change-Of-Life?"

Mrs. A. M., Watonga, Okla., adds, "Middle age was torture. Had costly shots 3 times a week but got no relief. Then took Pinkham's Tablets. They brought me new happiness, comfort!"

Model Photo

Science offers women new freedom from much of the misery of change-of-life, thanks to an amazing new tablet developed especially to relieve these functionally-caused discomforts. Doctors reported sensational results using this remarkable home treatment alone ... and no costly injections!

Relief for 8 out of 10 Tested!

Irritability, tortured nerves were calmed. Dizziness relieved. Awful hot flashes subsided. Here's why.

Unlike aspirin and such "general purpose" remedies, this new tablet is a unique combination of special medicines . . . acts directly on the cause of these troubles . . . works through a woman's sympathetic nervous system to relieve tense feelings and physical distress that bring unhappiness to so many. Clinical tests prove this.

Now this amazing formula is at drugstores without prescription. Ask for "Lydia Pinkham's Tablets". Don't let change-of-life rob you of joy! Get handy Pinkham's Tablets. Contain blood-building iron. See how fast you can feel your happy self again — without costly shots! (Also liquid Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.)

Bill Introduced—

Jacksonville State Drops "Teachers"

JACKSONVILLE — Jacksonville State College has officially dropped the word "teachers" from its name following the pasage of a bill in the state legislature authorizing the four teachers colleges to eliminate the word from their titles.

The bill was introduced in the House by Hugh Merrill, Jr. of Anniston, and in the Senate by A. C. Shelton of Jacksonville.

Both are members of the Calhoun County delegation in the state legislature.

The change was made by popular demand of the students, who pointed out that the college is no longer solely a teacher-training institution. Eight degrees are now offered here and the number of non-teaching students increases each year.

This college is now the third largest in the state.

CLANTON'S GROWING "STARS" BOAST "BIG ARM" ON MOUND

Enviable Record -- 17 Consecutive Wins

Pitcher Wyatt Has Big-League Arm

Special To News
By B. B. BATES

It was late Sunday afternoon, July 7, 1957. The mid-summer sun was sinking slowly in the west, lengthening the shadows of the tall, good looking young athlete, tired and very disappointed, as he walked slowly from the ball park towards home.

Bobby Carlos Wyatt, ace right-hander pitcher for the Clanton Stars had just gone down in defeat to Dick Morgan's Huffman baseball team 9 to 6.

But wait! Was it really a defeat for Wyatt? He had lost, but had given up only one earned run.

The defeat that he saw was the fact that his winning streak had been smashed.

Before this fateful day Wyatt had gone to the mound 17 consecutive times and come away 17 times a winner.

And now he had lost.

But how do his teammates feel about this "rugged righthander" who has pitched, and won, with a blistered hand; when he had a badly injured knee; and even when he was too sick to play.

To get all of the story of Wyatt's baseball career with the "Stars" let's go back to Saturday afternoon, May 7, 1955. He had just completed his junior year of baseball playing with the Chilton High Tigers. Clanton's opponent for that

Your Cleaner Is Your Clothes Best Friend

ADDED PROTECTION!

The public spent $200 million last year for deodorants. This is an increase of 70% over the previous year. So we can welcome the news that the newly-developed bacteriostats that are being applied in textile finishes will give added protection to tomorrow's fabrics. These finishes are said to be antiseptic, inhibiting the growth of bacteria and micro-organisms which cause perspration odors, mildew, mold, rot damage, and discoloration of wearing apparel.

THE NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF DRYCLEANING, Silver Spring, Maryland states that the drycleaning industry is interested in the development and application of bacteriostats to fabrics. During the summer months, many garments reach NID's Textile Analysis Department because they have been damaged by perspiration, deodorants, anti perspirants. Damage occurs most frequently in the underarm area, though it may occur elsewhere if the garment has been pulled over the body before the non perspirant or deodorant has dried. In some cases the color of the fabric has been affected; in others, the fabric has disintegrated. A typical product may contain aluminum chloride, dilute hydrochloric acid, alcohol, a trace of color, and perfume. Some have a cold cream base.

The greasy nature of some of these products helps to hide discoloration that has occurred. The owner of the garment may honestly feel that the discoloration occurred in drycleaning, since the color change may not have been visible before drycleaning. But actually, drycleaning merely discloses it after the staining substance has been removed. The development and use of bacteriostats by the textile industry should help to control this type of fabric damage.

THE fact that a man can do as he pleases often accounts for his lack of success.

FREE speech appeals most to those who have nothing good to say about anyone.

BETTER to be an unsuccessful optimist than a successful pessimist.

LIFE is full of checks and balances; but some write more checks than they have balances!

SOME people's idea of coming to a mutual agreement is to have everyone else come to their way of thinking.

IT'S next to impossible to make any headway with a man who claims to "know it all".

One Of God's Children----

MRS. JESSE MOTES who died Friday, was one of God's Children, for sure.

Mrs. Motes loved people and the soil, the trees and flowers and all nature. We remember when she lived at the jailor's house, which is County property and was then in a bad state of repair, she kept beautiful flowers growing everywhere. And so she has in every place she has ever lived—beautiful flowers grown.

Our sincere sympathy to Mr. Moatts and the children in their sorrow, but we are sure that Heaven, now, will be even a more beautiful place in which to live.

YOU CAN WAIT TOO LONG!----

WE ARE OF the opinion that the old saying: "If you wait long enough in the right place, things will come your way", can be overdone.

In fact, we think that our merchants are overdoing it right now in the way they are letting all the business go to Birmingham and Montgomery instead of advertising and keeping it at home.

The big city shopping centers are growing bigger while our local merchants sit by and do nothing about getting some of the business for themselves.

[illegible] you haven't got the idea yet—an advertisement [illegible] ton County News will help you move some of that [illegible] andise you need to get rid of to make room for new Fall shipments.

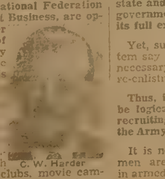
SMALL BUSINESS

[illegible]

[illegible] bian proverb to the effect that once a camel sticks his nose in the tent, he soon takes over the entire tent.

* * *

And that is why the nation's independent retailers, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, are opposing further expansion of the military post exchange service in this country.



C. W. Harder

[illegible] rate prices including such items as golf clubs, movie cameras and gasoline, now seek authority to sell tires and batteries.

The PX service is now an $800,000,000 business, of which almost half is done inside the U. S. Profits last year reached $46 million as compared to only $34.6 million by the Woolworth company on a slightly lower volume.

* * *

PX officials claim the service is without cost to the taxpayer. Yet [illegible] also say that the army run chain store operation shows a [illegible] at as compared to 2-3% [illegible] experienced by private enterprise [illegible] while at the same time operating on an average mark up of 16% compared to [illegible] 30% mark up by private enterprise.

Engaged in this vast merchandising activity in the U. S. alone are 17,900 civilian employees supervised by 300 army people. Thus, to say the least, such common overhead items as rent, insurance, administrative overhead, undoubtedly many other items are borne by taxpayer.

* * *

Before Korea, there were 1595 such establishments in the U. S. This jumped to 2,357 during Korea, and has only been cut back slightly since then.

* * *

It is also interesting that while PX' sales are not subject to the local sales taxes, and that neither are cigarettes subject to state and local taxes, the federal government makes sure it gets its full excise tax.

Yet, supporters of the PX system say cut rate merchandise is necessary to keep up the falling re-enlistment rate.

Thus, if this be true, it would be logical at any time now for recruiting posters to state "Join the Army and Buy It Wholesale."

* * *

It is not inconceivable that if men are reluctant to re-enlist in armed forces, that the reasons should be sought elsewhere.

Men in uniform from time of Caesars, have taken pride in their service. When pride is destroyed, organization is destroyed.

It is possible using armed forces for sociological experiments that have not as yet succeeded elsewhere, could be a cause.

* * *

And it is possible that permitting John Foster Dulles and others to use American servicemen as pawns in worldwide parlor games are a factor. For example, Dulles' willingness to deprive a young soldier of the rights of American justice to turn him over to tender mercies of an Oriental system of justice and prison administration does not appear best way to keep up armed force morale.

It is perhaps high time that Congress carry on a thorough investigation why so many young men refuse to continue service in the armed forces.

* * *

It just seems illogical that the entire question of "to re-enlist, or not to re-enlist" hinges on what items can be bought at wholesale.

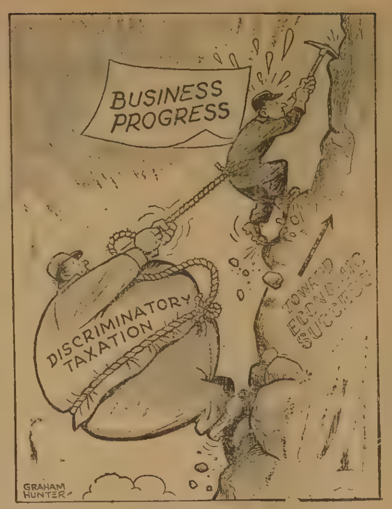
THE HANDICAP



An Essential Reform----

AMERICANS are paying high taxes to Uncle Sam—the top rate is a near-confiscatory 91%. This, to put it mildly, is detrimental to continued economic growth since it penalizes hard work, risk-taking and achievement.

It's essential that income tax reform be enacted at this session of Congress; the longer it's delayed, the more difficult it will be to attain.

Rep. A. N. Sadlack (R.-Conn.) has introduced a bill in the House that deals with the real tax problem—the high and discriminatory rates. His bill provides for uniform annual reductions for each bracket of income tax, over a 5-year period.

This proposal for gradual and orderly income tax reduction, reducing individual and corporate income taxes to a top rate of 42%, would encourage economic expansion. It holds a hope for fair and equitable taxation.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

The House of Representatives reversed itself last wek when it voted to authorize funds to continue for an additional year the controversial soil bank program. It had previously voted to kill the acreage reserve plan at the end of the current fiscal year by denying funds for its operation. However, the Senate restored the appropriation, and the House of Representatives concurred in the Senate's action.

In agreeing to continue the soil bank, the House placed two limitations in the compromise measure. First, acreage reserve payments were limited to $3000 for any one producer, rather than $5000 as proposed by the Senate. Second, it was provided that all payments on 1958 contracts must be made on or before September 15 of next year. It had been charged that Secretary of Agriculture Benson made soil bank payments in the midwestern states on the eve of the 1956 election in an effort to influence farm voters, and the latter limitation was included in the bill in order to prevent the exertion of any influence of this type in the 1958 congressional elections.

The compromised soil bank plan approved by the House authorizes $500 million for the program next year instead of the $750 million Congress authorized when the soil bank was first established. It also reduces the conservation reserve payments from the $350 million endorsed by the Senate to $325 million. It is generally believed, however, that the Senate will now agree to the House version of the bill.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION

For military construction in the new fiscal year, members of the House authorized expenditures totaling $1.6 billion, which is a reduction of about $139 million from [illegible]

MISSING SERVICEMEN

Although the Korean War ended [illegible] the Chinese Communists have consistently refused to divulge information concerning 450 missing American servicemen who were presumed to have been captured during battle. This list of missing Americans originally totaled 944 but through persistent efforts of the United States Government since the war information concerning over half the total has now been obtained. Although it is believed that a substantial number of the remaining 450 may be dead, efforts are still being made to secure reports on all of them.

In the past two years, our ambasador to Czechslovakia has held 67 conferences with officials of the Chinese Communist Government in connection with this matter.

Since these meetings have not yet produced the desired results, the Committee on Foreign Affairs recently reported to the House of Representatives a resolution expressing the sense of Congress that an accounting be made by the Chinese Communist without further delay. This resolution was approved by the House last Tuesday.

Because of the efforts of the communists to gain respectability and acceptability in the eyes of the world, it is believed that an official request by representatives of the American people for a report concerning the missing servicemen may have considerable influence on officials of the Chinese Communist government.

VISITORS

We enjoyed a visit last week from Glen T. Bashore of Clanton.

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

By "TUCK"

Some folks find it difficult to live from day to day and still have an optimistic outlook on tomorrow.

HAVE FAITH IN THE CROP AND BE REWARDED

We hear tell that the peach crop is kaput this year. In our own language, that's just about nothing. We were under the impression that a fair crop was being enjoyed, but grapevine reports ovr the week-end indicate that all is not well. Some farmers, after three bad years, are threatening to pull their trees this fall. We certainly hope they reconsider this move before they do something we'd all regret and pay for.

Chilton County was not made the "Peach and Berry Center of the World" overnight, or, for that matter, in three years. We hope the farmers won't start tearing that hard-earned distinction before they've given it time to sink in.

It has been rough the past few years, Mr. Peach Farmer, but consider all the years that Chilton County peaches have made bumper crops and also consider the fact that even in a bad year, Chilton County peaches make others look pretty un-peachy; then make your decision: Give the crops and mother nature a chance and they'll repay your patience ten-fold.

People fear death when actually it takes much more courage to live and we know very few people who don't love living. If for nothing else but themselves.

A BODACIOUS BALLGAME!

Don't forget! A softball game is being played his Saturday night (July 20) for the benefit of the Clanton Community Center Fund. The game is between the Clanton All-Stars from the City Park League and the State Champions from Tuscaloosa, the Pepsi-Cola team. We think you'll enjoy the game and all that goes with it. Admission will be 25c and 50c. The boys are looking for you. Game time is 8:00 p.m.

Strange isn't it, the way meekness "commands" respect.

We've heard it said that you don't have to be a preacher to preach. Funny thing, most of us aren't!

HIGH AT THORSBY

We've wondered for quite some time now, just why there has not been a Senior High School located at Thorsby. It's true that Thorsby is centrally located with access to the other schools in the County, but by the same token, being centrally located, it is the proper place for a school. A great percentage of that age school children live in the radius around Thorsby and it rightly should have a school there. Furthermore, for the past several years the other schools in the County have been overcrowded badly and need a relief outlet. From the standpoint of common sense, the solution seems simple. With the technicalities involved, such as new schedules, new teachers, switching bus routes, etc. it is a complex problem which the Board of Education will have to wrestle with. It also involves many, many people, which in itself, presents many problems. We hope they work something out harmoniously for the benefit of all concerned.

RECORD YEAR FOR NEW HOSPITALS

Herman F. Reinhardt

Private hospital construction may reach a record in 1957. Such construction in the first half of 1957, was running 40 percent over the same months last year.

On this basis it is estimated expenditures for new hospital construction in 1957 may reach $423 million, according to Herman F. Reinhardt, recently-elected President of the American Association of Fund-Raising. More than $225 million of this sum is expected to come in contributions from individuals, foundations and corporations.

Possibly $4 billion will be needed in the next decade to meet only those needs for additional hospital beds which come from population growth and increased use of hospital facilities, according to the American Association of Fund-Raising Counsel. Of this sum at least $2.2 billion must come from private individuals, corporate and foundation gifts.

Of the $6.5 billion given to philanthropy in the United States in 1956, $5.6 billion came in gifts from individuals and corporations. The twenty-two firms which are members of the American Association of Fund-Raising Counsel assisted in raising about $750,000,000 in 1956 for hospitals, colleges and universities, churches and other gift-supported institutions.

IT'S MY OPINION!

You And The Law; You A-R-E The Law

By Bob Tucker

So much is said and so little done, bout people's apparent disregard for first one phase of the law and then the other, that it seems useless for writers to keep knocking themselves out with their "pens". However, they say the pen is "mightier" so we imagine writers will go on using this excuse to "bore" you with facts and disturbing "rumors" about you, the public.

Why do you have this disregard for your own laws? Is it because you're so high and mighty that you can't be told, or guided?

Are you the type of person who thinks it can happen to everyone else: but "me", never?

Why do you cut off your nose to spite your face, when that in itself, is stupid? What else are you doing when you deface public property?

What makes you think that the law, in all its various forms, doesn't really apply to you, but to practically everyone else? This is America my friend; equal rights, remember?

What would you think or say about the person who said something like "Laws are made to break". A little crazy perhaps?

Why then, did we see you turn left up at the overhead bridge the other night against the light? You were in no apparent hurry. Or the other day, when you stopped to see if the road was clear and then drove on off, as if the traffic light was there to stop everyone else while you went on your merry way. Are you so big and important that our laws don't apply to you? You'll pardon us for saying so, but there is no one that important.

You don't think that way? Well, like as not, when you violate a law that way, you aren't thinking at all!

And what about the telephone booths we see around that have been scraped on with knives or other sharp instrument and otherwise mutilated. Wouldn't think of it would you? But you did run the red light, didn't you? The law's the law.

If you must deface or destroy something, we suggest you take the best china or something cut and throw rocks at it. Wouldn't do that? Stupid isn't it?

Which is the more wrong: Destroying your own property or someone else's?

These are just words; but words are what we live by: "Look before you leap" and "practice what you preach" and "Do unto others. . ." and think, use your head. Rest assured, the good Lord put it on our shoulders for just that purpose.

A DISTURBING OPINION

Talking with a [illegible] zen the other day, we were disturb[illegible] least, to hear him exp[illegible] ion that "the Con[illegible] wouldn't be built." I didn't think; "that it would wither and die, like everything else" [illegible] said. Well, we won't go into our views on his views, but, needless to say, we disagreed with him.

What we're concerned about is feeling in general. If very much of that kind of "enthusiastic optimism" exists we very likely won't have a Community Center, or anything else!

He did say, "I hope they do get it," but we would have much preferred "we" instead of "they".

He was more concerned at that time with another phase of public concern or "unconcern" as he put it and he may well have had a right. But, with a more optimistic outlook from him, we would feel better about the project and he about life.

Agree with him? On the contrary, we heartily disagree and say that we will indeed have our Community Center, if it takes from now on.

But why this feeling? Well, he is doubtful of the project because he is doubtful of the people around him. He has confidence in their ability, but lacks confidence in their drive and determination. He seems to think that all we can do is gossip and drag names through the mud.

To a degree, he's right. However, though we do spend a lot of time "dragging" others around, we are no different from thousands of other communities, towns and cities. O.K., that in itself is wrong, but none of us are so completely righteous do you think? Other communities have built things, we can too.

When it is a case of morals and gossip ruining someone, we strongly disagree with the old addage about the rotten apple in the barrel. Talk, in itself never hurt anyone.

We can, and will, build a Community Center. If you don't believe it "sit back" and watch our smoke.

And by the way, there are those of the opinion that to "let the project ride" through the summer months is a mistake. They feel that while the kids are out of school and "daddy" has his mind off of "gimme" for a while, we could do a lot, through projects and otherwise, to boost the funds of the project. We respectfully agree with this opinion.

Let's don't "rest" it to death.

ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

GOD IS ALWAYS "IN TIME", ALWAYS "ON TIME"

The late Dr. George Washington Carver, noted Negro educator and philosopher, testified before a Senate committee concerning his laboratory work with the peanut. "How did you learn all these things?" he was asked. "From the Bible," he answered. "What does the Bible say about peanuts?" questioned the surprised chairman. "Nothing, Mr. Senator," replied the educator, "but it tells about God Who made the peanut. So I asked Him to show me what to do with the peanut and He did."

God knows everything. He knows everything about you. He knows so much about us that He tells us "even before we call He will answer, and while we are yet speaking, He will hear."

Dare to believe that. Dare to take all your problems and troubles to Him. You will find that He is always in time. He is never too late. He knows just when to come, He is always on time.

Mr. W. J., of South Carolina relates this striking incident.

"I was a student at the University of South Carolina. I drove forty miles every day from the town of Great Falls where I lived, to the University in Columbia.

"One morning it had been raining and the highway was wet. As I rounded a curve coming into a small town, Ridgeway, South Carolina, the quality of the highway material changed suddenly.

"My tires were somewhat worn, and as I rounded the curve and struck the new section of highway, the car began to skid sideways. Suddenly it began to turn around and around on the wet highway.

"I wrestled with the steering wheel, applied the brake, and did every thing I could think of in the flash of a few seconds, but no results. Abruptly the car stopped twisting around and swerved toward a large tree that was growing beside the highway.

"In the fleeting flash of a second, I realized I was going to strike that tree. The car was completely out of control. Instinctively I turned to the only resources left to me, and not having time to say the words aloud, a 'thought-prayer' flashed through my mind. These words stand out vividly to me today, although that was six years ago —'Lord, help me!'

"I have tried to explain the next second with every psychological and scientific explanation available. Yet, none of them fit. How or why the car did not strike the tree with terrific force cannot be explained other than that the power of God was exerted in my behalf. It was as if a giant hand had seized the car and commanded it to stop—for instantly, within one foot of the tree, the car stopped skidding and began rolling backwards down the highway in the direction of Columbia.

"In control of the car again, I turned around and continued on my trip. But all that day there was the terrific realization that the Lord had stepped in just in time to save me from almost certain death."

Little League Trades Players Big League Style; All-Stars Selected

COE TRADED FOR GLASSCOCK

At the last meeting of the Little League coaches, managers, and officials, two changes were made designed to strengthen the league as a whole.

Most of you who follow the play know that the Jaycees have won all but one of their games, while the kiwanians have failed to enter the winning column.

Much thought and discussion was given this problem before a decision was reached as they wished to make as litle personnel change as possible.

Before the decision was announced, there was full agreement among the coaches, the players and the parents.

Since the Kiwanis Club's greatest weakness has been on the mound, it was decided to exchange the League's top pitcher, Douglas Coe, for the Kiwanians center fielder, Butch Glasscock.

In the first game of the twi-night double-header the Kiwanians made it close, [illegible] Braves had to come from [illegible] the last two innings to win. Taking advantage of fielding lapses, the Braves scored 3 runs in the fifth on no hits. Pitcher Coe lost his first game when Jones singled home, the winning run in the sixth. Jones also had a double and single before to lead the Braves hitting. Ray had 2 hits and B. Miller doubled. Moatts and T. Miller had 2 hits each for the Kiwanians with Miller getting a homer.

Cox of the Jaycees gave up only one hit and struck out 10 as the Lions were defeated 4 to 2.

Wyatt pitched a good game getting eleven strike-outs and allowing 5 singles. [illegible] and Cox had 2 hits [illegible] getting the other single. [illegible] collected the only Lion hit.

Umpires for the first game were Bodden, Wilson and Williams.

For the second game, umpires were Easterling, Hudson and Williams.

All-Stars Presented At Fri. Nite Game

Friday night, July 12, between games the All-Star Team for the Clanton Little League was presented. These boys were chosen by the four coaches, who had individually turned in a list of the 14 boys they considered most capable to represent Clanton in the tournament.

The choice was unanimous.

Mr. Finlayson was selected as Manager and Mr. Wyatt a Assistant Manager. The boys were announced and came up before the grandstand where Mr. Scott took pictures of them and the coaches.

From the Jaycees Coe, Cox, McCullar, Propst and Puckett were chosen. From the Braves came Ray, Jones, Bobby Miller and Murrah. The Lions had Foshee, Smith and Wyatt. The Kiwanians gave Tommy Miller and Moatts.

These boys will enter the tournament with the first game being played July 27th in Childersburg. At 3:00 p.m. the Clanton All-Stars will play Talladega.

In the opinion of the managers and coaches, Clanton has one of the better All-Star teams this year and stand a very good chance in the tournament.

They will be practicing about 2½ hours each day at the City Park until tournament time so why don't you amble on down and watch them practice. Show them you're interested in what they are doing.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS
from The Bible

Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do...—(St. Luke 23, 24.)

Do you ever find it hard in your heart to forgive anyone? Do you sometimes find it hard even to forgive yourself?... On the Cross, Christ Jesus asked God to forgive those who were crucifying Him — for the Eternal God of Love and Mercy will forgive — and He hears even the smallest prayer.

Footsteps Of Time

Life-size marble, circa 3000 B.C.

Iraqi soil is probably the world's most fertile for producing relics of the past, because the inhabitants of this ancient land can trace their country's history back more than ten thousand years. Tools and implements from the Stone Age have been discovered in caves of Northern Iraq, an area which also has yielded remnants from mankind's next era, the Neolithic Period. During this period, approximately five to ten thousand years ago, human beings started cultivating the earth's soil and domesticating its animals. Archaeologists have revealed some of the first human agricultural settlements at such sites as Jarmo and Hassuna.

Sometime before 3,000 B.C. the waters of the Persian Gulf receded and human settlers moved to the Southern plain, founding the world's first urban civilization. These people, the Sumerians, established a rich society organized into powerful "city states." Splendid, highly intricate treasures from Sumerian civilization have been uncovered at Ur-of-the-Chaldees.

One of the best preserved ruins of Iraq dates from about 500 B.C.—the fascinating city of Hatra, which was not discovered until 1951. The excavations soon brought to light five shrines, a tower-tomb, large residential buildings and a section of one of the city gates. Many statues, coins and Aramaic inscriptions were discovered which are particularly valuable in illuminating gaps in a long-obscure period of Iraqi history.

After the Arab conquest in 641 A.D. Iraq wrote one of the most brilliant chapters in her long history. Under the Abbasid Caliphs, Baghdad became the seat of government, culture and intellectual achievement. At a time when no academies or universities existed in Europe, Baghdad boasted of a famous academy, Dar al-Hikmah, which included a museum, a library and a bureau of translation, as well as a hospital with trained physicians and pharmacists.

Describing the momentous intellectual activity which sprang up in Iraq under Islam, H. G. Wells wrote in The Outline of History: "For some generations before Muhammed, the Arab mind had been smouldering, it had been producing poetry and much religious discussion; under the stimulus of the national and racial successes, it presently blazed out with a brilliance second only to that of the Greeks during their best period. It revived the human pursuit of science. If the Greek was the father, then the Arab was the foster-father of the scientific method. Through the Arabs it was, and not by the Latin route, that the modern world received that gift of light and power."

KNOW-HOW MUSEUM

In the midst of a spacious Cairo park stands a unique museum dedicated to Egypt's fertile soil and its industrious farmers.

Appropriately enough, the Agricultural Museum commands a magnificent view of the mighty River Nile. Housed inside the museum's five main buildings are exhibits which vividly display the tremendous variety of agricultural products and techniques which owe their existence to the waters of the famous river: native crops, canning factories, soil research programs, silk worm breeding, poultry husbandry and many other categories.

In one of the five buildings, the Plant Kingdom Palace, is a treasured gift presented by the Pope to the Egyptian Government—a replica of the famous symbolic statue of the Nile which is housed in the Vatican. Many of the exhibits deal with the Nile Valley's most important crop, long staple Egyptian cotton, displaying methods of planting, breeding and marketing this precious commodity. The plant building also contains numerous exhibits of other native products such as the flax plant, oil-producing seeds, sugar cane, Egyptian timber and finished agricultural products like jams, jellies, canned fruits, wines, liquors, and perfumes.

A huge husbandry map of Egypt showing experimental stations, model farms, poultry breeding farms and locust-control stations, dominates another museum building known as the Animal Kingdom Palace. On the first floor visitors can see models of the country's extensive irrigation projects, including huge barrages and dams on the Nile such as the Aswan Dam, the Mohamed Ali Barrage, the Isna Barrage and the Dairout Barrage. Other models exhibited show various types of animals found in the country, such as the camel, the Arabian horse, Egyptian donkeys, mules and numerous fish which swim in Egypt's waters.

The museum's library, housed in the same building as a public auditorium, contains a rich collection of books, papers and pamphlets dealing with practically every phase of agricultural knowledge from anatomy to zoology. The library also boasts of a wide selection of books on agriculture in foreign languages.

In addition to presenting a complete picture of Egyptian agriculture, the museum houses a comprehensive collection of data and models relating to agricultural practices and conditions all over the world. Present methods, including model factories, are shown in relation to those practiced by the nation's ancestors, for the museum possesses a fine collection of valuable antiquities dealing with farming in ancient Egypt.

As part of a program of visual education for those Egyptians who live far from Cairo, the museum's authorities have organized a number of mobile agricultural exhibits which tour the country and spread modern agricultural knowledge among the residents of local towns and villages. For those fortunate enough to visit the museum in person, the tremendous variety of exhibits form a rich reference on Egypt's agricultural experience and know-how, providing far more information than the viewers could obtain from many a detailed textbook.

"Can't Miss" With Crimson Clover Specialists Advise

Chilton County farmers are urg this week to take advantage of a "can't miss" proposition and plant reseeding crimson clover on their farms this fall.

Thousands of pounds of this seed are needed to make up the current shortage. Prospective growers can get planting stock if they act now.

And farmers can't lose with reseeding crimson clover. This crop pays off three ways—seed production, soil enrichment, and first-grazing. Crimson clover rates as one of the very best winter legume cover and grazing crops.

Even at a low seed yield of 121 pounds, the returns per acre are fairly good when the farmer considers the grazing and soil building values he receives from this crop. And a great opportun exists on many farms for planting reseding clover on Bermuda and other sod. This combination gives the farmer good year-round grazing on the same land.

The Crop Reporting Board reports a short crimson clover seed supply this year. Seed production in the southern states is estimated at 10,250,000 pounds—19 percent less than last year's supply and 39 percent less than the 1946-'55 average production. The Dixie, Autauga and Auburn strains of crimson clover account for 55 percent of this seed production.

Heavy and frequent rains at harvest time in the South ruined much of the seed production. Mississippi was the only southern state to produce more clover seed than last year. The average yield this year in the South is estimated at 121 pounds per acre—26 pounds below last year and 41 pounds below the average.

Feeder Cattle Becoming Popular In Alabama Counties

Chilton County and Alabama farmers are turning to feeding cattle more and more to boost income, sagging under the strain of row crop controls and surpluses. This trend puts an ever-growing number of farmers in the market for stocker and feeder cattle.

County agents' reports show that last year alone, 7,614 farmers throughout the State purchased stocker or feder cattle and according to our report, the number is expected to be even larger this year.

Farmers are warned that stocker and feeder cattle, to be profitable must be bought "worth the money". A poor job of buying and selling is a shortcut to feeding profit loss. As a general rule, feeder and stocker cattle prices sink to their lowest point during the last half of October, making it the best buying time.

Feeder cattle grades — fancy, choice, good, medium, common and inferior—are based mainly on conformation and quality. Farmers buying these cattle may feed them out to a comparative slaughter grade or a grade higher.

The money-wise farmer determines the grade and age cattle he buys by how long he plans to keep and feed them. In other words, he will buy calves if he plans to keep them a year or more and older cattle to keep just a few months. And he buys catle in one of the three top grades if he plans to feed them a full quota of grain.

Inexperienced buyers are advised to buy steers and save money by hiring and order buyer to do the purchasing.

A Salute to HOUSTON COUNTY

Alabama's Youngest County is Setting the Pace in the Wiregrass

Located in the heart of the productive Wiregrass area, Alabama's "newest" county has made an amazing record of agricultural and industrial growth. Chartered in 1903, the county was named for Gov. George Smith Houston, a leader during the Reconstruction Period.

The county seat, Dothan, has gained national fame for its annual Peanut Festival and is the site of most of the county's industries. Agriculture remains Houston County's chief source of income, with cotton, peanuts and livestock making large contributions to its prosperity.

The Brewing Industry, too, makes a large contribution each year to the prosperity of Alabama. In 1956, a total of $6,405,915 was paid by the Industry in state, county and municipal taxes. The fact that beer pays its way so handsomely helps keep your tax bill down.

Bikes Have Safety Rules, Too

By Jeanne Smith, Dodge Safety Consultant

TEACH YOUR YOUNGSTERS to handle bicycles with as much skill and safety as an adult drives a car

Safe driving rules they should learn, apply to bicycles just as traffic rules of the road are observed by mom and dad.

With the help of these 10 rules for bike riding, compiled by the National Safety Council, you can assure your children's safety now and build future correct automobile driving habits.

Miss Smith

1. Obey all traffic signs and regulations. Remember that red lights are meant for bicycle riders, too.

2. Keep to the right side of the road at all times and always ride single file.

3. Stop to see that sidewalk or streets are clear, before riding out of alleys, driveways or from between parked cars. Look carefully for cross traffic at every intersection.

4. Dismount and walk your bike across a heavily traveled street. Always dismount at the extreme right of the roadway.

5. Signal your intention to turn.

6. Carry parcels and books in a basket or luggage carrier. You need both hands to help keep balance.

7. Never ride two on a bike. Passengers interfere with vision and safety. Never drag children on skates or in a wagon or tricycle.

8. Do not stunt on streets and highways — or weave in and out of traffic. Stunting and racing should be confined to vacant lots or to protected areas where there are no other vehicles or pedestrians.

9. At night have a white light on the front of the bike, a red light or reflector on the rear, and wear white or light colored clothing.

10. Keep your bike in good condition. Be sure to have handle bars, grips and pedals tight, saddle fastened at the right height, chain and sprocket guarded, tires hard and strong, and brakes in good working order.

Two curious space travelers of the future consult with authentically dressed rocket ship explorers on the Outer Space set where Sugar Jets Cereal films its educational TV commercials.

The newest and most unique television commercials being shown on the air waves today are seen by millions of children on TV's MICKEY MOUSE CLUB.

Aware of the great interest in space travel as well as the advent of the International Geophysical Year beginning July 1st, Sugar Jets cereal devotes more than half of their commercial time exploring the wonders of the universe with no mention of the product.

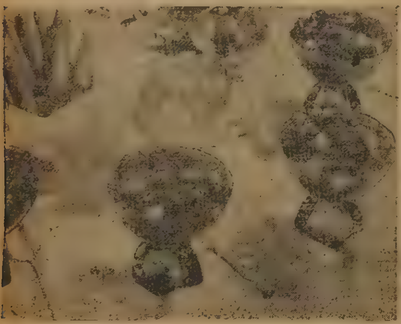
Although aimed principally at children, their overall worth is considered by experts in the field to be well over the average "12 year-old mentality".

Factual settings show objects floating aimlessly in space as the rocket ship soars and the pull of gravity becomes nonexistent. Only authentic facts about outer space are used with no exaggeration for the sake of the spectacular.

This informative research was conducted by several leading scientific authorities in the space field. These included author and pioneer rocket developer, Willy Ley; Dr. Joseph Kaplan, Chief of the United States' participation in the International Geophysical Year; and Chesley Bonestell, noted artist of space subjects.

John Sternig, a brilliant elementary school teacher in a suburb just outside the Chicago loop also contributed much assistance toward the project. Sternig is gravely concerned with the importance of astronomy to the younger generation. "Space travel", he says, "is sure to come in this century. The Columbus of 1992 is already born".

Summer Main Courses...Jellied Salads



Even though temperatures are soaring, tempers need not. There's a cool looking table, all set for luncheon or dinner. The cook is cool, calm and collected too . . . 'cause the main course is p-e-r-f-e-c-t for summer eating . . . it's SAVORY SALAD.

And . . . it's made from canned condensed consomme, combined with tangy and colorful vegetables; and top dressed with the right touches of seafood. A real compatible combination! Summer-ize your menu planning with such elegant and refreshing main course salads, the jellied kind made with canned condensed consomme. They're easy on the cook, and on the waistline too. One serving is about 35 calories.

Serve crisp accompaniments, like French bread sticks, toasted sesame bread, rolled or party sandwiches. Top off the menu with an ice cream dessert and a hot beverage.

With no fuss, a cool kitchen and a fresh-feeling cook, and happy eaters, hot day eating becomes enjoyable eating; thanks to canned condensed consomme, the base of many delightful jellied salads. Try this one:

Savory Salad

2 cans (10½ ounces each) condensed consomme
1 can (6 ounces) lobster, drained and flaked
½ cup cubed avocado
¼ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped scallions
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Few drops Tabasco sauce
Dash black pepper

Combine consomme with other ingredients. Chill until jellied — about 4 hours. Stir once, when partially jellied, to distribute lobster and vegetables. Serve with lemon wedges, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

PORK AND BEANS PATIO STYLE

Six family members or guests will be more than happy with this dish as the main fare of your next patio party. Pour 2 cans (1 pound each) pork and beans with tomato sauce into a shallow baking dish (6x10x2"). Slash skin of 6 frankfurters; arrange on beans, cut side up. Make a paste of 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Spread over frankfurters. Bake in a very hot oven (450°F.) for 20 minutes or until beans are hot and franks are brown.

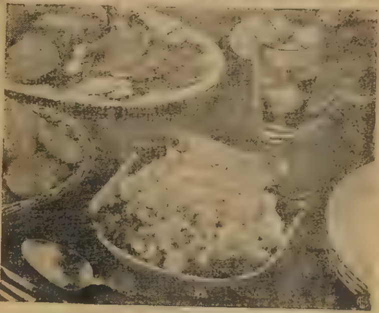
Quick Tricks...

Cheezy-Crunch Potato Salad



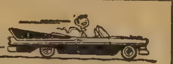
An *old*time summertime favorite with a brand-new flavor! That's "Cheezy-Crunch Potato Salad", a sure-to-please family treat for hot weather meal planners. The good news—in both flavor and texture—is supplied by rich inch-square cheese crackers which are crumbled into the salad as a major ingredient. Make this crunchy salad with the fresh new cheese flavor this easy way:

Cheezy-Crunch Potato Salad

- 4 large potatoes (about 2 lbs.)
- 3 hard cooked eggs
- ¾ cup mayonnaise
- 2 teaspoons prepared mustard
- 2 tablespoons grated onion
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ⅔ cup crumbled Cheez-It Crackers

Wash potatoes and cook them in the jackets in boiling water to cover. When tender, cool slightly; then skin and dice finely into a large bowl. Dice eggs and add to potatoes. Combine mayonnaise and remaining ingredients, including the inch-square cheese crackers which have been crumbled to the size of small dried beans. Blend well. Pour mayonnaise mixture into potato mixture and toss to blend thoroughly. Chill. Makes 6 generous servings.

MOTOR MAIDS



Vacationing With Kids Can Be Fun for All

By Jeanne Smith, Dodge Safety Consultant

TRAVELING WITH THE YOUNGSTERS can be child's play—if you plan ahead for their safety and comfort.

Here are some suggestions for peaceful, quiet and pleasant motoring this summer, when the little ones are on board.

Miss Smith

Carefully study the route of your trip and plan to arrive at each night's destination no later than 6 p.m. Tired youngsters can cause trouble. Travel leisurely, stopping often to give the children a chance to release pent-up energy and to stretch weary little legs.

Dress them in cool, comfortable, easily-washed clothing. Shorts, overalls, T-shirts and sunsuits, in any of the countless new wrinkle-resistant fabrics, are ideal.

Provide an area for very young children to nap. Try loading suitcases on the rear floor until they are level with the back seat. Then place a small mattress across this area, with blankets and pillows. Station wagon owners can set up a play pen in the rear which safely and comfortably holds tiny travelers.

Don't bother taking lots of toys along—no metal or wooden ones with sharp corners, at all. Instead, divert their attention by pointing out unusual sights along the way, or encourage memory games and contests.

Roadside picnic areas and public parks are plentiful in most states. To please the youngsters, plan a picnic for at least one meal each day.

Because of lack of exercise, it may be wise to cut down to two full meals a day, but keep plenty of snacks on hand.

Take along thermos bottles, a portable cooler, picnic basket and insulated bags in which cookies, fruit and sandwiches can be stored.

If your youngsters do get out of hand, don't look toward the back seat to discipline them. Instead, squelch any mutiny after you've pulled off the road and brought the car to a complete stop.

Never let children out of the car if traffic is heavy. And keep a constant watch on them when you're stopped for picnics and sightseeing.

Finally, always lock all doors from the inside. Instruct the little ones to keep arms and head away from open windows and to keep their hands off the dashboard and steering wheel.

Careful planning — and the enforcing of a few basic rules of behavior — will make the trip pleasant and safe for both you and the youngsters.

On Coosa Lakes--

Summer Fun Is Fishing; And Fishing Is Fine

FOR THE FIGHTEN'EST, CATCH A CARP!!

There's plenty of action on the Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes this week! Mr. J. A. Powell, Eclectic, and F. S. Ellis, Central, caught four weighing twenty-eight pounds on Tuesday and the next day they brought in six weighing nearly forty pounds.

By R. L. (Dick) SCOTT

Are you wondering what species of lunkers these fish were?

Well sir, they were carp.

Very few fishermen bother to try for carp, even though they are tasty when properly cooked. During the slow summer season carp offers plenty of action.

They give a good battle from the time they are hooked until boated. You would enjoy catching these whoppers, and by doing so you probably will help improve sport fishing in the lake.

The Powell-Ellis technique is simple. If you are interested, try it!

Select an isolated cove and bait it with meal cake. After two or three days go back, early in the morning, and fish the bottom with a 1/0 hook baited with kernels of corn. That's all there is to it.

You may catch one weighing as much as twenty pounds.

The largest ever recorded in the United States, made with a reel and rod, was fort-two pounds.

Sport fishing on the lakes has been fair during the past week. Several nice strings of bass and bream were taken, but only two entries were registered for the Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest prizes.

1957 PLYMOUTH

DETROIT, MICH. JUNE 21—Plymouth greets the half-way point of the year with its half-millionth 1957 Plymouth. The milestone car is the 500,000th 1957 Plymouth to be assembled in the United States and Canada. It wheeled off the line at the Plymouth plant in Detroit.

Assembly line workers join Jack W. Minor, Plymouth vice-president in charge of sales, to mark the important 1957 event.

Minor termed the half-millionth vehicle "a symbol of the tremendous success and continuing demand for the 1957 line of Plymouth cars."

Judging A Dream — Approximately 2000 dream cars, designed and built by American boys from all the 48 states, are being judged in Detroit this month to select winners in the 1957 Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model car competition. At stake are $115,000 in university scholarships and cash awards. Scholarships go to the national winners and cash awards to state and regional honorees. Judges are professional designers, stylists and industrial arts instructors.

On the Fourth of July Mr. and Mrs. C. C. prepared a barbecue dinner for the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Knapp, Mrs. Marie Little, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Fulford and son Boby, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Gay and two children, Leonard and Joy, and their sons, J. CLEANING TRICKS

It's no wonder that some homemakers are a bit confused, in light of all the conflicting statements on the proper way to clean hard-surface floor coverings, such as linoleum, vinyl tile, etc. So, the research chemists at Procter & Gamble's laboratories did some extensive testing and recently announced the results. When a special floor cleaning product, like Spic and Span is used, a minimum amount of moisture is required to do the complete cleaning job and there's no need for rinsing or wiping dry. The floor dries almost instantly allowing an immediate application of a thin, even coat of wax. This no-rinse method of washing floors will not inhibit wax adhesion or reduce the gloss, the experts found in their tests, since no residue whatsoever is left on the floor. By eliminating the rinse routine, the housewife not only cuts her weekly scrubbing time in half, but she's being kind to her floor since she uses less water.

Housework should be divided between husband and wife, especially when the wife has a nine-to-five job, too. Make a list of all the jobs to be done and both husband and wife should go over them together to decide how to divide up the work. Good masculine jobs are vacuuming, scrubbing and window-washing. Let him choose. Maybe his stint in the Navy makes him a pro at the scrubbing routine so give him the best equipment and he'll sing while he works. With a handy squeeze-type mop and a special cleaning product designed specifically for hard-surface floors, such as linoleum, floors may be cleaned in half the time with half the work. No rinsing is needed.

Whitewall tires will really sparkle after a scrubbing with a special cleaning product like Spic and Span which is also tops for floors and painted surfaces. A brush dipped in the solution will remove the grime quickly and easily.

It takes only a little effort to keep those precious garden tools in fine, workmanlike condition. Just immerse them in hot water in which the special cleaning solution for floors has been added, let the hardened earth soak away, remove the rest with a stiff brush. Dry thoroughly and give them a coating of paste wax. This will not only prevent rust but will keep dirt from clinging to the metal the next time the tools are used.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

PERSONALITY IMPORTANT IN TOTAL HEALTH

To have a good personality is to add a link in the chain of ingredients that make for total health. What constitutes a good personality? Attitudes, personal habits, philosophy on living, particularly spiritual ideas, lack of subterfuge, and honesty in dealing with others form a capsule definition of a good personality.

The two divisions of good and bad personalities may be broken down into many segments. Medically, for example, you may have a psychotic personality, that is your attitude to reality is altered.

Or you may be psychoneurotic, one who appears to live and act normally, but whose emotions are disturbed by emotional conflict.

Another type of personality makeup is found in persons who have strong aggressive tendencies and who resort to any means to attain their personal goal, honestly or dishonestly. Some, persons appear to have good personalities, in the sense that they create the suggestion of a good disposition. This is the designing type who resorts to unfair strategy or scheming to achieve their selfish ends. Lying, fabrication and coloring of details are part of their equipment in "feathering their own nest." They are superficial.

The fact that every human being is different, emotionally and physically, accounts for the many types of personality. But a good personality can be developed if the desire is sufficiently deep-seated.

Not everyone is going to like you. This is human nature, so understand it. But in your efforts to achieve a good personality, you can look for traits in others that you would like in yourself.

You must like yourself too; and if you can see something that will help improve your own makeup, this is a step forward.

Bad personality habits are just as unpleasant as the bad habits of slovenliness, uncleanliness, untidiness, and careless speech. And they breed mental disease just as poor sanitation does filth and infection. But, if you try, you can eliminate these bad traits from your personality.

particular afternoon was Mars Hill, a previous 8 to 7 winner over Clanton. Wyatt started in Centerfield, but after Mars Hill had blasted their way to a 3-run first inning lead Wyatt was called to the mound. Clanton eventually won the game 18 to 5.

Since that day Wyatt has compiled an amazing record of 32 wins against only 4 losses. His shut-out victories stand at 6 and four other times he has held the opposition to 1 run.

In July of 1955 Wyatt had a hot streak in which he hurled 26 consecutive scoreless innings. It was broken on Sunday, July 31 when they counted one 5th inning marker. Not to be discouraged, Wyatt went on to pitch 14 more scoreless innings before Billingsley nicked him for one tally. He won the game 18 to 1.

Wyatt's best game this year was his 4-hit shut-out over the Bradford nine.

In August, 1956, near tragedy came when Wyatt was struck hard in the head with a fast ball. He was badly injured and many days, anxious days for him, went by before he was able to resume his baseball career.

Wyatt is the personification of the type of athlete Chilton County is proud to turn out. His motto could well be summed up in the words posted in the athletic room at Chilton County High School: "A winner never quits. A quitter never wins".

The day that broke his winning streak could very well mark the beginning of a new era for Wyatt. That Big League arm of his is destined to do big things for him and his home teams, and his hometown and county.

Shining Silver Without Effort

With mountains of thank-you notes still outstanding, a sampling of this year's June brides indicates that silver continues to head the list of favorite wedding presents. One of the biggest thrills for any young bride is choosing the silver pattern that will decorate her table the rest of her life.

It's a safe bet, however, that before the last thank-you is penned, the time-consuming chore of polishing silver will have caused many new brides to store away their flatware for just special occasions.

The makers of a leading detergent, who now are offering a $3.50 pair of decorative silver plated candy dishes as a dollar premium, have some proven suggestions for keeping silver bright with a minimum of effort.

Even though washed promptly after each use, silver in time builds up a coat of tarnish. Happily, the easiest cleaning technique is also the safest.

Even the gentlest silver cleaning compounds contain mild abrasives that rub away some of the silver itself while removing the tarnish. The electrolytic method removes just the tarnish from both sterling and plated silver.

Place a large piece of aluminum foil bright side up in the bottom of an enameled dishpan. Add enough boiling water to cover the silver with one tablespoon of Silver Dust detergent for each quart of water used. Cool slightly before adding the silver; make sure that each piece touches either the foil or is in contact with another piece that does.

Let stand a few minutes. Then remove, rinse and dry. Buff with a soft cloth for truly shining silver. The only caution is not to use the short-cut method on candlesticks which are usually soldered.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

They tell us Julian Evans was in our fair city for several days recently. Now during his stay with homefolk we never did get to see him anywhere. Guess like all others who return to their home town. They are so busy seeing relatives and old friends they never do get around. Really would have liked to have seen Julian though. Worked and played around town with him for many years before he took himself off to Florida where he now resides.

Mrs. J. W. McGinnis has lost her little parakeet. Now no one will appreciate her feelings unless they have taken care of, and trained one themselves. She is offering a reward for the return of hers so if you see it please let her know. By the way its color is green.

See where the merchant needed a new venetian blind for his window but did not have enough money to buy one, and business was bad at the time. He put a box on his counter wit ha sign on it "donations for the blind," and had enough money for his blind in no time.

Jimmy Bell and son Henry are far up in the Smoky Mountains this week making like Daniel Boone. He will be joined later by Mrs. Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Bing LeCroy. Jimmy, Bing, and the boys are camping out, but we think that the ladies will take it easy at the lodge. Hope they don't run into any 'bars' while roaming in those mountains. If they do somebody will have to go back after Jimmy's and Bing's automobiles.

After you have heard two eye witness accounts of an automobile wreck, you begin to wonder about history.

Amon Jones is going back into the furniture business in Clanton. He says that through the insistance of his friends he decided to open the Amon Jones Furniture Mart. It will be located where Chilton Home Furnishing was located on the corner of Third Ave & Sixth Street. Amon has just returned from a visit to the furniture market at High Point North Carolina and will feature new furniture. He asks his friends and old customers to come to see him.

LITTLE-LEAGUE—

Kiwanis Takes Final Game Of Season

By Louise Glasscock

Friday night the rain held off long enough for the Kiwanians to win their first game. While Barker held the Jaycees to one hit and one run, his teammates collected 6 hits and 10 runs off 3 Jaycee hurlers. The lone Jaycee run came in the first inning on an error, 2 walks, and a single by Glasscock. For the Kiwanians—Cox, Culver, Barker, Fullen, Minshew and Lawrence all hit safely. Barker's fine pitching was backed up by equally fine fielding as the Kiwanians made only one error.

The second game was called because of rain.

Umpires were: Lawrence, Hutchinson and Presley.

THANKS BACKERS

With the completion of the regular schedule of Little League play, we would like to thank those who worked so hard to make this season a success —The League President, Charlie Patterson; Treasurer, Odell Headley; Collection Committee Chairman, Mrs. Odell Headley; Chairman of Umpires, Raymond Popwell; and the managers and coaches. We also wish to thank Leland Hudson for the graphic broadcasts, Carter Radio and TV for the public address system, the various individuals and businesses who paid the light bill, the many men who took on the thankless job of umpiring so well, and all the people who showed their interest by coming out to the games and contributing to the operating expenses.

See you at the All-Star game Saturday in Childersburg.

An Inside Closeup Of Chilton's '57 Peach Crop

Commercial Buyers Have Faith In Chilton Quality

Commercial peach shipments from Chilton's five packing sheds total approximately 27,200 half-bushels and 6,740 bushels.

This volue of intra-state peach movement does not compare favorably with that of 1954 or 1956; yet, commereial buying organizations have continued to exemplify faith in Chilton's peach future by remaining in the area and handling the limited commercial lots of peaches that have been offered.

Commercial volume in 1957 has been curtailed by two major factors. First, the lack of accumulated "chill" or dormant hours during the past winter prevented many varieties from making normal bud development.

To further decrease packing shed volume, the question mark that hung over Chilton's peach crop at bloom time prompted many growers to delay spray applications and resulted in off-grade fruit.

The two above-mentioned major factors, coupled with persistent drenching rains and heavy insect populations, dealt Chilton's 1957 peach crop a severe "body-blow," but by no means a crippling "punch."

The fact that we have set, and aro growing near 1,000,000 peach trees, on 10,000 acres of Chilton's more fertile soil, and the further fact that we have established market contacts, favorable market reputations, and production and packing know-how are among Chilton's more valuable assets in the peach industry.

Many major growers have now booked orders for substantial volumes of planting stock to be set this winter is further evidence that the often discouraging 1957 season has not seriously crippled Chilton's peach industry.

But in continuing to look forward in peach production projects growers, packers, and sellers alike must take stock of the present situation and make plans to re-coup lost ground and to re-grasp the reputation for "Top Quality" fruit that we somewhat veered from in 1957

In caring for a scattered crop of fruit, and attempting to apply sprays during frequent rains, many growers have allowed some disease and some species of peach insects pests in orchard areas. This situation is serious. It is going to force the application of some new pest control practices. It is necessarily demanding a more rigid and workmanlike application of known and established practices; yet the situation is no more difficult than many others that Chilton's ingenious, industrious, area wise unique group of specialized food crop producers have faced and solved.

The needed orchard sanitation chores will be completed and many more peach trees will be brought into production in Chilton before another harvest. With favorable seasons, Chilton's next normal peach volume will make all former commercial sales look like a baby. With present investments in land and trees, production and packing equipment, and established marketing advances, we can only work toward one goal—a re-emphasis of our true slogan "Chilton County Peaches Are Tops."

WE have heard it said, that the only safe place to fall asleep at the wheel is at a drive-in theatre.

WE do not stop playing because we grow old, we grow old because we stop playing.

WE once heard a preacher say the only tainted money he knew was 'taint mine and 'taint yours.

PEOPLE do look shorter when sitting down these days—their wallets are flatter.

EVERY day is the dawn of a new era, but sometimes it feels more like the morning after.

THE man with a narrow mind usually makes up for it with the length of his argument.

THE man who thoroughly enjoys life is the man who has learned to make every minute of every day count.

IF YOU REALLY WANT TO CUT THE NATIONAL BUDGET . . .

AS YOU KNOW, THE Executive Department of our Government has asked Congress for authority to spend $72 billion during the next fiscal year. This money, of course, must come from our pockets, yours and mine. There is no other place to get it.

The word 'billion' is a hard one to grasp, an amount that is difficult to measure and fully comprehend... So perhaps we can better visualize the $72 billion that we taxpayers of America may be forced to contribute if we speak of it as 72,000 million dollars. Or maybe we can get it better by making comparisons like these:

Considerably less than 72 billion seconds have passed since the birth of Christ.

If we took thousand dollar bills and stacked them in stacks, one on top of the other, it would take almost sixteen piles the height of the Empire State Building to use up the 72 billion.

If we stretched these same thousand dollar bills, end to end, along the ground, they would stretch 6,818 miles, or enough to reach from coast to coast and back, with enough left over to go almost from New York to Chicago.

Visualize the total production of every farm, every plantation, every livestock range and feed-lot, all the fruits, the vegetables, the nuts—everything produced by our agricultural industries in an entire year. With $72 billion we could buy every bushel, every pound, every gallon and, what's, more buy it twice over.

This is the amount the Executive Department of our Government proposes to spend in one year. And for what?

Granted that some expenses, like the interest on our huge public debt, cannot be avoided. But a careful examination of the budget details will show that a great many of the proposed expenditures, including those for National Defense, are not only unnecessary but are downright ridiculous.

If our family budget were allocated and spent as loosely and freely as the Bureaus in Washington propose, and if we authorized every expenditure that any member of the family wanted to make, we would soon be looked on as spendthrifts and disowned by the community.

Yet this is precisely what the Executive Department of our Government is threatening to do—and with our funds. If we, as citizens, expect of our representatives in Washington the same frugality, the same sound business judgment in the handling of finances that we, as individuals practice ourselves, we must speak up and say so.

We urge you to take just a little time—right now—to let your Senators and Representative know how you feel about it.

It is their vote that will decide how much will be spent and for what.

It goes without saying that financial stability and economic health are far, far more important in the case of our country than they are in the case of any individual. And this country, like our families, belongs to us and is our responsibility. But whether country or family, it is our financial resources, our future that is at stake. No one else is going to foot the bill.

And as we think about the size of that bill, it might be helpful if we keep these facts in mind:

From the year 1792, when the first session of the first Congress convened, to 1950, the Government Collected $406 billion in taxes.

From 1950 through 1956, the Government collected $433 billion in taxes.

In other words, the Government collected during just the past seven years $27 billion more than it collected during the previous 158 years.

It only takes a 2c postcard to write your representatives in Washington, and they would like to hear from you. Do it today. NOW! Here is the way you should address them:

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Members of the House of Representatives spent all of last week debating the mutual security authorization bill which was finally adopted on Friday by a vote of 254-154. The authorization figure of $3.1 billion approved by the House was almost $750 million less than the President had originally requested.

Of the total reduction, $400 million or more than 50 percent, was the result of an amendment I had offered. That particular amendment received approval by the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and there was no [illegible] made against it in the House of Representatives.

Local Fund Restricted

Possibly the most important amendment introduced by me, however, affected the Administration's proposed new Development Loan Fund. That amendment authorized $500 million for the new program for fiscal year 1958 but eliminated the requested borrowing authority of $750 million for each of the two following fiscal years.

While I approve of the basic principle that funds for assistance to underdeveloped nations should be on a loan rather than a grant basis, I felt that the bill as written not only authorized an amount much larger than was necessary but, at the same time, relinquished Congressional control over the new program. The purpose of my amendment, therefore, was to limit the Development Loan Fund to one rather than three years and to eliminate $1.5 billion in future borrowing authority.

The Foreign Affairs Committee carefully considered and then approved the amendment. Several days later, after considerable pressure from both the State Department and the White House, the amendmtne was reconsidered and defeated. When I offered the same proposal on the floor of the House last Friday, a major battle had been predicted on the issue. The battle failed to materialize, however, and the Selden amendment was adopted almost unanimously.

Conference Required

Earlier the Senate authorized a [illegible] year Development Loan Fund. [illegible] will be necessary for a House-Senate conference committee to reach an agreement on this particular section of the bill. Should the views of the House of Representatives prevail, both Congress and the Administration will have an opportunity to review the program after an intelligent appraisal has been made of the Fund's operation during the one-year trial period. Also, a more accurate determination can be made of the Fund's future capital requirements as the Administration's request of $1.5 billion for fiscal years 1959 and 1960 was admittedly a stab in the dark.

While the House-Senate conference committee will also determine the final amount to be authorized, in my opinion the $3.1 billion figure voted by the House of Representatives will prove ample to safely continue the mutual security program during fiscal year 1958.

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

By "TUCK"

Here's something that may restore your confidence in the fact that Americans aren't giving up entirely on the idea of free enterprise. Nosirree, high taxes and the like, just didn't bother Miss Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Williams the other day, when she and her friends set up a Lemonade Stand at the corner of her home. We asked her Sunday if she sold any lemonade and she said "yes sir!" Fully indicating that there's was a booming business and expansion will soon be necessary. The way of all good things, however; in a month or so the supply will be bigger than the demand and the lemonade tycoons will again be hauling heavy schoolbooks for a livelihood. It's a hard life, Miss Williams, but worth every minute of it. Congratulations on your initiative and imagination.

HOT GOSSIP: Somebody THOUGHT they HEARD something; the next person HEARD something; and the next SAW it with his own eyes

From the Clanton's Lions weekly bulletin this week comes this bit of startling news and we quote: "He shows definite promise of being the most obnoxious pest we have had in some time filling that office. End of quote. Now we ask you, is that any way to speak of a fellow Lion? Bashore, what do you plea? Seriously folks, it's all in fun. The writer of this column failed to include all of what the writer of the bulletin had to say. Just goes to show you how your words can be twisted around.

Actually, this bit of dubious praise was being heaped on the Lions new Tailtwister Leonard Traywick. Yes, see it's quite an accomplishment when, in this position you can get someone to say such rotten, nasty things about you. (We said dubious didn't we?) Then and only then, are you doing your job well. Well, as controversial as the Tailtwister's job may be, we agree with Bashore. That's a compliment, you understand!

"People who try to live right, just don't know, don't realize what goes on around them . . . " That's a quote from a not close, but very learned and admired friend of ours Mr. Horsley White, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County. He was speaking of the many times a day he listens to complaints of child-beating, drinking in general, vagrancy and sundry other charges, some of which turn your stomach. Things which go on right around us here in Chilton County. We're not condemning people and he was not. However, it is evident that the law-abiding citizens of Chilton County don't know what it's like, to hear a tearful mother relating an incident or a frightened child expressing his fear of his parent or parents. No, the average person doesn't know what it's like. And, the average person who condemns public servants and officials are also pretty much in the dark about the good that these men do. Too much is expected of men like Horsley White, Clifton Parrish, Turner, Tucker, Tingle and many others. Too much expected and little gratitude, if any, when their job is done right. These men, the most of them, are intent on serving you, the public. When they do you a good turn, thank them. If they harm you or fail to help you, try to understand their position. They are human beings with endurances as you and I. Help them to help you, for you are the one who will profit, whether you know it or not.

Cooperation is a condition by which we all attain our goal in life: thus, we need you, you need us.. and so it goes.

IT'S MY OPINION----

A Goal Is An End, And We're Sitting On Ours

By BOB TUCKER

We think all honest public endeavors are good; if sincere. And we also think that the civic clubs of Clanton and Chilton are tops anywhere when it comes to getting a job done.

Some of the best men in our communities belong to the civic organizations and that is what is making Chilton County grow as it is.

We want to appeal to the common sense of every individual who is in any way, even vaguely connected with the Clanton Community Center Project.

No don't quit yet, we're not through!

The fact is, there is not, at the moment, the concentrated effort on for this drive that there should be. Now, let those who will condemn the project and otherwise reject it if they will, we don't give a hang. The fact remains that there are plenty of us who want to see this project completed and these many, need open guidance.

If we are treading lightly and carrying a big stick, our mistake But what are we treading lightly on? There is no reason why you can't shout it in the streets if you like; "I'm working for Clanton's Community Center Project and I'm proud of it." What's wrong with that? Who're you afraid of? These characters possibly, who can't see it being done? Well, open their eyes to reality. It can; it will b done, whether or not we're around to see it, is up to us.

Look at the account on the f page of the News this week a what you can to "Help It To Grow."

By the way, what happened to the thermometer chart that was going to be installed in town somewhere? Doggone it Clanton, get on the ball !!!

Publisher of Weekly Newspaper Sadly Reports The Tremendous Tax Bite

What does high Federal taxation and reckless spending in Washington—mean to the publisher of an average weekly newspaper?

Guy T. Ludi, of The Wahoo Newspaper (combining The Democrat and The Wasp) in Wahoo, Nebraska, recently reported:

"We paid to the Federal Government an average of $6.53 per hour for every hour our plant was in operation last year. This figure is equal to the salaries of three skilled workmen for an entire year.. three skilled workmen that never showed up for work.

"The Federal taxes we paid could be compared to another unusual equal . . . It cost Ludi Printing Company $52.00 every workday morning to unlock the front door. But, if this sounds ridiculous to you, just follow along on these further comparisons:

"The amount of Federal Government taxes taken out of this plant last year was equal to: two and a quarter full page ads each week . . or

"9c out of every dollar taken in (whether or not a profit was made), or

"Over $260 in cash every week

"These taxes took enought mo out of our plant to pay for any of the following:

"Heat, for 22 years.

"Postage for nine years

Electric lights for 32 years.

"Water for 103 years.

"Electric power for nine years

Electric heat for typesetting chines for 22 years.

"Telephone for 21 years.

"Freight cost for 12 years.

"Insurance for 15 years . .

"You may ask . . . 'Well, what we going to do about it?'

"The answer is: We don't kno We know that spending by Govern ment is too high and going hig . . . we'll do our share of the squaw ing, but one voice is hardly an roar.

"Actually, we would propose t tax conscious people everywhere riously consider the problem bef the next primary election in 195 At that time something can be d if everyone will crack down on spenders in Washington."

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

BY C. WILSON HARDER

Washington observers know heaviest domestic pressure for bigger foreign give-away programs comes jointly from socialists and some influential big business leaders.

Socialists' viewpoint is understood. Not so fully understood is how some big business firms cash in on foreign aid. S many in Washington were keenly interested in recent report on a dairy operation as printed in national business publication.

C. W. Harder

Nine years ago a firm called International Dairy Supply was formed. Almost immediately brand new firm got Defense Dept. contract to supply milk to armed forces. This firm then merged with Foremost Dairies, who has since completed mergers with some of nation's biggest dairy operations. But according to the published report, military business is still bulk of corporation's business, estimated to be somewhere around half billion dollars per year.

In many parts of U. S. consumers pay high fixed price for milk, while there are dairy farmers who claim they do not receive fair share of what consumer must pay. Foremost operates in some of these areas.

In addition, Foremost is doing a lot of milk business in Free Asia, shipping into the area dry milk solids and condensed butterfat which when combined with water produces a palatable milk.

Government, through Agriculture Dept., is supplying Foremost with ingredients for a little more than half the value of those ingredients in the U. S. market. Thus, there is a government subsidy involved.

Company's announced aim is to combat communism among Asia's teeming millions by supplying them milk.

But contrasted to the high sounding aim is report that in Hong Kong, Thailand, other places, company gets around 40 cents per quart for product. Forty cents is about day's wages in area. In Japan, where wage rates are around 8 cents per hour, price is 24 cents per quart.

In addition, government is giving away thousands of dollars of Foremost milk to natives to help them acquire taste for product. Nothing is said as to eventual consequences if all Asians become milk addicts and they cannot get the 40 cents for a daily quart.

Altogether, it was quite a story, especially when born in mind, it is alleged in this published report, this one firm has almost exclusive contract to supply armed forces, thus shutting out independent dairies near defense installations.

It perhaps could be said this is quite a milking operation.

And it also seems but logically obvious that here is one huge combine that is all in favor of big foreign aid programs. It is not illogical to assume it is in there pitching for more of the same. And bearing in mind that one of the parts of this combine, International Dairy Supply, could, when newly formed, snare the Defense Dept. contract when there were much, much longer established firms in the business, gives logical ground to an assumption that the firm must have considerable influence in official circles.

IN SENATE--

Sparkman Reviews 1st Week of 'Rights' Battle

Washington, D. C., July —With Senate debate on civil rights raging, Senator John Sparkman (D-Ala.) reviewed today the first week of his part in this battle, underway since July 8.

On the second day of debate, Sparkman testified in behalf of states' rights before the Senate Rules Subcommittee, chaired by Senator Herman Talmadge (D-Ga.). He speficically protested any change in the Senate rule, requiring 64 Senators to vote to end debate. He also previewed on the Senate Floor the speech which he gave the following day.

The third day Sparkman spoke on the Senate Floor approximately three hours on the right to trial by jury and the use of injunctions.

"Under the bill Congress is being asked to demolish clause after clause of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution that guarantee trial by jury," he warned.

Charging that injunction and politics "do not mix," he quoted scholarly journals to show that the right of jury trials is far older than injunctions and contempt trials without juries. During the first week's debate Southern Senators protested what they consider unfair, a provision of the civil rights bill, requiring that defendants in civil rights cases would be tried by judges rather than juries.

A highlight of Sparkman's Senate Floor discussion was the following exchange between him and Senator Lister Hill (D-Ala.):

Hill. Under the bill, could not there be a situation in which the judge . . . would make the law . . . and then he would prosecute, and then he would construe and interpret the law, and then he would render the decision as to the guilt or innocence of the person involved, and then the judge would proceed to fix the punishment of the person whom he had found guilty?

SPARKMAN. Absolutely correct . . . it is better to rely on our system of trial by jury.

HILL. Under the system of trial by jury, the judge has the benefit of the wisdom, experience, and sense of jusitce and fair play of the 12 members of the jury; is not that correct?

SPARKMAN. The Senator is absolutely correct; and I think he will agree with me, from his long experience and his long observation of court procedures, that the average judge would prefer to have a jury determine the facts.

On the fourth day Hill, addressing the Senate, protested the exclusion of trial by jury from the civil rights bill. Again the two Alabama Senators teamed up, this time pointing to a growing trend in the northern press to reconsider its views on the bill. The exchange follows:

SPARKMAN. The NEW YORK TIMES, of course, is supporting the proposed legislation—or thought it was. . .

HILL. The NEW YORK TIMES is no longer for the bill as it is now written, because it has found that the bill is not what it thought and understood the bill to be. . .

SPARKMAN. We have been subjected to much criticism; criticism even for the limited amount of debate in which we have engaged in this matter, and in which we have spoken about the futility of adopting the motion to take up the bill. Does not the Senator feel that our presentation of these facts before the Senate has brought to the attention of the country many things the people did not know, as is exemplified by what has been written in these great newspapers, THE NEW YORK TIMES, THE WASHINGTON POST AND TIMES HERALD, and the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR?

Other great newspapers across the country, are waking up to the fact that the bill represents perhaps the most crafty, artful –

HILL. Subtle.

SPARKMAN. Subtle cunning—

HILL. Cunning. (Laughter.)

SPARKMAN. Sly draftsmanship which perhaps we have ever seen in the Senate of the United States.

HOW TO FREEZE HEN FRUIT AND ENJOY THE 'YOKE'

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama's home gardens and orchards are beginning to turnn out all sorts of good food. And thrifty housewives are busy planning home freezer storage space and preparing these vegetables and fruits to be served some cold winter day.

Fruits and vegetables aren't the only foods abundant and low in price this time of year. Eggs too, are more plentiful and cheaper now than they will be this fall and winter—and eggs, too, can be frozen.

Eggs are easy to freeze. All the housewife needs is fresh, clean eggs, airtight containers and a few simple rules to follow.

If eggs come from a home flock, gather them three to five times a day. Wipe shells clean and chill in a refrigerator. The sooner eggs are frozen after chilling, the better they will be.

Eggs may be frozen whole or with the yolks and whites separated. To freeze a whole egg, stir lightly with a fork to mix yolk and white and then pour into small bags, seal, and freeze.

Egg yolks to be frozen should be beaten slightly, then for each six yolks add either a teaspoonful of sugar or one-half teaspoonful of salt. Egg whites may be frozen as they are. Pack eggs in moisture-proof and vaporproof containers, [illegible] When ready to use, thaw eggs in refrigerator and use promptly. [illegible] The equal of yolk [illegible] yolk two tablespoonfuls of white equals one white; and three tablespoons of yolk and white equal one whole egg.

ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

SHE MADE HER DRIVER HELP HER

"In June, we intended to drive East to see our twin boys graduate from college. The night we were to leave, Muriel, our ten-year-old daughter, developed a terrible earache with high fever. Aspirin had no effect whatsoever. As the pain shot into her ear, Muriel would scream spasmodically. She could not sleep, and it was so very late to call for the doctor. So I resorted to prayer

"My first prayer did not seem to be very effective, for the sharp cries of pain continued to break forth.

"I decided to pray again.

"But first I talked to Muriel. I said, 'Muriel, I want to tell you one of the ways that God works and uses to heal us. When you get into a taxi, you must tell the driver where you want to go and then he takes you there. You are his boss at that particular moment, because he takes you wherever you tell him to.

"'Now, inside of you is one who drives for you also. We call it the sub-conscious mind. The thoughts, ideas and desires that we feed this mind has much to do with the physical, mental and spiritual condition that we are in.

"'So you say to the driver (your sub-conscious mind) that you want him to bring a fresh supply of blood through your ear. He is to work all night and take away all the poison and the pain. In the morning you will be well.'

"I put my hands over her ears and said, 'Muriel, whatever method is used, remember it is God Who heals us, and I ask God to heal you.' Then I repeated over and over again verses 1-4 of Psalms 103. Especially the verse 'Who healeth all thy diseases.'

"I must have had my hands on her ears from 20 to 30 minutes. In a little while she went sound asleep. The next morning there was no sign of pain and her temperature was perfectly normal."

The Rev. R. R. of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, recently sent this story of his daughter's healing to me. He used the laying on of hands as a help to healing. No one but God can heal, but this is a stimulant to faith. It is the pin-pointing of a particular moment to believe that God heals.

There are many hindrances to healing, but there are two things we must do to regain health. First, let your iniquities be forgiven. Get rid of selfishness, dishonesty, bitterness, jealousy, all desire to get even, any evil habit, thought or action. With sins forgiven and with unlimited faith on our part in an almighty loving God and Father, ALL DISEASES can be healed.

Sec[illegible], we must think right! God doesn't want us to be sick. He wants us to be well or else He would not have placed healing powers in our bodies which fight germs, heal wounds and knit bones. So when we are spiritually cleansed, then God's power to heal can go to work on our bodies—providing WE BELIEVE His will is for our health. Jesus said . . . "According to your faith be it unto you."

PLANNING vs. PANIC

Binghamton Evacuates 1,500 People in Pace-Setting Test

In a Sunday "outing" with a serious purpose, 1,500 residents of Binghamton, N. Y., traveled 28 miles from their homes to tiny Deposit, N. Y., in one of the largest civil defense evacuation exercises ever held.

The test, involving 372 autos and a special train, was symbolic of the survival effort which millions of Americans would make in a real emergency to put miles between themselves and threatened nuclear attack.

"EVAC 12"—code name of the exercise involving Binghamton's 12th ward—included two sets of motorists in the four-hour test. When the alarm sounded, the first group of 500 persons simulated panic by driving on to the evacuation highway helter-skelter in uncontrolled movement.

Shortly afterward, the first of some 250 cars began moving out of a checkpoint on Route 17 in controlled groups of 14 cars each for the trip to Deposit.

Lt. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, who observed the test along with New York's Lt. Gov. George B. DeLuca, said that "probably for safety's sake under disaster conditions, we would do better with the small, controlled grouping of cars."

Aboard the special train were 64 simulated patients of an emergency hospital, and 46 youngsters "displaced" or "lost" in the confusion of potential attack.

Evacuees were assigned for visits to the homes of Deposit residents when they arrived, just as might be necessary on a longer-term basis after a real attack.

After a dinner, served under improvised conditions, they returned home with a "well done" from pleased civil defense officials and the knowledge that they were better prepared for the real thing if it ever comes.

2 Top Cash Crops Join To Help Each Other

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama's two top cash crops—cotton and poultry—are teaming up to reduce each other's production costs, thereby increasing grower's profits.

For years many cotton growers have used a poultry by-product—litter—to fertilize their crops, increasing yields and cutting production costs. Now from the test tubes of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's research scientists comes an improved cottonseed meal that can be used as a protein concentrate in poultry rations.

The improved cottonseed meal will probably lower feeding costs simply because it is produced here and not shippd in from out of state.

Cottonseed meal has long been fed to cattle and sheep as a source of protein. But the gossypol contained in the meal made it toxic to poultry. Now scientists have found a way to take most of the gossypol out of the meal by a process involving screw pressing. This improved meal can safely be used as a protein concentrate in rations for growing [illegible] and broilers. In fact, feeding tests indicate that chick and broiler rations containing the same amount of improved cottonseen and soybean meals are equal or even superior to rations based on vegetable protein alone.

Although improved cottonseed meal can and is being used in chick and broiler rations wit hgood results, no way has yet been found for using it in layer feed. Even the new improved cottonseen meal affects eggs quality. However, scientists are working further to improve the meal so that it can be fed to layers [illegible] and without affecting egg quality.

Now you can buy big on a little-car budget

READ THIS STARTLING FACT

5 out of 10 smaller cars wear a Pontiac price tag —yet none gives you any of Pontiac's advantages

PONTIAC GIVES YOU UP TO 8.9% MORE SOLID CAR PER DOLLAR!

Not one of the smaller cars can give you the heavy-duty construction, the road-hugging heft and solid security that surround you in every Pontiac. Yet Pontiac's the nimblest heavyweight you ever managed—and your Pontiac dealer can show you more than six dozen advanced-engineering reasons why! Pontiac has gone all out to make this genuine big car the best behaved beauty that you ever had the pleasure of bossing. You'll find Pontiac's exclusive Precision-Touch Controls make steering and braking the surest, easiest you've ever experienced! Park it, cruise it, try it in stop-and-go traffic . . . this is driving the smaller jobs can't duplicate!

PONTIAC GIVES YOU 4 TO 7 INCHES MORE WHEELBASE!

The small cars extend bumpers and fenders to look big—but Pontiac puts the extra length where it counts—between the wheels! Pontiac's longer stride brackets the bumps instead of riding on them. And this extra length shows up inside, too, in stretch-out space for six footers. Add to Pontiac's bonus in length its all-new suspension system and you have an exclusive Level-Line Ride no car at any price can surpass . . . and a built-in sense of direction and security that will spoil you for the smaller cars forever!

PONTIAC'S PERFORMANCE TOPS THE BEST THE SMALL CARS CAN OFFER—BY A WIDE MARGIN!

Not one of the smaller cars can measure up to Pontiac Performance. Whether you judge a power plant by engineering statistics or on-the-road performance, Pontiac's Strato-Streak V-8 stands head and shoulders above anything in the low-price field. Your Pontiac dealer will be happy to show you a complete facts-and-figures comparison—then an eye-opening test drive in traffic or out on the highway will supply all the heart-lifting proof you need that Pontiac has separated the men from the boys when it comes to performance!

—AND PONTIAC HAS ALWAYS BEEN FAMOUS AS ONE OF AMERICA'S TOP TRADE-INS!

Maybe it comes as a surprise to you that so much more car can be yours at the same price you've seen on the smaller cars. But there's the fact! And Pontiac is a wonderful investment, too! As you know, it has always commanded a top trade-in. So why not step out of the small-car class and into a Pontiac . . . there's nothing in your way. Your Pontiac dealer has the keys and an eye-opening offer waiting for you right now! So why not look and feel like a million—instead of a million others?

NOW! If you want the ultimate in both economy and extraordinary performance, new Tri-Power Carburetion is available at extra cost on even the lowest priced Pontiac models! It's America's newest power advance and exclusively Pontiac's at so low a cost!

This 70-foot totem pole in the plaza of the Canadian National Railways station at Jasper in the Canadian Rockies is an exceptionally rare specimen. The pole was brought to Jasper from the Queen Charlotte Islands off the Pacific coast of mainland British Columbia. It was carved by a family of Masset Haida Indians, whose family crest appears in the form of a killer whale at the bottom of the pole. FNS

Sen. Sparkman Tries 'Senate Salad'

Senator John Sparkman of Alabama is handed his plate of "Senate Salad" by Mrs. America of 1958 during a recent luncheon at the Capitol. "Senate Salad" was tossed in the largest—three feet wide and 14 inches deep—salad bowl in the world. Containing the products of eight states, the salad was topped by a garlic-type salad dressing mix.

A new salad, "Senate Salad", was created and served recently at the U.S. Capitol. Senator Sparkman was among the 35 Senators, innumerable Congressmen, Congressional staff members and press—totaling more than 500—who tried the new dish.

It is unusual for a new dish to be created in the nation's Capitol. Here's how it happened:

Nine Members of Congress who come from states that produce or manufacture ingredients important in salad making decided to serve an original salad to their colleagues on Capitol Hill.

The result was "Senate Salad". To meet the need of the occasion it turned out to be the largest of its kind ever served in the world.

The ingredients of "Senate Salad" were: ten heads of Arizona and California iceberg and romaine lettuce, 20 bunches of West Virginia water cress, 14 bunches of Texas green onions, 75 pounds of Maine lobster meat, 30 bunches of California celery, 156 New Jersey tomatoes, 78 California avocados, one gallon of California ripe olives, 40 Arizona grapefruit, two quarts of Michigan vinegar and 30 envelopes of a garlic-type salad dressing mix.

To serve the largest salad in the world, naturally, the largest salad bowl in the world was needed. The bowl, hand-turned and made of solid walnut, was three feet wide and 14 inches deep. Heaped, it held 320 main-course servings of delicious "Senate Salad." The salad fork and spoon each were three feet long and the cruet for the eight quarts of salad dressing was 18 inches high.

The salad bowl was presented by Mrs. America of 1958 (Mrs. Linwood Findley of Arlington, Va.) to Vice President Nixon for the Senate Dining Room—and there is a good chance that "Senate Salad" will take its place at the Capitol alongside the already famous "Senate Bean Soup."

"Senate Salad" is worthy of a place on everyone's table. Of course, husbands, who are weekend chefs and wives who like to try new food dishes, need not buy 75 pounds of lobster to serve "Senate Salad."

To prepare the dish for a family of four, take a cup of bite-size pieces of iceburg lettuce, a cup of bite-size pieces of romaine lettuce, one half cup of bite-size pieces of water cress, one and one half cups of lobster meat, one cup of diced celery, a quarter cup of chopped green onions and stems, two medium tomatoes cubed, five large ripe olives sliced and sections from one half of a grapefruit.

The vinegar and salad oil to make the dressing should be used in the proportions required with one envelope of garlic-type salad dressing mix.

The ingredients should be placed in a large bowl and tossed lightly. The lobster claws should be used to garnish the top.

NEWEST DRIVE-IN CREATION — It's really something, this growing trend toward drive-in service. You can shop, you can bank, go to the movies, even have your car washed while sitting comfortably behind the wheel. Our telephone engineers are making field tests to add still another convenience to this motorized age — the drive-in telephone, that will let you make calls without leaving your car. We've selected two cities as test sites. If folks like drive-in phones, you'll probably see 'em one day wherever you go on streets and highways. It's still another way we're working to put telephone service in arm's reach of everybody, everywhere.

DON'T LET THE HAMBURGERS BURN! Has this happened to you? You're outside at the grill with friends. The hamburgers are sizzling merrily. The phone rings. You rush inside and snatch up the phone — only to find the person calling has hung up! And the hamburgers have turned a nice, crisp black. This really happened to some friends I was visiting the other day. So I dropped a friendly hint. "Get yourself an outdoor telephone, George," I said. George was surprised. Didn't even know we had such phones. But we do. And if you'd like one for your patio or barbecue grill, just give us a ring at the business office.

Wrap-It-Up Chicken Barbecue

IF you're a member of the charcoal-cooking crowd, consider a chicken barbecue next time you move your kitchen to the great outdoors. It's a great favorite, and one of the easiest of all outdoor specialties to cook with a practical certainty of being good.

Use the wrap-it-up method of cooking. The pieces of chicken are placed on squares of aluminum foil, spread with sauce, then sealed into neat little packages. These are easy to turn during cooking, and all the savory goodness of the chicken and sauce is sealed right in. Easy to eat, too, right from the silvery wrap.

The sauce is a relatively simple one. It's all important, however, to cook long and slowly until the flavors are thoroughly blended and mellowed. Be a look-ahead picnicker. Keep a supply of packaged frozen chicken parts in the freezer, then you'll be all set for a cookout whenever the weather man is feeling cooperative. Here's the recipe:

Saucy Barbecued Chicken

1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup
¾ cup sweet pickle relish
¾ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine all ingredients; simmer until onions are cooked and flavors are blended. Makes 1½ cups of sauce.

To barbecue chicken: Thaw 2 packages of frozen chicken thighs, breasts, drumsticks or wings as directed on package. Place 2 or 3 pieces of chicken on sheet of double thickness of heavy duty aluminum foil; spread with about ¼ cup of sauce. Fold foil over, bringing edges together, and seal tightly with double fold. Cook on grill about 4 to 5 inches from bed of hot coals for 40 to 45 minutes, turning packets occasionally.

DRESS-UP TOPPING FOR CHICKEN PIES

For many a Sunday dinner, you've probably opened a jar of tantalizing spiced crabapples to serve with the fried chicken. So you won't be surprised at the suggestion that you try the spiced apples sliced as a topping for individual baked chicken pies from your freezer. Looks pretty, tastes wonderful. FNS

Out of the Kitchen Into the Shade

WHEN THE SUN PEAKS OUT all warm and buttery and the fields light up with the yellow specks of dandelions, it's picnic time! Time to think of portable dinners that can be eaten out in the cool of a shady glen with the rays of summer sunlight darting through the trees. It can be a picnic for everyone—including mother—if it's planned ahead and cooked in advance.

Here's a hot menu, suggested by the "Thermos" Home Service, that can be had without smoke or heat. Hot dogs—running juicy with spicy mustard, tangy sauerkraut, a salad crisp as linen, chilled fresh fruit and good hot coffee, or if you prefer, something deliciously cold to whet your whistle. The kraut and dogs are prepared at home and packed in a wide-mouth "Thermos" food jar which keeps them so hot you can see the steam as you unscrew the cap from the container!

Coffee is brewed in advance and carried—hot or cold—in a standard neck vacuum bottle. Fruit, hot dogs, rolls, potato salad and mustard fit nicely in the long plastic sandwich box. The box and the two vacuum bottles fit snugly in the MacPherson plaid outing kit.

Although we women can resort to the "helpless female" act in such emergencies, it's better—and far safer — to avoid the situation entirely.

Miss Smith

Studies of driving habits, tire engineers tell me, show that unintentional abuse is one of the main reasons for tire failure. Here are their recommendations for proper tire care—and care-free vacationing:

1. Maintain car manufacturer's recommended air-pressure at all times. Over-inflation causes excessive tread wear; under-inflation will flex and eventually break down the side-wall. Tires should be cool when pressure is checked.
2. Don't c[illegible] In fact, avoid [illegible] tirely. Tread wear at [illegible] hour is almost twice as [illegible] at 45 mph.
3. Avoid sudden stops and "jackrabbit" starts.
4. Have wheel alignment checked and tires rotated before starting out on a vacation trip.
5. Remove any nails and small pebbles lodged between the treads. These may eventually cause a bruise that could lead to a blowout.
6. Don't bump against or run over curbs. Drive slowly over rough roads.
7. If your car begins to handle queerly, pull off the road and inspect all tires.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

from The Bible

I will give thanks to the Lord with my whole heart.—(Psalm 9, 1.)

Thanking God for His abundant, bountiful blessings is not a matter of a formal few moments or even of hours. It is thanking Him every moment that we breathe, by every thought and act and word—it is by living each moment as we know in our hearts He wants us to live: filled with consciousness of His presence within us. That is thanking Him with a whole heart.

TETANUS

The old idea that a puncture [illegible] from a rusty nail is the [illegible] cause of tetanus (lockjaw) is a misconception. Tetanus may develop from almost any scratch or wound if proper precautions are not taken.

The germ causing tetanus, identified more than sixty years ago, produces one of the most powerful poisons known. It is almost always present in soil contaminated by the body wastes of cattle, horses and other animals. The germ is a menace to children, farmers, gardeners, and others whose activities bring them into contact with the soil. However, many tetanus cases develop from injuries incurred elsewhere.

The germ does not cause illness by a direct attack on tissue. Instead it produces a toxin, or poison, which has a peculiar liking for nerve tissue. Symptoms are all due to its irritating effect on nerves. Thus there is at first some pain and twitching of muscles due to the nervous stimulation. Then come irritability, restlessness, and chills. Then muscles begin to develop violent involuntary convulsions.

If the nevres controlling muscles of the jaw are affected, their contraction clamps the jaws tightly closed. As the toxin extends its effects, major trunk muscles are involved and the back muscles in convulsion may pull the spine into a curve so that only head and feet touch the bed. The pain is excruciating. Meanwhile, however, the mind remains clear. Death is due not to the poison directly, but to exhaustion, or suffocation caused by spasm of the throat muscles. In untreated cases it comes within about four days; but, if the patient can be carried through the tenth day, about fifty per cent recover.

Tetanus may occure any time, particularly in the summer months when so many persons are outdoors. Everyone who plans to be working in the soil or around animals should consult the family physician for preventive shots of tetanus antitoxin.

Tetanus is easier to prevent than cure. Everyone should be immunized. Take no chances. What you consider a minor injury may, in reality, be the site of the tetanus germ.

10 Counties Have Representatives At FHA Committee Meet

A training meeting wah held in Montgomery, Wednesday, July 17, for the FHA County Committeemen from 10 Central Alabama Counties. There are three Committeemen from each county [illegible] made by the FHA [illegible] recommended by the [illegible] [illegible] and terms of lo[illegible] [illegible]ty of applicants.

Committeemen attending from [illegible] County were R. M. Foshee, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] are 30 Committeemen in the 10 county area and 29 of the committeemen were present for the meeting [illegible] County [illegible] having served more time on the County Committee than anyone else [illegible]. Mr. Foshee has served about 15 years on the Chilton County FHA Committee during the past 20 years.

Isaac C. Byrd and Ronald L. Cabel, Supervisors from the local FHA office also attended the meeting.

Mr. Fonzie T. Williams of Route 1, Billingsley, Alabama, is the new member of the Farmers Home Administration county committee, Isaac C. Byrd, County Supervisor, announced this week.

Mr. Williams' appointment became effective July 1, 1957. The committee on which he will serve determines the eligibility of local farmers who apply for Farmers Home Administration loans.

The new committee is a farmer in the Pool's Cross Road Community and succeeds Mr. [illegible] Edwards of the same community whose term expired this year. The other two members are R. M. Foshee, Chairman, Route 4, Clanton, Alabama, and Mr. Thomas A. Davis, Route 2, Jemison, Alabama.

Each agricultural county in the country has a similar cmomittee of three members who are responsible for determining loan applicants' eligibility, certifying the value of farms being purchased or improved through Farmers Home Administration loans, and making recommendations on loan approvals and loan servicing actions.

Each member is named for a 3-year term and one appointment expires each year. A member completing his 3-year term cannot succeed himself. At least two of the members must be farmers.

The committee works with the county supervisor in connection with all types of loans. These include farm operating loans and loans to buy, improve, or enlarge efficient family-type farms in this area. They also include loans to farmers or their nonprofit associations to establish and carry on approved soil and water conservation practices including improving permanent pastures, terracing, soil erosion measures, farmstead water systems, irrigation, drainage and many other conservation practices.

Most of the soil and water conservation loans and loans to buy or improve farms are made from funds advanced by private lenders and insured by the agency. Some of the loans, however, and all loans for [illegible]ing farms, are from annually appropriated funds.

No loan of any type can be approved for an applicant whose credit needs can be handled adequately by other credit sources.

Ask Your Help—

Rural Mail Carriers Have Safety Problem

Dear Patron:

I have a problem which is very serious, and I am soliciting your help in solving it because I believe that you hold the answer.

Now that school is out for the summer, more and more children are out of doors playing, and many of them run to the mail box to meet me as I come by each day. No one thinks more of the little children than I do, and letter carriers everywhere are justly proud of the high esteem in which they are held by the children along their routes.

My problem is this: When the children crowd around my vehicle I am always afraid that one of them might be run over. When one child comes to the mail box to get the mail and stands safely behind the box there is no real danger. But when two or more children are at a box there is always the possibility that their scuffling or playing might cause one to dart in front of the vehicle.

Sometimes when I stop where several children are congregated some of them even crawl or hang on to the sides of the vehicle, and this of course is extremely dangerous. Occasionally before I can move on to the next box it is necessary for me to alight and walk around my vehicle to be sure that all of the children are out of the way.

As you can see, these conditions not only constitute a real hazard to safety but also make it dificult for me to complete my round by the appointed time. My greatest concern, however is for the safety of the children. I can assure you that I am taking every precaution within my power already, and anything that you can do to further lessen the chances of an accident will certainly be appreciated.

This letter is addressed not only to parents but to patrons all along the route so that all of us together may be acquainted with this problem and work together with the thought in mind that it is much better to be safe than to be sorry.

Yours for the children's safety,

Your Letter Carrier.

At Thorsby Institute This Week

Some may not know that Thorsby Institute has been a private, Christian High School for young people since it was started in 1906 with Mr. Lampke as principal for a year Mr. and Mrs. Groves took up then with others following, including Miss May Stoddard and Miss Jenkins and Mr. Herbert. It has stood for character building and excellent scholarship. Bible has been offered. Mrs. Emily Harding was librarian till she passed away not long ago. She had traveled widely as a missionary in China and India.

At least one thing was accomplished by the meeting at Thorsby Institute auditorium last Friday night, the people see that there is a real need for Thorsby Institute. What are we going to do about it?

Higher Farm Profit Predicted For This Year

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers will find their net [illegible] four or five percent more than last year. And the increase will stem largely from federal [illegible] since prices, production, [illegible] will run about the same as [illegible] did last year.

A mid-year look at business and agriculture this week showed that agriculture is still not getting its share of the country's prosperity now enjoyed by business.

It should also be pointed out that Alabama farmers are not faring quite as well as other farmers. The state's May farm products price index was down two percent from May 1956, but the national price index for the same time was three points above May 1956. The index [illegible] commodities and services was up three per cent from May 1956. All important [illegible] except fertilizer have increased in price during the year. So at midyear business generally is running about five percent ahead of [illegible] farmers are still operating at 82 per cent of parity.

The bright spot on Alabama's farm [illegible] now selling at $20 per hundredweight. However, today's [illegible] are near their highest point [illegible] the year. It is predicted that cattle and dairy prices will hold up fairly well the rest of the year.

But, poultry and egg prices don't look too good, although egg prices should improve a little bit later on. And broiler prices will continue standing about level with last year's prices or maybe slightly higher.

If delays make you NERVOUS try our prompt, efficient REPAIR SERVICE. Your watch is our business!

A traveling salesman was Harry G. Blowe,
Who could sell ice cubes to an eskimo,
But he fell for a line slicker than his,
From a new car salesman—wow! what a whiz!
The car had style—years out of date,
The features were new—back in '48!
Harry's still smiling, the tears hardly show,
But how he wishes he could get back his dough!

Moral: Don't get "bargain-talked" into yesterday's styling and features!

Like a lot of people, Harry was looking for a "good buy" in a new car. But no car is a bargain if it's outmoded before you drive it a mile. For the same money, Harry could have stepped up to a dashing Swept-Wing Dodge—so new it actually obsoletes other cars in its field. Obsoletes their high, boxy design with the low, low look of tomorrow, Obsoletes their old-fashioned features with such advances as Torsion-Aire Ride, Push-Button TorqueFlite and Total-Contact Brakes. So don't do what Harry did—please. See your Dodge dealer today.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

"Skeeter" Stokes is back in town after a ten-day trip to Fort Walton for some fishing and recreation. A fellow who used to know "Skeeter" a long time ago in Birmingham tells us this story about him. Seems that when he was in grammar school the teacher had called for a sentence using the word "beans". The response was rapid. The first pupil to raise his hand said: "My father grows beans". "My mother cooks beans," said another pupil. Then "Skeeter" popped up, "We are all human beans."

Glen Bashore didn't get to eat hot dogs and hamburgers with the Queen of England, but think of the sights he is seeing over there. London, Dublin, Paris, with the Royalty of Europe entertaining. It's very doubtful if Glen will know any of his old friends after he gets back to Clanton. He has brought a distinct honor to his home town in being elected President of the Alabama Plaintiff's Lawyers Association and we congratulate him.

One of the best vacation cards we have received came from Clyde Mims while he was vacationing in the Smoky Mountains. The card read: "Ben, if my appetite holds out and my money gives out, this brute had better stay out of my way". The post card had the picture of a big black bear on it.

Young Isaac stood in line at the public library to draw out a book. When his time came he asked respectfully, "Please give me Miss Alcott's Jew book." The young lady looked puzzled. "A book by Miss Alcott?" she asked. "Yes, her Jew book," insisted Isaac. "I'll read you over some of the titles of her books and perhaps you will know which you want when you hear it," said the Miss. Patiently she began, "Little Women, Little Men, Under the Lilacs, Rose In Bloom—"Wait, that's it," cried Isaac, "Rosenbloom."

$20,000 Switchboard Added To Local Telephone Exchange

The Southern Bell Telephone Company has just completed installation of a $20,000 switchboard addition to keep pace with the increase in the number of Clanton telephone subscribers.

I. M. Commander, Clanton manager for the firm, said the addition will allow several hundred subscribers to be provided service when requested.

Chilton Baptists Plan Church Music Course

During the second week of August (12th-16th) the Baptists of the Chilton-Unity Association will be sponsoring an Associational Church Music Clinic. The purpose of such a clinic, which is a new effort to the Baptists of this area, is to offer a condensed period of training to the music leadership of the Baptist Churches.

The plans for such a clinic were brought before the Chilton-Unity Association Executive Council at one of its regular meetings last spring and were unanimously approved at that time.

Mr. William Vessels, Minister of Music at First Baptist Church in Clanton, was elected as Chairman of the Associational Church Music School.

George Koski, Director of the Department of Music of Howard College in Birmingham, one of the state's Baptists schools, will head the faculty for the clinic.

Mr. Koski is well-known as being Conductor of the Howard College A Capella Choir.

Koski will teach a class in Music Fundamentals and Sight-Singing. This class will be geared to meet the needs of the average church member who enjoys singing, but who has had no training of any kind in music.

There will be three other classes offered in addition to the one taught by Koski.

Gospel Song and Hymn Playing is to be taught by Mr. Wayne Vaughan, a Baptist State Music Worker. This class is for the pianists of the churches or anyone interested in learning to play hymns.

Mrs. Erle Ellis, a local teacher of piano and voice will be the instructor of a class in Vocal Technique.

A course in Song Leading will be offered by Mr. William Vessels.

The Clinic, which will be held at First Baptist Church, Clanton will begin each evening, August 12th-16th, with a class period at 7:00 p.m.

This will be followed at 8:15 p.m. by a Clinic Choir Rehearsal, in which all the classes will participate. The Clinic Choir will be under the direction of Mr. Koski.

Purpose of the Clinic Choir is to survey a wealth of new choir music which can be used easily in all churches.

There will be a registration fee of $3.00 per person for everyone age 13 or above. This will cover the expense of text books, music, and incidental items connected with the school.

Last Call For 4-H Camp Rotary

Monday morning, August 5th, at 8:30 activities at the County Agent's office will be numerous.

Approximately 100 Chilton County 4-H boys and girls, along with their parents, will assemble there before departing for a 3-day camping period at Camp Rotary, near Wetumpka.

This group will represent every community in the County according to Assistant County Agent Sellers and is made up primarily of hard-working farm boys and girls.

Some of the camp activities which the boys and girls will participate in are: swimming (special instructions), canoeing, fishing, diving, softball, hiking, nature studies, tennis and many others.

Mr. Sellers says there are facilities for approximately 10 more campers, and suggests that parents of 4-H Club members make necessary arrangements between now and Monday morning.

Cost of the camp is $10.50, including everything. You'll also need two sheets, pillow and pillow case, towels, bath cloth, soap, tooth brush and paste and any other personal articles you may need or think you will need.

The campers will return to the County Agent's office on Thursday morning, August 8th around 11:00 o'clock. Parents note this and be on hand to take them home.

PHONES IN MAPLESVILLE DECREASE OVER MONTH

The number of telephones serving Maplesville at the end of June had dropped below the previous month's total, according to Commander.

The company's monthly station report shows a total of 446 telephones here as of June 30th. The May report discloses a total of 447. The loss for the month was 1 telephone.

It was expressed that the one month decrease should not be construed to mean that the community's growth is nearing it's peak.

Similar small monthly decreases are recorded once or twice yearly in small exchanges where station activity does not fluctuate much from month to month.

At the beginning of the month, the company had five requests on file for higher grades of service and 34 applications for new service. In the latter group all applicants were in rural areas.

Mr. Lester Pate, operator of the Pate Garage in Jemison had his faith in human nature restored, or at least renewed one day last week. As he entered his garage he found a note which read: "Dear sir, we ran out of gas, so we entered your garage, threw the switch and helped ourselves. Thank you. Here is $2.00." Childress Finds Way To Better Tomatoes

Recent reports from Charlie Childress to Assistant County Agent have confirmed the old opinion that "hard work never hurt anybody".

On the contrary, Childress, through his new program this year has produced double county average tomato yield on his four acre plot.

And here's why:

By increasing fertilizer rates, turning green manure crop, subsoiling and adding chicken house litter. That's his secret.

According to Childress' statement, in pre-setting applications and split applications throughout the growing season, approximately 22½ tons of chicken house litter and the following per-acre applications of mineral fertilizer produced outstanding tomato yields.

Mineral fertilizer applications totalled actual plant food equivalent to the following:

113 pounds Nirogen, applied in three different applications. (The last application applied at first cultivation.) A total of 162 pounds of P2O5 in three different applications, and 294 lbs. of K2O applied in three separate applications.

The application of above fertilizers and addition of other special practices applied to tomatoes on the Childress farm has resulted in a per-acre production of more than double the local average production.

Mr. Childress' field is continuing to produce tomatoes and, to date he has sold more than 1500 12-quart market baskets of quality tomatoes.

THE MAN WHO is all wrapped up in himself makes a sorry looking package.

LOOK OUT that the man who sets the pace isn't travelling in the wrong direction.

IF YOU FIND a man who is smart enough to beat the other fellows game, he is too smart to play it.

MORE THAN likely the man who wants to give you all the inside information—doesn't know what's going on inside.

WHAT THE WORLD NEEDS is some way for a man to insure his good resolutions against breakage.

MORE AND MORE speed is demanded by people seeking rapid transit in the pursuit of happiness.

THE MAN WHO knows when to keep his mouth shut should be given a medal for having so much self control.

THE CHICKEN that crossed the road to get on the other side, found the going no smoother, the bugs no fatter, nor the grass any greener than it was around it's own back yard.

REALIZATION AT LAST----

AFTER MANY, MANY years of planning and working the Mayor and City Council are at last realizing the dream of a sewage disposal plant for Clanton.

We say many, many years because this is not the first Mayor and Council that has had to wrestle with this problem. This is the Mayor and Council that are going to get it done.

Lack of a sewage disposal plant here has been a blot on the City for years and as this newspaper has said many times before, as bad as we need other things, due to the nature of the project, this is by far the most important—our City's health demands it.

May we congratulate the Mayor and Council on their work in this matter to date and assure them the citizens of Clanton are behind them in their efforts.

The WRONG Answer----

THE LEGISLATOR WHO HAS undertaken to dissolve one of Alabama's counties because of the colored population is off on the wrong foot. True, maybe something needs doing, but wrecking a county isn't the answer.

We cannot tear up every county in the State of Alabama because we wish to change the voting status of a few of her citizens, be they black or white.

Surely we can come up with an answer to our problems without wrecking the State to do it. The results of such a move are too far reaching and involves too many angles to be plausable.

DAWN'S EARLY LIGHT----

IT WILL BE RECALLED that when the going got rough on the Civil Rights bill, he President disavowed any thought of calling out the troops to enforce its provisions—as provided for in the vicious Sectin III which has since been thrown out. In fact the President said he was more concerned about protecting the right to vote, and indicated he would sign most anything that might be face-saving.

Although restricted at this writing to a voting rights measure, the bill still authorizes the Attorney General to go into Federal courts to ask injunctions against registration or election officials charged with interfering with the voting rights of others. Failure to respect such an injunction could then bring trial by the Federal judge without a jury, and fine or imprisonment for contempt.

The bi-partisan forces, both South and North, who defeated Part III have expressed confidence in securing a jury trial amendment, and Washington observers are in general agreement that if this happens there will be no filibuster, the bill will be passed and the President will have something to sign.

We do not quite see, however, why the defenders of states rights should quit the battle after prevailing thus far. Even a Pyrrhic victory is a psychological gain, and there should be no quarter given on Federal encroachment.

Especially at a time when the tide seems to be turning in the long, losing battle to retain the form of government that courageous ancestors gave into our keeping.

THE CONSTITUTION: "FUNDAMENTAL. . . SUPREME LAW OF OUR LAND!

Route Five
Clanton, Alabama
July 28, 1957

Dear Editor,

As you know, I am making an endeavor to acquaint the American people with the contents and meaning of the Constitution of the United States. Recent surveys have revealed the fact that a very small percentage of the American people, (adults as well as children), have any intelligent knowledge of the Constitution. Our boys come back from all parts of the world, and tell us that foreigners all around the world, know more about the Constitution of the United States than they do. This is adeplorable condition, and we, as United States Citizens should be ashamed of the fact.

These service men, and all officials, Legislators both national and State, executive and judicial, from the President down, are bound by oath or affirmation, to the best of their ability, support, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States. I wonder how many, when they raise their right hand, and swear by all that they consider Holy, to support this Constitution, know what it is all about.

My guess is, they are few. They give it no thought, either before or after.

The Constitution, is the Fundamental, as well as the Supreme law of our land. We teach our children to respect and honor our flag. Why should we not teach them to respect and honor our Constitution as well? In my opinion the Constitution is of much more importance than the flag, yet it is sadly neglected, in our schools, and everywhere else. It is simply passed as a matter of course. The consequences are, hardly two persons out of one hundred know anything about it. Quote some parts of the Constitution to some people, and they think you are quoting Communist or subversive propaganda.

I would like to see every child in America, old enough to read have a copy of the Constitution.

If we do not teach our children to have respect for our Constitution, how can we expect them to have any respect for any other laws we may make? I have made arrangements, whereby I can supply these booklets at 20c for single copies, 10 or more 15c each and special lower prices to organizations, or others who wish to help put them in circulation

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

By "TUCK"

One going the rounds this week has to deal with a practical joker. . . who is now kicking himself. This particular fellow, as Reese Mims tells it, was going through the woods and saw a buzzard circling overhead. Soon he noticed the bird lighted and he went to investigate. He found a nest with two eggs in it. He decided it would be a humdinger of a joke if he carried the eggs home to his wife and told her they were turkey eggs. So, that's what he did. He took them home, told his wife they were turkey eggs and to hatch them out. He forgot about it then, figuring to enjoy himself later when the "turkeys" hatched out. One day, not long after, our hero asked his wife about the eggs that were hatching and she very casually replied, "Oh those, I cooked those for your breakfast the morning after you brought them in, why?" The way of a practical joker is painfully unpractical. And let that be a lesson to you, you "buzzard".

Report from Washington

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Blocks And Brickbats Aimed at Nations Schools

Realizing the critical need for classrooms in Alabama, as well as throughout our nation, I had hoped a school construction measure might become law that would provide funds for needed classrooms, but, at the same time, would also incorporate reasonable guarantees against federal interference with our present system of schools. Unfortunately for the children of this nation, House debate last week on the school construction bill again emphasized the fact that advocates of integration have every intention of blocking, if possible, the expenditure of federal funds for segregated Southern schools.

Negro Rep. Adam Clayton Powell was not present this year to offer his amendment specifically prohibiting the use of school construction funds by states whose schools remain segregated, but a similar amendment was offered by Rep. Wainright of New York. I voted against the Wainright amendment which was adopted by a teller vote of 136 to 105. With the Wainright amendment attached, I joined with the overwhelming majority of Southern congressmen in voting against the bill.

CHANGE IN TACTICS—

While several who were prominent last year in their support of the Powell amendment indicated a change in tactics, it was obvious their goal was the same. Rep. James Roosevelt of California stated that he would not support the Wainright amendment although he had previously supported the Powell amendment. He implied, however, that similar amendment was being readied that could be attached later to the actual appropriation bill.

In another about-face, Negro Rep. Charles Diggs of Michigan also opposed the Wainright Amendment. Diggs stated: "It should be obvious that I would not take this stand were I not convinced there were other adequate remedies to correct the problem aimed at in this amendment."

Powell, who didn't even bother to make an appearance last week, was reliably reported to be vacationing on the French Riviera.

SAME PURPOSE—

While it was obivous, then, that some members of the House of Representatives had abandoned their efforts to restrict only to integrated school systems the construction funds provided for in the authorization bill, it was evident to many observers that those same members were convinced that their purpose would finally be accomplished by later legislation, executive order, or court injunction. Most Southerners, including myself, regretfully were inclined to agree.

It should be apparent to the most casual observer that the people of Alabama have no intention of integrating the schools of our State.

Therefore, I could not vote for the authorization of school construction funds that would be collected in part from the taxpayers of Alabama when I sincerely believed those funds would never be returned to Alabama for the construction of our schools.

We will show our ignorance. We saw some things down at the zoo in Oak Park Sunday afternoon that we haven't figured out yet. We all just called them mistakes, but they looked rather insulted. They looked sorta like a chicken who didn't know how to stop growing feathers. Man, that was the thickcoatedest bird we ever saw. (A real, honest to goodness chicken plucker would have had a ball with this character). He had feathers even on his feet and down his beak. We thought the first one we saw was unavoidable, but then we saw another just like it. They're a breed alright. . . of what we don't know.

Some Things You Didn't Know——

The Enormity Of Our Hospitals, Their Services

The ratio of hospital admissions to population in the continental United States outstepped the total population increase in the 11-year period 1946-1956, according to the annual report on hospital statistics published recently in the Guide Issue of Hospitals, Journal of the American Hospital Association.

Admissions to hospitals of all types in 1956 were 22,089,719, or 132 per thousand population. In 1946 the rate was 112 per thousand population. Had the ratio of admissions to population remained constant at the 1946 level, there would have been only 19 million admissions in 1956, rather than the actual 22 million reported. Over the 11-year period, the number of admissions climbed 41 per cent, and from 1955 to 1956, nearly 5 per cent.

BIRTHS IN 1956—

The number of hospital births reported in 1956 was 3,491,141, an increase of 64 per cent over 1946 but only 1 per cent above the 1955 figure. Nearly 7 2per cent of the total hospital births in 1956 were in short-term nonprofit hospitals, while 18 per cent were nonfederal governmental hospitals, almost 6 cent in proprietary hospitals 4.5 per cent in federal hospit the Association's statistics show

Assets for the 3,165 nonpro short-term hospitals in the con nental United States totaled alm $6 billion. These hospitals almost $3 billion for patient care 1956, a rise of 223 per cent fr 1946 to 1956, and 9 per cent in last year. Payroll expense wa most $2 billion.

Nonprofit short-term hospital 1956 spent $24.99 per day to c for each patient, an increase of per cent from the 1946 figur $10.04. The rise from the 1955 el of $24.15 was a little over 3 cent.

Full-time personnel employed all hospitals totaled 1,374,704 in 1 an increase of 66 per cent in years and nearly 6 per cent in last year of the period.

In all hospitals in 1956, there w an average of 101 personnel 100 patients.

Short-term nonprofit hosp had 213 personnel per 100 pati in 1956.

After 3 Year Struggle Chilton's Blood Program Still In Unhealthy Stat

During the past three years the local chapter of the American Red Cross and the citizens of Chilton County have struggled to keep alive the Blood Program and its valuable abilities.

Again this year, July 16th, Chilton County fell behind in its quota by donating only 104 pints. The Red Cross is more than grateful for these donations, but the fact remains that the program is in danger of extinction in this County unless proper assistance is given, and soon.

130 pints was our quota, so we didn't miss it far, but it was far enough to further endanger the program.

We will not go into detail explaining the vital functions of the program, but will generalize it into a selfish category by saying that the value of the program would be seen by you, were you to need its life-giving assistance. That's enough said. It holds the same value to each of us.

If you are interested in hel yourself, your family and friends contact the local Red C Chapter and see what you can personally.

RED CROSS THANKS THOSE WHO HELPED

"The Chilton Chapter of Amer Red Cross would like to take opportunity of thanking all vo teers who assisted in any wa the local Blood Center during blood collection July 16th. WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

BY C WILSON HARDE

There are growing signs that Congress is growing rather tired of the State Department attempting to run so many affairs of government.

* * *

In fact, it might well be possible that in the course of events, Congress will go to work on some very substantial curtailments of State Department authority.

A case in point comes from California where the cultivation of some 500,000 acres of grapes is an important bloc in that State's economy. About half of these grapes go into the making of wine. Wine is also produced in other states such as Ohio and New York.

C. W. Harder

Now the advertising and promotion of wines varies in each state, according to local laws. But in addition the Federal government, through the Alcohol Tax Unit, also exercises authority over the content of advertising copy in wines.

For many years the fiction has been built up in this country that no wines produced in America can equal those produced in Europe. This was never too much of a problem until the past few years, when European nations, especially France, taking advantage of the low tariff structure on wines, started depressing the market by constantly increasing shipments of wine into the U. S.

Now it is important to bear in mind that France is almost drowning in wine, while production of milk suffers. Yet, a French alcohol trust, which virtually dominates the French government, forces the French government to keep hands off, othe than produce a subsidy.

But a lot of inferior Frenc wine has and is being dumpe on the American market done u in fancy packages and sold ruinous low prices.

Out in California, the grap growers and wine makers, mo of them small operators, decide to combat this by holding ov the country wine tastings. Ex perts, and others, have give both the best of California win and the best of foreign win blind tastings.

In a majority of cases, the ve dict has been in favor of Cal fornia wines, sometimes by ratio of 3 to 1.

But hardly had the first these verdicts been render than the Alcohol Tax Unit, know as ATU, issued an edict that domestic wine advertising coul in any way make use of the re sults of these tests. In othe words, these small California op erators are forbidden by gover ment fiat to make mention the excellence of their produc as compared to imports.

No one knows exactly just ho the ATU came to issue such order, but it is rumored arou Washington that foreign interes first made some pretty strenuou protests to the State Dept.

Apparently, after rummagin around, State Dept. found it ha not authority to stop America from putting forth the trut about their products. But the knew the fellows that could.

Thus, it is felt around Wa ington that it is a pretty sure that State Dept. conferred wi ATU and out of these cozy litt talks came this order.

* * *

And this is just but one many, many incidents that getting Congress more than little irked with the State Dep

TEA-TIME - ALL THE TIME

July 1-31 is National Iced Tea Month, sponsored by the Tea Council of America. In questioning ladies around the community I find that most all of them make their tea by steeping bulk or tea bags in hot water, sweeten the brew while hot, then dilute. One lady says she adds a tiny pinch of soda to the steeping tea, causing the leaves to open and does not let it steep quite the usual five [illegible]

At a tea party recently, the hostess used a sprig of mint inserted in a slice of lemon in the tea glass. July may officially be tea time, but August and the rest of the year are good months for it, too.

Know Your Fishing Grounds And Boating Traffic Laws

By R. L. "Dick" Scott

A casual observer at most any of the boat docks or gathering places for boating enthusiasts easily can tell that most of us are unfamiliar with existing water traffic laws.

The U. S. Coast Guard's "Motorboat Safety Issue" explains rules relating to navigable waters quite clearly in a recent featured article. Do you know that the next time you go out in your boat, you will be on navigable waters of your State or on navigable waters of the United States or the high seas? Each type of water has its own traffic laws.

You can tell which type waters you sail if you remember:

1. Where the waters start and end inside a State's boundaries, the waters are navigable waters of that state.
2. Where the waters start or end outside the State, touch another state or country, empty into the ocean, or join waters that run into another state, another country or the ocean, the waters [illegible] navigable waters of the United States.
3. Where the waters are open waters of the Atlantic or Pacific Oceans, or the Gulf of Mexico, the waters are high seas.

The Coosa and Tallapoosa Rivers are navigable waters of the United States, and federal boating traffic laws are in effect. If you are a boat owner or operator, you should know the Rules of the Nautical Road. You can get a pamphlet, CG-160, which explains the traffic laws of most Alabama's larger streams, by writing Commandant (CHS), U. S. Coast Guard, Washington 25, D. C.

The past week's fishing has been some more of the same. It's slow and spotty.

Mr. Dan Stokes, Lake Jordan, had good luck fishing with large minnows from the pier in front of his cottage. Mr. Stokes fished on bottom in about twenty feet of water and hooked exceptionally large crappie and bluegills. He was so excited however, that he did not enter [illegible] his catch in the contest.

[illegible] Mike Mitchell, age 15, Sylacauga [illegible] [illegible] Lake Hill[illegible], reports that Mike used a [illegible] lure to beat several bass from Elkahatchee Creek, Lake Martin.

Mike's best were a 4 pound 12 oz. smallmouth and a 6 pound 2 oz. largemouth bass. A few days later P. J. Phillips' Paint and Tackle, Sylacauga, reports that Mike had done it again, at the same spot. This time it was a sure enough whopper of a bass weighing 8 pounds even.

You too, can be a Whopper Catcher, but you've got to work for them this time of year. Come out and try your luck. The outing will do you good.

CHIEF ALAPOCO SAYS: At one time or another we have all used the expression "the more the merrier". This might be true at a party, but it's not true when you're talking boating. Seats do not indicate capacity. Two or three adults may be a full load under many conditions. Do not exceed the load limit of your three trips and have everybody arrive safely than to overload the boat

Wrestling---

Two Of The All - Time Great Old-Timers Here August 10th

The night of August 10th is the date set for the next big wrestling matches in Clanon. The ime will be 8:15 p.m.

Taking he main event spot on the card on this date will be a Tag Team Match between Charlie Keene and Nick Carter, two of the best old-timers in the business against Tory amato and Pete Peterson.

If you were present at the most recent match here, you know you need no introduction to three of these men, who took part in one of the roughest bouts ever to be held here. A three way challenge came from this mix-up with Keene wanting a crack at Peterson, Yamato wanting Keene and White wanting them both.

White will not appear on August 10th, so Nick Carter is taking his place.

Carter, it is said, offered to put up $500 as proof that he would appear, since there are hard feelings between he and Yamato.

Tickets are now on sale at Morrison's Furniture Company. Get yours today.

The complete card will be announced in the News next week.

Engagements Announced From Thorsby Institute

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Margaret Ann Faulk to Mr. Elton Richard King, Jr. The marriage will be an event of August 16th at the First Baptist Church of Foley, Alabama.

Announcement has been made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Marguerite Perry of Clanton to Aaron Maurice Thornton of Birmingham and Clanton. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. R. G. Perry of Macon, Georgia. The wedding will take place August 15th, at the home of the bride-elect's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles May of Union Springs. The bride-to-be is the sister of W. A. Perry.

The Rev. N. A. Long has been called to his son, Herbert, who is at the hospital in Tallassee

It is hoped that the money will be forthcoming in reference to the campaign of the trustees and that it will interest others. Quite a number of the Alumni have spoken about the future of the school. More than one has written about the Institute, expressing their feeling for it.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Maddox are visiting their son, David, who is stationed at Fort Gordon, Georgia.

Vacation Bible School And Cemetery Clean. At Poplar Springs

By Dorothy Hill

We were disappointed this past Sunday when so many of our people were absent. If we expect to reach our goal of eighty, we have certainly got to work harder [illegible] people to come. Therefore, we urge everyone who possibly can to invite someone to Sunday School sometime this week.

The attendance for Training Union is still too low, but we hope that it will soon increase. We also want to invite everyone who has not been coming to Training Union to start next Sunday night for your own good and for the glory of our church.

The message Sunday morning by Rev. Hornsby was "The Risen Christ". Sunday evening the message was from the fifth and sixth chapters of Isaiah.

We want to remind everyone of our Vacation Bible School the week of August 12-16. Our paster's wife, is the principal for our school and she gives everyone who can a special invitation to be present each morning from 8:00 to 12 noon.

We also request that you remember and pray for our Revival which will be the week following Vacation Bible School.

We have two Saturday nights of our Study Course on the Baptist Doctrine. We hope that you will not miss these two nights for we are sure that you will receive a blessing from attending this course.

There will be a working at the cemetery for the purpose of cleaning it, Saturday morning, August 3rd. Keep this date in mind. We will also clean the church and church yards. Come as early as possible, but come.

We have decided to have Family Night every Wednesday night after Prayer Meeting, so remember the change and come to both.

Exciting... Thrilling... Fun-Packed Vacation

That seems to be the general opinion of the J. Carl Glass family of Jemison who have recently returned from a vacation trip to Florida and Cuba.

The Glass's so enjoyed their trip that they wanted to share a few of he highlights of it with readers of the News.

Their first sightseeing jaunt was made in old St. Augustine, Fla. where they visited the Fountain of Youth, the oldest schoolhouse in the U. S. (built before the Revolutionary War), the oldest masonry fort in the U. S. and Potter's Wax Museum. They also visited the old slave market and many other places of interest in beautiful St. Augustine.

Near Veto Beach, Florida they visited the famous McKee Jungle Gardens where tropical plants and exotic flowers and trees grow in abundance. Mrs. Glass informs us that "orchids (mind you) grow wild on the trees. Some of the lady tourists probably go "wild" looking at them.

A cruise around Biscayne Bay aboard the Island Queen was the top spot at Miami, along with a visit to the fabulous $16,000,000 Jas. Deering estate, Villa Vizcaya, once a private residence, but now a museum.

Along "Millionaires' Row" they viewed the former estate of the late William Jennings Bryan and many other celebrities of today and yesterday.

From Miami, they drove to Key West following the overseas highway. They spent several days there.

From Key West they flew via "Q" Airways to Havana, Cuba. While here, according to our report, every day and night was filled with fun and excitement. Included in their agenda was a trip to Sloppy Joe's and The Tropicana, two of the most famous nightclub restaurants in that part of the world.

Other places of interest on the sightseeing program included a tour of a cigar factory where Hav[illegible] Cigars are rolled by hand. Also, Morro Castle, the Capitol, the Presidential Palace, Cristobal Colon cemetery, renowned for its many marble mausoleums and handsome monuments, Our Lady of Mercy Cathedral, and many others.

Havana is truly a city of contrasts with ultra-modern apartment and office buildings rising above the ancient reminders of another era.

Returning to Key West, they drove north to the Tamiami Trail and west across the Everglades. They then followed the west coast to Punta Gorda. Leaving the coast, they drove inland to Lake Wales, where they visited Spook Hill, the Bok Singing Tower and the Great Masterpiece. They managed to see Cypress Gardens, also.

Last but not least was Silver Springs for a ride in the glass bottom boats and home through Panama City.

The Glass's should by now, be able to give elaborate testimonials on the beauty of the State of Florida and it is plain to see that they enjoyed their trip and missed nary a sight.

They are fortunate having made the trip. It is one they will remember for the rest of their days, and probably bring back rewarding reminders of a happy vacation, 1957.

EXTRA
CONCRETE INTERSTATE SYSTEM ROADS WILL Save Money FOR TAXPAYERS IN ALABAMA

Federal funds will pay 90% of the building costs of the great new National System of Interstate and Defense Highways. This state pays the other 10%—and pays all maintenance cost forever. That's why taxpayers favor the use of durable concrete for these roads. Concrete's maintenance costs are lower—much lower than the annual maintenance cost of the next most commonly built type pavement.

And since maintenance costs come out of your state's highway budget, the use of low-maintenance-cost concrete leaves more money in the highway fund to build other urgently needed new roads.

"Stars" Lose to Prattville; Tie Up Seasons Win; Losses 7 and 7

Special To The News
By B. B. Bates

PRATTVILLE 3 — CLANTON 2

Malcolm Esco, Prattville's diminutive southpaw interchanged a wide-sweeping curve ball with a very good sinker to edge out Clanton's Bobby Wyatt in a beautiful pitching duel at City Park Sunday afternoon.

For Wyatt, it was a heart-breaker, but the laurels of this game go to Esco who pitched so brilliantly all the way and deserved the win.

Each pitcher gave up 5 hits. Esco had 5 strike-outs and Wyatt 4.

The visitors scored twice in the 3rd on singles by Hull and Morrison combined with 4 Clanton errors.

The Stars plated one 3rd inning score on a double by J. P. Easterling and a Prattville error. Prattville scored their clincher in the 6th on a walk to Price and a two-baser by Hill. The Stars scored also in the 6th when Seales walked; Ellison was safe on an error. Minor sacrificed and Seales scored on Powell's in-field hit.

The Stars threatened in the 9th as Jerry Fulford led off with a pinch hit double. Wyatt sacrificed, but Esco would not be shaken.

Fulford was thrown out at the plate when J. P. Easterling hit back to Esco and then was forced at second on a ground ball hit to short by B. Easterling.

The two teams play again at Prattville Friday night August 23rd and at Clanton Sunday, August 25th

DEATON RANKS TOP AT HONDO

Word was received by us Wednesday from Mrs L. W. Deaton, Lay Dam Road, Clanton that her son, Marion Clyde Deaton has attained the very impressive distinction of being the highest ranking cadet at Hondo AFB, San Antonio, Texas.

"That makes him Cadet Group Commander,' said Mrs. Deaton, and "I'm mighty proud of him."

Deaton finished high school at CCHS with the Class of '52. He then attended Auburn for two years before going into the Air Force in '55.

He has been stationed at Chanute AFB, Eglin AFB and is now stationed at Hondo where he has 6 more weeks of his present training.

"Then he'll be home for a while," Mrs. Deaton proudly informed us.

Mrs. Deaton doesn't have to tell us the pride she feels, although we're sure it's different from ours. The "Commander" has been our closest friend for years and we're kinda proud of that fact, too.

Congratulations to "Pete" on a job well done; one which we knew he could do all along.

SHOULD THROW IT OUT!----

THE MIDNIGHT ROLL call vote of the Senate, 51 - 42 completed the job of extracting the most vicious fangs from the Administration's Civil Rights bill. In passing the jury trial amendment after previously disposing of the vicious Part III, "call-out the-troops" provisions, the Senate has also provided a filibuster.

But it is still a bad bill inasmuch as it compromises the dignity of the states, shoves the federal foot a little farther into the community door and will be more of a deterrent to peace and order than a help. The North will discover this as quickly as the South and our best hope is that enough of the original supporters of this arrogance are sufficiently discouraged by the remnants of their once bold bill, to join the opponents in killing the whole thing.

Out of 203 bills backed by the Eisenhower Administraton only 32 have been passed and our prediction is that this is another that will fall by the wayside.

We believe that the voters in the South are awakening to the fact that the democratic Party is the only Party for the South and even though at times, members within her ranks do not see eye to eye, that you will concede that the only good that has ever come to the South has come through the Democratic Party.

NAMES IN THE SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Hoyt Freeman, W. A. Williams, Reedie Taylor, and Thomas Hayes have combined their Pensacola Bahia grass. All these are cooperators of the North Central Soil Conservation District. Their seed will be planted on their farms and the surplus will go into the trade channels.

M. A. Padgett, a cooperator of the North Central Soil Conservation District, is now in the process of constructing two farm ponds. These ponds will be used for spray water. Mr. Padgett will seed two field borders and five more waterways this fall.

Quinton and Robert Cummings of the Isabella Community, have revised their Soil and Water Conservation Farm Plan.

E. E. Edwards, of Enterprise Community, J. R. Thompson of Mt. Pleasant Community and Joseph Glenn of Cooper have asked the District to assist them in laying out new terracing systems for their farms.

J. H. Johnson is having land cleared for this fall's planting of Kentucky-31 Fescue and white clover. This Fescue-Clover pasture will be used as an insurance pasture in the dead of winter.

C. C. Cowgill and Grady Avent are preparing land to plant Pensacola Bahia grass. Mr. Cowgill's 20 acres will sod the fields that drain into his farm pond, and Mr. Avent's four additional acres makes him a total of 75 acres planted to Bahia this year.

GRAHAM HUNTER

Time For Trimming Is Now!

Demands for a drastic trimming of the record peacetime Federal budget have been pouring into Washington from all parts of the country for onths—but the prospects are that the shearing won' be nearly enough.

A persistent belief in the pleas and counter-demands of paternalistic Government, which would do all our thinking for us and keep us (in growing bondage, of course) from the cradle to the grave, is in large part responsible for the inaction of budget trimmers.

Only a drastic trmming of all Federal expenditures, together with the most prudent Federal budgeting in all areas, will make possible the reasonable reduction of taxes which is so vitally essential to the growth of business and a better life for us all. And the time for trimming is now!

IT'S MY OPINION----

We Are Farmers, And Our Values Are High

By Bob Tucker

It is not our desire to open old wounds, but we have something to say, and. . .

It's about the present strife between the so-called North and so-called South and their differences of opinion regarding racial barriers and freedoms. It is our continuously confirmed opinion that the North is fighting for something it obviously doesn't believe in: basically, the equality of the Negro.

We had occasion the other day to help a Negro in trouble. It wasn't much help mind you, but we did what we could with the same feeling that we would have had, had it been a white man, red man or what color. We feel the Negro would have done the same for us, and still would.

In the South, the feeling towards Negroes is usually "I have some friends that are colored" and that's about as far as they think about it. They are no more concerned with the Negro race in general than they normally would be about any other race. It's the exception, rather than the rule to find a white Southerner who "hates" Negroes. They don't hate Negroes for the same reason they don't hate white folks. Hating is not a part of us. We despise the extremists and the radicals and the mongers and the fanatics who cause all the strife, but they are of many colors, and many nationalities. We know of mean, ornery Negroes living right around us; they aren't worth a hill of beans. We seem to recollect a certain percentage of low caliber white folks too. And elsewhere, they might be red, yellow or any other color.

From the headlines of late from New York, Chicago, Detroit, and other cities of the North, the rule seems to be that the folks of different color don't get along to well.

Granted, the headlines play up the most sensational news, it can not be denied that racial strife is more evident in the North today than in the South.

It makes us wonder if those folks have it clear in their mind just what they're arguing over; "are they fer 'em, or a'gin 'em?"

City dwellers are different from rural folks in that they are pretty much used to the "take care of yourself" routine. We like our "quiet and sheltered" life here in the South and would appreciate keeping it that way.

Southern Hospitality, will take in anyone in need, but Southerners sheltered lives does not keep them from being "muy valiente" and they don't like being shoved, it ain't gentlemanly.

Time and again, voices ring "why doesn't the North clean itself up before pointing its finger?"

It's our opinion that the time has come for them to answer that question and so all can hear and be enlightened, "why don't they?

The so-called strife has changed our way of life hardly a whit. We were doing fine before and we're still doing fine. We still have some colored friends, and we're not "nigger lovers"; we still have white friends and we're not "nigger haters". In other words, the North, in stirring the brew, got things a little mixed up. They were all set to "whip the South again" and show 'em who was boss". Well, since the Civil War, the South has grown up; knows how to handle hot-heads and antagonists.

No, we're not going to let the mess destroy a single one of our friendships, be they white, black or what have you.

We of the South, love our way of life and love our friends. We will not let our way of life be changed, but neither will we let the hot breath of the devil that is voiced so loudly destroy friendships that we have made over the years, simply by saying "something's going to happen.

We aren't blind, but we tread lightly. How big a stick we carry is evidenced by what "he" looks like "who" jumps on us.

The Southern way of life is indivisible, because the people make it so. When they stop loving it, it will dissolve, perhaps, but not until. And that will be a cold, cold day. . .

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

By "TUCK"

Mr. P. R. Griffin of Maplesville, Rt. 1 came in to subscribe one day last week and never having had the pleasure, we ask him his name. He replied: "P. L. Griffin, and I'm the meanest man in Chilton County." Taken back a little at this dubious distinction, we politely asked (from our perch on the light fixture) if it were a reputation or if it were true.

"It's the truth," says he, swinging at us with his cane, "I am the meanest man in Chilton County". Well, we've always wanted to meet a celebrity, so we can now say we've done just that. Now if we can just get down off this dern rafter!

About the tom-foolest way we've heard yet of spending the taxpayers is the legislation proposed by the Senators from Lee and Cullman counties concerning the size of prices in front of gas stations. They propose to make the fractions in the prices at least "half" as large as the figure so passing "bargain seekers" won't think gasoline is 29c when it's almost 30c. These gentlemen probably have good reason for this, we wouldn't know. We are of the opinion however, that much more good could be accomplished by these gentlemen through some other legislation. The fella who is "frugal" enough to hunt the bargains can read those signs a mile off. In other words, senators, there aren't enough of those kind of penny-pinchers around, so legislate something else. Positive proof of the lack of "tightwads" in our State is evidenced by the actions of some of our legislators and what the people will let them get away with when it comes to spending their money. There apparently is no lack of those of us who don't give a continental, what they do with our money!

Try not to spill any milk today and you won't have to cry over it tomorrow.

The only thing in the world harder to figure out and more unpredictable than our wife and daughter is a baseball score.

We knew it would happen; a bee line is not what we thought at all. It says here, a bee zig zags. Ain't that a deflating bit-o-news!

"HERE WE REST"

There is absolutely nothing to top the grandeur of the State of Alabama and verification of its grandeur can be seen in Montgomery in the form of the State Capitol, at night. We'd like nothing better than to have all our friends (and enemies) go down and "casually" observe it. Don't rush now, or you'll spoil the effect. Just mosey around. It's a grand feeling to know it sort of belongs to you, and vice-versa. It's worth much more than the trip down. Be proud of your State and its Capitol and stand up and say so. Say "it's mine."

AND WHAT OF CHILTON COUNTY. . .

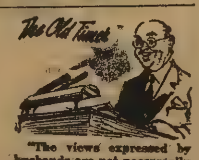
STACKS OF TOURIST INQUIRIES are swamping the State Publicity Bureau's offices in Montgomery. "The number of people from all over the U. S. and Canada, answering our State tourist advertising, has increased more than 300 per cent this year," State Publicity Director Geoffrey Birt reports. Birt is shown here with Mrs. Delores Moore of the Publicity Bureau staff, examining some of the mail.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District



"The views expressed by husbands are not necessarily those of the management!"

Tide turns on Civil Rights

The so-called civil rights bill continued last week to hold the spotlight in Washington. While Senators debated the measure before packed galleries, the entire issue received wide coverage through press, radio and television. As the general public became better informed on the subject, several important Senate amendments were adopted. The most publicized, of course, was the jury trial amendment which passed by a vote of 51-42.

ACTION UNCERTAIN

There is every indication the amended bill will receive Senate approval this week. If so, the measure will be returned to the House of Representatives. The House can either accept the Senate amendments or send the bill to a House-Senate conference committee. Should the House accept the Senate version of the civil rights bill, it will then go to President Eisenhower for his approval or veto. In the event the measure is sent to a conference committee, it is extremely doubtful it will be passed before Congress adjourns. The action the House of Representatives will finally take is still uncertain at the present time as both sides are continuing to maneuver for position.

KEATING'S REMARKS

At the invitation of Joseph McCaffrey, well-known television commentator, I appeared last week on his program, "Celebrity Parade", with Republican Representative Kenneth Keating of New York State. While I have strongly opposed the so-called civil rights bill, Congressman Keating has been one of the bills leading advocates. During the course of the program, Mr. McCaffrey asked Rep. Keating the position he would take in the event the Senate adopted a jury trial amendment. Keating indicated he would not only oppose such Senate action but would probably vote against the entire bill if a jury trial amendment was retained in it.

Should Congressman Keating follow such a course, he might find himself in the peculiar position of voting with Southern members of Congress against civil rights legislation.

In any event, most observers believe that the opponents of the civil rights bill are now in a more favorable position as a result of the Senate's action.

ADJOURNMENT UNCERTAIN

The adjournment date for Congress remains uncertain as the Senate must still consider a number o important measures. However, there is every indication we will be in Washington for several more weeks.

STATE HAS MADE It; WHAT OF OUR CHILTON COUNTY

As indicated in the picture abo Alabama is being noticed more an more as a tourist attractive sta and sightseers are coming from a over to see if we Alabamians ha all we claim to have

We have, and more

But in the midst of all this where does Chilton County stand when it comes to tourist attractions.

We are certainly not taking advantage of our opportunities

Now that the ball is rolling o County of Chilton should throw i its two cents (and more) and capitalize on the advertising and publ city that has caused this 300 perce rise in attention. And when w say capitalize, we mean make u of.

There are any number of sites around our County, the Turnaround in South Chilton and the Coosa River, to name only two, which could be possible development sites for the influx of tourist trade for which Alabama is destined next spring.

To put it bluntly, the flies a coming in swarms and we're sho of honey.

The combined efforts of Chilto Countians has now seen Industr in our County, of our own ma The tourist trade of today is on the greatest industries we cou possibly take part in and we're fa ing miserably short of what should be if we don't do what can to promote it locally.

Civic organizations, individual businesses, clubs, and everyone in Chilton County should comb their efforts in this cause w in the long-run will benefit eve man, woman and child in this loca

The potential of tourist trade unlimited, depending on the for sight of the people involved.

Development of some of our n tural scenic beauty and resour is the obvious answer and is impe ative if our County is to contin to prosper. A County with tour attractions, whether you like it not, is a wealthier county. Thi about it and talk with your neigh and then do something.

STRAWBERRY GROWERS SUFFERED THIS YEAR; BAD WEATHER, FACTOR

A..bama strawberry growers are ... urged to "stay in there and ... pitching" instead of plowing ... their patches. All signs are ... toward a more profitable ... next year.

In fact, it was declared this week that if growers do a good job with their berries next season they should be able to realize a good income from them.

Bad strawberry weather and low ...arket prices this summer dealt a ...couraging blow to Alabama farmers. A few are plowing up their ... and others are considering ... the same. It is believed that ...ices will be more favorable next ... Then, too, strawberry profits per acre generally run higher than the per-acre profits of some row crops.

This year's low market price resulted from the large storage holdings of frozen strawberries. But from all present indications this supply will dwindle by the time next year's berries hit the market.

Thus, an increase in berry profits is foreseen for 1958, with the demand for frozen berries continuing its steady growth.

The southern frozen berry pack is completed and runs 58 percent less than in 1956. A June estimate of the California frozen pack placed it at 48 percent less than last year. And a big part of this year's berry crop went to the fresh market.

Although most Alabama growers set strawberry plants in the spring, fall setting—November—is better. Fall-set plants receive plenty of rain in the winter, putting them in better shape to stand a dry summer. Then, too, they will produce some berries by the next picking season and the spring plants will not.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

With the costs of living showing consistent gains month after month, official Washington is becoming somewhat concerned over public clamour to do something about stopping inflation.

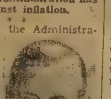
In fact, the Administration has said it is against inflation.

* * *



C. W. Harder

Of course, the Administra... also pro... d a large ... d budget.

...emingly, in ... viewpoint ... in seg... in gov... ent, it is ... other ... that ... about ...flation. The ... that all government is now ... a third of the total national income in taxes, promises to take more, does not seem to enter into their calculations.

It is interesting to note that in the first 11 months of the 1957 ... year the federal government spent almost $72 billion, while in first 11 months of 1956, total was barely $65 billion.

Thus, there is almost a $7 billion increase between the two periods. Now it is interesting to note that while official cry is that increased defense calls for increased expenses, only $3 billion more was spent by defense department, leaving $4 billion gobbled up by just general government, such as approximately 20% more paid out by federal employees retirement funds.

* * *

Foreign give aways continue to loom large in the budget. Without them, a substantial tax cut would be possible.

But it is interesting to note the type of organizations that band together to support foreign aid, and notice that they are the same vaguely defined outfits that have also sprung to action to testify on behalf of the proposed plan to give away atomic energy, and to support the International Atomic Energy Agency.

For example, the Cooperative League of the United States, an organization which encourages the growth of cooperatives to the detriment of private enterprise is in the forefront on all these drives. So is the Council for Social Action, American Association for the United Nations, and many other similar groups.

Needless to say, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the American Legion, have appeared on the negative side.

Thus, there is constantly in Washington, clamorous, and apparently well financed organizations, always all out for government to do anything that will contribute to inflation.

Whether their motives are ulterior, or based on soft-headedness, no one knows, nor does this make particular difference.

But it is significant that there are some organizations in Washington who continue to combat these "do-gooders."

One such group is the American Legion. Another is the nationwide organization of small businessmen who under the machinery of the National Federation of Independent Business, keep their Congressmen informed on their viewpoints.

In fact, it is often felt to be incredible by Washington observers that anything stops the noisy left wing fringes from securing complete socialization of the U.S.

After all, it is reputed that less than 10,000 communists brought about the complete upheaval of the old Russian government. And constantly increasing inflation, as Main Street independent businessmen know, is a sure way of changing any system.

Good Percentage of Ala. Farm Women Hold Outside Jobs

"HOUSEWIFE"—A TERM FAST CHANGING—FOR BETTER OR WORSE?

It says here, "about [illegible] every five Alabama [illegible] work in cities or towns [illegible] ney to raise their standard [illegible] ing and make rural life more pleasant. But for who? Her or the entire family?

It also says here, "Some of these women drive as much [illegible] 60 miles to and from work". That doesn't give "mom" much time for her family does it?

But let's not be objective [illegible] it, let's take it "cross section" like.

The average age of these women is the same as other working women—40 or there-abouts. These women hold down jobs in the city while their husbands run the farm.

On the other hand, wives of farmers working in the city must stay home and see to the farm.

This situation is generally accepted as "raising the standard of living, which it primarily does.

But what of the kids at home, [illegible] momma has to work 7 or 8 hours per day and then drive some 100 miles or better. Doesn't leave her much time for being a [illegible]

But, [illegible] women [illegible] mark what [illegible] earn [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] radio, a television set, [illegible] like that the family [illegible] able to afford otherwise.

All sorts of automatic [illegible] enables "mother" to work away from home, but what of her primary purpose, that of being a mother? Washers, dish washers, cookers, ironers, and the like all help speed mother's housework. And the meals, well, mother is helped greatly these days with the pre-cooked and partially prepared products on the market and all the "instant" mixtures that go into meals.

But, mother, what of dad and the young'uns?

Here's a point in their favor: Women in their forties with children either grown or almost grown find it easier to work than younger women. This is a point in [illegible] because it indicates [illegible] mothers with growing families [illegible] be "mothers" and housewives first.

All in all it's a good idea, [illegible] helping raise the standard of living. However, part of the standard of living is to bring the family up in the right way. This can only be accomplished by the combined efforts of man and wife and points up strongly to the fact, that "mother's" place is still, in the home; and [illegible] will never change.

Maine Sardine Industry

From April to December, great schools of silvery young fish invade the waters off Maine's coast. The Indians knew the delectable flavor of the meaty Maine Sardines and it is said that Captain John Smith recommended them to his fellow colonists as healthful and succulent fare.

With the building of the first sardine cannery in Eastport in 1873, the Maine folk began canning the fish in earnest. From one small factory grew a large and prosperous industry. Today, approximately forty factories dot the coast of Maine. The business of packing these flavorful little fish in their variety of sauces and oils is, to a greater or lesser degree, the livelihood of ten thousand people.

Try a can of these delicious fish, chock-full of flavor and nutrition.

ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

IT'S WONDERFUL TO BE HAPPY

There is a "drive-in" eating place in one of the southern states that is very popular. One big reason for its popularity is one of the curb boys who works there. People drive out of their way to come by to have a sandwich there, and he is always their favorite curb boy.

His employer said that he could not do without this Negro man. There is something about his attitude that is contagious. When he turns to walk toward you you feel better. He always has something happy to say and his smile and face are radiant. His love of life is so infectious that you can't help but get it into your own system because his entire life is colored with joy. Johnny has learned the secret of happiness and because of that, he makes other people happy. You have met people like him . . . they reach out with warmth and interest to someone else.

The "what am I getting out of this deal" philosophy will never work. The "me first" attitude only makes you sour—and others sour on you. "I am always right" won't work. It is much like the mother who was watching the parade. Her son got mixed up with his marching, and she turned to a neighbor and said, "Look! Everybody else is out of step but little Tommy."

Recently one of my friends was out driving. As he passed a truck he was forced to squeeze over against the truck because another car came out quickly from one of the side avenues. It irritated the driver of the truck so, that at his first opportunity, he rushed around my friend and forced him over towards the side of the road.

Up ahead was a traffic light and my friend stopped just behind the truck. He got out, walked up to the driver of the truck and what do you suppose he said?

"I am sorry, friend, for dashing over against you back there when that car came out from the side avenue. I want to apologize."

The truck driver answered quickly, "That's o.k. buddy; I acted like a heel."

Horns behind them began to blow because traffic piled up, but they took time to shake hands!

You can get along with other people. It is a must for everyone. It is important in your family and it is important in your relationship with others.

First, you must believe that others want to be friendly to you. And you must decide for yourself that others deserve your own good will. Then give it to them—and you will never lack for friends.

You want to be happy and so do I. In fact life is too short for anyone to cultivate unhappiness. But you will never be happy until you have learned to love your neighbor as yourself—meaning that you should treat your neighbor in the same way that you want him to treat you. This rule is without exception.

Therefore, put a song in your heart . . . a real tune in your whistle. Be friendly . . . be happy! God's for us and everything just has to come out "all right!"

RECOMMENDED CROPS FOR GOOD WINTER GRAZING

WHAT TO PLANT AND WHEN

County Agent M. R. (Red) Glasscock recently made the following recommendations for good winter grazing crops and also suggested best times for planting these cool-weather crops.

Combinations of vetch-oats and vetch-wheat are among Chilton's best crops for grazing, plus either hay or silage.

Vetch-oats or vetch wheat may be planted on a prepared seedbed, in row crop middles, or on an established sod, the farm agent says. If planted on sod, it is best to use a sod seeder. For fall or early winter grazing, plant on a well-prepared, firm seedbed.

The recommended planting times for Central Alabama is September 1-15. If using a sod seeder, plant about a month later.

Seed 20 pounds of Hairy vetch or 30 pounds of Willamette vetch plus either three to four bushels of oats or one and a half bushels of wheat per acre. Inoculate vetch seed according to manufacturer's directions.

Lime and fertilizer should be used according to soil test recommendations. If a soil test has not been made, several weeks ahead of seeding spread one ton of lime per acre on sandy soils and two tons on heavy soils if lime has not been applied in five years. Apply 350 pounds of 2-14-14 per acre at or before planting. Top-dress with 50 pounds of commercial nitrogen as soon as small grains are up to a stand; or apply 400 pounds of 4-12-12 at or before planting and top-dress with about 30 pounds of commercial nitrogen; or apply 600 pounds 8-8-8 per acre at planting and omit fall top-dressing. If the mixture is to be grazed to maturity or cut for hay or silage, repeat top-dressing in late February with 50 pounds of nitrogen per acre.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS
The Bible

. . . remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how He said, It is more blessed to give than to receive. — (The Acts 20, 35.)

It takes most of us at least half a lifetime to appreciate, through our own personal experience, the truth of the words of the Master. But what a blessed, full and useful life would result if we accepted His words in our youth, and lived the long years by them!

How engineers design modern concrete roads to save lives and money

Highway engineers design these four important features into the main roads they are building today to give highway users the utmost in safety, comfort and service.

Controlled access provides safe entry or exit from the road at periodic intervals while allowing continuous speed for through traffic.

No grade crossings and no stop lights! On modern highways all traffic on intersecting roads goes over or under the highway.

Wide median strips separate opposing streams of traffic. Result: no blinding lights, no danger of a head-on collision.

Wide traffic lanes allow you more room. And maximum safety results when the lanes are paved with concrete. Concrete is skid-resistant, wet or dry. Its light color provides the best night visibility. Concrete lasts longer, costs less to maintain, gives low-annual-cost service.

The 41,000-mile National System of Interstate and Defense Highways is scheduled to be built by 1972. When finished it will provide safer, faster, more comfortable travel for everyone.

MONEY AND BANKING

In Everyday Living

"CAN YOU MATCH THIS?" Thus, traditionally, the homemaker asks the housepainter, handing him a scrap of material. He will do his very best; but his version of a match may be worlds apart from hers. To avoid disappointment with the final result, many a homemaker now solves the color problem by choosing a premixed paint from among the many hues now available ... When it comes to the problem of financing home improvement work economically, many a local family solves that by borrowing at our bank. Why not talk over your project with us?

IT WOULD BE A SHOCK to discover that you had lost your wallet or purse, containing a good round sum of cash with which you were going to pay a bill. The odds would be against your ever seeing the money again! If, on the other hand, you had drawn a bank check to pay that bill and had lost it, you would still have recourse to a stop payment order. The order would describe the lost check fully and instruct your bank to refuse to pay it. There you have just one of the safety features of paying by check—and safety is just one of the advantages of a checking account!

Clanton "Stars" Leave Mark On Three Teams Over The Week-End

FALL UNDER STUNNING TEAMWORK BY "STARS"

Special To The News
By B. B. Bates

Clanton 13 - Hercules Pow. 3

A combination of excellent pitching, hard-hitting and fast fielding by the much improved Clanton "Stars" sent the Hercules Powder team limping back to Bessemer with a stinging 13 to 3 licking.

Jimmy Harper made himself a home in City Park in getting his first win for the "Stars". Harper gave up only 5 hits and struck out 9. While the curve balling left-hander was mowing down the "powdermen", his teammates paced by Jerry Fulford's 4 hits riddled the visitors pitching staff with 16 base hits. The "Stars" defense played the ball that they are capable of and manager Lamar Edwards was jubilant over the way his "Stars" handled the visitors in the unexpected Thursday night win.

Clanton 7 - Randolph 3

Richard Easterling pitched and batted the "Stars" to a 7 to 3 win over Randolph in the Saturday afternoon affair to give him a 3 win - 1 loss record.

Easterling was touched for only 5 hits and struck out 7 before he tired and was relieved by Ellison in the 8th, who pitched excellent ball to preserve the win for Easterling. The "Stars" slammed out 15 hits off Leo Hamrick; three each by Richard and McKee.

The "Stars" scoring was highlighted by Bannister's 2 run, second inning homer. It was Bannister's first homerun of the year. The "Stars" played a fine defensive game with Larry Minor turning in the fielding gem of the day as he raced back into deep left field to rob Hamrick of at least a 5th inning triple.

Clanton 11 - Billingsley 0

Bobby Wyatt's fine pitching gave him his 6th win and 2nd shutout of the year as the Clanton "Stars" waltzed by Billingsley 11 to 0 in Sunday's game.

The "Stars" continued their fast fielding and hard-hitting in getting their 3rd win of the week. Wyatt gave up 5 hits and struck out 5 as the "Stars" swept to win no. 10 against 7 losses.

James Paul Easterling plated 4 runners with 4 hits and Johnny Smith lined out a single, double and triple. Jack Dennis blasted out a 3rd inning 2 run homer. Fulford and Ellison chimed in with 2 hits each. The "Stars" total hits were 15. All obtained off Charles Jones. The fielding of Ellison and Smith sparked the "Stars" afield

Pretty Parasite Poses Problem For Peach Producers

Can Kill Crop If Ignored

Without a doubt, peach growers in Chilton County and the State of Alabama have more of a problem with the Peach Tree Borer than with any other insect known to them or their crop.

It not only attacks peach trees but apricot, cherry, nectarine and plum trees as well, often causing the death of the trees, if neglected.

This borer is found over the entire country and they often occur in large numbers in wild plum thickets. From these thickets, they infest the orchards the following year.

The adult peach tree borer is a beautiful, clear-winged moth in colors of orange, blue and yellow.

Female moths are about one inch long and the steel blue males are slightly smaller splashed with several narrow bands of orange or yellow. The forewings of the female are covered with dark blue scales and a single wide band of orange colored scales crosses the abdomen.

In Chilton County, the adult borer appears from April to July. Each female deposits from 200 to 800 eggs on the trunks of trees near the ground.

The eggs are attached to the bark of a tree and the newly-hatched worms move around before boring into the bark.

Usually within 10 days the eggs hatch and the young worms bore through the outer bark and attack the cambium layer. Most of the borers can be found in the trunk at or just below the ground level; however, many of them locate in the first large limbs or in the larger roots.

Large masses of gum around the tree base is a sure sign that borers are present.

After feeding all winter, perhaps completely girdling the tree, the larvae vary in size from one-half to one inch long in the spring. The full grown larvae are one inch or more in length and whitish with a dark brown head.

WHAT TO DO—

Since eggs are attached to the bark of a tree, spraying with DDT will kill most of the borers before they get through the outer bark.

In early July, August and September, spray the base of larger limbs and the trunk thoroughly.

To make the spray, mix 8 pounds of 50 percent wettable DDT in 100 gallons of water. For smaller quantities, mix four tablespoons of the insecticide in one gallon of water. Ethylene dichloride emulsion, if applied properly in October, will also control the peach tree borer.

Ricochet Wrecks Cause High Property Damage

A wreck north of the city on U. S. 31 sent two teen-agers to the Chilton County Hospital Saturday afternoon and a six-car pile up occurred on 31 South Sunday afternoon injuring none, but doing considerable property damage.

In the wreck North of the City Barbara Jo Wilson and her brother George H. Wilson, Jr., were painfully, but not seriously hurt when the car driven by their mother, Mrs. George H. Wilson, Sr. was in a wreck with a car driven by Jimmy Charles Robinson. Both automobiles were badly damaged.

The wreck South of the City was really two wrecks. An automobile stopped in the lane of traffic at the intersection of State 22 and U. S. 31. The car behind it pulled to a stop, but the next car plowed into the stopped cars and banged them all up in various degrees.

Then an oncoming car stopped when the driver saw trouble ahead. The next car stopped and the next, but then another car piled into the stopped cars causing another pile-up and damaging all cars considerably. No one was hurt according to the local highway patrolmen who investigated.

Children Set Fine Record

By Jeanne Smith,
Dodge Safety Consultant

STUDENT SAFETY COUNCILS, patterned after adult safety groups, are responsible for the saving of countless young lives in Hamtramck, Mich.

Miss Smith

In this bustling, industrial community, located entirely within the city of Detroit, there has not been a single child fatality in three years, and only two in the last 19 years.

Lt. Stanley Supina, in charge of the Hamtramck Traffic department, gives much of the credit for this fine record to the school safety councils, assisted by the police department's safety officer, Val Bednarski.

Student leaders, safety patrol boys and a sponsoring teacher compose the safety council membership in each school. They conduct regular meetings with the students to impress upon them the importance of safe, sane conduct — whether walking, driving a car, or riding a bicycle.

Skits, in which youngsters demonstrate right and wrong pedestrian practices, are an extremely effective way of getting the safety message across, Lt. Supina told me.

The councils also prepare and distribute pamphlets, showing the safest routes to and from school. In many cases, where there are busy, dangerous streets to cross, members of the council actually accompany the younger children.

The Hamtramck police department works closely with national safety organizations to obtain material for the schools and set up new programs.

But the success of the school programs is due largely to the youngsters themselves, who have taken on an adult job—and proved they can handle it.

SHORT SHORTS--WOW!----

SHORTS, LADIES shorts that is, are alright in their place, but we never could agree that the place is in the business section of our city or in public eating places.

On the "young at heart" they are fine. We are talking of the old, the fat, the skinny, the. . . well, you know, folks who are just too far advanced in years to look comfortable in them, or for them to look in place on. Now if that sentence isn't a good indication that we have been looking at too many women in shorts there's no need to try further to explain.

But, seriously speaking, in their place they are fine. It is easily seen that weather we have experienced the past few weeks calls for all the comfort we can get. But ladies in shorts in public places just appear to be carrying our search for comfort a bit too far.

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

By "TUCK"

An historical fact, brought to our attention this week, brings to our mind a family history fact of which we're rather proud. This year marks the 200th anniversary of the birth of the French general-statesman Marquis de Lafayette. Our grandfather, former publisher of Chilton County News was named after this general who, according to history "fought valiantly for the Colonists in their struggle for American Independence." The family story goes that during this man's travels in the State he had occasion to pass through the Randolph Community just north of Maplesville which was then our family home. This was at a time just before the birth of our grandfather and thus his name: Marquis de Lafayette Tucker.

Which reminds us of another fact, and then we'll shut up. We are the third generation of printers in our family; printers and newspapermen exclusively; and we have a fourth generation coming up that we hope will carry the "keystone" symbol of the printing trade for many years to come. His name's Ben Tucker, too.

We were remarking casually to the wife the other day about our neighbors Harold and Alice Fraser, who by the way, casually had a little girl this past week, as to what it would be. There seems to have been some misunderstanding and ye olde storke dropped a feminine bundle instead of that other kind. We had something like that in mind when our second little bundle came. We thought our boy needed a playmate and then too, we could brag about being a boy maker and nothing else. We were wrong. There is nothing in this world or any other world that could be any sweeter than our little Teresa and we wouldn't take a million for her. We can think of nothing we'd trade "Bud" for either, so you see, you might as well leave it to the stork and the good Lord. They seem to run the show you know. Well, anyway, they can be proud it's a little girl, who ever heard of a boy who grew up to be pretty and sweet and cuddly. Well she will.

We haven't seen the little tyke yet, so with the intentions of making friends with her we're going to present her with a year's subscription to our favorite newspaper, sent in her name to her address. We hope she enjoys it half as much as we enjoy having her for our neighbor. Oh, by the way, her name's Phyllis Ramona after her daddy and she came into this old world weighing somewhere around 100 ounces give or take a few. She and mother are fine.

An expert is not the man who simply hangs out a sign which reads "expert. . .".

Some folks put in a hard day's work with their backs every day of the year, while their head takes a 365-day vacation.

Hear about the fellow who was bragging to his constituent, "Yes sir," says he, "I sure feel for you lost souls who can't break a bad habit; why I haven't got a bad habit to my. . .(,?-!*!;! if I didn't spill gin all over my cigarette."

If money is the root, then evil grows from the way in which we use it. Which indicates that though money is the root, other things can grow from it besides evil, depending on the way we sustain it.

Flattery will get you nowhere. . . except anywhere-

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

HOW CLEAN ARE YOU?

Cleanliness and good personal hygiene are within the reach of everyone. There is no substitute for the daily bath and the use of plenty of soap to rid the skin of dirt and odors.

The skin harbors germs which thrive on dirt. In this normal process of reduplication, the skin gives off waste materials from its sweat glands. As billions of new cells are produced daily in the lower layers of the skin, billions in the superficial or top layer become detached in the form of a dry scale. This dead material must be removed to permit the effective functioning of the skin.

The daily bath should be a habit. Persons who perform strenuous work and whose sweat glands are overactive should take two baths a day. Nothing is so unpleasant as body odor.

Clothing should be changed daily whenever possible, particularly clothing worn close to the skin. The fabrics hold odors and should be cleaned and washed frequently.

Good grooming does not mean fashionable an expensive clothes and intricate hair styles. The well-scrubbed look is the basic first. Simple but clean clothes and attention to teeth, hair, skin and nails complete the picture.

A clean body presents a wholesome appearance. A clean home gives a similar effect. Cooking utensils, dishes and silverware should be spotlessly clean.

Good personal hygiene is largely a matter of training and should be instilled in the very young child. An early understanding and appreciation for the small details in cleanliness will foster the development of sound principles in hygiene in later years.

Keep yourself, your home and your family clean. Strive for the well-scrubbed look by using plenty of soap and water. Remember that a clean body is the first step to a healthy body.

Report from Washington

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

As the leadership of both the House and Senate predicted the adjournment of Congress later this month, the House last week stepped up its consideration of pending legislation. Approval was given to a pay raise for classified federal employees, a supplemental appropriation was voted for fiscal year 1958, an appropriation was authorized for the Atomic Energy Commission, and several other measures of less importance were either approved or rejected.

PAY RAISE VOTED

An 11% across-the-board pay raise for classified federal employees was passed on a 329 to 58 vote after an attempt to reduce to 5% the amount of the proposed increase had failed. If enacted into law, this legislation will become effective on the first pay period in September and will result in an average yearly raise of $518 for federal workers.

The Senate is expected to pass this week its own version of the federal pay raise bill which provides a flat 7½% increase for classified employees. If the Senate so acts, it will then be necessary for a conference committee to agree on a compromise version of the measure. Most observers believe that the bill that is likely to be finally approved by Congress will call for an approximate 8% increase. Regardless of congressional action, however, Administration sources have reported on several occasions that the President will veto any salary increase that might be adopted this year for federal workers. As far as I know, the President has made no official statement on this subject.

BUDGET CUTS

Supplemental funds approved last week by the House of Representatives for use by the various government agencies in fiscal year 1958 totaled $1.6 billion. This constituted a reduction of approximately $279 million below the budget estimate. An attempt to slash nearly $10 million from the TVA budget of $13 million was rejected on a roll call vote.

In reducing the budget request for the Atomic Energy Commission by $52 million, the House in effect voted to leave the building of atomic power plants to private industry. Those who favored this action were afraid the government might go more deeply into the public power business. Those who opposed it argued that any program to be undertaken at industry's own pace would delay this nation' atomic power development.

COMPETES IN ROAD-E-O

A young man from the Sixth Congressional District is in Washington this week to compete with driving champions from all over the United States in the Junior Chamber of Commerce's National Road-e-o. He is 19-year-old Dick Callahan, son of the Rev. and Mrs. E. R. Callahan of Holt. Dick recently won the road-e-o finals in the State of Alabama and will again demonstrate his driving skill this week in the national contest.

From Dominican Republic—

TEN 'WITNESS' MISSIONARIES DEPORTED

Ten American missionaries were deported to Puerto Rico from the Dominican Republic August 3, W. E. Robinson, presiding minister of the Clanton congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, announced this week. Fare was paid by the Dominican government and the missionaries were escorted under arrest to the plane.

This action came on the heels of a "wave of persecution equaled only in Communist countries" climaxed by a total ban to the work of Bible education conducted by the Witnesses in the Dominican Republic since 1945.

An ultimatum of "renounce all association with the organization. ." or leave the country was made last month by Major General Arturo Espaillat, Minister of Security, sought by the U. S., it is reported, in the disappearance of Dr. Jesus de Galindez.

Some of the missionaries ejected from the country had been there for 11 years.

Mr Robinson said a full-scale campaign to restrict the religious freedom of the Witnesses has been underway in that country since July 1st. Kingdom Hall meeting places had been ordered closed and about 250 of Jehovah's Witnesses were brought in for questioning. The Witnesses have been subjected to beatings and violence by police and prison guards in an effort to make them renounce all association with the movement. About 50 are now in prison, some with sentences of two years.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

BY C. WILSON HARDER

In all American history, there has probably been no effort to pass a piece of legislation as characterizes drive to rope U. S. into Organization for Trade Co-operation, or OTC.

* * *

The administration has made at least five pleas to Congress, but Congress still turns a deaf ear toward abandoning what little is left of the protective tariff structure to the tender mercies of an international debating society.

C. W. Harder

On several occasions, the nation's independent businessmen, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, have opposed any further scuttling of protective tariffs.

And the other day, when debating a proposal to establish import quotas, in order to protect some vital American industries and their employees from total destruction, several Congressmen had very pointed remarks to make on the subject.

The State Dept. sent a letter to the House Ways and Means Committee protesting right of Congress to establish import quotas. Rep. Bailey (W. Va.) waded into fray with both fists.

State Dept. made this statement, "the bills would permit the imposition of quotas notwithstanding any international agreement relating to tariffs or trade entered into by the United States, or to be entered into hereafter."

On this, Rep. Bailey took off. He pointed out that the U. S. Constitution clearly gives Congress the power to impose import quotas. In that case, he wanted to know, by what authority did the State Dept. enter into agreements on its own hook.

"The State Dept.," he continued, "is completely out of line and if they have anyone in their legal department worth his salt they must know it. Unquestionably State Dept. hopes it can cow and intimidate Congress. And it will not hesitate to ride roughshod across lines of legislative power if we let it do so."

Veteran Representative Van Zandt (Penn.) joined in the fray pointing out that the State Dept. was setting forth a set of conditions that no one could understand how they came about. He also stated under the doctrine set up by the State Dept., if permitted to continue, that department could become supreme in the U. S. government, even exercising control over immigration, civil rights, or taxation.

Thus, there are more and more indications that Congress is preparing to cut down on the almost unlimited license that the State Dept. has taken unto itself.

Protection of American industry, labor, and farmers from cheap imports has given specifically by the founders of the nation to Congress. For over 20 years, this power has been nibbled at to give internationalists means with which to carry on foreign adventures.

* * *

And at every world-wide bargaining session, the U. S. economic system has lost. This is largely due to the fact that while foreign nations send their businessmen to negotiate, the U. S. is represented by State Dept. functionaries who have never met a payroll, who know little, if anything, about business except the little gleaned from an academic perusal of books on subject in ivied halls. Thus, responsible elements in Congress are seeking to put a stop to this bartering away of American independent enterprise by a government bureau.

It's My Opinion

By BOB TUCKER

"Pulling Together" Defined

Have you ever heard the principle by which a heavily loaded train is started to move. The relationship between each car is the answer. The engine jerks the first car; that car jerks the second and so on down teh line. This enables the engine to pull enormous loads that it would not be able to pull, without the combined effort, you might say, of each car in the train.

Each car depends on the car in front to help it get started.

Our engine is the Community Center Building Fund. We are the cars, linked together by an invisible coupling and our train is a long one; the road is uphill and rough.

A train could never get started on its journey if only one car every ten or fifteen in it's linking gave a tug now and then. The train would exhaust its fuel uselessly without the aid of every car behind it, without exception.

Such is the case with our Project, but our fuel is unlimited if we use it right.

And linked we are, like it or not. Are you pulling your load, or are you letting the next car do it? Like the train, if you break the chain reaction you have made useless the entire combined efforts of all the "cars" ahead of you.

Train cars can't think and have no feeling. That is our advantage over them. And even with the "jerks" who aren't pulling, we still manage to struggle along slowly.

An appeal, here and now, is made to every link in this long train: please, give a little tug now and then and keep the train going. There are many organizations who are giving their support to the Project, but they need help, your help.

The train has a job to do, a task. We have a task to do, duty to our children, neighbors, friends. You are not asked to pull the load, even the engine can't do that; just give your tug, when the time comes and then depend on the next fellow for his assistance.

We can gain our destination, A Community Center Building for Clanton, by "Pulling Together". It's the only answer to getting our train where it's going. If you, for some reason, can't pull, please get on a siding and let the next "car" "couple up". If you stay, you endanger the progress of the others.

We can and will have a Community Center in Clanton.

Our Local School Problem

There seem to be several varied opinions on the condition prevailing in Chilton County today concerning the abolishment of Thorsby Institute at Thorsby and the establishment of a public high school in its place.

A private school such as the Institute only attracts certain types of students. They are not prevalent enough to relieve the crowded situation of our public schools and neigther is the Institute large enough to enroll a great number of students.

It has neither the housing, facilities nor the faculty.

One reason for the public's opinion against the school is that they want their children to have a natural education and they feel that an Institute is rather sheltered from the outer society.

Right or wrong, the opinion prevails. On the other hand, there is an opinion that the sheltered teachings of an institute such as T.I. is the very foundation of its usefulness. In other words, teaching and learning are their primary concerns. These are public sentiments, right or wrong, we don't know.

Thorsby is located in a densely populated part of the County and thus the opinion of some for a public school.

There are five public high schools in Chilton County, counting Billingsley which takes care of some Chilton students. It is the opinion of many that these five schools are strategically placed at the border of the County and its population and that it would be folly to relocate any one of these.

At the same time, those in this line of thought feel that money, that would be spent on a public school at Thorsby could better be spent on the other schools and if necessary on the transportation system to better transport these "middle-County" students to the border schools.

A public school at Thorsby would take teachers from the other high schools for the simple reason that it would also take students, one calls for the other you know.

This loss of faculty and the high costs is what scares some participants in the controversy.

It would seem then, that the lesser of two evils is the only out for students living a great distance from the public high schools. If they do not want to attend T. I. or if T. I. is discontinued they will either have to go to the other high schools in the County or they will have to negotiate some other means of attaining their public high school.

Since geography plays a great role in this situation, we might do well to check into the large states and counties with scattered population. Their answer to school problems such as ours obviously lies in transportation. They could not possibly build a modern, complete high school for every two or three hundred students so they solve this problem by providing the best transportation possible to commute these students from their homes to the strategically placed school.

It has also been voiced that if the negotiations of this problem concern public education then the Board of Education should be informed of all proceedings and consulted. We are in complete agreement with this line of thought providing the Board of Education makes it clear to the people concerned, its opinions and intentions.

A misinformed public is hard to deal with, but an uninformed public is dangerous, due to the capacities of the human imagination.

Stand unbiased, with your ears open and hear out both sides of this controversy. Form your opinion accordingly. Don't let gossip, jealosy and ambition cause disunity in our County. That is one thing we are positive we don't need.

MODERN IS WORD FOR CHILTON POULTRY FARMS

BULK FEED BINS BECOMING POPULAR

Many Alabama farms are sporting bulk feed bins these days and Chilton County farmers are lending an ear to what they have to say.

It has been said that each poultryman will have to answer his own bulk feed problem because each one will have to weigh the advantages, disadvantages in the light of his own particular situation.

The outstanding advantage of bulk feeding is that it saves on cost to the tune of $4 to $5 per ton of feed. The savings result from reduction of labor in sacking and handling the feeds and the actual bag cost.

Bulk feed also saves labor for the poultryman. The bin can be built so the feed runs directly to automatic feeder or into a bin-type feed carrier. Feed will go further—no feed left in the bag or spilled while feeding, and rodent damage is less. A certain amount of floor space is saved—enough, in fact for extra broiler chicks and replacement pullets to soon pay for the bin. Less danger of spreading disease is present.

Disadvantages must be considered, too. Poultry houses must be convenient and accessible to heavy bulk feed trucks. Medications are difficult to feed to birds under the bulk feeding system. And of course, the cost of installing the equipment must be considered.

Metal bins are proving the most popular type. Allowance of at least 60 cubic feet of space per ton of feed is advised. The bin should be large enough to hold a truckload of feed plus one extra ton.

Don't Let "Old Sol" Turn Hair Into Haystack

Why is it that men who wouldn't think of watering their lawns while the hot sun is burning down, think nothing of dousing their hair in surf, pool, or lake, and then letting "Old Sol" turn their hair into a dry mop? Hair care experts say that wind, water, and the hot sun are serious threats to a healthy scalp and well-groomed head of hair.

These tonsorial authorities suggest the following preventive tips to guard hair from summer dryness.

1. Before going to the beach, prepare the hair by first rubbing a protective dab of hair cream into the scalp (see picture).

2. On return, wash sand and salt out of hair.

3. Finally, massage scalp and hair with a hair cream such as "Valcream," which supplements natural hair oils and grooms without showing.

Fire-Ant Problem Presented To Congress

The imported fire ant is a serious pest of crops, pastures, lawns, recreational areas, livestock and wildlife. It was introduced from South America through the port of Mobile, Alabama, probably as early as 1920. About 1930 it was recognized as a different and more destructive species than any native to the United States. When it began to move out from the Coastal area it appears to have found an environment more suitable to its liking and since 1950 has spread at an alarming rate.

EXTENT OF PROBLEM

The imported fire ant now infests about two-thirds of Alabama, half of Mississippi, a third of Louisiana, 8 or 9 counties in Teaxs, 3 counties in west Florida, and at least 2 counties in Georgia. Isolated infestations exist or have been eradicated in Arkansas, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee. In Alabama some infestation occurs all the way to the Tennessee border.

In total more than 20 million acres are infested, a good percentage of that right here in Chilton County and neighboring Counties in Alabama.

A PLAN FOR CONTROL

There is general agreement that a successful fire ant eradication program will require joint effort in which the Federal Government, States, local governing bodies and individual property owners participate.

This applies to planning as well as financing. Eradication of the fire ant will involve the insecticidal treatment of all infested areas.

Chemicals known to be effective include dieldrin, aldrin, and heptachlor. These may be applied by aircraft, motorized ground equipment or hand applicators, depending upon circumstances. Eradication should begin with outlying infestations and progress to counties constituting the boundaries of areas where infestation is general. The plan provides for technical and supervisory assistance to any county, city or parish anywhere and at any time that a substantial proportion of the property owners agree to organize for control work on a county or district basis and there is assurance from responsible governing bodies that the program will be pursued until ants have been eliminated without regard to land ownership or use.

In any county where general infestation exists, a 3-year period of eradication is anticipated. Quarantines will be invoked where necessary to prevent spreading through commercial channels.

COOPERATION

The Southern Association of Commissioners of Agriculture and the Southern Plant Board are on record in support of such a program. Detailed plans have been developed for an organization which would insure complete integration of Federatl and State effort and the most effective use funds provided from all sources. It must be expected that local participation would vary considerably between counties and between control districts, depending upon the land use and the general economic position of property owners in the area.

There is basic pest control legislation in each State adequate to support an ant eradication program. In some States funds are available to begin work immediately. All infested States have agreed to support State appropriations for the work. It is estimated that federal expenditures would represent less than 50 percent of the over-all cost.

FINANCING

Farmers would be expected to assume a major share of the cost of treating lands under cultivation. Likewise, property owners in cities and towns would participate on a community basis, assuming much of the cost of both materials and application. The railroads would be expected to clean up rights-of-way. Many State and county highway commissions have indicated active participation where roadside work is necessary. Much of the work on uncultivated lands that produce low annual returns to the owners must be financed from public funds, county, State and Federal.

The 20 million acres infested with the ants now are calculated to cost about $5 per acre to rid them of the pest.

Based on known eradication procedures, the over-all cost to the Federal Government is estimated at $40 to $50 million. As the program progresses, a continuing effort would be made to develop less costly eradication procedures.

The Department has no funds currently available for a fire ant eradication program. The program will, however, be considered in prope relation with other programs of the Depatment in the development of futur budget plans.

MOTOR MAIDS

Look Out Behind

By Jeanne Smith,
Dodge Safety Consultant

MAJOR MENACES to safe driving today are the tail-gater, highway-halter and abrupt-stopper, the National Safety Council reports.

They account for the majority of rear-end collisions, not only on modern super-highways, but on roads and streets everywhere.

Miss Smith

The tail-gater is the driver who stays right on the bumper of the car ahead. When a sudden stop is necessary—you guessed it — a rear-end collision occurs in which both cars are damaged.

Highway-halters are those hazards to expressway driving who, when an accident or other emergency occurs, stop to watch the excitement. Result? Sixteen cars pile up.

And the abrupt-stopper, of course, is the careless character who fails to signal before he stops, thus endangering his own safety as well as that of the occupants in the car behind.

Rear-end collisions account for a total of 17 per cent of all accidents. These can be prevented, the Council pointed out, if all drivers will follow these rules:

Stay at least a car length for every 10 miles an hour of speed behind the preceding car. [illegible] roadways in an emergency [illegible] always signal before slowing or stopping.

Set up flares or turn or directional signals if it's impossible to leave the roadway. Keep an eye on traffic lights and begin braking well before an intersection instead of slamming on the brakes at the last minute.

Drive defensively. Stay alert and look ahead to what might happen. Drive at a safe speed so that you can stop in time to avoid another driver's boner.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

The Bible

And He said unto them, Where is your faith? — (St. Luke 8, 25.)

When, distressed by troubles we feel unable to overcome, or faced with tribulations that seem beyond our strength, we may well heed the question the Lord Jesus asks us, as He asked it of His disciples. Strong in our faith that God is ever willing and ready to help, we shall always be sustained.

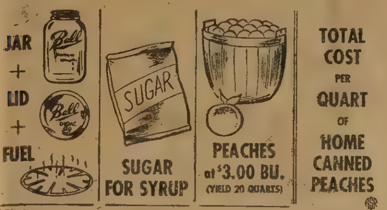
How Women Earn $150,000,000 at Home

Paid in Savings from Home Canning

Here is how it works. Take peaches as an example and first find out how much it costs to put up one quart.



JAR
LID
FUEL
SUGAR FOR SYRUP
PEACHES at $3.00 BU. (YIELD 20 QUARTS)
TOTAL COST PER QUART OF HOME CANNED PEACHES

3¢ + 3¢ + 15¢ = 21¢

At 21c per quart, good freestone peaches are a bargain. You usually save at least 10c per quart compared to what you would pay for commercially canned (No. 2½ tin is about 10% less than 1 qt.). Savings are still greater when you grow your own peaches, or buy them at less than the above price.

In these calculations, the jar cost is figured on a 10 year jar life, as shown by independent surveys. Fuel cost was developed from tests, while lid and sugar figures are based on current prices. The U. S. Department of Agriculture shows the yield from a bushel of peaches to be 18 - 24 qts.

Similar calculations for other items, such as tomatoes and relishes, show comparable savings; so that it is conservative to say that home canning saves 10c per jar. Studies made by a leading research organization show that well over 1,500,000,000 jars are canned each year. Here, then, is how women make big home earnings by home canning: 1,500,000,000 jars canned X 10c = $150,000,000.

Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson, left, in his first official act as Secretary of the Treasury sold a $100 United States series E Savings Bond to outgoing Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, right, who was prohibited by law from acquiring Government securities as long as he was in office. Secretary Anderson is shown accepting a $75.00 check from Mr. Humphrey in exchange for the $100 Savings Bond. Mr. Humphrey said that he was "just delighted as my first act as a private citizen again to buy a Savings Bond and join the forty million other citizens who own these Bonds and prize them highly." The sale was made immediately after the two returned to the Treasury following Secretary Anderson's swearing-in in the presence of President Eisenhower and other top officials at the White House.

To Pickle A Peck of Peaches

Plump pickled peaches—a luxury when bought ready made—are inexpensive and next to no trouble to make and can in your own kitchen.

There are countless good recipes for pickling peaches, some of them used by many generations of homemakers. If you are not the lucky owner of one of these old family "receipts", perhaps you would like to try your hand at the one given below. It is simple, easy and economical.

Old timers preferred to use cider vinegar and brown sugar and to stick a few cloves in each peach, but the pickle will be lighter in color if white vinegar and white sugar are used, and the spices tied in a cheesecloth "bag". The bag is removed before the pickle is canned. The fruit should be firm-ripe and of medium or small size.

Here is what you will need for 6 or 8 quarts of pickled peaches. (You are likely to want to make several batches.) The exact yield you get will depend upon the size of the fruit and how closely it is packed.

1 peck (12 lbs.) peaches
5 cups sugar
4 cups vinegar
5 or 6 sticks cinnamon
1 tablespoon each whole cloves and allspice
2 or 3 pieces ginger root
½ teaspoon salt

This is what you do:

Boil all ingredients except peaches together for 5 minutes and set aside while you peel the peaches. Drop a few peaches into the sirup and cook gently until tender but not soft, then remove from sirup. When all peaches have been cooked, return to sirup and let stand, covered, anywhere from 3 hours to overnight. Remove peaches from sirup. If sirup isn't as sweet as you like, add an extra cup of sugar, also more spices if your taste calls for them, and boil 5 minutes. Add peaches to the hot sirup, bring to boil. Boil one minute then quickly pack peaches and sirup into hot fruit jars. (The new tapered ones are especially nice for pickles of all kinds.) Seal at once.

ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

FOUND GOD COULD HEAL AN ALCOHOLIC

He turned and walked away. —Away from 26 years of business life, leaving behind a position as vice-president of one of Florida's largest plants in the processing and packaging of frozen sea foods. He despised the security of all his worldly goods in one moment of time. It was a parting of the ways, a severing of friendships, a complete separation of ties that were very dear. And all because of an experience that had happened six years ago.

Bob Bell was an alcoholic. For 24 years he had been a helpless victim of strong drink. One day, however, he witnessed a marvelous healing of a woman who had a large goiter. At that moment Bob decided that God could help him.

He got in touch with a minister friend and asked that he pray for his healing. In Columbia, South Carolina, that night of May 1951, Bob Bell gave his heart to God. In the flash of a second, he was completely healed of his desire for alcohol.

But that is not the end of the story. Bob wanted to share his healing with others. And so in 1956, he established "Christ for Alcoholics, Inc.," in the State of Florida. Its purpose is to tell other alcoholics that "Christ is the answer."

Instantly this organization began to grow. In his headquarters, 329 - 37th Street South, St. Petersburg, Florida, hundreds of letters are received asking for help, for encouragement and prayer. Friends in St. Petersburg and other cities scan newspapers for names and addresses of people who are arrested for drunkenness. Then, copies of a small pamphlet on Bob Bell's deliverance from alcoholism and other inspiring literature are sent to them. A growing list of partners who have been alcoholics and their families speed the written word with the anointing of fervent prayer.

But that is not all. Local groups called Christ for Alcoholics groups are being established in various cities. These are conducted by people who have been alcoholics themselves. Their message is the same—"Christ is the answer!"

More than 6,000,000 people in our country are enslaved by this terrible malady. There are more alcoholics than there are victims of polio, tuberculosis and cancer combined. Heartbreak and sorrow immeasurable are the pungent and powerful fruit of America's greatest social problem. But Bob Bell has found the answer.

And so three years ago this August, he turned and walked away. He had been in a business partnership for 26 years before his conversion. But three years ago his associates wanted to enter a new phase of business—the retailing of beer and wine along with the sea food business. And so, Bob, vice-president of the company, was outvoted . . . And he walked away!

But today he walks in a wonderful pathway. And the results are tremendous!

There is healing for alcoholism! All helps, all research, all means that are used to assist people who are victims are good. But the genuine and lasting healing that Bob has found and others are finding is the healing that comes through faith in God.

An angry man is Sylvester T. Bly,
Who today was sold a piece of "blue sky."
He'd stepped in a showroom—out of the rain,
Was sold a new car before he could explain!
How he hated the styling—so high and square
And in new features it was really bare.
"I got a real bargain—the buy of my life—
But how do I ever convince my own wife?"

Moral: You're paying for a new car...make sure you get one!

When you buy a new car, put your money on tomorrow—not yesterday. Swept-Wing Dodge actually obsoletes other cars in its field. Should you invest in high, boxy styling when Dodge offers the low, low look of tomorrow? Should you invest in outmoded coil springs when Dodge offers new Torsion-Aire Ride? Should you invest in an old-fashioned lever-type transmission when Dodge offers the ease of Push-Button Driving? In other things, too—engines, brakes, interiors—Dodge is years ahead. So put your money on tomorrow. See your Dodge dealer. Join the swing to the Swept-Wing Dodge!

IT'S HAPPENED AGAIN! Well, the Bell Telephone Companies have again qualified to receive the National Safety Council's annual "Award of Honor" during 1956. This is the fifth year out of the last six that we have been awarded recognition for outstanding safety performance. The Safety Council reports that the communications industry continues to be the safest of all industries, and the Bell Telephone Companies are the largest group in the communications industry. Naturally, we telephone folks here in town are happy we've played our small part in making Southern Bell a safe place to work.

EASY DOES IT — Seems to me most folks live in a hurry, hurry world, especially when they get out on the highways. So, whether you're on vacation, weekend or just a "Sunday visit trip," it's wise to do all your speeding by telephone. Leave in plenty of time, and if you're delayed on the road, just phone ahead to let folks know. You'll find convenient outdoor phone booths everywhere. Long Distance is fast and easy to use and it costs so little, especially when you call station-to-station after six P.M. [illegible] And remember—you save time when you call by number.

Vacation Tip... MAKE SAFETY YOUR TRAVELING COMPANION

Planning a vacation? Here's a tip from leading safety authorities: have your tires checked.

Hidden tire damage can result in inconvenience, serious trouble, even loss of life. Tires weakened by bruises, heat, or moisture can fail at any time and internal damage seldom can be seen from the outside.

Take time for a competent dealer to check inside your tires for bruises, cuts, or ply separations. Have him inspect the outside for excess wear.

Just driving around town, there are many chances of tire injury from holes in the pavement, curbs bumped in parking, quick starts and stops, rain, and snow.

Hard impacts bruise the reinforcing cord inside a tire, causing weak spots. If the bruise is severe, these weakened cords may break and, perhaps days or weeks later, cause a blowout.

Cracks or breaks in the rubber allow moisture to seep into the tire, rotting ordinary cord.

Quick starts, sudden stops, or under-inflation add to the strain of constant bending and flexing a tire normally undergoes.

Then comes vacation time. You're traveling at a rapid pace over a modern turnpike. Suddenly, a blowout. And your vacation is delayed or canceled, depending on the consequences. Hidden damage may have caused the blowout.

Equipping your car with nylon cord tires is a major precaution against hidden damage because nylon is stronger and more resistant to impact than any other tire cord, is not weakened by moisture, has resilience to withstand bending and flexing, and has far greater heat resistance than other cords. Nylon has gained rapid recognition as the outstanding reinforcing cord and is available in almost every brand of tire.

Make this vacation a safe one. Don't ignore your tires.

"Stars" Run Rampant Week-end; Take 3 of 4

Special To The News
By B. B. Bates

CLANTON 6 — PHILLIPS 5

Late inning errors and bases on balls marred the tightest pitcher's duel of the season at City Park and the "Stars" waited until the 7th frame to get their first hit and go on to score a trio of 7th and 8th inning runs to give Jimmy Harper, up and coming left-hander a 6 to 5 victory over a fast Phillips 66 team.

The Oilers collected two 5th inning hits to tally one time. A double by Mantooth and a single by Hankins did the trick.

The "Stars" took a 3 to 1 seventh inning lead.

Dennis was hit by a pitch and advanced on Smith's sacrifice. Harper was safe on an error by first baseman Moore. Dennis scored as Minor went safe on another Moore error. Pete McKee's key single plated 2 more runners.

The Oilers took a 5 to 3 lead in the 8th on 2 Clanton errors, two walks and two singles.

The "Stars" grabbed the win in their 8th using 2 walks, singles by Fulford and Smith and 2 wild pitches by Carrol. Harper got his 2nd win against one loss by holding the Oilers to 4 hits, striking out 7. Clanton was held to 3 hits by 3 Oiler Southpaws and 7 were strikeout victims.

EPP'S 9 — CLANTON 6

A 4-run, first inning scoring spree plus one second frame tally by the "Stars" went for naught as the Epp's jewelers battled back to trim the "Stars" 9 to 6. Bobby Wyatt was belted hard in 6 innings of mound duty to suffer his 3rd loss of the year. Wyatt gave up 8 runs on 11 hits. R. Easterling held the visitors to 1 run on 2 hits in 3 innings and banged out 2 hits himself. J. P. Easterling and McKee each had a pair of hits. The visitors were led by Gore's 3 hits and Banna's double and triple.

"STARS" 4 — RANDOLPH 3

An 11th inning low throw to first base by Randolph's shortstop Brownie Bolding allowed Jack Dennis to scamper home with the winning run as the Stars nosed out their Bibb County rivals 4 to 3. Dennis had doubled high off the right field fence and was waiting transportation home when R. Easterling hit the 2 out grounder to Bolding.

Wallace pitched all the way for Randolph, giving the "Stars" only 8 hits. L. D. Eeasterling hurled 9 innings for the "Stars" giving up only 6 singles. Harrison was Randolph's big gun with 2 singles and a double.

Richard (the Ripper) Easterling was credited with the "Stars" win by checking Randolph in the 10th and 11th frames. "The Ripper" is now the "Stars" leading pitcher with 4 wins and one loss.

"STARS" 14 — HUFFMAN 11

An error on a double play ball by Seales paved the way for a 7 run first inning Huffman rally but the "Stars" bounced back to outrun their Sunday visitors 14 to 11.

Seales later redeemed himself with 3 hits, one a 2-run homer over the right field fence.

Jimmy Harper, Clanton's left-hander, said after the game that he just didn't have it. Jimmy was blasted for 14 hits, but his "Staying determination" never complaining of "Star" errors carried him all the way for his 3rd win against one loss. Fulford's "bases loaded" double was a big help in the "Stars" 6th win in the last 7 starts.

The "Stars" now sport a 13-won, 8-loss record. Bobby Easterling and Johnny Smith have identical batting averages of .384. Richard Easterling leads the pitchers with a winning percentage of .800 based on 4 wins and 1 defeat.

"Bangs" Being Erased From Local Herds

Chilton County Cattlemen—both dairy and beef—are slowly erasing brucellosis, or Bangs disease, from the scene.

Although no county has yet been certified as modified brucellosis-free, it was predicted this week that most dairy herds in the state will be free of this disease by 1960.

State figures on cattle tested for brucellosis and calfhood vaccinations from July 1, 1956 through last June 30th tell a story of how all cattlemen are stepping up their fight against this disease. They reveal that only two percent of the 383,048 cattle tested were infected with this costly disease. The year before only 230,028 head—or 153,020 less— were tested, and 2.71 percent were found infected.

Milk ring tests were run on 15,597 dairy herds in the state last year—more than double the number tested the preceding year. Out of this number 18.3 percent showed a suspicious reaction and each dairy cow in the suspected herds was then given the blood test.

Calfhood vaccinations were stepped up this year and given to 70,413 calves—an increase of more than 10,000 over the year before. Beef producers are becoming more aware of the economic reprecussions of brucllosis and more are using the blood test on their cattle. It is estimated that practically every beef cattleman in the state uses calfhood vaccinations in his herd.

Cattlemen are paid an indemnity of $25 a head for infected grade animals and $50 a head for purebreds infected with the disease and removed from the herd.

First White House Gets Much-Needed Face-Lifting

The First White House of the Confederacy is getting a face-lifting. It is currently having minor repair work done to the fabric, and is scheduled for an immediate repaint job.

The shrine, where President and Mrs. Jefferson Davis lived in 1861, and where the early Confederate cabinet meetings were conducted, is located opposite the State Capitol in Montgomery, and next to the State Department of Archives and History.

CAR UPKEEP COSTS can be kept down, and accident costs avoided, by following a sensible system of preventive maintenance. This is the tested conclusion of U. S. Army experts, whose ranks include some of the ablest mechanics in the world, and the effective performance of whose vehicles is vital. They advise: Watch for excessive use of water by your battery, wheel-wobble, leaks in muffler; keep check on headlights for brightness, balance; rotate tires every 4000 miles.

WHY SAVE? It takes some initiative to start doing it; some will power to keep going. But people whom it has helped to seize educational opportunities are glad they did it; people whom it has helped to have vacation trips, new cars, new homes say it's well worth while; people to whom it has been helpful in time of emergency swear by it. Some of these people had a "why" — a reason for doing it — before they began; others simply began — and afterward found plenty of reasons to be thankful that they had. The really important thing is to do it. Save regularly, at our bank. You'll never regret it!

NO MAN, it has been said, is an island unto himself. We would add: No local institution should be an island unto itself— it should be truly part and parcel of its community. The members of our bank's staff, collectively and individually, take an active interest in community affairs; are proud to cooperate, in every way they can, in promoting community welfare.

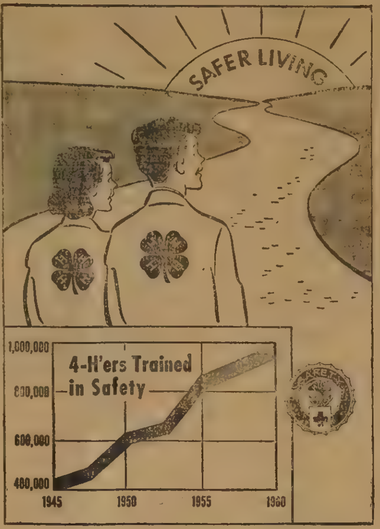
4-H'ers Lead the Way to Safety



The future looks brighter for more people because more 4-H Club members than ever before are being trained and educated in safety. Participation in the 1957 national 4-H safety program enables them to make their homes, farms and communities safer places in which to live and work.

Boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 throughout the state are learning safe practices that will pay dividends later in life whether they reside on the farm or in the city. Conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service, the 4-H safety program has been supported continuously since 1945 by General Motors.

Incentive awards offered to 4-H'ers for superior achievement include distinctive medals, college scholarships, and educational trips to the national 4-H Club Congress held annually in Chicago.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

THE Bridge contractors have been promised steel to finish the bridge over the Coosa River below Mitchell Dam by the first of September. The bridge has long been waited for by Chilton and Coosa Countians besides many of the traveling public and the news that work can continue will be received with enthusiasm.

CONGRATULATIONS to Red Fulmer who has been reappointed to the Board of Veteran Affairs representing the D.A.V.'s Red has served one term and we are sure he will do as good a job his second term. He has brought quite an honor to his home County.

THERE are 26.756 residents of Chilton of which more than 22 thousand are white. During the years from 1902 through the current year there have been 478 colored residents register to vote. These figures were prepared by the Chilton County Board of Registrars recently on a request from Sen. Lister Hill.

"LITTLE boy", inquired the large lady, "can you tell me if I can get to the park through this gate?" "I guess so, lady," replied the kid, "a load of hay just went through."

GOT a letter today from Dr. Jerry M. Studdard, who is on the Aircraft Carrier Saratoga somewhere in the Atlantic. Jerry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Studdard you know, and is serving a hitch in the Navy. Jerry says he is getting quite a "kick" out of watching the "action" on such a large carrier. Incidentally the largest in the world. He sends greetings to all of his old Chilton County friends.

DEEPLY we regret the death of Mrs. J. P. Hayes the other week. The Hayes children lost a wonderful mother and we lost a very good friend and critic. She has been our loyal supporter for twenty years, and we always valued her comments and criticism highly. She will be missed by many.

THE Seventh Day Adventist Church paid off their mortgage and had a big day at the church last Saturday. We are proud for them for the small membership worked hard and long to own their pretty little church. It just goes to show what can be done when a few good workers get together and are determined to see a job done. We congratulate them on their accomplishment.

MRS. O. N. Esco has resigned as Executive Secretary to the local Chapter of the American Red Cross after serving in this capacity for six years. She has done a difficult job well and the lady who fills her shoes will find that a lot of hard work and worry goes with the job. It is work that offers a wide opportunity to help others and the self-satisfaction received in this way makes the work much more worthwhile.

FELLOW called up the other nite and said: "Hey boy, your tail light is burning." The joke is on him. Our battery is so weak it doesn't even make a soft glow.

LETTINGS on the road work by the State have been postponed again on the Enterprise to Billingsley Road and on the Collins Chapel Road. They were to be advertised again this week and those in the Board of Revenue & Control are very disappointed in not getting the work started. We can say for them, they are doing all in their power to get these projects finished.

WHILE Sherman Motley was at the County Commissioners Convention last week he talked to Jack Owen about getting a collection agency in Maplesville for the Alabama Power Company. Today this letter was received and we quote: "I have today been advised by Mr. E. C. Easter, vice-president of Alabama Power Company that the selection of the Bank of Maplesville as collection agency was authorized by the Board of Directors at a meeting on August 16, 1957. . ." That will be of great convenience to the people of Maplesville and we are glad that Sherman Motley's request got such prompt action.

The laws of the State of Alabama require that a child be [illegible] years of age on or before October 1 in order to enter school. Parents will be required to present to the child's teacher on the opening day of school evidence of the fact that he is of school age. Every child should have a birth certificate. If your child does not have one, steps should be taken at once to secure one for him. The Public Health Department is glad to give information on the proper procedure for securing a birth certificate.

Every effort is made to make your child as safe from disease as possible while he is in school. In order to keep down epidemics, every beginner is required to have the triple shot, which is a prevention of tetanus, whooping cough, and diptheria; and the vaccination for smallpox before he enters.

The Public Health Department has arranged to give these shots. Please see that your child has a certificate at the beginning of school proving that he has had them.

AND THE MAN who builds a better trap for suckers will have a beaten path to his door.

IT'S IMPOSSIBLE to climb the ladder of success with both hands in your pockets.

USUALLY WHEN a man gives you a piece of his mind—the sample is of very poor quality.

THE INFLUENCE of mind over matter is shown best by the way some people fly off the handle.

THE ONLY thing that makes some people happy is doing to others before they get done to.

WE FEAR NO EVIL----

THE INTIMIDATION of an individual and his rights is a shameful thing. It borders on tyranny and is nourished with hate, meanness and a lack of intelligent thinking. Consider the source and you will understand the act. But, does that make it right; legally, morally or socially?

The false props used in this intimidation serve their purpose well. . . they scare daylights out of their intended victims.

To let this masquerade of justice continue is a blot on our society. The gains made through intelligent, God-fearing hard labor will be down the drain should we let this intimidating force gain a toe hold, heretofore lost from our society.

It makes our blood boil to see one man or many men frightening another or others by forcing the impression that they are "better".

Better for what?

We do not know the persons behind the deeds and we know not their reasons, but we need not look much further than our nose to see that it is the wrong way to get anything done.

Our rights as individuals, yours and mine are threatened when mob rule takes over. Will you stand idly by, shaking in your boots, while your neighbor is pushed around, saying, "that's wrong, but there's nothing I can do about it."

If you can't show these "persons" they are wrong (an overwhelming impossibility) then fight those who would make you and your family afraid to leave home at night. In fact, pretty soon they would even be afraid of staying at home.

The only way to stamp out evil figuratively is to destroy it literally. These forces that drive men to do things that they are ashamed of should be annihilated, done away with. They are evil forces, ones which cannot exist in a free Republic such as ours.

We have a choice: Freedom of all that we hold dear, or tyranny. Which do you choose?

The People Are In Earnest----

CONGRESSMEN, it would appear, fear the folks-back-home considerably more than the President, and prefer to come back to Washington for an extra session in November rather than go home now without making worthwhile cuts in the record-breaking Eisenhower budget request - particularly in foreign aid.

Stung by a cut of half a billion in the foreign aid Authorization Bill, President Eisenhower called an unprecedented emergency news conference in his office to prepare Congress for an extra session this fall if the cut were not restored in the actual Appropriation Bill which was to follow.

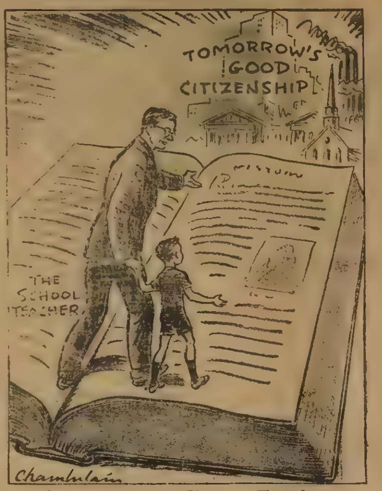
Later, after the House Appropriations committee had voted a still larger cut, News Secretary Hagerty read another plea from the President to restore his requested foreign aid funds. But the House was not impressed and voted to slash the actual money bill by $809 millions. Chairman Clarence Cannon of the House Appropriations committee reminded his fellow citizens that we have given away approximately $50 billions, that this is a large part of our national debt and that it accounts at least in part for inflation and the high cost of living.

Following the President's desk-side press conference, Senator Lyndon Johnson, majority leader took a dim view of the effectiveness of this gesture and said that Congress, in its "collective judgement" would decide on the proper appropriation.

Thus, the House cuts may well be supported by the Senate. And if the cuts made to date still stand on adjournment day, the lawmakers can report to their constituents a total reduction of $5.6 billions in the Eisenhower budget!

And it hardly seems likely from here, that after a visit at home, the solons will come back in November and sabotage their courageous performance—even at the urging of the President.

GUIDE OF HIS FORMATIVE YEARS



Our Responsibility to Teachers

NEXT to parents, no one deals more intimately than school teachers with a youngster's talents and deficiencies, failures and achievements, during the crucial, formative early years.

The responsibility we hold for our teachers is, in a very real sense the same we hold for our children, the degree depending on us as individuals.

Every citizen and parent has only himself to commend or to blame if schools in our free society are superb, average or something worse.

On August 30 Chilton County Schools open their doors to students and teachers. The doors are also open to parents, and we appeal to you to take a more active interest in your local schools. The only thing more important to your child's welfare is his home and his church. Learn the problems of teacher and student alike and you will have a better understanding of your child's progress or failure, whichever the case may be.

It's My Opinion

NARROW MEANS 'LIMITED'!

A narrow mind has chasms to brdige, but a broad one takes them in stride. Thus, our own personal definition of narrow-mindedness.

To say a person is narrow-minded does not mean literally, at least not as far as we know, but it points up strongly to the fact that the person in mention is stubborn, bull-headed and hard to get along with. He sees in only one light; can walk in only one pair of shoes.

It must be miserable for these folks. They're so busy seeing their side of things that they fail to see anything else. Kind of puts a hardship on the other guy too, he has to listen to the bunk.

Two opinions are good an healthy as long as they are both open; but when one of the opinions is so unchangeable that it becomes ridiculous, the time is come to draw clear of the person and avoid his company.

How is he to know, then, if you draw away from him? It is our opinion that "bull-headed" is a much better term than narrow-minded It's just not as ethical. These "minds" know they are narrow, because anyone in a rut knows he can't see out of it. He knows he's in the rut; whether or not he admits it, either to himself or to others is another kettle of washwater.

Some of us can't see the water for the rain, but there are those backward enough that they can't see the rain for the water. They are in a bad way. They can't live happily and at the same time are forever and eternally looking at things through a crack in the board.

The open mind is capable of great things, while the closed mind feeds on its own frustration.

Which are you, a doer or an undoer?

SENATE APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE—

$5 MILLION RECOMMENDED IN CONTROL OF FIRE ANTS, WORMS

WASHINGTON—The Senate Appropriations Committee has recommended $5 million to help the nation's farmers in fighting fire ants and screw worms, Senator John Sparkman (D., Ala.) said this week.

The recommendation came on a proposed supplementary appropriation to the Department of Agriculture's fiscal 1958 budget which had previously been enacted into law, he stated.

"Indications are that the Department of Agriculture would use $3 million of this sum to begin the fire ant control program,' Sparkman said. "The money would be used to provide technical supervision of control programs, conduct surveys, and invoke quarantines in order to curb the ant's migration."

He was sponsor of a bill enacted into law during this session of Congress to control the fire ant.

The True Meaning Of "Neighbors"

A BRAVE MAN, A BRAVE TOWN: AN EPIC STORY

The true story of how a brave town repaid a brave man for saving its life was dramatically told recently in a Telephone Time TV show over a national network.

The town was Scio, Ohio—the man was Lewis Reese. Long in the pottery business, he made a hunting trip to the town and found it dying because its pottery plant had been closed in the Depression.

Mr. Reese invested his life's savings to re-open the plant; the whole town pitched in to help. Bankers, doctors, lawyers became carpenters, bricklayers and electricians in their spare time.

After years of sacrifice the business got rolling, with Reese teaching the people of Scio how to make pottery without bringing in outside help. He was able to pay each employee a $500 bonus.

Then, just before Christmas one year, fire destroyed the uninsured plant.

The town faced economic death for the second time in a generation.

But the grateful townspeople, remembering what Lew Reese had done for them, returned their bonusses, tackled the job of rebuilding. In two months the plant was rolling again.

The story first achieved national attention in 1948 through the National Association of Manufacturers in New York City.

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

By "TUCK"

You've heard the expression used: "get off my back"! Well, we had a situation this week that called for an almost literal interpretation of it.

A citizen, with a strong opinion of the situation that prevails concerning Thorsby Institute property and the County Board of Education was in to "straighten us out" on the the matter. From the start, he thought we were on his back and then we thought he was on our, when in all probability we agreed on the subject practically 100 percent. He maintained we didn't know all the facts (to the point of accusing us of a fabrication), a point of view which we contended all along, about the facts we mean. We didn't know all the facts then and we don't know them now. We think he will agree with that. One fact came out of our enlightening conversation however, and that was that the Board of Trustees of Thorsby Institute and the Chilton County Board of Education have worked harmoniously on the project from the start and have gained some valuable information and material concerning the problem and, as it was told to us, "done it together". This fact, we assumed and stated in the first place and voiced same to the extent of requesting that they further the project by further cooperation.

We cannot be responsible for what people think we say. Their interpretations are not our business. We try to say it in such a way that everyone can understand our meaning. If we can't accomplish this in your case, count it off as poor writing and forget it.

The following is the paragraph to which our attention was called and we still fail to see any maliciousness or intent to do wrong in it:

> "It has also been voiced that if the negotiations of this problem concern public education then the Board of Education should be informed of all proceedings and consulted. We are in complete agreement with this line of thought providing the Board of Education makes it clear to the people concerned, its opinions and intentions."

A friend of ours, Johnny Vines by name, manager of Suburban Gas Company here by trade, tells us that his grandpa had the right idea when it comes to working. Seems grandpa (Vines we presume) was a railroad man all his life (or practically) and he worked seven days a week and as much overtime as he could get (how much more is there?) Anyway, Grandpa always said there aught to be a governing force of some kind whereby everyone should work six hours a day five days a week and that's all. Looks like this old gentleman had the right idea, but was a mite before his time.

The thing that turns us against folks who work these kind of hours is their attitude. They take on a "the world owes me a living" way; they don't earn but $2.65 per hour (with only time and a half for overtime) and they're striking for $3.10. Now, ain't that a terrible condition to be in. A man like Grandpa Vines would consider that kind of living quite a blessing and we kind of share that feeling. These "strikers" should first look up the definition of "greed" and then "laziness", they're bound to fall into one or the other of these categories.

And, if the shoe fits, wear it, we always say; and speaking of shoes, ours are sure getting run down Sitting down all day sure is rough on a cow's hide! Who'll give us credit?

Ah well, as the optimist would say: "we like air-conditioned, ventilated shoes, anyway!" On the bottom???

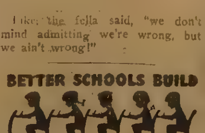
And the pessimist would say: "you will? But what if I can't pay you back?"

And the true blue storekeeper would say, "Don't worry about it, your credit's good".

And this overgenerous oaf—is the cause of it all!

You know yourself, we can't blame any one individual for his desire or obsession for "that green stuff". Our society demands it and some of us just go hog wild. That makes it "we" not "he".

Like the fella said, "we don't mind admitting we're wrong, but we ain't wrong!"



Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

On Wednesday of last week Congress placed a $3.3 billion ceiling on the amount that could be provided in new funds for the 1958 mutual security program. President Eisenhower promptly urged Congress to appropriate the full $3.3 billion and warned that any reduction might necessitate a special session of Congress in November.

Despite the President's warning, the House Appropriations Committee on the following day recommended only $2.5 billion in new funds for the mutual security program. The House of Representatives promptly upheld the Committee's action and sent the bill containing the reduced amount to the Senate for its consideration.

While the Senate is expected to restore a substantial part of the House cut, I am quite certain the final appropriation for mutual security will be considerably less than the amount the President has indicated he considers a bare minimum. Most members doubt, however, that he will call a special session of Congress in November.

POSTAGE RATE INCREASE

While I supported reductions in the mutual security program, I voted last week in opposition to the postal rate increase that received House approval. This latter legislation provides a rate increase of one cent for both first class letters and postal cards. It also raises airmail rates from 6 to 7 cents and airmail cards from 4 to 5 cents. In addition, it increases rates on second-class mail by 15 per cent for each of the next four years.

Although the effective date of this measure is October 1 next, it is doubtful that the Senate will act on the bill before adjournment.

FUNDS FOR WARRIOR

Included in the public works appropriation bill that received final congressional approval last week was the sum of $2 million for the Warrior Lock and Dam. This important installation, located on the Warrior River between Hale and Greene Counties, was begun in 1954 and will be completed next year.

Also included in the bill was the sum of $1.7 million for the Jackson Lock and Dam, another important installation that is presently under construction on the Warrior-Tombigbee Waterway.

SEWERAGE FUNDS

Under the provisions of the Water Pollution Act that was passed by Congress only last year, federal grants have already been approved for three Sixth District cities for the construction of sewerage facilities. They are Tuscaloosa, Clanton and Northport.

Final approval was given last week by the U. S. Public Health Service for a $250,000 grant to the City of Tuscaloosa for construction of its proposed $1,303,000 sewage treatment plant. The sum allocated to Tuscaloosa in federal funds represents the maximum amount available for any one project.

Clanton also received final approval last week of its application for $69,282 to construct interceptor and outfall sewers and a secondary sewage treatment plant. The total cost of the Calnton project is estimated to be $230,5[illegible].

The City of Northport has planned a secondary sewage treatment plant to cost approximately $333,000. Northport' application for $99,900 in federal funds received preliminary approval last Friday.

As Congress provides additional funds for this program, other eligible Sixth District communities will also be able to receive federal assistance in the construction of urgently needed sewerage facilities.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

BY C. WILSON HARDER

It appears investigation of labor affairs by Senate committee headed by Sen. John McClellan (Ark.) will not stop with sorry situation in Teamster's Union.

* * *

Neither are these probes expected to end up in so-called "union busting," largely because Big Business breeds labor organizations to deal with the management of huge corporations which otherwise in madness for power might run amuck.

C. W. Harder

But shocking as many of the disclosures are, they come as no surprise to nation's independent businessmen.

On several occasions, nation's businessmen, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, have urged unions be made liable to nation's anti-trust laws. So far no action has ever been taken.

* * *

Yet some of worst abuses coming to light stem directly from fact unions have been permitted to roam at will through economic structure with no checks on irresponsibility of a few leaders.

Thus, conspiracies have been entered into between unprincipled leaders and their counterparts in some aggressive firms whereby they have jointly stacked the cards against competition.

* * *

Occasionally, such as the machinations of James Hoffa as reported in this column months ago, independent competition has been forced out to permit firms formed by labor leader associates to have a free hand.

These conspiracies have usually not been known to, or condoned by, either dues paying rank and file members, or responsible labor leaders. In great majority, American labor, as all other citizens, believe in fair play.

But naked power has been there for anyone to abuse.

And that power has been the freedom of labor leaders, if they so desire, to ignore the laws which govern the rest of the nation and engage in conspiracies for restraint of trade, price fixing, and sundry other unholy practices. It is a tribute to majority of labor leaders this power has not been used even more.

But to many observers of the current economic scene, there is grave doubt there could have occurred such great concentrations in the hands of so few in such industries as baking, dairying and brewing, for example, without active conspiratorial agreements entered into with the unscrupulous elements in labor. Obviously, no higher degree of scruples has prevailed on the other side of the desk, either.

When anti-trust laws are enforced, independent business by better management, employing advantages inherent in personal ownership, can compete successfully against big corporations.

But when opposition is allied with labor leaders willing to take advantage of their immunity from anti-trust laws, survival is well nigh impossible.

But paradoxically, if some labor leaders are jailed as result of current probes, it will not be on the grounds they have engaged in jungle economic warfare. Rather, they will run afoul of income tax laws. This reliance on income tax laws to punish economic malfeasance is not only wrong in principle, but places an unfair burden on the Internal Revenue service. Thus, as nation's independent businessmen know, if labor organizations had been placed under anti-trust laws, such scandals as now rock nation would not have been possible.

26 Cases Of Paralytic Polio In Ala. This Year

MONTGOMERY—As of August 10, 28 cases of polio have been reported in Alabama during 1957. The State Health Department said this week that there were 26 cases during the same period last year.

The Department said that 26 of the 1957 cases are paralytic.

Twenty-three of the paralytic polio victims had no Salk vaccine. None of the other three had received all three shots believed necessary for maximum protection.

Miner Gets Homer; Seales On Top--

Scoring High As Clanton "Stars" Take On All Challengers

Special To The News
By B. B. BATES

GAELS 13 — "STARS" 7

The Montgomery Gaels blasted the Clanton pitching staff for 20 hits and carried home a 13 to 7 win over the "Stars". The Stars erratic fielding did not help matters any and Bobby Wyatt was tagged with his 4th loss. He has 6 wins.

This Tuesday night game saw Larry Minor getting the "Stars" first grandslam homer of the year. Minor's homer cleared the right field fence in the 8th inning. He also batted in one 9th inning run.

"STARS" 22 — BLOCTON 14

Larry Minor and Pete McKee made sure the "Stars" would not lose two straight games. Minor batted in 7 runs with a double, triple and homerun. McKee responded with a double and his 4th homerun of the year. McKee's hits plated 4 runners.

Jimmy Harper gave up 15 hits, but with the "Stars" running wild, Harper coasted in with win No. 4. He has one loss. The "Stars" scored their 22 runs in the Friday night game by putting together 15 hits and 14 walks. West Blockton was led by Holsonbeck's single, double and triple.

"STARS" 11 — THORSBY 3

Royce Seales gave the "Stars" the lift needed to subdue Thorsby in the Saturday game 11 to 3. Seales played at third base in a switch that moved Ellison to shortstop.

Seales handled 5 assists and 2 putouts in perfect fashion. At the bat Seales walked once and then his 4th inning single plated one runner. The 6th inning saw Seales blasting a 2-run home far over the right field fence. He singled again in the 8th and scored 4 runs himself.

The 3 hits boosted Seales into the Club's batting lead for the first time this season. As the "Stars" prepared for their Sunday game, Seales held a .395 batting mark.

Bobby Easterling had 2 hits and Richard "The Ripper" Easterling won his 5th game against one loss. The "Stars" backed up "the Ripper" with perfect fielding all afternoon.

DOUBLE HEADER—

"STARS" 12 — BESSEMER 2

The Clanton "Stars" took the first game of Sunday's double-header from the Bessemer All-Stars 12 to 2, behind the hit pitching of Bobby Wyatt who checked in with his 7th win. The visitors boasted a strong lineup of heavy hitters, but never could solve the "Peak Form" pitching of Wyatt. The big gun of the Clanton attack was Bannister who slashed out 2 singles and a double that were good for 4 runs. Pete McKee's 6th inning homer was his 5th of the year.

BESSEMER 8 — "STARS" 3

The Bessemer All-Stars came back to win the night cap 8 to 3. Trammel was the winning pitcher. L. D. Easterling the loser. Walker's hitting led the visitors. The centerfielder had a double and a home run.

Royce Seales is the "Stars" leading hitter with an average of .387. B. Easterling .384 and McKee .369. McKee leads in R.B.I's with 28, Seales 22 and Bannister 21.

"MOONWATCHERS"—

Alabamians To Participate In Geophysical Year

WASHINGTON—Senator John Sparkman (D., Ala.) reported today on Alabama's role in the International Geophysical Year.

The International Geophysical Year is an 18-month period set aside by agreement of approximately 60 nations to carry on coordinated observations to learn more about the earth's surface, its oceans and its surrounding atmosphere.

Once these observations end, participating nations will pool their data and come up with a comprehensive report designed to throw more light on the physical and chemical make-up of the earth and its atmosphere.

"Units in Montgomery and Sylacauga, Ala., will participate in observations associated with the International Geophysical Year," Sparkman said.

The Montgomery U. S. Weather Bureau station is taking part in the IGY high altitude meteorological program, which will employ improved balloons to measure temperature, pressure, and winds up to 100,000 feet above the earth, according to Sparkman.

"A MOONWATCH team will be active at Sylacauga," he said. "Operation MOONWATCH is the title assigned the visual observer program for the earth satellite. This program is being directed by the Smithsonian Institution.

"Volunteers armed with binoculars have been designated to watch the satellite as it encircles the earth," Sparkman stated. "These observers will send reports to the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass.; there all visual observation data about the satellite will be coordinated."

Sylacauga's MOONWATCH team leaders are Mr. B. L. Merkel and Mr. E. J. Smith, according to Sparkman.

One IGY project calls for regular visual observation of aurora at many locations, using simple measuring aids, and involves individuals who voluntarily watch for aurora, recording character, approximate position, and time of displays.

The project will be coordinated by Professor C. W. Gartlein, Cornell University. Two individuals in Alabama, who will serve as amateur observers for aurora in connection with Professor Gartlein's project, are B. L. Harrell, Gadsden, and John A. Connell, Montgomery.

Egg Prices On The Up Again

DEMAND IS PASSING THE SUPPLY AGAIN

Egg prices are going up! And predictions call for a bigger rise than just the usual seasonal increase, too!

In fact, some foresee egg prices climbing several cents per dozen higher than they are now. And after late summer, it is believed that prices will probably be higher than they were last fall. Alabama egg prices in June ran 5.9 cents per dozen lower than in June 1956.

State hatchery and U. S. Department of Agriculture reports indicate that almost 20 percent fewer replacement pullets are being raised in the nation than last year. This decrease points to a sharper-than-usual drop in egg production during the last half of this year. Also, hatcheries have taken fewer eggs so far this year than they did in 1956.

In Alabama the story is slightly different, with replacement chicks during the first six months of the year runnnig two percent above the same period one year ago.

But the number of layers on fa in June was four percent below t number in June 1956. Howeve these layers produced 70 milli eggs in June, the same number pr duced the year before, showing increase in rate of production p bird in the state.

Americans have been eating abo the same number of eggs they last year, despite the lower pri and record consumer incomes. She egg storage increased this sprin and July 1 stocks were the secon largest for that date since 195 Frozen egg stocks are about th same as last year.

Federal Land Bank Offers Credit Life Insurance

Mr. G. B. Auburtin, Secretary-Treasurer of the Canebrake National Farm Loan Association advises that credit life insurance is now being made available for the first time with Federal Land Bank loans made through his association. This insurance, Mr. Auburtin says, is being made available to both present members and new borrowers who have not yet reached 66 years of age.

The New Orleans bank, one of of 12 Federal land banks, is now in its 40th year. It is farmer-owned, all of its stock being held by local national farm loan associations, and has a net worth in excess of 50 million dollars. The farm loan associations are themselves owned by local farmers, thus completing the cooperative cycle.

Mr. Auburtin advises that farmers find the land bank loan with its low cost and favorable terms of great help, especially at times when money is tight and that he feels that credit life insurance which will pay up to 10,000 in the event of the borrower's death, will relieve the family of an obligation that has many times proven to be more than they could carry.

ABUNDANT LIFE

FAITH CAN SPREAD CONCRETE

This is the story of Ralph Q. It is the story of a man who learned to use his faith in an active, positive way. Many feel that God would like for us to be drab, dreary and broken on the wheel of fortune. But let him tell you what happened to him.

"Well, it happened in a pinochle game. I was sitting at the table playing cards and drinking a mug of beer. In the midst of that game, something spoke to me and said, 'Ralph Q., get out of here and go to church.'

"I was 26 years old at that time. I was married and had two children. I was broke, and on relief. I drew $3,00 a week from the local relief agency.

"I hardly knew how to go about obeying that voice. I did know that my wife went once in a while so I went home and asked her about going to church. And so my wife and I, her sister and her sister's husband went to church together. That day I gave my heart to God.

"Then and there I made a consecration. I didn't have much. I wasn't much, but all that I had and all that I was belonged to God! When the offering plate passed, I dropped in $1.00 that I had saved out of the $3.00 that the relief agency had given me that week.

"I went back to the relief agency the next day—not to get three dollars but to tell them that I was no longer on their list. Then with faith that God would help me, I went out to earn a living for my family. I had an old buzz saw that I had built myself. It was not the most dignified work in the world, but it was honest and I sawed wood for my neighbors or anyone that I could.

"After 30 days of working with the buzz saw, I traded it for an old truck and gave $2.00 to boot. That was the beginning of my present $300,000 plants and equipment.

"The Lord blessed my efforts and as I used my faith in Him, more and more came my way

"The Bible tells us that faith can remove mountains. It can spread concrete too. My ready-mix concrete business has more than doubled within the last year This year, I spread 17,499 yards of concrete—more than twice the former yearly output. Today I own a fleet of 14 trucks and have opened a new plant in Sycamore, Illinois.

"What I have told you is not to boast, but to testify. God is a good God. He honors the faith of His people.

"As I look back over the past 19 years, I keep remembering that day when, in a gesture of surrender to God's will, I pulled the last dollar I had in the world out of my pocket and gave it to God's work. I thank God for faith in my heart to believe He would bring me out. From that day, I have found that the more I give to God the more He keeps giving to me.

"The man who went there with me that night gave a dime, kept some and stayed on relief. I gave a dollar, kept nothing, and found a new and abundant way of life.

How engineers design modern concrete roads to save lives and money

Highway engineers design these four important features into the main roads they are building today to give highway users the utmost in safety, comfort and service.

Controlled access provides safe entry or exit from the road at periodic intervals while allowing continuous speed for through traffic.

No grade crossings and no stop lights! On modern highways all traffic on intersecting roads goes over or under the highway.

Wide median strips separate opposing streams of traffic. Result: no blinding lights, no danger of a head-on collision.

Wide traffic lanes allow you more room. And maximum safety results when the lanes are paved with concrete. Concrete is skid-resistant, wet or dry. Its light color provides the best night visibility. Concrete lasts longer, costs less to maintain, gives low-annual-cost service.

The 41,000-mile National System of Interstate and Defense Highways is scheduled to be built by 1972. When finished it will provide safer, faster, more comfortable travel for everyone.

STATE CAPITOL—

NEW SKYSCRAPER ON GOAT HILL

The State's giant $3 million new office building is now rapidly rising behind the beautiful old Capitol in Montgomery. It's concrete and steel walls have already reached the third floor.

On completion, said to be in August 1958, the structure will be seven stories high with a basement.

Architectually, the new office building will match the large office building and State Highway building on the Southwest and Northwest corners of the Capitol grounds, respectively, and tone with the Archives and History Department building on the Southside of the grounds located on top of Dexter Avenue's incline, Montgomery, known to political figures and newspapermen as "Goat Hill."

Meanwhile, some old frame houses on the North side of the Capitol are being razed to make room for a parking lot for State employees.

The construction of this major new office building will therefore, be another step forward to completion of the long-range overall plan for all the State Government's departments to be housed in, or immediately adjacent to the Capitol in a planned way, with lawns and landscaping highlighting the beauty of the structures of these buildings.

Photographing of these impressive white office buildings from the steps of the State Capitol, as well as photographing of the Capitol, is a favorite pastime of thousands of tourists who visit Montgomery each year.

As Gov. James E. Folsom has said: "These snapshots taken back home by visitors from other states, are a fine advertisement of Alabama as rising, modern, progressive State."

The office building is being financed by a bond issue requested by the Governor, and authorized by the 1955 session of the State Legislature.

In olden days, goats were pastured on the grass slopes leading to the Capitol, and so the name "Goat Hill" came about. In these times, however when a broad main street, flanked by stores and office buildings, have erased all signs of the once green pastures, so the term has a slight change in its directive meaning now. They call it "kidding themselves".

The Sand Of Time--

And How It Changes Things

WORLD TRAVELERS, IN THE FORM OF "57 SR'S.

By Miss Carolyn Tucker

Ya'know, it's funny how time can change things, isn't it? Just a few months ago there was a bunch of kids raising cane and having a glorious (?) time at the Chilton County High School. I think they were called seniors, but it was sorta hard to tell by the way they carried on. Anyway a few months ago they were all together, and now. . .

Well, now they have separated and gone their different ways. Let's just see where some of them have gone and what they are doing!

Ann Boozer is in New York right now, but is planning to leave for college in Miami. Peggy Carroll is a Dental Assistant at Dr. Kinyon Vinson's office, here in town. Kenneth Corbett has "flown-the-coop" and gotten married and moved to Texas.

Jimmy Cox, Harold Henderson, and Johnell Lawrence are busy making plans for business School in Birmingham, Jeanette Duren and Peggy Brown are already in Birmingham going to school, and Elnora DeVaughn has already left for Montevallo College.

Quite a few of the old stand-bys are still 'standing by" right here at home. To name a few: Elmer Harris, Terry Jones, Bobby Littlejohn, Myra Meacham, Betty Sue Martin, Donald and Jimmy Mart Donald Minor, and Buddy Robins

Ralph "Herb" Vines is working in Birmingham now and says he likes it "pretty well, if you can say you like work". John D. Vines is still holding down the Jitney-Jungle and Tommy Smith is still making the curl on the Dairy Queen ice cream "curl". Linda Wade is away as a counselor at camp, but will be coming home before long just in time to leave again for college.

Quite a few of our girls have gone down the aisle since school and one or two are "drawing closer" to it. Some of those married are Myra Sanders (to Kenneth Patterson); Geraldine Miller (to Buddy Logan), and Martha Sue Miller (to Gerald Bradberry). The only engaged one right now that I know of is Jeanette Duren (to Percy Scott). Mildred Williams is sittin' pretty down in Montgomery as a telephone operator and Mavis Wyatt and Levoy Wilson are still around home.

Well, some of the Seniors of last year are scattered over a lot of territory. We wish them the best of luck and Godspeed always.

Maybe we'll see them when they get together in 1962. Be looking at ya'.—C.F.T.

What? Nobody In Service—

GRADUATES OF MAPLESVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

WHERE AND HOW THEY ARE

By Miss Dot Mathis

Many times people wonder what happens to a High School graduating class after the cap and gown has been put away.

A check on the class that graduated from the Maplesville High School this past year reveals that they become scattered in many directions after the cap and gown is put away.

For instance, in this class there were 21 boys and 12 girls.

Here's a breakdown of what we mean when we say "scattered":

Now employed in Birmingham are the following: Laura Ann Dennis. Hazel Chandler with Southern Bell Telephone Company, Buddy Williams (firm unknown) and Harold Motley with Hayes Aircraft Corp.

Working in Selma is Billy Davis (employment unknown and Henry Lee Walker at Quick Freeze. Employed up in Ohio with a pipeline are Jap Perry and Jimmy Johnson. Working in Maplesville are: Dale Green; Leslie Benton, Stremming Veneer Company; C. W. Rush, Yellow Front Store and Kenneth Mitchell at Woody's Truck Stop.

Three of the girls are married and still in Maplesville according to Miss Dot Mathis, daughter of the News' Maplesville Correspondent They are Lynda Goff, married to J. T. Chandler, Helen Trott to Charles Lenoir and Jean Moore to Bill (Bo) Murphy.

Miss Mathis said the ones that are at home for the summer are: Howell Atchison, Cecil Sims, Roy McGee, Jo Ann Lawley, Peggy Joyce Hayes, Lexie Nichols, Del Ray Royster, James Wilson, Arland Chandler, Eddie Higginbotham (waiting to go to college this fall), W. C. Hayes, Jimmy Harrison, Jimmy Rasberry, Fred Shoults and Miss Betty Stewart, who is waiting to enter Nurses Training in Birmingham. Those in Montgomery are Slyvia Moore with Southern Bell Telephone Company and Edward Fuqua, who is attending Business College.

Attending Summer School are Smitty Williams, some place in Florida and Dot Mathis, according to our report.

We might add, that this class is not only scattered, it is diversified into many fields of business and higher education. It would seem that Maplesville has something to be proud of in the Class of '57.

"EXCEPTIONAL JOB"—

Yeargan And County Praised For Cancer Crusade

Chilton County has been praised by the American Cancer Society for "an exceptional job" in the 1957 educational and fund-raising crusade.

Mortimer Jordan of Birmingham, State chairman, said "the people of Alabama and the nation owe the fine public-spirited citizens of Chilton County a debt of gratitude for your wonderful support of the Cancer Society's program and your participation in its voluntary efforts to help others."

E. R. Yeargan of Thorsby, County crusade chairman, was commended for outstanding leadership in the campaign which put the county over its quota of funds. Robert S. Thompson of Thorsby was co-chairman

The state as a whole exceeded its $275,000 share of the national quota, reporting the most successful campaign in the society's history in Alabama.

Alabama has never failed to exceed its share of the national quota.

Cancer Society activities in Alabama include a continuous program of public information, an extensive research program, and service to medically indigent cancer patients.

Since 1945, eht American Cancer Society has spent more than $1,000,000 on research projects in Alabama.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town by Ben

According to Deputy Smith the men of Hugh Champion are hitting away at the moonshiners regularly. This week they destroyed another still 10 miles southeast of Maplesville. Two drums of mash were dumped, but no arrests were made. The birds had "flew" the coop before the Sheriff's men arrived.

Saturday night at 7:30 the Chilton County Unity Youth Rally will be held at Samaria Baptist Church. Everyone has a cordial invitation to be there, but the youth are especially urged to come.

Mrs. Nell Powers is much interested in a good attendance at the first meeting of the Clanton Elementary Parent-Teachers Association next Tuesday at 2:45. It is every parent's duty to attend these meetings and lend their assistance to the school their child attends. See if you can make arrangements to be there.

One day a farmers' hired hand received fifty cents too much in his pay envelope, but he didn't say a word.

During the week the farmer noticed his mistake, and on the next pay day deducted fifty cents.

"Excuse me, sir," said the hired man, "I'm fifty cents short this week."

"You didn't complain last week."

"No, sir," said the hired man. "I figured I'd overlook one mistake, but when it happens twice, then it's time to say something."

Rev. Nelson White, pastor at Temple Church is really proud of the attendance at Vacation Bible School that has been in session for the past two weeks. He started with an enrollment of some 70 children and attendance, we understand, has reached nearly one hundred now. Rev. White is doing a good work and making friends here. But don't let us fail to mention his good helper and wife. Mrs. White is quite popular and is certainly due her share of credit for the good work they are doing.

History proves that a man's past sometimes takes a short cut and heads off his future.

Today's automobiles may have all the modern gadgets but there are still too many who go at such a speed they fail to turn when the road does.

This one is very old, but very appropriate at this season of the year. Little Johnny's mother had registered her son at school for the first time and she gave the teacher a long list of instructions "My Johnny is so sensitive," she explained to the teacher, "don't ever punish him. Just slap the boy next to him. That will frighten Johnny."

W. W. Barron of Mitchell Dam Road has been laid up with Asiatic flu for the past two weeks. He says it is no fun and warns all who may have been exposed to be careful. He is real thankful to his friends and neighbors for their thoughtfulness while he was sick. He says he can't thank them enough. Especially does he appreciate the care given him by B. B. Burdette. He says he will always remember the kindness he received during his illness.

4-H'ers To Exhibit Champion Chicks At County Fair

JERRY WAYNE JACKSON, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Jackson, Jemison, Ala., is showing John D. Sellers, Assistant County Agent, a basket of eggs and one of his prze pullets that just came into production.

Jerry is one of the ten County 4-H Club members who plan to exhibit selected pullets from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation 4-H poultry chain project, during the County Fair — September 2nd - 7th.

Last fall, the Sears - Roebuck Foundation made funds available for securing baby chicks for ten Chilton County 4-H Club members. Six boys and four girls, who had previously indicated an interest in learning scientific methods of poultry producton and management, were selected. In February they were given 50 3-day old sexed white leghorn pullets each, valued at 40c per chick. Each member has since then been visited by some member of the Extension personnel to advise on feeding, vaccination, disease and parasite preventions, as well as general management problems. They have also received, through the mail, information relative to the many phases of poultry production.

These pullets are now coming into production and a representative sample—ten from each project—will be on exhibit at the County Fair, Thursday, September 5th, at 2:00 p.m. Mr. Hoyt Warren, Extension Poultry Specialist, will be on hand to judge and decide which 4-H Club member deserves top money for doing the best job of producing these chicks.

PREMIUMS

1st Place	$20.00	and Ribbon
2nd Place	$15.00	and Ribbon
3rd Place	$10.00	and Ribbon
4th Place	$ 8.00	and Ribbon
5th Place	$ 7.00	and Ribbon
6th thru 10th Place	$5.00	and Ribbon

AUCTIONED OFF

After the show, the pullets will be auctioned and sold to the highest bidder. The money they return will be used to buy baby chicks for ten other 4-H members next spring, still on a chain basis. In this way, the chain will continue to grow and give an opportunity to many 4-H Club Members to learn another phase of farming and scientific livestock management.

You may add to this project and at the same time reduce the cost of your family breakfast (eggs) by bidding on ten or more of these pullets for a back yard project. You may also secure the cage unit in which they are exhibited at a minimum cost.

Chicago-Wright Tops Off City Park Softball League

For the News
By G. D. JONES

In the playoffs of the City Park Softball League in Clanton the Chicago-Wright edged out the Civitans by a score of 7 to 6 to finish tops on the slate.

Monday night the Civitans had put Standard Oil out of the tournament and defeated Chicago-Wright 9 to 6.

The Civitans felt the loss that the double-header Monday caused them. Bert Snead and Johnny Smith were unable to play in the final game Tuesday.

Chicago-Wright came out top team in the eLague by defeating Civitan Tuesday night 7 to 6.

An extra good season was played and participants of the four City Park League enjoyed the sport enough to try again next season.

The League would, at this time, like to congratulate each member individually for the sportsmanship shown during these games. And, as a team, congratulations go to Chicago-Wright managers, Charles Wright and Buddy Taylor and the rest of the team: Royce Seales, L. D. Easterling, Walter Hayden, Larry Minor, Derald Bannister, Jack Hunter, Jr. Reynolds for a job well-done.

Reserve you a bleacher for next season and watch for news of the City Park League through your local Newspaper.

SPEAKS TO LIONS--

Smith Urges 'Concern' Of Clanton By-Pass

Build Best, While Federal Gov't. Will Assist

Members of the Clanton Lions Club heard a talk Friday on the new Federal highway program and the importance of modern roads to Chilton County and surrounding areas. Speaker was Starr Smith, Montgomery, public relations director in Alabama for the Portland Cement Association. Smith, widely-known speaker on highway matters and former NBC news reporter, was introduced by Glen Bashore, local attorney.

Smith told the Lions that the Federal highway construction program would run for approximately 13 years and would involve more than 33 billion dollars. He said the bulk of construction would center around the Interstate System, of which U. S. 31 is a part.

The Interstate System of highways, he said, comprises 41,000 miles of the most heavily traveled highways in the United States. Of this total mileage, there are over 900 miles on the Interstate System in Alabama. He quoted the Alabama Highway Department as saying that all 900 miles of Alabama's mileage would be "at least four lanes, even in the rural areas."

The "Clanton by-pass" which is now under construction east of the city is a part of the Interstate System.

STARR SMITH

When asked if the "Clanton by-pass" would be paved with concrete, Smith said, "This new highway will be built very near a large cement mill, the Southern Company's plant just over the Chilton County line in Shelby County. It would seem highly ironic if the new highway, designed for heavy traffic and passing near a cement mill which employs a large number of local people, is paved with anything other than concrete. This is a matter in which the people of the Clanton area may wish to concern themselves.

The decision as to whether concrete will be placed on the "Clanton by-pass" will be made by the Alabama Highway Department.

But I am sure the Highway Department will be guided to a large extent by the wishes of the people of Chilton County area, especially since it concerns a product manufactured in this section. If the people here believe the State of Alabama should support a local industry and if they want the "by-pass" paved with concrete, I am sure the Highway Department will be glad to consider it.'

Smith pointed out that all Interstate Highways, including the "Clanton by-pass" will be "limited access" highways.

He explained this by saying that a driver could get on and off the new roads only at certain points which are called "interchanges."

The new highways, he said, will eb paralleled by smaller, "service" roads which will be used until an "interchange" is reached.

In discussing the economy aspects of the new highways, Smith told the Lions, "The Federal Government is going to pay 90 percent of all construction costs and the State of Alabama will pay only 10 percent. However, once the new roads are built the State must then pay all maintenance as long as the highway is in use. With the maintenance cost as high as it is, many people in Alabama are urging the Highway Department to build the best highways possible while the Federal Government will pay 90 percent of construction costs. If we do this, we won't have to worry about maintenance costs for many years to come."

FOR ANOTHER YEAR—

Seymore Writes on Recall To Oak Grove

"Sunday the Oak Grove Baptist Church called me for another year. First, I want to thank the church for their confidence in me. Second, I want to thank the church for their fine cooperation during the past two years—some ten thousand dollars spent on improving the church building and we had 121 in S.S. Sunday.

Also all the people in the community have helped. Third, I covet the prayers and help of all to put on a greater Spiritual program that will bless all the community. It is that opportunity. — W. R. SEY-

EXPERIENCE proves that the things it doesn't pay to do are never realized until it is too late.

NEARLY everybody is in favor of doing right—for the other fellow.

WHEN a man is no more successful than he expected—he is a failure.

IT makes little difference to people if the world is round or flat, so long as they can make both ends meet.

SOME folks condemn the worry habit one minute and practice it the next.

AFTER a certain age the thing that makes a man tick needs considerable mending.

Senate's Conscience Should Guide It----

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has told the nation through his press conference that he is "tremendously disappointed" that Congress has not given him the legislation his program called for. Further, he seemed a little hurt and puzzled that Congress would disagree with his conviction that "what I plead for are the programs that I believe to be good for America".

The President told the same conference that he hoped the Senate would restore "every cent" of the money cut by the House from the foreign aid bill. He added that "I would like to be very firm, because I honestly believe that we are here sacrificing the tool that means more to our leadership in holding together the voluntary federation that must combat Communism in the world than any other thing". But at the same time he retracted last week's threat of an extra session, saying that: "In a sense they have a special session going right now."

But we think the great majority of the American people, and completely irrespective of party alignment, would be "tremendously disappointed" if the Senate were now to undo the courageous work of the House in facing up to the need for serious cutting of a runaway budget.

And as the President himself said, ". . . if these programs that I suggest are not right for the United States, then they (the Congress) should oppose them".

Let the Senators take a good look at their overburdened country - and stand fast!

GET READY FOR THE FAIR----

TIME DOES fly and it is time again to get ready to attend the annual Chilton County Fair at Gragg Field.

Funny thing about a Fair and a Carnival: with the rides, the many-colored lights, the cotton candy, the side-shows and the many other attractions; it is as old as time, but it is ever new. It is enjoyed and appreciated by the old and the young alike.

Many workers are responsible for the success of the Fair this year, and we say "success", for it just couldn't fail with all the hard work put into it by so many of our businessmen and leading citizens. They are too numerous to name here, but when you are enjoying the fruits of their labor, be sure to remember that Clanton and Chilton County will never go backward so long as leaders like the members of the Kiwanis Club, Lions Clubs, Civitan Club, Pilots, Chilton County Chamber of Commerce and the businessmen in general who have contributed their share to the grand total.

We're sure it will be the best Chilton County Fair ever and those workers are looking for you there to support it.

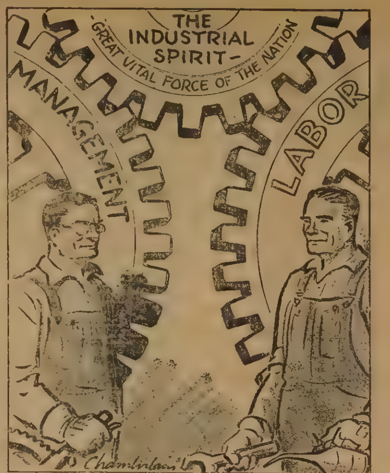
FALL IS IN THE AIR----

ONE OF THE prettier seasons is coming up. Fall has been in the night air for the past several nights and a light blanket hasn't felt too bad.

Fall has always been one of our favorite seasons and we are looking forward to enjoying the golden harvest, the fresh brisk air, the varicolored leaves and trees, and the "back-to-school" movement. That is one we will miss this year for the first time in many, many years.

You can bet your "socks" it's Fall in Alabama when cotton starts moving to the gins—and cotton has started moving to the gins.

Why We Celebrate "Labor Day"----



IT WAS IN MAY, 1882, that one Peter J. McGuire, president of an organization of carpenters and joiners in New York, conceived the idea that one day out of the year ought to be set aside "in honor of labor."

Mr. McGuire contended that our country had holidays representative of the religious, civil and military spirit, but none "representative of the industrial spirit, the great vital force of the nation." He proposed that a "Labor Day" should be observed on the first Monday in September, since the date fell about half way between Independence Day and Thanksgiving Day.

So it came to being and gradually thru the years it became a legal holiday which is now observed in all our states.

Labor and management, employee and employer—in fact, all of us free Americans—join on Labor Day to pay tribute to "the industrial spirit, the great vital force of the nation." We respect the cooperation between honest, dedicated and responsible leadership in the American system which has made us the most progressive, most powerful and most prosperous nation on earth. All of us—regardless of our work or status in life—enjoy its fruits, in the highest standard of living the world has ever known.

SOME of the folks who claim they didn't receive justice would be in worse shape if they had.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

An agreement was reached last week-end among the Republican nad Democratic leaders in both the House and the Senate on a compromise version of the so-called civil rights bill, and a vote is expected on it this week.

While the original measure proposed by President Eisenhower and Attorney General Brownell was even worse, the compromise bill is still extremely dangerous and should never be approved by Congress. Unfortunately for those of us who will be primarily affected by it, this measure has become a political issue and will be considered on that basis rather than on its merits.

FIRE ANT FUNDS

Residents of the 6th District who are being plagued by the destructive fire ant will be interested in an appropriation approved by Congress last week for controlling this insect pest. A total of $4 million was included in the Supplemental Appropriations Bill that can be used to initiate control programs for the fire ant and the screw worm.

If the measure is signed by the President, the Department of Agriculture is expected to spend over half of the appropriation to provide technical supervision of control programs, conduct surveys, and invoke quarantines in order to curb the migration of the fire ant.

VETERANS' LEGISLATION

Two bills affecting veterans and their dependents have been passed by the House and Senate and sent to the President for his expected approval. One of the measures extends the direct loan program until July 25, 1959 and authorizes an additional $200 million for financing its operations during the next two years. In addition, the bill increases the maximum amount of a direct loan from $10,000 to $13,500 and permits the Veterans Administration to make commitments to builders upon payment of a two per cent fee.

This measure is designed to encourage new residential construction in small towns and rural areas by liberalizing the provisions of the veterans program.

The other measure, also approved last week by Congress, liberalizes the basis for determining the eligibility of widows for veterans benefits. Under the terms of this legislation, a widow who was married to a veteran for five or more years, or for any period of time if a child was born of the marriage, will be eligible to receive compensation.

This test of eligibility will be applied to widows of veterans of all wars, thereby greatly simplifying the present law which provides different marriage requirements for widows of the veterans of each war.

ADJOURNMENT NEAR

Congress is scheduled to vote this week on the civil rights bill and on the mutual security appropriation bill. Should these votes materialize, Congress will probably adjourn this week-end.

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

By "TUCK"

Why is it some folks, especially the menfolk, consider it "weak" or "unstable" to ask advice of another before making up your mind about a thing. In our opinion, if we want ot know something about potatoes we ask a potato grower; if we want to know something about cars we'd go to a car dealer or mechanic; if we wanted to know something specific about law we'd go to a judge or a lawyer. Seeking advice does not indicate weakness in our book; on the contrary, it seems to us that seeking advice on a subject makes you more prolific on that subject and thus enables you to draw a saner conclusion and have a more intelligent opinion. There's nothing wrong with inviting intelligence. By omitting it you are inviting ignorance and where does that get you? You can form your opinion with the help of advice from others without endangering your freedom to choose, what you please, as you please.

And so, the Fair is upon us. The Chilton County Fair. It is a means of neighbor meeting neighbor; exchanging ideas, opinions, progresses and solutions to failures. It is for you and depends on your support. If you are not too much of an introvert you wil lenjoy this year's Fair. Even if you are inclined towards the wallflower type, you may learn something, and in so doing get a little further from the wall. We'll see you at the Fair. (Sept. 2-7).

Sex and filth, accepted by many as one and the same should be separated through some means of our society. They are as far apart as any two words we know of, in their basic meaning, but somewhere down through the years they have become intermingled and came out synonymous. These magazines on the newsstands serve as a "for instance"; we do not condone the publishing of these in their present form, but we do understand why, or partly. Nature has a way of forcing a desire on us and we are weak. The fault lies in public acceptance of this so-called filth instead of screening out the filth for what little good there is left. Sex itself is not wrong and we all know it. The imagination of our minds making it something it is not and then the fact hat our society lets these imaginations run amock is the basic wrong. When we start correcting the minds that are inventing this rot then we will be on the road to reconstructing the basic meaning of the word "sex". Until that time it is apparently up to the clean-minded individuals to steer the course of our society. A task, but a rewarding one. We might start by seeking to obliterate some of the filth. Since it is derived from the imagination then it should be possible to do away with it, even if gradually. The good in life is always difficult to come by, the evil comes by itself.

In this old world of ours, there are three distinct classes: There's a working calss, a piddling class and a "world-owes-us-a-living" class. To which of these do you belong, friend.

How come it's so honorable to obtain a credit standing, and so dishonorable when you can't pay all the big bills at once?

One thing you can say for liars. . . they are!

We were informed this week that one of our number in Sunday School is leaving for Birmingham to live. He is Willie T. (Little Willie) Vines and he has been a faithful member of our class at the Methodist Church since before we started teaching it. We will sorely miss him. He came faithfully in good weather and bad and was always a gentleman in our presence. We feel that the Magic City's gain is our loss in this instance and hope Willie T. can return to Clanton some day, maybe even back to the "Followers of Christ" Class of which, for what its worth to him, he was a charter member.

"Cologne" Brings Aroma To Clanton

"A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME. . . ETC."

Visiting the A. K. Corbetts, of Clanton last week were Chief Warrant Officer W. R. Suggs and family and with them on the visit was the household pet "Cologne".

The "charming" little animal was approximately six days old when Mr. Suggs found it in a Lake Chas. Air Base warehouse, where the mother had brought her litter of four and put them under a woodpile.

Mr. Suggs immediately consulted the base veterinarian as to the care of the "baby". It was put on a three-hour feeding schedule and a diet consisting of diluted evaporated milk with pablum, fed by medicine dropper strained liver and also vitamins twice daily.

At the time of its Clanton visit, the pet was nearly a month old. Cologne was affectionate;, cuddly and playful and afraid of no one. She made lots of friends and admirers while in Clanton.

In case you haven't guessed by now "Cologne" is a skunk, and very unappropriately named to say the least. Good news however. We have been informed that upon her return to Lake Charles she has an appointment to be deodorized and will no doubt then deserve her name much more than before.

Mr. and Mrs. Corbett, with whom Cologne visited have recently been discharged from the service and are making their home in Clanton.

Why Is A Law A Law?

By BOB TUCKER

Our interpretation of the law is that the law (meaning governing bodies) is the law (meaning of the people) and should be so written that there is only one possible literal interpretation; one that every citizen, no matter who, is obliged to abide by.

To say the law can be interpreted in many ways is, in a way false, because if such is the case, then it is not "the law". Anything that can be interpreted in many ways cannot pertain directly to one thing. Each of our laws should be directly pertaining to one specific thing.

Now, we had a City Ordinance passed and made public a few months ago concerning "racket" made by automobiles and other vehicles. We are of the assumption that ordinances are closely enough related to laws to be binding and yet this ordinance has been sorely abused, neglected and obviously has fallen by the wayside.

It is our contention that the City officials do not go up on Monday night just to beat their tired gums about certain matters. Why then this oversight? Good intentions seldom get you where you started; we can personally vouch for that, as most of you can. Making the Ordinance was the City Fathers job. The enforcing of it and abiding by it is up to us as individuals and we are sorely in need of a new approach to the field, because this one is leading us in circles.

First we get up, publicly announce that loud noises from automobiles and other vehicles is peace-disturbing and therefore unlawful; then we say, people who don't abide by this ruling will be subject to fine, jail, etc.; then we sit down.

Boy, that's a good ordinance isn't it? Bet that'll do the trick. Only one mistake was made throughout these proceedings and that was the "sitting down" just before the work started.

We cannot stand up and say "it's illegal" and then sit ourselves back down, secure in the knowledge that the mere fact that it was mentioned will take care of it.

After having the fortitude to mention the fact that it needed attention keep standing until action is seen and results evidence themselves.

One man armies are not our business. Neither is one City Council able to change the public's attitude toward a certain thing.

If examples are needed to show the public that the governing body means what it says, then where are some examples?

Say what you think is right; do what you feel you have to do. Between these two things and the Guiding Hand, things just naturally work themselves out. The Lord helps those who help themselves.

TON AND SMALL BUSINESS

BY C. WILSON HARDER

Three-fourths of the nation's independent businessmen, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, have just voted against repealing state laws against union closed shops.

* * *

Many states have already outlawed the closed shop under which no one can be employed unless belonging to the union. Drives to affect this action have usually been called "The Right to Work Movement."

C. W. Harder

On the other side, some labor leaders brand these drives as "union busting." On this basis, it might be erroneously interpreted that the nation's independent businessmen wish to see unions dissolved.

Such is not the case. With the growth of almost monopolistic Big Business, the independent businessman knows that labor must have organizations.

But by and large, the nation's independent businessmen are realists. In the usual closed shop operation, union dues are collected by employer via paycheck deductions for union.

Thus, there is no need for union leaders to exercise economy, or prudent handling of union funds. This has been borne out by Beck investigations.

* * *

Above all else, successful businessmen must know human nature. And they know that it is just human nature that when funds can be collected by the compulsion route, all manners of abuse arise. Yet, a sizable share of independent businessmen so strongly believe in principle of unionism that they still hold cards in the union in the trade they formerly worked in.

* * *

In fact, many hold that the law which made it possible for income taxes to be deducted from wage checks lead to the waste in government spending.

* * *

As independent businessmen, they are also accustomed to selling their goods and services, and in that selling process, justify the price charged.

Thus, it may be that on the average, union dues are not too high. But there is no element entering into the closed shop agreements of union leadership selling to the rank and file that they are getting value for the dues paid.

* * *

This, then, as it does with government, breeds financial irresponsibility. And in this day and age, it is believed majority of American labor can be sold on wisdom of supporting a union, rather than being forced to do so.

There is nothing undesirable in the minds of the nation's independent businessmen in groups organizing to promote their common interest. In fact, a large share of the independent businessmen are organized on a free will basis in the National Federation of Independent Business.

* * *

But the big difference is in the fact that such organization is on a free will basis. The element of compulsion is not present.

And thus, these businessmen voted against the closed shop idea. Not from a standpoint of being anti-union, but from the viewpoint that most of organized labor's ills stem from the principle of compulsory payment of dues. The necessity to sell, as contrasted to compulsory methods, is still the greatest guarantee of organizational efficiency whether it be in the field of trade or labor associations, or in government.

Clanton "Stars" Enter Three Take Home Three

Special To The News
By B. B. BATES

STARS 3 — PRATTVILLE 2

Jimmy Harper sparked a 3-run 8th inning rally to edge out Prattville's Malcolm Esco in a duel of the Southpaws at Prattville's Park Friday Night 3 to 2.

After 7 scoreless innings Harper's tremendous triple followed by a Johnny Smith single broke the scoring drought. Bobby Easterling and his second single of the game set the stage for Bobby Wyatt's game winning double that plated the 2nd and 3rd runs of the inning.

Prattville's two 8th inning runs was not enough and Harper had pitched himself to his 5th win against one loss.

STARS 11 — BILLINGSLEY 9

Jack Dennis and "Battleship" Baunister teamed together to give the "Stars" a 11 to 9 win over Billingsley. Billingsley had taken an 8 to 2 second inning lead when Dennis went to the mound to relieve sore-armed Richard Easterling. Dennis checked Billingsley with 1 run over his 7 inning pitching span.

In the meantime the "Battleship" was bombarding Marion Grant, Billingsley pitcher with one single and 3 triples that were good for 4 RBI's. Clanton's winning run came in the 8th. Jack Dennis doubled and the "Battleship" brought him home with his 3rd consecutive three base hit.

"STARS" 6 — PRATTVILLE 3

The pitching of Bobby Wyatt was just too much for the Prattville Nine in Sunday's game at City Park and Wyatt chalked up win no. 8 for the year. (Incidentally, the right hander has a 3 - year pitching record of 36 wins and 7 losses, for the "Stars".

Two of the "Stars" 6 runs came as a result of Bobby Easterlings home run clout over the center field fence. The homer brought in Harper who had led off with a single. For the "Stars": Ellison Seales and Wyatt came through with 2 hits.

Kenneth Hill led the visitors with a walk, single and double.

The "Stars" have now won 12 of its last 15 starts leaving them with 19 wins and 10 losses.

Seales and B. Easterling are leading the hitters with identical .384 averages. McKee hitting at .363 leads in homeruns with 5 and RBI's wiht 30. Bannister has 25 RBI's and Seales 23.

PEACHES—

API DEPT. OF AG. MAKING SURVEY OF COUNTY CROP

IN CASE OF BUMPER CROP, WHAT OF MARKETING OUTLETS?

All Chilton County peach growers have received a copy of detailed peach production and marketing survey from the Department of Agricultural Economics, Auburn, Ala. This request for information is an attempt by the Department of Agricultural Economics to assist Chilton County peach producers and marketing leaders in averting marketing problems if and when the county's increased acreage produces a normal fruit crop. Questionnaires have been mailed to all growers and it is hoped that each will be completed and returned to Auburn at an early date.

The questionnaire does not request individual growers to attach a personal signature.

The Department of Agricultural Emonomics is not interested in the individual's business, they are interested in the County summary. If all producers will supply information on individual operations the County summary of untold future value can be tabulated. We want to encourage all growers to complete the form and forward it to Auburn at an early date.

If help is needed in replying to this questionnaire feel free to call by the County Agent's office for clarification of any questions involved.

If delays make you NERVOUS try our prompt, efficient REPAIR SERVICE Your watch is our business!

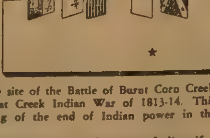
A Salute to

ESCAMBIA COUNTY

Where the Flags of Five Nations Have Proudly Flown



At various periods in its colorful history Escambia County has belonged to five different nations — Spain, France, England, and the Southern Confederacy, besides the United States. The county played a prominent role in the state's Indian history and was the site of the Battle of Burnt Corn Creek which launched the great Creek Indian War of 1813-14. This battle was the beginning of the end of Indian power in the South.

Today timber products, numerous industries and diversified agriculture combine to give Escambia a prosperous and substantial economy.

In Escambia, and throughout Alabama, the United States Brewers Foundation works constantly to encourage maintenance of wholesome conditions wherever beer and ale are sold. As in other counties, the Foundation stresses close cooperation between law enforcement officials and beer licensees in its continuing "self-regulation" program.

In this friendly, freedom-loving land of ours

Telephone Talk

IRVIN COMMANDER
By
Your Telephone Manager

A LOT OF PEOPLE still think of telephone service in terms of just the one familiar home or office phone. Well, there are so many different kinds of equipment nowadays—all designed to add pleasure to your living—that I'd like to remind you of some of them. There's the Speakerphone that lets you talk and hear without lifting the receiver. The Volume Control phone you can turn up or down like a radio. Spring cords. Extra phones in color—so handy throughout the house where you need them. Even a phone that answers itself when you're out. Let me suggest you drop by our Business Office and see all these new conveniences. We'll be glad to show you how to have a well-telephoned home at surprisingly low cost.

GUARANTEED FOREVER—Of all the useful things in your home, how many are guaranteed for life? Your telephone is, you know. If it should ever break or need replacing, why we'll get it working again fast without any service charge. This lifetime guarantee on your phone is, of course, included in what you pay for service.

OUT OF A CLEAR SKY you remember someone who moved away and you haven't thought of for ages. "Whatever happened to George . . . or to Ruth or the Jones family?" Usually it's someone you really meant to keep in touch with, but what with staying so busy, you just never seemed to get around to it. Here's a quick, easy way to make up for lost time—just pick up your telephone. A Long Distance call is the personal, thoughtful way of enjoying old friendships . . . keeping in touch with folks you care about. And right now—any time—is a good time to reach for your phone. It's fun to call and Long Distance rates are really low, especially when you call station-to-station after 6 P.M. or all day Sundays. And remember—it's twice as fast to call by number.

EXTRA
CONCRETE INTERSTATE SYSTEM ROADS WILL Save Money
FOR TAXPAYERS IN ALABAMA

Federal funds will pay 90% of the building costs of the great new National System of Interstate and Defense Highways. This state pays the other 10%—and pays all maintenance cost forever. That's why taxpayers favor the use of durable concrete for these roads. Concrete's maintenance costs are lower—much lower than the annual maintenance cost of the next most commonly built type pavement.

And since maintenance costs come out of your state's highway budget, the use of low-maintenance-cost concrete leaves more money in the highway fund to build other urgently needed new roads.

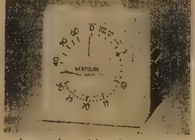
'Lookout' Aids Cook-Out



A precious bit of equipment which promises a better cooked steak and happier tummies all 'round is this Westclox "Lookout" portable timer to tick off the proper number of minutes for Dad while he's cooking a juicy steak on the outdoor grill.

Cooking experts say a sirloin or porterhouse cut two inches thick should be cooked about 23 minutes to be rare, about 32 minutes for well done. For a 1½-inch steak, make it 15 minutes for rare and 23 for well done. Tenderloins cook much faster: barely 10 minutes over the coals makes a two-inch tenderloin ready-and-rare, while 17 minutes insures succulent well-done.

A Chilton County News Exclusive
By JERRY GRAY

you feel the chill in the air n the mornings. It makes nk of Fall and all the things s associated with.

r some people it may mean ol "daze", for others just plain weather; but sports fans around e parts associate Fall with football and when they think of football automatically begin to think of will win the Southeastern Conference Championship.

hich brings us to the subject hand: Last year the team to the honors was the Tennessee nteers and the two previous ons, Ole Miss.

Almost everyone seems to ve a hankering to pick the vorite so, not to be outdone re is the way we pick the ams to finish up the year.

uburn. 2—Mississippi. 3—Ga. h. 4—Tennessee. 5—Kentucky. liss. State. 7—Florida. 8—Vanilt. 9—Tulane. 10—Alabama. I.S.U. 12—Georgia.

AND HERE'S WHY

ere's the run-down beginning number one.

UBURN—The Tigers appear to he strongest team in the conence, but they have problems to. problem that looms the largest them is the quarterback slot. re isn't a signal caller on the with enough experience to be arter. Johnny Kerns appears e the best prospect for Q.B.

e War Eagles have probably bes pair of halfbacks in the best pair of halfbacks in the pe. Lorino led the nation in ing last year with 8.4 yards per y.

oach "Shug" Jordan has built rly solid line around All-American prospect Jimmy (Red) Phillips. e Tigers could take it all, but without a loss along the way.

ISSISSIPPI—Last year folks ght Ole Miss. was a cinch to the crown again after they ped Kentucky so easily. But . . . lightning struck. Tulane the "Miss." in a heartbreaker. ansas shut them out and Tenn. ped home over them.

is year the recuperating "Rebs" d surprise a lot of people alugh they did lose a big piece their pie when Paige Cothren the graduation walk.

few good linemen are gone, but r than this, the "Rebs" should stronger, after the addition of flashy sophomores.

'They may stumble at first, but it'll pay to keep your eye on the "Johnny Rebs".

(Next week we will take a look see at Georgia Tech., Tennessee and Kentucky.)

WILLIAMSBURG, VA.—State Rep. Francis W. Speaks of Clanton is expected to attend the Legislative Work Conference on Southern Regional Education here August 29 through 31.

The Work Conference is sponsored annually by the Southern Regional Education Board. Legislators from 16 Southern states are appointed by their governors as delegates to the conference and a number of educators and others are invited as guests.

Three governors will address the conference: Gov. LeRoy Collins of Florida, chairman of SREB; Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland; and Gov. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia.

SREB was established in 1949 under interstate compact by legislative action of 14 southern states including Alabama.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town

by Ben

Jack Hayes is off this week to appear in the International Blind Golf Tournament at Hamilton, Ontario. Charlie Boswell from Birmingham will also be there. In the National Tournament played several weeks ago in which Boswell finished first, Jack Fayes played with the best and finished with the top players in the country. Some of the businessmen of Clanton this week were interested in getting Jack and Charlie on the Ed Sullivan Show next Sunday evening. We couldn't get a bigger drawing card we'll bet a pretty penny. Anyway, good luck to Jack in his play this week and we hope he shows those Canadians a thing or two about playing golf.

"Young man", said the old man severely, "when I was your age I too, thought I knew it all. Now I have reached the conclusion that I know very little." "Great Scott," exclaimed the youth in astonishment, "has it taken you this long to find that out? Why I knew it the minute I saw you."

Minnie Wade, of the "Flying Wades" soloed this week for the first time. She has reached her sixteenth birthday and hasn't passed her driving license test yet. But Minnie has it all over the rest of us—she can just take off in a plane. Of course she will pass her driving test with no trouble this week and we congratulate her on her birthday, her soloing, her winning of the First Place in the Civitan Amateur Contest and we may as well go on and congratulate her on passing her driving test. She and her parents were guests at a steak supper at Bill and Lois Maddox in honor of Minnie's birthday, etc., etc.

The lady asked her neighbor if her husband ever took any regular exercise, to which she answered: "Well, last week he went out seven nights running."

Glen Bashore, Pig Headley, Raymond Hamilton and Rosco Williams, attended the Southern 500 stock car races at Darlington, S. C. on Labor Day. They flew up Sunday and returned Tuesday. Seems they saw quite a bit of excitement while there. For the first time in the history of the race a bad accident occurred. Bobby Myers was killed on the 28th lap in a three-car collision. Speedy Thompson won the top money, but we don't know what Raymond, Pig, Glen and Rosco won—they ain't talking.

Sane driving is safe driving. Safe driving is a habit—get the habit!

B. B. Bashore, father of Glen Bashore, local attorney, died last week in Coleman, Michigan. The News staff sincerely regrets the death of Glen's father and we offer our condolences. Glen attended the funeral there last Wednesday.

Clanton Laundry & Cleaning Co. and Leo Thompson celebrated the 32 year of service to Clanton and this community last Sunday. We have a picture of Leo standing by a model T Ford delivery truck that was taken in front of the old business on Sixth Street back in the twenties. Wish we could show it to you. Congratulations to this fine business and to Leo and Lillian Thompson Lawson, who have built it into one of the finest in Central Alabama.

Little Leaguers Enjoy Excursion

Clanton Little Leaguers were guests of Eddie Glennon, general manager of the Birmingham Barons Baseball Team Friday night. Mr. Glennon was guest speaker at the annual dinner and extended the boys an invitation to occupy a box seat section for the Nashville-Birmingham game.

Mr. Kay, chairman of the boys and girls committee for the Kiwanis Club, was in charge of transportation. The Little Leaguers met at the Park and proceeded to Rickwood via automobile.

They had a swell time, everything went smoothly, except for the question as to whether the game or the concession stand got the most attention.

Mt. Carmel Wins In 'Fair' Competition

First, second and third places went respectively to Mt. Carmel Home Demonstration Club, Maple Springs and the Cooper Home Demonstration Club Monday night when the Judges awarded the prize money in the Farm and Home exhibit. Mt. Carmel won $100.00; Maple Springs $50.00; and Cooper $25.00.

Honorable mention went to the Maplesville Club and to the Thorsby Club.

The Mt. Carmel winning display was of a farm kitchen of 100 years ago compared to one of today. Much favorable comment has been made of the wonderful work the Chilton County Home Demonstration Clubs are doing and for their attractive exhibits at the Chilton County Fair this year.

If you hurry, you still have a chance to see these prize winning exhibits and others at the Fairgrounds.

"Fire On The Heather" To Show At Clanton Baptist

The story of Scotland's heroic struggle against tyranny from without and within will be told on the Panoramic motion picture screen at 7:30 p.m. September 12, in the First Baptist Church of Clanton as World Wide Pictures presents "Fire On The Heather", newest film in the series of feature length motion pictures produced by the Billy Graham organization.

The distinguished actor, Donald Crisp, links together a series of unusual dramatic performances which highlight Scotland's rich and colorful heritage. Filmed entirely on location in authentic settings, the sequences recreate the failure of Roman conquest in the Border Country, Columba's introduction of Christianity to the King of the Picts, John Knox' battle for reform during the reign of Mary, Queen of Scots, and the bloody era of the Covenanters seen through the martyr's eyes of John Brown of Priesthill.

"Fire On The Heather" climaxes with a demonstration of Scotland's efforts to return to the faith of her fathers, as the Billy Graham Crusade in the city of Glasgow is visited for a glimpse of great crowds in Kelvin Hall, music by the 1500 voice Crusade Choir and a sequence featuring Evangelist Billy Graham himself in action.

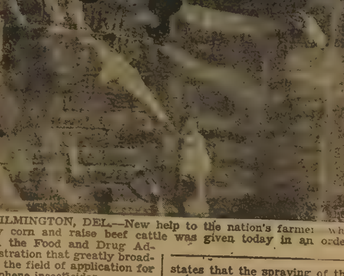
FARMERS TO PROFIT BY NEW RULING



WILMINGTON, DEL.—New help to the nation's farmer who grow corn and raise beef cattle was given today in an order from the Food and Drug Administration that greatly broadened the field of application for toxaphene insecticides.

The Food and Drug Administration ruling established for the first time a tolerance for toxaphene in the fat of meat from cattle. This permits feeding beef cattle with corn forage from corn treated with toxaphene for corn borer control. Tolerance levels are set under a new law requiring the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to determine what amounts of pesticide residue can safely be permitted to remain on food crops.

In addition the tolerance of seven parts per million for toxaphene in the fat of meat from cattle, sheep, and goats means these animals can also be sprayed with toxaphene for protection against certain livestock insect pests.

The new regulation further states that the spraying of the animals or the feeding of the animals with toxaphene-treated forage should not take place during the four weeks before slaughter.

In a companion order, the Food and Drug Administration also established a new tolerance of seven parts per million for residues of toxaphene in or on each of the following raw agricultural commodities: cranberries, hazelnuts, hickory nuts, horse-radish, parsnips, pecans, peppers, pimentos, rutabagas, and walnuts.

Toxaphene is one of the most widely used agricultural insecticides and was introduced more than ten years ago by Hercules Powder Company. It is officially recommended by various state and federal agricultural agencies for the control of hundreds of crop and livestock insect pests.

Could Prevent Epedimic Of Asian Flu

It was reported this week that Dr. C. O. Lawrence, President of the Chilton County Medical Association advises, along with his colleagues, immediate immunization by vaccine of the prevalent flu virus in this vicintiy.

[illegible] stated that Dr. [illegible] the vaccine now on hand is 70 percent effective on common types of flu viruses and that it along with the Asian flu vaccine to come will give "double protection" against epedimic.

Emphasis was placed on the fact that time is of the essence to ward off any possible spread and that there was no age limit. Young and old alike are subject to the virus.

The medical association advised that the vaccine on hand should be administered without delay and the Asian flu vaccine when it was made available. The present vaccine is effective for four or five months according to the report indciating that one shot of its kind would be sufficient for the winter.

Dr. D. G. Gill, State Health Officer, returned Thursday from a two-day meeting of State and Territorial Health Officers in Washington. The meeting was called by Surgeon Leroy E. Burney to discuss plans to halt the spread of Asian flu.

Dr. Gill said the meeting dealt with plans for the use of vaccine now being manufactured specifically to combat Asian flu, as well as matters such as positive identification of the disease, morbidity and mortality reporting, and public health education and information.

Dr. Gill said that in Alabama, the vaccine will be given by physicians to their private patients and vaccine will be distrbuted by private drug firms.

Asked if he thought Asian flu would strike in Alabama, Dr. Gill said, "The chances are it will. We can't say definitely, of course, but our past experience leads us to believe there will be outbreaks during the fall and winter months."

On the local scene, reports have it that some undiagnosed ailments are being "pinpointed as the Asian flu although, say the reports, laboratory verification has not been made as yet.

Statewide, Dr. Gill said he hopes there will be enough vaccine available to immunize a large part of the population before cold weather begins. It was his understanding that drug manufacturers have volunteered to allocate vaccine to States on a population basis.

National Civil Defense Week----

THIS SECOND annual National Civil Defense Week serves the vital purpose of stressing the need for personal and governmental disaster preparedness. The threat of natural disaster is always with us. The threat of enemy nucler attack is as much with us today as it was a year ago.
today as it was a year ago.

The necessity, therefore, for individual knowledge of self-help practices which might save your life and the lives of your families, is obvious. The need for governmental ability - governments on all levels - to survive and operate effectively under extreme emergency conditions still remains very much with us.

Let us, therefore, this National Civil Defense Week, resolve to individually and collectively support governmental civil defense authorities to the fullest extent. Can we, as good citizens, do less?

WHERE WILL IT END?----

LAST FRIDAY morning when the schools opened for the enrollment of the students for the coming year we believe more activity was shown among the mothers than the students. At Clanton Elementary School for instance the "traffic jam" was teriffic. Automobiles were running out streets and avenues in all directions.

What is the cause of all this? Where will it end?

Surely you can remember only a few short years back when the children could go to school on the opening day without taking their parents.

Has our school system become so complicated that only in this way does a child get off to a good start? If so, then we are for concentrating more on reading, writing and arithmetic and less on who's room who is in and what room mother has what job to do.

In recent years our schools have been pleading for more money and it doesn't take much thinking to see that their needs are great. But we have also seen entirely too much time given each year to outside activities and less and less to the fundamentals of education.

Our suggestion is that the children be put back on their own two feet and in the care of their teachers and insructors and released from their mothers apron strings. Probably sounds a little old-fashioned but we remember it worked once upon a time.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Last Friday afternoon the first session of the 85th Congress adjourned, but only after two highly controversial measures had passed both the House and the Senate.

CIVIL RIGHTS BILL

Despite the repeated warning of Southern members of Congress—including Sen. Strom Thurmond's one man filibuster -as to the dangers of the so-called civil rights bill, the measure passed both bodies by overwhelming votes. Unfortunately for those of us who will be primarily affected by it, this unnecessary legislation has become a political issue and was considered on that basis rather than on its merits. If administered on the same basis, the months ahead may be trying ones for residents of the deep South.

FOREIGN AID

In its last important legislative action before adjournment, Congress approved a $3.4 billion foreign aid appropriation bill. This compromise figure is approxmately $1 billion less than the President originally requested but about $244 million more than the amount first voted by the House of Representatives.

President Eisenhower has expressed fear that the amount provided may not be sufficient. However, most members of Congress who have studied the program carefully are confident that the funds appropriated are more than ample for fiscal year 1958.

PENDING LEGISLATION

Since all pending Legislation will carry over until the second session of the 85th Congress that convenes on January 7, 1958, there are many legislative proposals still in the "pipeline" for possible action next year. Tax reduction, always a popular cause in an election year, remains a live issue.

Statehood for Alaska and Hawaii again may be debated. The budget and the cause of economy, will also be on hand. These and other controversial measures must be considered before a final verdict can be reached on the record of the 85th Congress.

In the meantime, most members of Congress are returning to their respective districts to discuss pending issues with their constituents.

RETURNS TO DISTRICT

For the five years that I have served as a Member of Congress, it has been my privilege to report to you each week through the courtesy of this newspaper. When Congress reconvenes, I plan to resume my weekly reports.

During the congressional recess, I expect to visit throughout the entire Sixth District. I am looking forward to seeing as many of you as possible while I am in Alabama, and I trust that each of you will continue to call on me for any service I can render. Should you desire to contact me, I can be reached at our district office which is located in the Post Office Building in Tuscaloosa.

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

By "TUCK"

Well we owe our replenished faith in humanity to a guy by the name of John Doe, employed by the Fairhope Creamery of Fairhope, Ala. We also owe our preserved and precious three-day vacation to him, for without his assistance we could have been stranded at Ft. Morgan, Ala. to this day. He did not play any particular hero, but that could have very well been armor he was wearing because he sure resembled a knight to us.

It was raining like forty down on the coast and we were out in it. The road was gully-washed in several places and at the risk of drowning out old Betsy we plowed thru one of them. Actually, since an automobile coming in the other direction was very near at hand we hadn't much alternative. Betsy, living up to our expectations, conked out anyway and we walked around (between cloudbursts) and just toured the place in general knowing full well we were more or less stranded. To make a long story short and to relieve your boredom, helpful folks were few and far between at that noble place and we were lucky the Fairhope Creamery saw fit to send their man down that day or we'd still be sittin' on a buoy watching all the porpoises go by, and like as not trying to hitch a ride on one of the critturs.

And the patrolman yelled at the passing motorist, "If there were any sane drivers on this road, you'd be a menace to them!"

Anyone who condones one man punishing another for something he "thinks" is wrong is ignorant, un-Christian and un-American and does not deserve the respect of his fellow man until he changes his thinking.

There have been many debates as to how much good Dave Tingle, our present Probate Judge, has done for Chilton County. Some are of the opinion that personal gain is his only motive. We cannot say this is true or not true. It is true that when a man assists a cause he assists himself also, but who amongst us with any fortitude at all doesn't want to better himself. We can see a little past our nose (that's a bit above average it seems) and we see that he has done as much, if not more good for Chilton County in the past three or four years than any other five men and he deserves the thanks of all its citizens on these merits alone. As we said, we don't know his motives; and like as not nobody does but himself, but that does not alter the obvious fact that he has helped Chilton County immensely and we don't like anyone, regardless of who it is, throwing stones at him. Better they look around them for the good instead of inventing the bad from their own political one-track minds. Who among us is without some fault in one way or another? Especially those "knockers" who are so quick to condemn others.

There is no greater proof of the source of our longevity (of life) than the fact that it is attributed to so many different things. The fact is, the Good Lord has the only and final word and eating light or drinking heavy has very little to do with it. Don't try proving our point; we imagine he gets tired enough of our lack of faith and confidence as it is.

And the man said: ". . . and I bequeath the necessary belongings to my creditors for their enduring patience down through the years, and ask only in return that they give another that same trust that, somewhere during my life, made me a better man."

Kenny Foundation Finances Summer Medical Training

Minneapolis, Minn.—A special summer vacation program, giving medical students an opportunity to obtain additional medical training, is being conducted by the Sister Elizabeth Kenny foundation, according to Marvin L. Kline, national executive director.

The scholarship plan, set up by the foundation which is now conducting its annual fund appeal, provides opportunity for such students to receive training in physical medicine at leading university medical schools throughout the country, he explained.

"By giving promising students a chance to participate in the specialty of physical medicine instead of working on construction crews or taking summer sales jobs because of economic necessity, we hope to combat a shortage of medical personnel in the field of rehabilitation," he declared.

The Bible

. . . Be strong and of good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed; for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest. — (Joshua 1, 9.)

Through the long centuries, men have held these wondrous words close to their hearts and have overcome the grief and tribulations that must come to us all. Today, as forever, "God never fails."

'EATING CROW' WITH SOUR CREAM....

By BOB TUCKER

And bitter is the tea! A repugnant combination and one in which we don't care to indulge too often.

However, there are exceptions to everything and we think that when a fella says something and then finds he ain't right, the best thing he can do is set himself straight. The trouble is there's usually someone else to set him straight before he finds out about his mistake.

Such is the case of yours truly this week. It seems one Chief of Police (Charlie Tucker by name) is out to get our scalp. In this column last week we referred to a "City Ordinance" which in reality is a State Law (State Code Title 36, Section 39) and it states in no uncertain terms that every vehicle must have at all times a muffler in good working order to avoid excessive noise, smoke, etc. No muffler cut-out, by-pass, muffler without baffles or similar device may be used on a motor vehicle on the highway. Our mistake was saying "City Ordinance" instead of State Law and we're glad to make the "setter-straight"

Something was also mentioned about yours truly naming just one vehicle in town with a noise-maker on it. We could name several were we foolish enough, but that's the lawmen's job, not ours. We also stated "any vehicle" and not just automobiles!

If there is a record of 75 arrests on this particular violation at the City Hall all we can say is "congratulations" to the Police Department while they get out and reprimand the rest of the violators. There are others.

We have nothing but the highest regard for Chief of Police Tucker and his force and that goes for the other lawmen in Chilton County. We tihnk they are tops in their field and as far as we know, do a fine job of protecting our rights.

Ordinarily we would say that the Chief had a chip on his shoulder, but knowing him as we do we know that he takes his job seriously and wants any misunderstanding to be an "understanding" between himself and the party involved.

Chief, we could still name a few, but you don't expect us to, now do you?

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

TRANQUILITY THROUGH DRUGS

Three out of every ten prescriptions issued call for tranquilizing drugs, agents that have emerged from the laboratory within the past few years. Are you one of those who has created the demand in an effort to relieve yourself of anxiety and tension? These drugs do have their place in the medical treatment of numerous disorders but your physician does not wish to be forced to prescribe them on your demand and self-diagnosis.

Did you know that when a patient frankly states he does not want a tranquilizing drug the physician is amazed, simply because so many patients demand them? And the physician feels the responsibility because he is aware that the drugs are still too new for the answers to be known as to their effect on the human body. Yet he knows too that if he does not satisfy his patient's demand, that patient will "shop" for a physician or druggist to obtain one of the drugs.

Conversely, side effects do occur from their use. These may range from states of depression to low blood pressure, faintness, dizziness and lack of muscular coordination. While anxiety, feelings of frustration and tension may be lessened, there may also develop a lack of energy, the feelin gof just "dragging about," and a complete disinterest in carrying on one's daily activities.

Tranquilizing agents do not benefit everyone and they do not replace the diagnosis of a careful physical examination. Unfortunately many of the persons who obtain these drugs (frequently "across the drug counter" without a prescription) are so "pepless" in their effort to quiet down, they resort to another pill to "pep them up."

If, however, a careful physical and mental evaluation reveals certain disturbances that indicate a tranquilizing agent may be helpful, let your physician make the decision. Don't make your own diagnosis. Don't think it's "just nerves," and seek a tranquilizer to bring about a cure. These agents are not curative, they are still in the research stage and, at best, must be treated with caution until more is known about them.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Quality southerners often mislead people. Contrasted to the more abrupt speaking northerners, the innate desire of southern gentlemen to at all times show the greatest courtesy leads them into some very involved forms of speech which sometimes appear to be all flowers, and not thorns.

* * *

Senator George Smathers of Florida gave a perfect demonstration of this the other day, before the Senate Finance Committee summing up his examination of Treasury Secretary George Humphrey.

C. W. Harder

In this session of Congress, there has been some very extensive inquiry into the problems of small business, especially in regards to putting on a permanent basis the Small Business Administration, or SBA, with continuation of powers to make loans to small business deprived by taxes of the opportunity to lay aside expansion funds from profits; handicapped in borrowing funds by current fiscal and credit policies of government.

Or as George Burger, vice president of the National Federation of Independent Business put it when testifying before the House Banking and Currency Committee, "we do not believe the Treasury Dept. has a full understanding of the problems of small business and we hold the same view as it relates to Commerce Dept. Both of these departments have a rightful place in our government, but they do not belong in any direct action that will be helpful to small business."

On the Senate side, Senator Smathers decided to ascertain just how aware the Treasury Secretary was of the problem. And after a long and courteous discussion with Secretary Humphrey, Sen. Smathers made the following statements.

* * *

"I thoroughly agree with the Secretary," the Senator stated, "when he stated that "upon the success of small business firms to prosper and grow depends much of our production and our survival as a free competitive society." But then he wondered, in view of this official pronouncement, why in the past few years have these things happened.

* * *

The Senator wanted to know why small business which in 1954 was awarded 25.1% of government prime contracts, is now being awarded at the rate of 16.9%, a drop of 33%.

He also wanted to know how come that while in 1955 53% of firms with a net worth between $5,000 and $25,000 had credit lines with banks, a year later only 18% had such credit lines, while firms with net worths of $500,000 or more suffered no diminishment of bank credit.

Senator Smathers related many other statistical facts about small business conditions, of a similar nature.

And with the true courtesy of the Southern gentleman, the Senator did not in the least attempt to discredit any testimony by Treasury Secretary that present governmental policies have built a fine climate for free enterprise.

He merely said in effect "I present herewith the facts as they appear today."

And, on the reverse side of the coin, he continued, he failed to find where the Secretary supported his claims with a like set of facts. The Senator was not mad at anybody; just surprised responsible government officials are so shy of facts.

'all Revival at the First Baptist ırch, Thorsby in progress. Two vices daily — 7:00 a.m. and 7:30 t. We are favored in that of ing the following very fine men the Lord to lead us in this evan- istic campaign: Rev. M. G. lds, pastor of the Eastern Valley ptist Church, Bessemer, Ala., is ecting the song service. The tor and the Rev. Fields grew together in the same community l have been life-long friends. has been with us in our church a Revival prior to this meeting. r people love him very much. v. George Jackson, First Baptist urch, Russellville, Ala. is the ngelist who is bringing us the ssages out of God's word. Bro. ckson is one of our finest pastors Alabama and has had wide ex- ience in the field of evangelism e sermons thus far in the meet- g have greatly stirred our hearts. e sermon Monday night on the ject of fire dealt with three points view—fire separates, units, and rifies. The sermon Tuesday morn- g at 7:00 a.m.—"What was the rn in Paul's Flesh?" To us it is t imperative or even a point of sdom to know. A thing of most portance to us is our personal oblem and what we are doing out it. There is a solution to every problem and a panacea for every ill. This message was most helpful. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend this revival. A very warm welcome awaits you at the First Baptist Church, Thorsby.

Our church extended a courtesy to the Providence Church Family last Sunday afternoon in that of sharing Baptismal facilities with that congregation. It is always a delightful pleasure to have the opportunity to extend ministries of type. On next Sunday afternoon at 3:00 p.m. the same courtesy will be extended to the Collins Chapel Church Family. Our church has many friends in that geographical area.

The Pastor reports a great revival recently conducted in the Rosedale Baptist Church, Tuscaloosa. This is the second Revival for our pastor in this church.

A very fondly anticipated opportunity on the part of the minister of this church is the forward look to the Baptist Brotherhood Meeting in Oklahoma City, September 18 through 20. We rejoice that a number of men from our association are attending this national conference.

The team that is working in our Revival will remain over through Sunday night.

The nominating committee in our church is much encouraged in that a number of people have made it known to them what God would have them to do in places of service in the organizational life of our church for the coming year.

ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

TURN ME LOOSE — I'M GOING TO WALK

The world cannot hear this message too often, "God is a good God." He is able and willing to help you. Our problem is to turn our faith loose.

Anna's history was pretty bleak. In January 1951, she was in a train-car wreck and sustained a severely fractured right leg and complications. When Anna was released from Hermann Hospital, Houston, Texas —she was on crutches.

Sgt. Bill W., the friend with whom Anna was riding when the train-auto accident occurred, fell in love with her and they were married. However on September 22, 1952, she was stricken with polio and rushed to Jefferson Davis Hospital, Houston's Polio Center. The baby, little Benjamin Rex, was born January 7, 1953. Two weeks later, Anna left the hospital—still on crutches.

Just one year later, spondylitis, a disease similar to polio, entered into Anna's life. This left her confined to a wheel chair.

April 25, 1955 they arrived in Wichita Falls, Texas where Bill was stationed at Sheppard Air Force Base. On the first Sunday, Bill and Anna and another young couple were watching a religious television program in their home. The program was concerning God's love and His power. He was presented as a good God. One Who is able to heal. At the close of the program there was prayer for those viewing the program.

Bill shot a quick glance at his wife sitting across the room from him. He and the other couple were praying quietly to themselves. He said, "At that precise moment a strange feeling entered into Anna's frail body and she said there was a general tingling throughout her body. Her legs felt strange and alive. An overwhelming compulsion told her to GET UP AND WALK."

"Honey," she said, "help me get up." She grasped his hands and pulled herself up from the divan with her own power.

Bill watch apprehensively. She lurched forward with staggering, unsteady steps. In panic, Bill grabbed for Anna's hand and attempted to steady her. "Turn me loose!" she exclaimed. "I'm going to walk. God has hold of me."

Anna W. did walk. Her unsteady steps grew firm. She tossed back her head and cried exultantly, "The Lord has healed me!"

She picked up little Benny, raised him high over her head and laughed with the thrill of full motherhood. This was her child and although he was 28 months old, this was the first time she had ever had strength to lift him.

What an excited group of people! Anna was crying and laughing, and Harold and Bill were giving happy shouts of praise for the miracle of deliverance. Anna was healed! Anna is walking today.

Here is the story of the Wichita Falls miracle that has been published in every major newspaper in the United States and broadcast over several radio networks. It happened on May 1, 1955 at 1:53 p.m., Sunday afternoon.

A THOUGHT

Baby to mother: "Mommy, how does usses get to Heaven? Mommy explains. Then baby says "I know how usses can get there to, usses can get a lot of poles and put them togethe " Mother thought of the Scripture that says, if we try to get there any other way except by the blood, we are worse than a thief and a robber. Let us not risk the way of a pole!

Kenny Foundation Head Explains Rehabilitation, Research Goals

Minneapolis, Minn.—Gradual expansion of a program that originally was concerned primarily with poliomyelitis to one that includes treatment and rehabilitation of victims of other neuromuscular disorders characterizes the work of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny foundation today.

KLINE

This expansion has resulted, too, in growth in medical and research programs, according to Marvin L. Kline, national executive director of the foundation. Doctors in various specialties have been added to medical staffs of Kenny treatment centers, and its medical committees have been enlarged to include scientists, professors and department heads of a number of leading universities throughout the United States and Canada, he added.

"The Kenny foundation's primary objectives include direct treatment and care for persons suffering from poliomyelitis and other neuromuscular diseases and disorders, without regard to race, age, sex, color or creed," Kline declared.

"Training of registered nurses and physical therapists to become Kenny Therapists continues at our international training center in Minneapolis, and we have greatly increased the tempo of research into polio and other neuromuscular disabilities through grants to leading medical schools and hospitals and through provision of fellowships to individual doctors and scientists. Fostering of medical seminars and short courses continues as a major activity of the Kenny foundation."

Kline explained that the over-all program of providing direct patient treatment and rehabilitation is made possible through funds contributed during the foundation's annual nationwide public appeal.

"The Kenny foundation is highly dependent upon generous contributions from the public which benefits from this work, because of its wide demand in terms of highly-trained personnel and its many medical activities and research projects as well as the treatment and medical care it provides at no charge," Kline declared.

The local fans are in luck to get this third match since, by rights it should be in Birmingham where it had its beginning.

It seems that Ronnie McKay and Tor Yamato were battling it out on TV the other night and Ronnie started after another to get even before Yamato got out of the ring. Needless to say "fearless Tor" agreed and the fight is on. Yamato says he can do it again and McKay says he will tear him to pieces. The Alabama Boxing and Wrestling Commission, after getting releases for injuries signed by both these Tigers said "let them do what they wish to each other". It is doubtful that things will go that far, we think.

Clanton Drops First Of Three To Central Ala. "All-Stars" 13-2

Special To The News
By B. B. BATES

Manager Lamar Edwards and his Clanton "Stars" have one full week to lick their wounds and regroup their scattered forces in an effort to withstand another assault from the Central Ala. All-Stars. The battering Rams of co-managers Kelly and Turner will again turn their sights on the Clanton "Stars" at City Park, come Sunday afternoon, Sept. 8th.

The invading All-Stars unleashing a 17 hit attack overwhelmed the Clanton team 13 to 2 in last Sundays first of a three-game series. Clanton's Bobby Wyatt trying for his 9th win, left the mound in the 7th inning with his 5th loss.

Leading he visitors at bat was Price, of Prattville with five hits. Collier, of the Montgomery Gaels kept 12 Clanton hits scattered and was the winning pitcher. Collier helped his cause with a 3rd inning homerun over the left field fence. The pitcher also had himself a single and walk. Marion Grant of the Gaels did the catching for Collier and Turned in a fine job, getting 2 hits himself. Also getting two hits were Speigner and Mims of Billingsley and Hill of Prattville.

Chapman of Lawley failed to hit but his defensive work at shortstop was superb and his fielding caught the fancy of Clanton baseball fans.

Pacing the Clanton hitters were Joe Ellison with three hits; B. Easterling, Fulford and Wyatt with two hits each.

BRADFORD BANGS 'SLOPPY' "STARS"

Aided by 7 Clanton errors the Bradford baseballers used 6 hits and 10 walks to win over the "Stars" 13 to 11 in a 10 inning Saturday afternoon game at City Park. B. Easterling led all hitters with three singles. Swanner and T. Minor had two hits each. Goodwin was the only Bradford player with 2 hits and Graham was the winning pitcher. Lockhart caught the loss for Clanton.

With only four games remaining to be played B. Easterling and Royce Seales will battle it out for the teams batting championship. Easterling had a .396 average to Seales .378. The Clubs record stands at 19 wins and 12 losses.

FOOTBALL—

Who'll Be Tops In SEC This Year?

HIGHLIGHTS OF THIS SEASON'S TOP TEAMS

Special To The News
By JERRY GRAY

Last week, if you read our article, you saw our predictions for the SEC for the 1957 season, and we gave a rundown of the teams we figured to take the first and second places in the conference: Auburn and Ole Miss.

This week we'll take a look at three teams: Ga. Tech., Tennessee and Kentucky.

Georgia Tech.—

This could be considered a rebuilding year at Tech. The reason for this is mainly because 16 of the first 22 men have gone via the "graduation walk".

But all is not so dismal at the home of the Yellowjackets.

Stan Flowers their rambling halfback will return to the gridiron this season along with end Jerry Nabors and All-American prospect Don Stephenson at center plus 16 more returning lettermen.

The Yellowjackets will be weaker than in previous years, but if they get rolling early they may be blamed for a few extra ulcers.

Tennessee—

If you can forget the loss of two All-Americans: John Gordy and "Drum" Majors plus six starting linemen then I'd say Tennessee could win the conference again this season, and they may anyway.

Coach Bowden Wyatt doesn't seem to think the Vols have a hair of a chance of winning the championship, and who should know better than the coach himself.

The big problem, of course, is "who could ever replace Drum Majors?"

It will have to be one of three or all three tailback prospects, namely Al [illegible] Bobby [illegible] or George Wright. I'll go along with Al Carter

On the brighter side we find Tommy Bronson back at fullback and Roger [illegible] and Bill Johnson at guard.

Not many of the others played very much.

If the Vols win the conference they'll have to do a lot of work between now and their opening game against Auburn

Kentucky—

When a person thinks of the Kentucky Wildcats it is inevitable that he marvels at the wonderous feats on one Lou Michaels, a 1956 All-American and a top prospect to [illegible]eat this Fall

Coach Blanton Collier's team will be made up largely of a strong crop of sophomores which include his quarterbacks Lowell Hughes and Jerry Eisaman.

A big threat at halfback is Bobby Cravens.

The Wildcats have a tough schedule. But with a little luck they could surprise some teams. Watch 'em go down the stretch.

(Next week we'll take a gander at the teams we pick for sixth, seventh and eighth places. They are Miss. State, Florida and Vanderbilt).

How engineers design modern concrete roads to save lives and money

Highway engineers design these four important features into the main roads they are building today to give highway users the utmost in safety, comfort and service.

Controlled access provides safe entry or exit from the road at periodic intervals while allowing continuous speed for through traffic.

No grade crossings and no stop lights! On modern highways all traffic on intersecting roads goes over or under the highway.

Wide median strips separate opposing streams of traffic. Result: no blinding lights, no danger of a head-on collision.

Wide traffic lanes allow you more room. And maximum safety results when the lanes are paved with concrete. Concrete is skid-resistant, wet or dry. Its light color provides the best night visibility. Concrete lasts longer, costs less to maintain, gives low-annual-cost service.

The 41,000-mile National System of Interstate and Defense Highways is scheduled to be built by 1972. When finished it will provide safer, faster, more comfortable travel for everyone.

Free Polio Protection Still Available In Chilton

The Chilotn County Health Department announced this week that they still have an ample supply of free polio vaccine on hand to give to anyone under 20 years of age.

As soon as this present supply is gone, it is doubtful that this privilege will continue.

According to the department our county is still under the 150 percent mark, based on 300 percent. This indicates simply, that only half the number that should get polio shots have had them.

An appeal to parents from the Health Department and this newspaper is made that you see that your child or children gets these all-important shots. They could mean the youngsters happiness, and Go to your Health Office today and start the series of shots. There are only three and they are free.

Countries that Sparkman will visit are: Japan, Korea, China, Okinawa, Viet Nam, Thailand, Malaya, Ceylon, India and Pakistan before proceeding to Egypt and Italy.

In accepting the assignment given Senator Sparkman, Senator Green, Chairman of the Committee, said: "The carrying out of the assignment is essential to the work of the Committee and to the well-being of this nation."

Sparkman expects to return to Washington about the 20th of November and will proceed immediately to his home state, Alabama.

Lions to Sponsor County Bowl Games

The Clanton Lions Club this week announces, with pleasure, the final success of a program that has been 'on the fire' for some time.

On Thursday night of October 17 the Clanton Lions Club will sponsor the first Lions Bowl Football Game in Chilton County. This game will feature the Isabella "Mustangs" versus the Maplesville "Red Devils.

The report said, "It is sincerely hoped and planned that this will lead to an annual affair determining the true champion of Chilton County or possibly Central Alabama."

Said the source, " Not the least of the problems is the scheduling of the game because the High School Athletic Association forbids the playing of mire than ten games per year by any high school. This forces advance scheduling and all the schools face the usual financial problems and can ill afford to risk too much on a game so indefinite and about which so little is known."

The report also said that a vote of thanks was due Isabella and Maplesville, their coaches and principals and the teams for breaking the ice to an endeavor which we hipe turns into something really big for sports fans over Chilton County.

Clanton "Stars" Will Play Finale This Sunday

The Clanton "Stars" wrap up a well-rounded baseball season Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock when they take on the Central Alabama All-Stars for their third and final game together.

This will be somewhat of a taut game since the two teams stand tied now one and one.

Sunday's game will be decisive in more ways than one since the 'Stars" had such a successful year as they did, fan-wise anyhow.

We suggest you see this last game of the season. Time again is 3:00 p.m.

There will also be a business meeting at the church Sunday morning following Sunday School. All members are asked to be present to discuss some very important business.

A Big Part Of Clanton's Unparalleled Progress

Business, after Congress okeyed the appropriation for the Clanton Sewage Disposal Plant, on the home front is getting underway rapidly.

Mayor J. Holils Jackson reports to us this week that a bid had been accepted for the construction, but that a contract had not been signed pending approval of the state and federal authorities. Mayor Jackson stated that this "approval" was a formality "it is understood" since federal approval has already been made and the necessary funds allotted.

September 18 at 3:00 p.m. is zero hour for Bond sales which will be by auction.

A six acre plot of land, purchased from Carlos Wyatt and his mother has been secured. It is located one-quarter mile Northeast of the small hangar at the Clanton Airport.

A road is already in and a wire fence, soon to be replaced by chain link, now surrounds the plot.

Construction should be under way not lated than October 1st and possibly before, it is reported, and the building and plant will be completed and in operation by the middle of next April barring any unforeseen mishaps and according to contractors.

The Mayor specified that the contractors have expressed the desire and intention of using all the local labor possible and necessary for construction.

Allotted time on the project is two hundred working days.

The new plant will be built to care for 10,000 plus population, which indicates that community growth is allowed for and expected.

Approximately three hours per day will be all that is required in maintaining and operating the new plant and according to Mayor Jackson this time will be absorbed by the Sanitation Department and no additional workers will be hired.

"One, or possibly two of the present members of the department will be sent elsewhere for a few days to observe other palnts in operation" said the Mryor, but no special technician or caretaker will be hired.

At least not in the foreseeable future.

PLANT OPERATION

Raw sewage will be piped in from the City line with the addition of a mile or more ppe to be layed. The sewage will be processed through the' plant and emptied back into the creek which it is now emptied only after the process it will be even purer than ever the creek water.

When asked about the prevalent odor that we now experience the Mayor declared: "That will not be present after the plant is in operation, naturally", but according to him their have been no plans as yet to fill in or otherwise purify the now polluted location. It is assumed then that even though this condition is a hazard, the time element involved in natural purification by sunlight and air will not require any remedial steps. At least none have been worked out as yet.

This project is indicative of the present growth and future expansion of Clanton and Chilton County. The City Officials, aware of the fact that Clanton is growing, and rapidly are doing everything in their power to keep up the pace and they deserve the gratitude and thanks of every citizen which they serve and who will benefit most from this modern step toward progress.

Republic Steel Rep. To Speak To Local Civitans Tonight

Mr. Roberts will speak on "Who Says You're Too Old", a report, as we understand it on the benefits of higher education.

Civitan President William Hicks urges the attendance of all local Civitans as he feels this will be a subject close to each and every one of them.

Mr. Roberts, by the way, graduated from Vanderbilt and was an aviation radioman and combat air crewman during World War II. He was awarded the Air Medal with Two Stars, and the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Commends Faubus—

'FOOD FOR THOUGHT' AS WALLACE SEES IT

The Clanton Lions Club presented Judge George Wallace as their program speaker last Friday noon, and Judge Wallace again gave his listeners some "food for thought".

"Most, unfortunately, some of the recent rulings of the Supreme Court of the United States are being highlighted with the re-opening of our schools."

Judge Wallace, according to our reports, is now, and has been for several years, most interested in these happenings. He has served two terms in the House of Representatives in Montgomery and six years as Circuit Judge of his district.

Some of Judge Wallace's most interesting experiences involve his appearance before the Senate Committee of Mr. Keating, Mr. Celler and others still presenting the Southern view and trying to "clear hose men's minds of some very wrong ideas" says our report.

Governor Faubus's stand in Arkansas is, according to Judge Wallace, one of the best ways of all to combat the Centralization of government that is taking place.

He also urges everyone to continue supporing the men who fashion legal remedies; that we do not succumb to the idea that the rulings of the Supreme Court are inevitable; and hat we reaffirm our friendship with all Southerners, but let the world know that this still does not involve race mixing.

"FIRE ON THE HEATHER"—

GRAHAM FILM AT 1st BAPTIST TONIGHT, 7:30

The film "Fire On The Heather" is only a few hours away from Clanton audiences.

Tonight Thursday, Sept. 12, at 7:30 o'clock at the Clanton First Baptist Church.

The movie, produced by Billy Graham, world evangelist, gets its name from a statement made in it by John Brown's wife to the executioner, "My husband, who was no preacher, has this day set the heather on fire, with words and deeds that wil never die — Ye cannot stamp out the fire of God when He sends it upon the earth!"

Dr. Hutchinson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, urges everyone to pray for this service and cordially invites everyone to come and bring others to the service.

The film is in beautiful color, is full length and offers a blessing to each of us.

Soil Bank Farmers' Income-Protection Benefits

Farmers who put land in the Soil Bank's Acreage Reserve program stand to benefit in more than one way, Mr. Eddie Owen, Chairman of the Chilton County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, pointed out today.

Mr Owen said that many farmers, with recent experiences with such hazards as drought, hail and flood in mind, will have a special interest in a secondary but very important income-protection advantage of the program. He explained that farmers who put acreage in reserve are guaranteed substantial income for this land even if later on natural disaster hits their farms.

Other farmers with limited financial reserves or with debts are finding this overall income insurance an important protection while it is available.

Despite these side benefits, Mr. Owen emphasized, the main purpose of the Acreage Reserve is to help cut down the surpluses of farm products that are depressing the producers' market prices for agricultural products.

Trustees Lauded By Townsfolk

It was reported this week by reliable sources that funds have been secured to operate Thorsby Institute "In the County School System" for the next two years.

According to this report, much of the credit for the success of this endeavor goes to B. A. Adams, Clanton, and graduate of the class of 1937 of T. I. He is also a member of the board of trustees.

"Adams authored the bill and fought doggedly in the face of much discouragement, for the passage of this bill," said the report.

The Senate and House passed the Bill late Fridey night, September 6 without a dissenting vote thereby securing $80,000 to operate this particular school in the County School System for the next two years.

According to the source, Thorsby Institute funds are to be paid out, through the County Board for this school only at the rate of $40,000 a year and this is a separate fund to the funds already allotted the other schools in the County.

The report emphasized the fact that "we will now have $80,000 more in the County than we would have had if this bill had not passed."

Credit was also heaped on Rep Francis Speaks for his "full cooperation in helping us with this bill". Sen. Yarbrough was also influential in the Senate.

Thorsby comments on the subject included the following concerning Bernard Adams:

"We (Thorsby) extend the deep appreciation of Thorsby folks in a very feeble way for words cannot express; just how we feel toward Bernard. . . for able work done in this furthering of our educational facilities in the County."

It was said that Thorsby Institute has a library of over 10,00 volumes of the "best books to be found anywhere." The transfer of the property is bein gmade and the best of teachers secured for this school.

Commercial subjects will be taught and typewriters and other machines are already available. A competent teacher in this field will be obtained.

The Board of Trustees of Thorsby Institute have "burned the midnight oil" in this endeavor to acquire this educational boon to their community and at the very least have earned the respect and admiration of all Thorsby townfolk.

The Board consisted of six community leaders. They are: B. A. Adams, Mayor of Thorsby Grover A Bice, Rev. B. B. Burks, Pope Payne, Herman Robinson and S. M. Pate.

IT'S so easy to make plans that most people never get out of the planning stage.

MANY a man lives a rich, full life because he knows how to turn his failures into assets.

THERE is much more power in kindness than TNT but it takes more time to develop it.

SPEND and the world spends with you—save and the world will do its best to beat you out of it.

THE sounds of the lawn mower which was drowned out by the growls of the man behind it, is being heard less and less these fall days.

TODAYS genius is the man who has caught up with last Christmas' bills before he starts shopping for this year's Christmas gifts.

OUR KIDS NEED HELP----

WHILE WE HAVE consistently defended the Three R's as the proper basis of gradeschool education, we think it is time somebody spoke up for the "schoolyard" also. Not only for elementary schools, but for junior and senior high schools as well.

Always important as a recreation center, the schoolyard is more essential today than ever before. It should grow in size and facilities as our schools grow, and there should be a gymnasium besides for indoor physical training, athletic programs and organized play. Yet, today, when our youngsters ride buses to school instead of walking, when progress has cheated them out of the open spaces their fathers played in, when TV lures them into watching instead of doing, the schools, too, are letting them down physically.

Ninety percent of our elementary schools, reports the National Collegiate Athletic Association, have less than the five acres of land considered essential for play areas, and 91 percent have no gymnasium. Less than half of our high school boys and girls receive physical education and only 1,200 out of 17,000 U. S. communities employ a full-time recreation leader of any sort.

American youth trails the up-coming Europeans in physical fitness in spite of our overwhelming advantages in nutrition and sanitation, and the disgraceful rejection rate chalked up by draftees in World War I and World War II continues.

The British have long contended their wars were won "on the playing fields of Eton". Without giving Eton all the credit, there can be no doubt that the playing fields of the British Isles and the Empire at large contributed immeasurably to the stamina, the fighting spirit and training for leadership so vital in grimmer pursuits.

It's time for America to look to her "playing fields", and to face up to the shameful fact that in two generations we have grown pitifully almost hopelessly soft. This condition won't correct itself.

But anywhere the school board, the teachers and the PTA get together to plan and demand action on physical educaion, they can get it—even here.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK----

THIS YEAR FIRE Prevention Week, October 6-12, will mark another milestone of organized fire prevention activities in this country.

The anniversary will emphasize the value of fire prevention work in the form of concentrated annual campaigns, town inspections, engineering surveys of the fire protection facilities of cities, extensive research by insurance companies, and the many and varied contributions by public and private agencies outside the fire insurance business.

At the same time fire losses this year may exceed a billion dollars for the first time in history. So far they are averaging about $90 million a month.

This naturally poses a question: Do the fire prevention activities of the fire insurance business and the public really help prevent fires?

In answer, James C. Hullett, president of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, gives a resounding "yes".

He explains:

About the time fire prevention activities began on a basis that was not spasmodic, the estimated value of the nation's reproducible tangible assets was $71 billion. That included residential and non-residential structures, farm buildings, institutional and government buildings, and inventories, including crops and livestock — mostly structures and goods that were insurable. Fire losses that year were $165 million.

By 1952, when the latest figures were available, the burnable national assets had increased about twelve times over the 1905 figures, and fire losses had increased only five times.

Undoubtedly other factors besides fire prevention work have affected the widening gap between the values of structures and goods at risk and the actual fire losses in the last half century. But the gap is large enough, and has coincided near enough with increasing fire prevention activities, to support the assumption that safety work has been effective.

We believe, with Mr. Hullett, that our naion has made a good start in fire prevention and that real progress is being made. Let us not relax our efforts to do better.

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

By "TUCK"

We've been "set straight" so many times in the past few weeks, that we're getting so we can't "set crooked".

Friend of ours dropped in Saturday and informed us that he is now employed with the Sloan Paper Company in Birmingham. He is Charles Payton formerly of Clanton and now living with his wife and small daughter in Birmingham. He is looking very well and after conversing with him for a while we feel that his second love, so to speak" is the paper business. He's been with them a very few months and can already "sell" his product better than some salesmen who've been in the business all their life. We say, more power to him. With his enthusiasm he should go places. Hope he'll continue his visits with us.

As it was told to us, there was a very young squabble over a certain cold drink. Seems the little gentleman didn't want to share his with the little lady. Mother came nobly to the rescue and explained to Danny that God had told little children to be kind to each other. She went on to say that he had told them through Bible stories to share with others. Danny listened intently to the proceedings, but when mother had finished he dashed out the door saying "He didn't tell me"! Well, mother, you tried, now where's that board?

Another local gem comes to us in the form of proof that our younger generation is not "money-mad" In fact, they don't even care what the stuff is. Two little girls decided to treat a "littler" cousin to a drink at Wright's Drug Store They proceeded to the store, climbed up to the counter and ordered a chocolate milk with ice cream (one or three, we don't know). After enjoying the delicacy, or at least all of it they could consume, they got down, politely told the amused waitress 'thank you' and went on their merry, unbothered way. Money, who needs it?

See where George Wallace, who spoke to the local Lions last Friday is on his way to running for Governor of Alabama next year. He seems to be an amiable sort and is just nervous enough when meeting others to be considered "just a regular fellow". As first impressions go, the above is our opinion; as to whether or not he will attain his goal in the Governor's seat, who knows? However, he should, and we feel he will, gain a host of new friends and acquaintances along the tedious route.

The man who doesn't let on he knows anything is smarter than he looks.

Some folks get "constructive criticism" so entwined with "unjust criticism" that it comes out "just plain criticism".

We've always heard (and experienced the rumor) that the female of the species is not noted for her logic, but they are sinking to new levels on certain matters. It has been reported to us that a mother exclaimed to another mother "why don't you let your kids out more? People know they're there (referring to the street), they watch out for them!" When mothers start depending on motorists and other people to look out for their children there will be a decided drop in our estimation of them, as modern mothers. Personally, we prefer old-fashioned mothers. Certainly the street, no matter how traveled, is not the place for small children. Some of the neighborhoods around Clanton and our other communities have become ridiculously inclined toward letting their children use the streets as a "sidewalk" and a playground. We might also add that the City has recently gone to quite an expense to supply playground equipment for several of the neighborhoods in order to cut down on the very thing mentioned. Surely parents don't care less for their children now, than they did when we were a kid and we can't ever remember being allowed to play in any street at any time, let alone all the time at the early age of some we see. An incident occurred around our home the other day which proves our point very well and we thought we had a mangled child on our hands. He was lucky and we're glad because he's a nice kid. We think our boy's a nice kid, too, and if the Lord gave us the power to prevent it, he's not going to leave this old world prematurely under the wheels of an automobile due to the carelessness and neglect of his mom and dad Mother, if Junior is old enough to play outdoors, either keep him in the yard (with a licking if necessary) or send him to the playground (with a firm, positive understanding). Do this, and you'll never know if it's right; but if you don't do it, you may find you were wrong and if there's one thing we're sure that the modern mother falls short of it's her inability to say "I'd better not do that" instead of "I wish I hadn't done that". Don't you know what "too late" means? There are quite a number of mothers who could tell you, but why be irresponsible enough to have to be told?

In plain English: keep your young'uns out of the street before they get killed!

Help Prevent Crippling!!
THANKS!

GOV. PROCLAIMS—

SEPTEMBER: Sight Saving Month

September has been set aside by Gov. James E. Folsom as Sight-Saving Month in the State of Ala.

"The generous gift of good sight is one of mankind's most precious treasures, and human sight, once lost, cannot be regained," the Governor said. "Since sight is constantly threatened by disease, injury and neglect," the Chief Executive added, "each of us has the responsibility of protecting his own eyesight and guarding that of his children."

Therefore, noting that this is Sight-Saving Month in the Nation for National Society of the Prevention of Blindness, the Governor officially proclaimed this month also in Alabama as dedicated to this cause.

An Encouraging Start—

Joint Federal And State Act Moves To Bring Gov't Home

Advocates of "bringing government back home" were heartened by the initial action of the Joint Federal-State Action Committee, which aims to stem the trend toward centralization of power in Washington.

Meeting in Hershey, Pa., the committee of Governors and Federal officials, formed at the suggestion of President Eisenhower, reached tentative agreement on a plan under whcih the states would assume about $500,000,000 in Federal expenditures.

Under this plan, the states would take over complete responsibility for the school lunch program, vocational education, natural disaster relief, water pollution, small "stimulative" grants and 50 per cent of the supplemental old-age assistance.

TAXES RELINQUISHED

In return it was recommended that the Federal Government relinquish to the states the taxes it now collects on local telephone service, amusement tickets, cabarets, club dues and initiation fees, coin operated gaming and amusement devices, safe deposit box rentals, bowling alley and pool tables.

Sources in the National Association of Manufacturers hail this plan as encouraging progress. For more than a decade the NAM has been pointing out the danger of progressive concentration of power in the hands of central government, and it heartily endorsed Mr. Eisenhower's program to save the states from becoming "powerless satellites of the national government."

"More Federal aid means higher Federal taxes, less revenue left for state and local governments — and even more dependence on Federal aid," Charles R. Sligh, Jr., executive vice president of the NAM, said recently.

"Grants from Washington to our states have increased more than two and a half times in recent years. But our communities are not 'getting something for nothing' — the cost in taxes is far higher than if the projects were handled at home, by local authorities responsive to local needs.

'PANHANDLING' SEEN

"These grants-in-aid, this panhandling approach to filling state and community needs, costs America far more in freedom than it does in funds. Big - government spending means big-government controls, as many a once-free people have learned to its sorrow."

Mr. Sligh offered "every facility at the NAM's command" to the Joint Federal-State Action Committee adding.

"If there is any way in which 22,000 American business firms of the NAM can be of assistance, that assistance is pledged here and now

"The President's task force will meet with opposition— some politicians will argue that the people back home demand the continuation of Federal hand-outs."

It's My Opinion

NO DIVIDENDS ON DIS-INTEREST!

By BOB TUCKER

What sort of an appeal is necessary to inform the public of ways in which they can help themselves?

What does it take to make them take note of the fact that they must help themselves?

Don't get us wrong; we heartily disagree with these would-be doers-of-good who get up in the morning griping about the world in general and retire at night griping about something in particular that happened during the course of the day.

We're not justifying these folks. In fact, we would urge that you didn't get your incentive to help yourself from these folks because they have two left feet. They do their share of the work and possibly then some, but they are constantly damaging what they've built, by knocking and nagging the fellow, who to them, hasn't done quite his share.

It's true that dis-interest, a common malady with folks in these (and other) parts is our common enemy. It gives us absolutely nothing and robs us of what we already had. And, by gracious it's contagious.

By the same token, why can't interest be catching in the same way? We think it can.

Whether it's a project, a family matter or what, think about it objectively as opposed to critically and try to show your interest. It will pay selfish you dividends.

Our subject deals with community matters so let's take one for example:

The local Civitan Club has been giving the public 'all it has' in the form of a Talent Show for the past few months and the public, in return for this community gesture, has given darn little.

We are personally as guilty as the next fellow, because we don't support it by attending, but we use the excuse of just not going in for that kind of stuff and try to support it in other ways. You, have another reason. But, is there really a reason when the thing is for the community? Excuses, maybe.

Those men who put hours into working up the show could very well be doing something else with their time, probably of more advantage to them individually, but they a community obligation, they see it, and they live up to it.

They donate their time, efforts, sweat, ideas, yes and even their money to the cause for they know it is in the best interest of their community family.

It's hard to determine sometimes, which is more important, the individual family or the community family. One calls for the other We concur, however, that the Lord made the chicken when He made all the other animals and gave it the ability to lay eggs. This, as far as we're concerned, solves that problem.

And so it is with the family and the community. We feel that the family, your family, comes first to you as an individual, but whenever possible you owe it to your community family to lend a helping hand in order to keep it from falling apart at the seams.

Your attendance at a community undertaking is your share of the load. We are aware of the fact that there are always a number in a community who carry most of the load, but let us remind you that these "doers" are way ahead of us "individuals" in points and if we want to get where we're going we've got to stop being parasitic about it and catch up.

As we said, this project is just an example, but a good one. There are any number of Community Projects going on which warrant your support; perhaps you feel, too many. In which case, pick the one you feel best suits your capabilities and interests and put your shoulder to the wheel.

Disinterest is the opposite of interest, and it is fairly plain to see, that as the opposite, it pays no dividends.

"Rodeo Time . . . . Yipee!"

PENDLETON, ORE.—Casey Tibbs, one of the country's best round cowboys, will compete against top rodeo cowboys in annual 1957 Pendleton Round-Up. Showing his perfect bronco- tin' form astride Sugar Jets, os hopes to gain new honors lf ropin', steer wrestlin' and hma bull ridin' as well.

For the first time, tele-viewers see the exciting Round-Up nted by General Mills Sat- y, September 14th, 8:00- 00 P.M. (EDT) on CBS-TV.

Both animal and rider are scored by judges and rated on . A failure to spur results "goose-egg". Other auto- zeroes are posted when the cowboy touches the horse his free hand, when either foot pops out of the stirrups, when he grasps any part of the saddle, or when he is bucked off the bronco.

A combination of a spurring rider and a game bronco inevitably wins a high number of points. The basic battle between cowboy and ornery animal is clear enough at the first jump from the chute if the rider can keep his toes turned outward and stay in the saddle ten seconds or eight seconds for bareback riders.

ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

LEE QUIT WHIMPERING—PAID THE MORTGAGE

There are many, many people in this world who get a peculiar kind of pleasure out of feeling sorry for themselves. They cringe before life's problems. They whimper and whine and say, "Nobody has it as hard as I do!"

I heard the story about the two buckets that went to the well. One of the buckets sobbed and cried, "No matter how full I go away from the well, I always have to come back empty." The other one laughed and said, "No matter how empty I come to the well, I always go away full."

Lee Braxton, the national radio director of our world-wide broadcast, told me that self-pity almost ruined him. Back when the depression was at its worst he was in hard circumstances. The mortgage people were coming to foreclose on his modest little home. At the same time his small business was about to go under. He walked off and sat down in a room by himself and said, "Why is everybody picking on me?"

Recently he told me what he did that day as he sat in the little room. He said, "I was sitting there with the whole world on my shoulders. I felt so discouraged, so down and out that I knew if I didn't get hold of myself I might do something terrible. I kept wringing my hands and saying, 'Oh, why does everybody have to pick on me? Why does this have to happen to me?' I didn't know where else to turn or who else to see.

"Then it dawned on me that there was One I could go to. So I got down on my knees and while the tears splashed down my cheeks I renewed my covenant with my Maker. When I got through praying I felt like a new man. I got up, squared my shoulders and said, 'I am through with self-pity and feeling sorry for myself. I am going out and by the help of God I am coming out of this.' "

What happened to Lee Braxton after that should happen to everyone. He started using his energies to believe instead of to feel sorry for himself. He became a new man inside and in a matter of days he had persuaded the mortgage people to give him a little more time. He secured credit for his business. He didn't lose his self-respect because when he began to believe, he found that his faith was the most powerful thing in the world. Other people saw he was a new man and they wanted to do business with a man like that.

It is people who resist self-pity, who do not feel sorry for themselves, who will not allow themselves to cringe and whimper before life's struggles, who stand up and say, "I believe God is with me. And if He is with me nothing or nobody can successfully be against me. I will succeed!"

When a storm strikes an eagle he sets his wings in such a way that the winds lift him above the storm by its very fury. This is God's way for us. With the right use of our faith, we will not fear the storms that come our way. It is the set of our faith that causes us to rise above the storms. Have faith in God!

Church Wedding Unites Miss Barton And Mr. White

The wedding of Miss Emma Joyce Barton and Donald White was solemnized at 5:30 Sunday, August 25, in the Uniontown First Methodist Church. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Barton, of Uniontown. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell white of Billingsley.

Formal arrangements of white flowers and greenery, with lighted cathedral tapers, formed the setting for the ceremony performed by Rev. Ashland Shaw, assistant minister of the First Methodist Church of Auburn. The altar background of palms and ferns was fronted by a central sunburst of white gladioli and large mums. Garlands of smilax were entwined on the branched candelabra holding the candles which were lighted by James Boozer, of Mobile, and Gordon Robertson, Jr. of Clanton, two of the groomsmen.

The program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Stanley White, organist and Mrs. Melvin Kynard, vocalist.

Mrs. Norman Avery, of Marion, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmatrons and maids were Mrs. James Boozer, Mobile, also a sister of the bride, Mrs. Hazel Kidd, Tuscaloosa, and Miss Barbara Barton, Uniontown, cousins of the bride, and Mrs. Vernon Hollis, Linden, sister of the groom.

The maids and matrons were gowned alike in aqua crystal peau de soie princess line dresses, featuring low-draped necklines. The bustle and floating panels were of deeper aqua shades. The skirt was waltz length. The matron of honor wore contrasting rose. Half hats of matching fabric were crescent shaped decorated with tiny veils and seed pearls. The attendants' bouquets were of matching carnations with backing of net and satin streamers.

The flower girls, Dorothy Lynn Avery, of Marion, niece of the bride and Deborah Hollis, of Linden, niece of the groom, were dressed in identical aqua frocks with bouffant skirts.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was chantilly lace over tulled with molded bodice finished with an empire neckline and long sleeves pointed at the hand. The bodice came to a point at the waistline, topping a bouffant waltz length skirt. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was held by a tiara of iridescent sequins and seed pearls. Her white Bible was centered with a white yellow-throated orchid and showered with stephanotis and lilies of the valley.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Dean White, of Billingsley as best man. Groomsmen included Norman Avery, of Marion, and Vernon Hollis of Linden.

The church parlor was the setting for the reception at which Mr. and Mrs. Barton entertained following the ceremony. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Monty Tolman and Mrs. Jack Tate, of Uniontown. Mrs. Barton received in pearl gray peau de soie with a scoop neckline bordered with sequins. Her corsage was a purple-throated orchid. The groom's mother wore pink lace over tafieta with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bridal motif of white and green was carried out in the decorations. Mrs. George Bynum, of Birmingham kept the bride's book, which was placed on a table lighted by a white taper in an antique brass candelabrum to which clusters of fern were attached, centered with a single white aster.

The bride's table covered with a lace cloth was marked at one end by crystal candelabra holding white tapers. The single floral decoration was the bride's bouquet. The three-tiered cake was decorated with pink rosebuds, the third tier in bridal white topped by a silver wedding cup. The wedding cup was presented as a gift to the bride and groom. All appointments were in crystal.

Mrs. H. B. Barton, of Tuscaloosa, aunt of the bride, cut the cake. Mrs. Aubrey Barton presided at the punch bowl. Assisting were Mrs. Victor Coleman, Mrs. Frank James, Mrs. Noble King, and Mrs. R. C. Bamberg. Also assisting in serving were Misses Carol Ann and Joyce Avery, of Marion, nieces of the bride, Misses Jackie Tate, Frances Vaughan, Linda Yelverton, Eloise Boozer, Mrs. John Reynolds and Mrs. James Reynolds.

Out-of-town guests were H. B. Barton, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Crane, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Latham, of Tuscaloosa; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Manley White, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Barton, Mr. and Mrs O. J. Barton and daughter Elizabeth, Mr and Mrs. C. E. Logan, Mr and Mrs. S. F. Hiley, Mr. and Mrs Ralph Avery, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Leverette, Mr. J. F Barton. grandfather of the bride, Mrs Burnis Barton, Mrs. Leonard Barton, and Mr. and Mrs. Graham Nichols, all of Marion; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon L. Robertson, of Clanton; Mrs. Merle Ramsey and son, Larry, of Buras, Da. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clems, of Demopolis; Miss Nancy Holder, Miss Merle Strange, Don Mikell and Gordon La Grande of Auburn, Geo. Bynum, Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. John Reynolds, of Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Mitchell of Talladega.

Mr. and Mrs. White left immediately following the reception for a wedding trip through the Smokies. The bride traveled in a navy faille dress wth matching bolero and navy accessories. Her small veiled hat was a deep rose velvet. After their wedding trip, the couple will reside in Charleston, W. Va., where the groom is employed.

Chilton 4-H'ers Represented At Camp By Smith

Chilton County 4-H Club members were well represented at the fifth annual 4-H Fish and Wildlife Camp, the latter part of August by Dan Smith of Rt. 1, Thorsby. This camp, held at Camp Grandview in Elmore County is sponsored by the Federal Cartridge Corporation in cooperation with the API Extension Service and is designed to better acquaint youngsters with game and wild life.

Young Smith was awarded this trip for his outstanding project work during the past four years.

Dan says of the Camp: "We were divided into three groups and went to different wildlife conservation practices each day where we engaged in trapping, rifle shooting and fishing. The parts of camp that I enjoyed most were the movies which were shown each night and the rifle shooting. We were shown movies on poisonous and non-poisonous snakes and their identification.

The highest score was 148 out of a 200 point test in the rifle competition.

According to the above report Dan Smith enjoyed thoroughly his camp outing and doubtless would go again given the opportunity. He serves as an example of the fortitude and spirit of today's youngsters and he is commended for his taking part in trying to improve himsel., his organization and his community.

A RECIPE FOR FRIENDSHIP

First put in several cups of friendliness—be generous with it because this is the foundation of your recipe—Put in two full cups of kindness, one-half cup consideration; a dash of thoughtfulness; two tablespoons of fun; a dash of neatness and one cup of nice conversation powder. Stir until evenly mixed, then pour into a soft heart, bake at a loving degree. Check often to see that none of the ingredients evaporate. Bake until it is guaranteed not to fall apart. Keep it warm and always in use

HOME ACCIDENTS—

June Takes Cake For Being Safest Month This Year

Home accidents took fewer lives in Alabama during June than in any other month this year according to reports received this week from the Bureau of Vital Statistics. Home accident death totals for the first six months of the year are:

January 50; February 43; March 65; April 48; May 36 and June 30.

The reports show that deaths from all types of accidents numbered 159 in June. In addition to the home total, there were 66 motor-vehicle, 18 work and 41 public non-motor-vehicle fatalities.

Twenty-seven of the latter were drownings, ten of which involved boats. There were four deaths attributed to undescribed accidents.

The Health Department said that these figures are provisional and may vary slightly when final figures are received.

September Is Better Breakfast Month

This wide-awake eight year old follows the rules of good health. She gets plenty of sleep, exercise, fresh air, water, and rest plus three well-balanced meals a day beginning with a good breakfast of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter.

"What are little girls made of? Sugar and spice and everything nice."—so the storybooks tell us. Unfortunately sugar and spice and other empty calories too often occupy too much emphasis in the diets of school-age children. This is more apt to be true when breakfast has been skipped.

Nutrition specialists advise a good breakfast for all ages. Research at the State University of Iowa has demonstrated that for the young and old alike, good breakfast habits are essential for maximum efficiency, both physical and mental, during the late morning hours. This research further demonstrated that children who omitted breakfast had a poorer attitude towards schoolwork and received lower grades.

It is the parent's responsibility, reports the United States Children's Bureau, to regulate the schedule of the school-age child so that he has ample time to get up in the morning and to eat a good breakfast.

A good breakfast is defined by doctors and dietitians as one which supplies one-fourth to one-third of the daily nutritional requirements. Such a breakfast can be prepared by following a basic breakfast pattern of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter. This high-energy, low-fat breakfast is quick and easy to prepare and offers great variety with the more than two dozen kinds of breakfast cereals, both hot and ready to eat, available today.

Basic Breakfast Menu for School-Age Child

Orange Juice, ½ cup	Toasted Oatmeal Bread, 2 slices
Corn Flakes, 1 ounce, with Milk ½ cup	Butter, 1 pat
	Milk, nonfat, 1 cup

Start now during SEPTEMBER BETTER BREAKFAST MONTH to re-establish the breakfast eating habits of your entire family by serving a light, modern, high-energy, low-fat cereal and milk breakfast.

Doctor's Notebook

New Approach To An Old Problem

The normal process of having children is for many women, unfortunately, accompanied by a long list of disturbing symptoms that make the period of pregnancy an uncomfortable one. "Morning sickness," for example, which may occur in the late afternoon as well as in the morning, is so common that it has become almost a symbol of pregnancy. Two of every three women experience the nauseous feeling, and in half these women the nausea is accompanied by vomiting.

In addition to morning sickness, the nine-month wait means for many a period associated with headaches, insomnia, leg cramps, dizziness and emotional upsets such as crying spells, anxiety and tension, irritability and restlessness.

Many physicians feel that these symptoms are psychosomatic in nature, that is, physical disturbances like headache may arise primarily from emotional stress. With this in mind a group of New Jersey obstetricians gave their patients the tranquilizing drug "Miltown" to ease these all-too-common symptoms of pregnancy. The report of their findings indicates that many women need no longer resign themselves to these prenatal discomforts.

The physicians found, for example, that nausea and vomiting were relieved in 243 of 268 women who were given the drug. Insomnia was relieved in 97 of 102 women. Emotional upsets were eased in 144 of 164 patients; and the doctors report a similar degree of relief from the other symptoms. In all these cases, the doctors point out, the tranquilizing drug was prescribed after other medication had failed to bring satisfactory relief.

One of the most interesting observations made by the obstetricians was the relief the drug brought to women suffering from leg cramps. Although it is one of the most common symptoms of pregnancy, leg cramps is also one of the least understood. It is believed that the condition is caused by an imbalance in the body of calcium and phosphorus, although correction of the imbalance does not always ease the cramps. "Miltown", which is known to relax the muscles as well as the mind, eased the discomfort of leg cramps in 67 of 78 women.

Most important, the physicians report that the tranquilizer, which may be obtained only on a doctor's prescription, may be taken throughout the prenatal period with safety. No untoward reactions from the drug were observed in any expectant mother.

"Stars" Trampled By Thorsby; Take Back Win From "All Stars"

Special To The News
By B. B. BATES

THORSBY 14 - "STARS" 1

After having experienced only a mediocre season, Thorsby's manager Wallace Watkins fashioned together a Club that was strong enough to thrash the Clanton "Stars" 14 to 1 in a Saturday afternoon game at Thorsby.

The win gave Thorsby an even break with Clanton for the year.

Led by Parker's single, triple and home run, Thorsby pounded out 14 hits off three Clanton Pitchers with R. Easterling receiving credit for his 2nd loss of the year against 5 wins. Parker was Thorsby's winning pitcher, holding Clanton to 2 hits. Parker used a baffling knuckle ball in besting the "Stars". Harry Ilison's 2nd inning triple and Royce Seales 9th inning single were the only dents in Parker's almost perfect game. Veazey and Brasher of Thorsby also had home runs. If manager Watkins can begin next season where he left off tihs year, Thorsby could be one of the "powers" of Central Alabama

CLANTON 3 - "A-STARS" 1

The slump-ridden Clanton "Stars" broke loose from their 3 game losing streak to pull a mild upset in trimming the Central- Alabama All Stars 3 to 1 in Sunday's game.

A very good crowd of baseball faithfuls braved the elements of threatening weather to watch Bobby Wyatt in his best pitching performance of the year.

The "Stars" right hander limited the visitors to only 3 hits [illegible] the game that sends the two teams into next Sundays finale with horns locked at 1 win each.

Price of Prattville, singled home Collier from second in the second inning for the visitors only run of the game. Hill's 5th inning double and Jones 8th inning single were the only other hits Wyatt gave up.

Clanton scored once in the 4th, Smith singled, took second on a balk by pitcher Jones, too third on McKee's fly to right field and scored on Seales foul fly to first base.

The hometowners winning run came in the 5th. This was a result of J. P. Easterling's triple and Swanner's fly out to deep left field. Clanton scored again in the 6th. Fulford singled and McKee and Scales walked.

The fast-balling Collier then held Clanton without a hit the 7th and 8th frames.

The final results of the game:

For Clanton, 3 runs, 5 hits, no errors.

Central Alabama All-Stars, 1 run 3 hits and no errors.

The Intermediate teachers group of Chilton County met at the Clanton Colored School on August 29 to outline plans for the 1957-58 school year In-Service Program. The topic, "Enriching Instruction Through The aBsic Social Program" was selected as the theme. It was felt that teachers would be able to help boys and girls grow normally toward social maturity, grow in an understanding of their environment, develop a feeling of security, and be able to make their own social adjustments and live cooperatively with others, especially thru the study of this theme.

Through this study it is hoped that:

1. Students will learn to know their teachers better, and teachers will gain a better insight as to the ability of pupils.
2. Opportunities for pupils to participate in planning their work, sharing ideas and decisions will be provided.
3. The feeling of security, love and belonging will be revealed.
4. Recognition and provision for the wide range of abilities will be provided for so that each individual is able to progress in terms of his own abilities.
5. Opportunities of guidance which shows respect for each pupil's ideas, contributions, and potentialities will be provided.

SCHOOL LUNCHES—

No Ice Cream Or Sauerkraut, But It's Nourishing, Mother

You know, youngsters, especially growing boys just plain love to eat. And now that school is starting again there'll be no end to mother hearing what a "sorry" meal that was in the lunch room today.

Youngsters, especially growing boys have a tendency to overlook quality for quantity sometimes and that's where the rub comes in.

Mother worries about whether or not little Joe is going to get a proper lunch.

Actually they have nothing to worry about except teaching their children the advantages of a balanced diet.

The dieticians and nutrition experts are very thorough and careful to prescribe and prepare the proper foods for growing bones, teeth and minds and the parent need not be afraid of the school lunchroom menu. Naturally Junior is going to gripe, but he does that at home, does he not.

Children using these facilities have the advantages of fresh foods, hot meals and in a supervised atmosphere for a minimum cost to the individual.

If, however, Junior is pampered enough to demand a packed lunch, here's how, according to the experts:

First of all the lunchbox should include Milk, meat, cheese, eggs or fish, vegetables; fruit; and a simple, easy-to-carry dessert.

To vary the monotony of a packed lunch, putting a surprise dish like, stuffed celery, ripe or green olives, cheese cubes on wooden picks, potato chips or pretzels, bag of salted nuts, dried apricots or raisins, small popcorn ball, cupcake or cookies.

The proper way to pack a lunch is to put firm foods in the bottom of an easily cleaned, metal lunchbox, packing all foods compactly to prevent shaking; wrap each food separately and include an extra napkin for a desk or lap cloth and for the occasional "unpreventable" accident.

Clanton folks this year are talking more than ever before if data released this week by Southern Bell Telephone Company is used as basis for judging a trend.

I. M. Commander, manager of the company's Clanton office, reported that the number of long distance calls made daily from Clanton has increased 18.9 per cent during the past twelve months.

In August 1956, the daily average of out-of-town calls was 572; this past August the daily average was 705.

Local calls was 14,479 daily as compared to 14,242 last year, the same period.

The total number of operators on the local switchboards is 26, two having been added since last year.

The increased calling activity, is indicative of a healthy local economy says the telephone expert.

Prudent Predictions On SEC Football This Season

A News Exclusive
By JERRY GRAY

This week we will give you all the "dope" on the teams we pick to finish 6th, 7th and 8th places; namely Miss. State, Florida and Vanderbilt, respectively.

Now, here's why:

Mississippi State—

Any team with a Billy Stacy at Quarterback is destined to cause some headaches in the opposition.

Last season Stacy rushed the line for 613 yards and connected on 32 of 71 passes for 464 more yards.

Stacy would be a big man on any team, but one man can't win a ball game. (I might have to eat those words).

State's halfbacks are three fancy steppers, Bubber Trammel, Walt Flowers and Gil Peterson. Molly Halbert should hold down the fullback slot solidly. Jimmy Dodd is about as good a Center to come down the middle in many a day.

There should be an upsurge for the Maroons this year.

Florida—

The two platoon system is certainly a blessing for coach Bob Woodruff, simply because the Gators would be in a bad fix through the graduation of All-American guard John Barrouh, halfback Jack Simpson and fullback Joe Brodsky along with a few more, had it not been for the experience gained by the remainder of the two platoons.

Some standout returnees are Mick Ellenburg, Jimmy Rountree, Ed Sears and Charlie Roberts. Bernie Parish will be at halfback again, also Don Pelham will be back at end for another season.

The Gators won't be as good as they were last year, but they'll cause a lot of teams a lot of trouble.

Vanderbilt—

With Phil King back at halfback it could be quite confusing for the opposition. Not so much because of the players, but because of the wide variety of plays they will be running, which includes the spreads, dives, sweeps etc.

One weak spot could be the quarterback position where the logical candidate is Boyce Smith. Don't count on it being too weak, however.

Vandy will have a couple of standout tackles in Mario Wodka and Pat Swan.

Center should be manned solidly and competently by Dayle Richardson.

Last year Art Guepe's team won only two conference games. Better look for an improvement this season.

(Next week we'll give you the rundown on the teams we pick for 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th places in the SEC. These are: Tulane, Alabama, L.S.U. and Georgia respectively.)

The imported fire ant has infested an estimated 27 million acres of farmland in Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Ark., So. Carolina, and Texas, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. radication campaigns have succeeded to some extent in Tenn., No. Carolina and Arkansas.

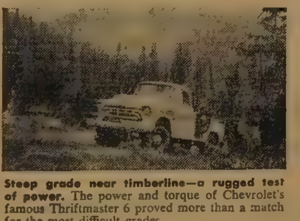
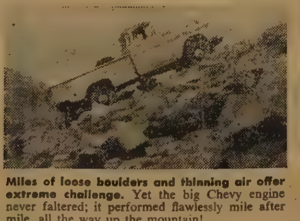
CHEVROLET PICKUP CLIMBS PIKES PEAK THE HARD WAY ...OFF THE ROAD!
An off-the-road run up Pikes Peak was called impossible by people who know the mountain well. But a production Chevrolet pickup actually did it . . . to prove its pulling power and ruggedness!

All the way to the top without using the road! Here the truck scales high boulder pile near the 14,110-foot summit.



Steep grade near timberline—a rugged test of power. The power and torque of Chevrolet's famous Thriftmaster 6 proved more than a match for the most difficult grades.



Miles of loose boulders and thinning air offer extreme challenge. Yet the big Chevy engine never faltered; it performed flawlessly mile after mile, all the way up the mountain!

Final effort achieves summit! Pickup conquers Pikes Peak . . . shows why Chevrolet trucks are famous for staying and saving on tough jobs! Talk trucks with your Chevrolet dealer.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

GOOD SLEEPING HABITS

How much sleep should you have? It varies in individuals, but an average of eight hours is a good yardstick. What is sleep? The dictionary defines it as "that period of rest for the body and mind during which volition and consciousness are in partial complete abeyance and the bodily functions partially suspended.

While the required hours of sleep vary in individuals, the rest is essential to good health. Some persons are very well on a few hours of sleep while others require more than the average eight. The type of sleep also plays a role in the amount of rest. A restless sleep, interrupted frequently by fitful periods of waking, is not conducive to good repair of body tissues. A good sound sleep provides complete recovery from previous fatigue. Less than the conventional seven or eight hours of sleep proves, in most cases, wearing. The result is not only a haggard face, but a strained disposition.

There are many persons who, otherwise normal believe they require more hours of sleep anywhere from ten to twelve hours. As a rule the healthy person who wants an unusual amount of sleep is not suffering from mental exhaustion, but from lack of exercise and sluggish digestion. In fact there are some authorities who believe that oversleeping is just as bad as overeating.

Good sleeping habits should be established. Freeing the mind of all cares and worry is one step. Problems cannot be solved by restless thrashing about in bed. A mind, refreshened by a quiet sleep, can cope with the exigencies of everyday life with more logical application.

Room temperature is important in sleep. A temperature that is too warm or too cold for the individual can be an obstacle. Fresh air is important, but this does not mean that the sleeping room should be exposed to cold blasts of winter temperatures. Bed clothing should be comfortable as should sleeping apparel.

Help yourself to a goodnight's sleep by training yourself to good sleeping habits. Then you can wonder tomorrow why you were so worried today.

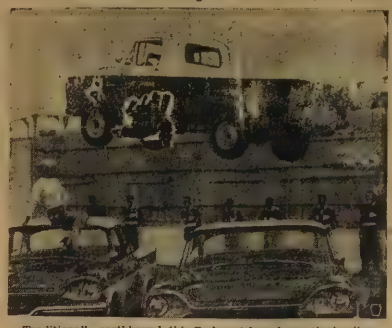
"It Flies Through the Air . . ."



Traditionally earthbound, this Dodge pickup demonstrates it can leap through space just as well as its more glamorous passenger car brother—when it has to. This study in suspended animation was taken in Florida during the performance of a thrill show now touring the country. The truck "flies" 60 feet, from one ramp to another, over the tops of three automobiles.

Another Group Now Covered By New S. S. Amendments

Some claims for social security benefits are already being taken from very recently and newly covered groups of self-employed people, Mr. J. W. Overstreet, Jr., manager of the Birmingham Social Security District Office said today. These recently covered groups include lawyers, dentists, osteopaths, veterinarians, chiropractors, naturopaths and optometrists. They were covered for the first time by the 1956 amendments to the Social Security Act.

Mr. Overstreet emphasized that although these people have only been covered for about 1½ years, it is possible for those of retirement age, who have retired, to start drawing benefits now. Retirement age is 65 for men and 62 for women. Those aged 72 or over can start drawing benefits without retiring.

This group has been covered beginning with and for the first taxable year that ends after 1955. For most of this self-employed group this would be the calendar year 1956. If you are in this group and reach retirement age, you can be insured as early as April 1, 1957. You will be insured if your net earnings are $400.00 or more in each of the years 1956 or 1957.

Mr. Overstreet said, also ,that a representative from his office will be in the Court House in Clanton every Wednesday at 10:00 a.m. to assist persons wishing to file a claim or wanting other information concerning social security matters.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town

by Ben

PAT Hamilton had a birthday party Sunday before last. He had about twenty of his friends and relatives to celebrate with him. You know Pat has retired from the furniture business and doesn't work much any more. He thinks he has served his time in harness and is willing to let the younger men take over. We congratulate him on his birthday and wish him many more of the same. But don't you think that looks a little old for 39.

JOHNELL Lawrence has become a TV star since going to the Magic City. She appeared on the Petticoat Partyline program last week on Channel 6. Johnnel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ponder Lawrence and is attending business college at Birmingham.

"LOOK HERE", yelled the angry young bridegroom of a day, dashing madly into the editor's room of the country weekly; "what do you mean by such an infernal libel on me in your account of our wedding?" "What's the matter?" asked the editor calmly. "Didn't we say that after your wedding trip you would make your home at the Old Manse?" "Yes" howled the newlywed, but just look how you spelled it." And the editor looked and read: "After their wedding tour the newly married couple will make their home at the Old Man's."

JESS MOTES outlived his wife by only two months and three days. Mr. Jess died Sunday at his son's home in Birmingham and Mrs. Lula died on July 12 at a Birmingham hospital. They were close together through life and remain close together in death. Seems that is the way that the two would have wanted it. Our deepest sympathy go to the children and relatives in their deepest sorrow.

THE sudden death of Joe Campbell Tuesday morning in front of the office of a local physician was a shock to everyone. Joe had been in bad health for several months, but seemed in good spirits and feeling fine when he came to town and made his regular rounds. He leaves many friends throughout Central Alabama who will mourn his passing. Joe had a ready wit and a hearty laugh that was his trademark. We grieve with Pauline and Paula, his wife and young daughter, in their sorrow and have only to say that they have a host of friends who grieve and sympathize with them.

THE VERNON Payne's have moved to Montgomery where Vernon is employed by the Montgomery Advertiser. Vernon was our good right arm for many years here at the CCN and we are missing him geatly. He with Marietta and the kids are settled in their new home now and we know they will make many new friends and enjoy Montgomery. It has growing pains like everywhere else, but it still is a beautiful old town.

YOU'VE heard of an accident going someplace to happen. Well, this is the story of an accident that wasn't—there was no casualty, anyway! Tuesday a black 1952 Ford ran off the fill on the east end of the bypass on the Higgins Ferry Road, and as you know, that is some fill. The driver of the automobile did some quick thinking when he saw he couldn't make the turn because of mechanical difficulties and jumped from his car. The car went down the fill and to destruction but luckily the driver was standing on the road above, shaky we suppose, but all in one piece! Now for the sermon; the State Highway Department or the "powers that be" should build a guard rail along that "detour". It is very dangerous and sooner or later someone, who is not too familiar with the road is going to be killed. The time to build it is now—not after a tragedy happens!

SORRY to know Mrs. Tom McKee is seriously ill at the Chilton County Hospital. It is reported she suffered a stroke Monday and we sincerely hope she is able to be about again soon. May God see fit to leave her with her fine family for many years to come is our prayer.

Color of Car Only Clue--

No Arrests Made In Fatal Hit-Run Case

Wednesday morning no arrests had been made in the hit and run accident last Friday evening late at the intersection of 4th Street and 2nd Avenue South.

Victim of the tragedy was 7-year old Alice Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Drannon Bradley.

Alice was killed when she was returning home during a heavy rain on her bicycle and was struck by a vehicle. According to the Sheriff's office the vehicle is of blue gray color but that is about all that is known.

Dozens of "tips" have been checked out by the Police Department and the Sheriff's office since the accident, but nothing concrete has been uncovered.

The Sheriff would appreciate any citizen who has any information, or any automobile repair shop noticing anything of a suspicious nature, to inform his office immediately so that it can be checked out.

According to the officers, it will take the citizens of the County lending their aid to apprehend the fugitive and their full cooperation in the interest of justice, should be given.

Reader Says Public Concern Should be Dealt with Publicly

A CITIZEN SPEAKS OUT ON THORSBY SITUATION

Dear Mr. Editor:

As an interested citizen that would be affected by the "grant" to Thorsby Institute, I was very much surprised to learn in the September 12 issue of your paper that the bill had been authored and approved. After attending a meeting held in Thorsby in July of this year, and from reports that came to me directly thereafter, it was my opinion that the proposal to bring this school into the Chilton County system was completely illogical and unnecessary; and I believe there were a great many others that had the same understanding.

In the first place, only 22 children registered as prospective students for a reactivated T.I.; and surely it isn't economical or wise to even try offering a minimum standard curriculum, including chemistry and physics and the laboratories they requre—for so few.

The cost alone is prohibitive, it seems to me.

Secondly, it seemed the considered opinion of those present at the meeting—especially those more closely associated with the problems of our county system—that this proposal would disrupt many of our existing schools. Unless there has been some change in the planning (and that's possible because it is reported that some more of that midnight oil has been burned) students would be drawn from Jemison, Chilton County High, Isabella, Collins Chapel, Mt. Pleasant, Mineral Springs and Maplesville. The overcrowded conditions in some schools is due not only to lack of rooms but mainly to the limited number of teachers available under the average daily attendance figures.

There is one empty room in Jemison and another in Thorsby NOW due to this limitation—and Thorsby Institute has only four rooms available if and when they are usable.

Another point worthy of consideration is: How does Chilton County compare with neighboring counties? Autauga County has 4 white schools, Bibb has only 2, Coosa has 3, Dallas has 3 and the Selma City School, Elmore has 3 and the Tallassee City School and Shelby County has five between Vincent and Montevallo. Montgomery County has only 3 and 2 city schools.

Chilton has five already—and, in addition, has students attending Billingsley and Marbury in Autauga, Calera High in Shelby. and Dallas County High in Planterville.

Now, as concerns the $80,000.00; (and I wonder how and why that figure was agreed on). Many of us had been led to believe that there was a severe shortage of funds available for schools and that our teachers were poorly paid. How, then, do we get so much so easily? And, who is to repay it? Don't tell me about these "gifts"; anybody with average intelligence knows full well that somebody has already paid, or that somebody must dig it up sometime in the future. But, beyond that: the $80,000.00 pays the way for two years. What happens after that? What are the minimum standards for an accredited high school? What happens should this school fail to meet those standards? Shall we provide now to cut salaries of teachers, and other maintenance and repair costs throughout our system, to add another high school?

Finally, it seems to me that any undertaking as large as this should be brought before the public, and that all interested citizens should know the reaction of our State Department of Education on such a matter.

It is my sincere hope that all of us will always hold the children uppermost in our minds when we come to make decisions affecting the public schools. May we all work toward their greatest benefit regardless of any other affiliation we might have.

Yours very truly,
HORACE MILLER

Improvements on Jail But Still Has 'Bugs'

The Chilton County Grand Jury, dismissed from its Fall Term on September 12 considered 44 cases and returned 33 true bills. In line with juries gone before this group of citizens again found the Chilton County Courthouse in a "dilapidated state" and recommended strongly, its condemnation.

STATE OF ALABAMA
CHILTON COUNTY

In the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama
Fall Term, 1957

To the Honorable Oakley W. Melton, Judge of said Court:

We, the Grand Jury of Chilton County, Alabama, after having been impaneled and charged by your Honor, proceeded to investigate all the cases and matters that came before us, and herewith submit the following report:

During our deliberations we considered 44 cases and are returning herewith 33 true bills. In investigating these cases it was necessary for us to question seventy-six witnesses

Upon inspecting the Chilton County jail we found it in the process of being repainted both on the outside and on the inside.

The plumbing has been repaired and appears to be in working order.

In questioning the prisoners it was learned that the food served at the County jail is wholesome and satisfactory.

It was noted that ten new mattresses have been recently purchased, and there is a dire need for another additional twenty new mattresses. In order that these mattresses may be preserved it is necessary to have at least sixty mattress covers. It is the recommendation of this Grand Jury that those authorities charged with the responsibility of maintaining the jail proceed to purchase the needed mattresses and covers at once.

It was also noted that throughout the jail, on the beds and in the crevices of the walls there are all types of bugs.

It is our recommendation that the jail be fumigated throughout with some type of potent insect killer.

In inspecting the County Courthouse building, we found it still in a delapidated and run-down condition. However, some holes in the floor on the second floor have been crudely patched.

We consider the sanitary facilities of the Courthouse to be a disgrace to Chilton County.

It is the desire of this Grand Jury to go on record, as with previous Grand Juries, recommending that a new Courthouse building be erected, as it is our opinion that expenses incurred in remodeling or renovating the present building would be false economy. We earnestly urge the officials charged with the responsibility of maintaining the Courthouse building to consider the recommendation of this Grand Jury and previous Grand Juries who have personally inspected the building. We also request that in formulating plans for a new Courthouse that consideration be given to the large number of offices needed by the various departments of the County and that the new building be sufficient in size to house all of these offices.

Now, having complied to the best of our ability with your Honor's instructions, request that we be dismissed until such time as the Court may deem it necessary for us to again convene.

This the 12th day of September, 1957.

DADDY AND HIS LITTLE GIRL----

TODAY my daughter, who is seven years old, started to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes. Her cocker spaniel, whose name is Coot, sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved good-bye and started off to the hall of learning.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her, the girl with yellow curls, and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher, who has eyes in the back of her head, and the trees in the school yard, and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things.—Tremendously vital, unimportant things, and then we studied spelling, reading, arithmetic—and then to bed.

She's back here now—back in the nursery sound asleep, with "Princess Elizabeth" (that's her doll) cuddled in her right arm.

You guys won't hurt her, will you? You see I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger is cut or her head gets bumped, I can fix it — but when she starts to school, when she walks across the street, then she's in your hands.

She's a nice kid! She can run like a deer and dart about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses and swim and hike with me on Sunday afternoon. But I can't be with her all the time. I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So please help me look out for her. Please drive slowly past the schools and intersections—and please remember that children run from behind parked cars — please don't run over my little girl.

SELF-SYMPATHY is the super highway that leads only to Misery.

DON'T try to demonstrate your superiority by knocking others.

AS A rule people who are always hunting work never find it.

TOO many people consider the past at the expense of the future.

A BUCK IS FORTY-NINE CENTS----

IN SUMMING UP the mess that the Republican Party has gotten us into the Lee County Bulletin has this to say:

Remember when Tom Dewey, Herbert Brownell, the NAM, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, et als were warning that the Democrats in Washington were either unwilling and unable to cope with inflation?

If so, it will be interesting to note the following figures:

Prices in June. 1957 were 3.4% higher than in June, 1956. The dollar is now worth almost five cents less than it was even 18 months ago. Farmers received 52c of each consumer goods dollar in 1946 but only 40c in 1956. Rent is up 12% since 1952. In one year steel workers' hourly wages have increased 6.5% while wholesale steel prices jumped 11.2%.

Which all adds up to the fact that your "buck" is worth just 49c.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

BY C. WILSON HARDER

A recent action by the Society of Savings in Hartford, Connecticut, may quite possibly result in a close scrutiny by Congress, and perhaps even the Treasury Department itself.

* * *

And as a matter of fact, it may well be that this financial institution purposely took this step to promote such an investigation.

C. W. Harder

Recently, this banking house advertised it will accept a completed book of trading stamps as half of an opening savings account of $6.

In other words, anyone with a book full of trading stamps, plus three dollars in cash, will be credited with an account of $6.

This, then, is tacit admission by a financial institution trading stamps have equal value with legal tender.

That is where fur may fly.

* * *

Under the U. S. Constitution there is a strict prohibition against promiscuous printing of money. In fact, as is well known, the Secret Service for years has been most active in combatting issuance of counterfeit money.

* * *

Often in the past, there has been the question raised as to whether or not trading stamps did infringe on the laws relating to the printing of currency. But it always has seemed to be held as long as the stamps could only be exchanged for certain prescribed items of merchandise, they did not fall into a category of unlimited acceptance as is the case with legal tender.

Now, however, this action by this banking operation raises an entirely new concept.

In fact, some observers of this latest facet in the trading stamp phenomena feel that the government will not be able to ignore this situation.

* * *

Actually, if this stunt spreads widely enough over the country, inflation could be given a healthy boost to the further devaluation of the dollar. All over the nation, people could with three dollars and a book of stamps, open a savings account for six dollars, and after a few days, draw out six dollars for the three dollars put in a few days earlier.

* * *

In fact, going even a step further, it could open a whole new field for counterfeiters as presumably any reasonably talented printer could turn out bogus trading stamps by the carload.

* * *

While the Secret Service does an excellent job in holding down counterfeiting of U. S. legal tender, it is hardly to be imagined that this fine force would ever be set to work tracking down trading stamp counterfeiters.

* * *

Thus, if the action of this Connecticut banking institution spreads around the country which in essence will result in trading stamps having the validity of legal currency, a whole new enterprise may well be launched . . . that of printing and peddling bogus trading stamps. And while such enterprise would be illegal, who is going to track down and prosecute such counterfeiters. It is highly improbable that the federal government or state governments will appropriate huge sums for added police forces to hunt down the origin of "queer" trading stamps. This thing really has immense possibilities . . . could even wreck the country.

ACROSS THE EDITOR'S DESK—

A Word Of Thanks From Bill Clack

I wish to thank my many friends for the kindness shown me while I was in the hospital. I had a very serious operation and my condition was critical for a while.

But thanks to Dr. Charles Moore and Dr. Joe Moore who did a wonderful job and crisis was not too long turning.

Also thanks to Mr. Sudduth, hospital Administrator, and his wonderful personnel for their courteous service to all patients.

These people were always ready to help—I know, for I was on the inside.

After I was able to walk, I visited some of the other patients, some of whom I knew and they all seemed pleased.

Thanks for so many beautiful flowers. I admired their radiant beauty from day to day. Get well cards and visitors to numerous to mention—I appreciate both.

The ministers who visited were: Rev. C. N. Graham, Rev. Ed Wilkins, Rev. James Jones, Rev. Ingram, Rev. Raines and Rev. Griffin Lloyd.

Thanks to the churches that had special prayer for me. Again I say thank you, and may God's richest blessings be with you forever.

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

by "TUCK"

It's an earth-shaking pity that the politicians who use, abuse and mutilate the law and make up our government don't have as much sense as those individuals who first laid the plans. The thing is; we, as voters should consider their "sense" when exercising our rights.

People's driving habits are something like their religion; on Sunday they go to church and when they pray they promise to do better. It seems drivers, upon seeing proof of the destructability of their cars, are impressed. It's when they aren't thinking about it that they have an accident. Both subjects could probably be improved upon by you.

We took leave of our senses last week and left out our Cooper correspondent's contribution to the continuation of the Chilton County News. Our apologies to Miss Janie. We just zigged when we aughta' zagged.

The politician's plight is of his own choosing. He's trying to hold something back so he'll know more than the public, but the public just doesn't work that-a-way. They'll find you out for sure. Oh they'll vote for you anyway, but they'll find you out first, just to prove that they ain't stupid.

Now that we think about it, politicians don't have a monopoly on this type of thing

We don't know who is worse off, the guy who waits to see if something happens or the guy who assures himself nothing will. Pore ole things!

We knew people could get the bird and we knew people could lose their birds, but we didn't know birds, especially pigeons, could lose their people. For the past few weeks our boy Ben has been keeping up with a homely pigeon who is apparently in the unique position of being completely, hopelessly losted. He's got a friend (besides Ben we mean) who flies with him on occasion, but as far as we can determine neither has found his family yet. They just ain't got no body! Ben's favorite one, a white one, has a girl friend whom he cares a great deal for. If anybody sees any red-breasted pigeons around, don't be alarmed. To be sure, that's better than pigeon toe'd robins ain't it?

What's the world coming to? We just saw Herman Vinson going up the street with several cans of (Shell) oil under each arm. We believe in 'friendly' competition Herman, but this is ridiculous!

There is absolutely nothing quite so depended upon as the alarm clock and nothing so darned undependable. (Reason we're so bitter is, we were late to work this morning). If we weren't so dadblamed honest we'd let it go at that, but somebody mentioned that you have to wind up the alarm occasionally. And somebody said my son would be just like me. Egad!

It seems to us that the people who publish school books (new ones every year) would soon get a guilty conscience. We may be all wet, but we think it's ridiculous the way parents of three and four kids have to discard perfectly good books practically every year and buy new ones for the same course in school. If we advanced that rapidly there may be some plausibility, but they contain practically the same thing as last year's. A different title, different pictures and perhaps a different author. We're beginning to wonder if history is history or if it's the figment of some misguided imagination.

Today, sometime late in the evening our brother-in-law will become a husband. When asked if he were ready, he agreed that he was. . . at least, as he'll ever be. He's Thomas Williams and the bride-to-be is Miss Dot Baker of Cooper. We wish for them happiness, prosperity, understanding, patience, forgiveness, generosity, devotion and the one thing that is a combination of all these which is love. Good luck.

Medical Association Advises "Plan Well In Advance" Of 'Asian Flu' Outbreak

A Doctor's Report On Causes, Cures, Social Impact

(The following is written in the public interest by J. Mac Barnes, M. D., chairman of the Committee on Emergency Medical Service of the Medical Association of Alabama. The subject deals with how to deal with a possible outbreak of Asian Influenza in our State.)

PROCEDURES:

1. Immediate steps should be taken by each county medical society to prepare and develop adequate standby programs and plans to cope with an Asian flu epidemic.
2. In formulating these plans, consideration should be given to expanded professional care through the utilization of all medical per-personnel, regardless of type of practice.
3. Plans should include mobilization of other professional resources such as nurses, nurses' aides, pharmacists and others.
4. In order that hospital space may be available for the more serious cases of influenza, including those with complications, it is recommended that elective surgery, diagnostic studies, etc., be curtailed.
5. It is recommended that local programs be coordinated with county health departments and other public health agencies. There should be close cooperation regarding diagnosing and reporting influenza cases. Joint planning may be advisable in many areas.
6. Since the situation is under constant change, every effort will be made to keep county medical societies informed of all developments in plans and policies.

PREVALENCE:

Reports indicate an epidemic of influenza began in Hong Kong and Singapore in April 1957. In rapid succession, almost simultaneous epidemics occurred in Taiwan, the Phillippines, the Malayan States, Indonesia, Japan and India. There have been sharp outbreaks reported aboard commercial and U. S. Naval vessels. An epedimic is reported at the present time in Chile.

A number of states, including Alabama, have now reported cases of confirmed Asian Influenza.

CHARACTERISTICS:

The disease is characterized by rapid onset, fever, malise, muscle aches, and coryza of three to five days' duration. In general, the attack rate rangse from 10 to 30 per cent in affected areas. Mortality rates have been low. A brief summary of epidemic characteristics includes:

1. Infective agent—virus Japan 507 of 1957.
2. Incubation period—probably 1-2 days.
3. Incidence—Variable, figures not entirely reliable, 10-30%.
4. Contagious period—uncertain 1-5 days.
5. Transmission—droplet infection.
6. Symptoms — fever, prostration, headache, lassitude.
7. Signs—Coryza.
8. Course—generally short duration, 3-5 days.
9. Complications—rare, not serious except in the very young, old or those debilitated.
10. Treatment—no specific therapy, usually symptomatic; antibiotics of little value; good nursing care imperative.
11. Mortality—figures unreliable, probably quite low except in the young, old or those debilitated.
12. Diagnosis must be on a clinical basis, since routine laboratory confirmation will not be feasible.

IMPACT ON PUBLIC:

Consideration must be given to the medical, economical and political impact of any epidemic that appears suddenly and attacks 10-30 percent of the population. The rapid onset of any epidemic makes it mandatory to have plans prepared well in advance.

Asian flu is characterized by a high degree of prostration and most patients become bedridden within a short period of time. The uncomplicated case of influenza runs less risk of acquiring cross infection if cared for at home rather than in the hospital. The Surgeon General recommends that maximum reliance be placed upon home care of those ill and that hospital admissions be limited as far as possible to those cases of influenza with complications, or to those with other diseases which might be aggravated by influenza. Each community should make a serious study of available emergency facilities (churches, schools, etc.) and develop suitable plans to cope with any epidemics which might occur.

VACCINE:

Supplies of Asian flu vaccine should be available in ample quantities within the near future. There are no plans in the state of Alabama for official rationing of vaccine or for mass immunization of the public at large. It is recommended that first preference be given to vaccinating those persons whose services are imperative for the ca of the sick and for maintenance essential community services.

Health personnel, such as phy cians, nurses and hospital employe and their families should be imm nized first, followed by policeme firemen, and other persons in k public service positions.

Dosage Schedule:

(1) Adults and children abo age 12, 1 c. c.

(2). Age 3 months throu years 1/10 c. c. intradermall subcutaneously repeated in 7- days.

(3) 6 years to 12 years, ½ c [illegible] repeated in 7-10 days.

Ten to fourteen days are requ ed for immunity to develop. Ind cations are that the vaccine is least 70% effective. Only know contraindication to the use of th vaccine is in persons known allergic to eggs.

Antibiotics are generally agre to be ineffective in Asian influen It is felt that there would b certain amount o. public dema for the use of antibiotics in influen epidemics. Since it is well know that primary influenza infectio often are followed by seconda bacterial infections, a degree justification in the use of antibioti may be advanced.

MISS OUSLEY, AIRMAN HAVE HOME WEDDING

Miss Lois Ousley and Joseph Harlis Suddeth exchanged wedding vows on Saturday, September 7, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Ousley, parents of the bride, in Stanton. The informal ceremony was solemnized at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in the presence of the family and close friends. Reverend William F. Rasberry, pastor of the Northside Baptist Church of Selma, officiated.

The bridegroom who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Suddeth of Elberton, Ga., is stationed at Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin, Texas.

The couple was attended by Miss Carolyn Suddeth, sister of the groom as maid of honor and Wylie T. Walker, uncle of the bride, as best man. The maid of honor wore a pink street length dress with a a corsage of white carnations.

The bride's dress of white lace was fashioned with a fitted bodice and a full flowing length skirt. The top was finished with a scoop neckline and long sleeves. The veil of illusion, which was fingertip length, draped from a tiara of pearls. The bride carried a white Bible adorned with a corsage of white carnations and showers of satin ribbon caught into love knots.

The living room fireplace formed a background for the improvised altar which was in traditional motif: Baskets of white gladioli and [illegible] were used at each side against a banking of greenery. The mantle was centered by a matching floral arranegment, flanked by lighted white tapers.

Following the ceremony guests were entertained at a reception. ON LOCAL LAKES—

Stripes Beginning To Strike; Crappie, Bass Action Improved

FISHERMEN GETTING SET FOR FINAL (SOME SAY BEST) ANGLIN' OF SEASON

By R. L. (Dick) SCOTT

At long last stripes are beginning to snap out of their state of dormancy and become active on Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes.

Herman Sears, boat dock operator, Swayback Bridge, Lake Jordan, says, "Stripes are schooling and hitting better now than during the past seven years."

C. P. Dick, Holtville Store operator, Lake Jordan, says, "my partner and I took the limit on stripes in a little while last week, and could have caught the limit sooner, had our motor been a little faster. Some of the other fishermen weren't doing so well with the conventional chugger and trailer lures.

We had our good luck casting a Glen Evans white Shyster."

Albert Howell, Steel Bridge dock operator, Hatchett Creek, Lake Mitchell, says, "Stripes are schooling about half way down the creek between here and Barrett's Camp White ABU's, Shyster's, Bama and other similar lures are the type baits being used. Each of those fellows pulling out just as you came in had caught the limit. Their stripes were not big ones, ranging from one-half to three-quarters of a pound each, but they said there were some big ones in the schools, they just couldn't hook 'em."

This is the news many fishermen have been waiting a long time to hear, and now all you have to do is come on down and try your luck.

The Clanton anglers are cleaning up trolling a Johnson Spoon. Most any hour during the day is good. The stripes are hot after the small shad and don't care who knows it. Their surface acivity is becoming more concentrated each week. Between the periods of activity it is wise to troll the flats and be ready for them when they show on the surface.

Also, crappie and largemouth bass action is steadily improving on all lakes. Many nice strings of large white perch and crappie are being taken on live minnows from twelve to fifteen feet of water.

Paul Mitchell, Sylacauga Firestone dealer pulled an 8 pound 14 ounce bass out this week according to B. J. Phillips' Paint and Fishing Tackle Shop in Sylacauga.

Louis McGinty of Tallassee boated an 8 pound largemouth [illegible] Yates Dam.

CHIEF ALAPOCO SAYS.

If waves are high and the water churned it is no place for a small boat. If, however, you are caught out, head your boat at an angle towards the waves at slow speed, NOT directly into the waves. It may be thrilling, but it could prove to be your last.

MONEY AND BANKING
In Everyday Living

MOVING DAY confronts 1 in 5 Americans each year. If you expect to move to a new home, check the reliability of the mover you plan to use; get an advance estimate; be sure you have adequate insurance protection. Taking these steps has saved others loss.

WHO DOES THE KITCHEN CHORES at your house: You or your kitchen? Make this test. First, list all major operations involved in preparing a typical day's meals; in cleaning up afterward. (Omit operations in which there is no known substitute for your own two hands.) Second, check each item on the list for which you already have an electrical or mechanical assistant. Third, count the unchecked items. Their number is the number of ways your kitchen can still be improved—to give you more time and energy for yourself and your family . . . If you decide that you want to add some labor-saving appliance right now, why not see us about arranging economical financing?

AMERICA'S FUTURE AND YOURS are inextricably linked. The citizen's faith in our American way of life, and his determination to preserve it, have made our nation strong and prosperous — and are needed to keep it so. More than 40 million Americans have already shown where they stand, by investing in Series "E" and "H" U.S. Savings Bonds. America's banks have shown the same faith and determination. They sell, at no compensation, more of these Bonds than any other group. Buy Bonds at our bank.

Ala. Crop Report Says Recent Rains Will Greatly Aid Late Crops

Dry weather caused crop prospects to decline in most areas of the State by September 1. The continued dry weather also hastened maturity and fall harvest is proceeding rapidly. Rainfall during August consisted of light, scattered showers, and crop deterioration was serious in localities that the showers missed. A much needed general rain has been received over the State since September 1. Late maturing crops will benefit from ample moisture and much fall seeding can be done.

CORN:

A yield of 26.0 bushels was indicated on September 1. This is one bushel higher than last year, and considerably higher than the average yield of 18.8 bushels. Indicated production at 56,004,000 bushels compares with 56,675,000 produced last year, and a 10-year average production of 46,474,000 bushels.

COTTON:

A crop of 625,000 bales is the forecast based on September 1 conditions. This compares with 750,000 bales produced last year and the 1946-55 average of 891,000 bales The indicated yield of 405 pounds of lint cotton per acre is above the 370 pounds produced last year, and considerably higher than the 1946-55 average of 296 pounds per acre.

PEANUTS:

Production this year is estimated at 190,800,000 pounds. This production would be 12 percent below last year and 22 percent below the 10-year average. The indicated yield at 900 pounds per acre is 110 pounds below last year, but slightly higher than the 10-year average.

HAY:

Indicated 1957 all hay production is 801,000 tons. This production would be 6 percent above last year and 17 percent above the 10-year average production of 684,000 tons. Most hays have been harvested with the exception of peanut vines and some soybean hay.

SORGHUM GRAIN:

A production of 666,000 bushels is forecast as of September 1. The production compares with 612,000 bushels produced in 1956 and the average 1946-55 production of 513,000 bushels.

SOYBEANS:

The 1957 production is forecast at 2,204,000 bushels. If realized, this would be 5 percent below last year's production but considerably higher than the 10-year average production.

PECANS:

A crop of only 8 million pounds is indicated this year. This production would be only 26 percent of last year's crop of 30.5 million pounds and only 54 percent of the 10-year average.

MILK PRODUCTION:

Milk production totaled an estimated 104 million pounds during August 1957 compared with 109 million pounds for the same month a year ago. Fewer milk cows on farms is chiefly responsible for this decline.

"Clanton "Stars" Lose Final Game To "All-Stars"

SEASON'S RECORD STANDS AT 20 WINS; 15 LOSSES

Special To The News
By B. B. BATES

Montgomery's top baseball player of the year, Kent Collier, came to Clanton's City Park Sunday afternoon to put on a remarkable performance that spelled the difference in the season's final game.

Collier not only pitched the Central-Ala. "All-Stars" to a 4 to 0 win over Clanton, but his 7th inning home run clout that cleared the left field fence put the damper on Boby Wyatt's bid for a no-hit game.

After 6 innings of play Clanton had touched Collier for three singles and 0 runs. The visitors had been set down with no runs and no hits.

Marion Grant started the 7th by going safe on an error by H. Ellison. Collier then spoiled Wyatt's perfect game with his long blast.

After Speigner lived on McKee's error, Wyatt faltered enough to give up successive singles to Hamric, Lee and Brigance, good for runs 3 and 4. Wyatt settled down to get the next 8 men in order, but the 7th inning damage could not be repaired.

Collier spaced 4 Clanton hits in this order a first inning single by Edwards, 3rd inning single by Smith, and Royce Seales 6th inning single and 8th inning double.

The Sunday win gave the Central Ala. "All-Stars" a 2 to 1 margin over Clanton in the 3 game post-season series. The loss left Clanton with a seasons record of 20 wins and 15 defeats.

9TH THRU 12TH PLACE—

WINDUP OF SEC PREVIEW PREDICTIONS

A News Exclusive
By JERRY GRAY

This week we conclude our SEC Preview with the teams we pick for 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th places respectively. These are: Tulane, Alabama, L.S.U. and Georgia.

TULANE—Lost one fullback and one line. This is just about the book on the Greenies. They'll have to strive to arrive even in 9th place.

Tulane has last year's starting backfield with the exception of tremendous Ronnie Quillan who was the workhorse last year at full.

End Will Billion should be watched this year.

The Green Wave will not be up to last year but may be able to pull a few surprises.

ALABAMA—The Tide is definitely on the comeback trail and why not. They have overall team speed this year, more depth, a good sturdy line and a nice crop of sophomores coming up to bolster their attack.

Bobby Smith, who made a name for himself against Georgia and Tulane will be back at Quarter along with Bobby Jackson who switched from halfback.

Others that you might see breaking loose during any games are Gary O'Steen, Red Stickney, Dickie Strum, Marylon Dyess and Duff Morrison all sophomores and all halfbacks. Clay Walls and Jim Lo.tin of course are both veterans.

Billy Rains and Dave Sington, both linemen could crack the all' SEC barrier.

The Crimson Tide will roll this fall.

L.S.U.—The Tigers lost 17 letterman via graduation and that certainly doesn't help anyone, least of all' coach Paul Nietzel and his team.

Last year the Tigers had a dissappointing conference record. 1 win and 5 losses. The single win was an upset victory over Tulane.

One man that may prove interesting to watch is Warren Rabb, who will most likely be the signal caller. Jimmy Taylor, a fullback, may also bear watching.

The Bayou Bengals should improve slightly on last year's record.

GEORGIA—Don't count on Georgia finishing last this year, because Wally Butts has found himself another quarterback in Charlie Britt.

The Bulldog defense may not be so sharp, but their offense will be.

The Bulldogs won't have too much depth, but that's about the only difference in this year and last year, but they may cloud the picture for some teams.

Consolidation Proposed--

L & N R. R. Losing Money On "Too Many Trains"

The Alabama Public Service Commission announced this week that a public hearing will be held in the Commission Hearing Room at Montgomery beginning at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, October 10 on the petition of Louisville and Nashville R.R. Company for permission to consolidate the services of its passenger trains 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Trains 1 and 4 now operate between Cincinnati and New Orleans. Nos. 2 and 3 now operate between Cincinnati and Montgomery.

The Railroad alleges an out-of-pocket loss of $614,604.39 on trains 1 and 4 during the calendar year 1956 and a loss of $231,317.84 on trains 2 and 3 and gives as its reason for the proposed consolidation its "desire and duty to institute all economies possible without unreasonably inconveniencing the traveling public." The use made of these trains is small, according to the L&N, and the traveling public will have available, after the consolidation is effected consolidated trains 1 and 4 serving each of the stations now served by 1, 2, 3 and 4, as well as passenger service now being rendered by other remaining L&N passenger trains.

The Railroad further claims that mail and express service adequate to meet the public convenience and necessity of the territory served by these trains can be furnished by other transportation facilities, including other remaining L&N passenger trains.

The effect of the consolidation would be that the four trains now in operation would be consolidated into two trains that would operate as Nos. 1 and 4 between Cincinnati and New Orleans, resulting in a change in schedule of trains 1 and 4 south of Montgomery.

No station stop on 1 and 4 south of Montgomery would be eliminated, however.

Under present schedules train No. 1 leaves Clanton at 9:12 a.m. No. 4 leaves Clanton at 7:08 p.m. No. 3 leaves Clanton at 5:44 p.m. and No. 2 leaves Clanton at 9:47 a.m.

Under the proposed consolidation in which only 1 and 4 would run the schedule is broken down thusly:

Train No. 1 would leave Clanton at 5:40 p.m. and Train No. 4 would leave Clanton at 5:59 p.m.

For even more detailed information check with the Clanton City Council which has been furnished complete details of the proposed changes.

HOW BILL STOPPED FUMBLING THE BALL

The power to believe is the greatest force in a human being. Faith and fear are both a form of believing.

Here's a man whose steps have been dogged by sickness, frustration and failure. Someone tries to encourage him by saying, "Don't be afraid. God will help you." He cries, "No, I don't believe He will. I do not believe anything can help me."

Therefore, his fear is a form of belief. He believes God can't help him.

Faith is believing also. Faith is based upon confidence in God and His power to protect and deliver us. This kind of believing brings that feeling of security. It relaxes the muscles. It removes the knot of fear from the stomach. It controls the emotions and calms the mind.

Bill Thomas was a young high school student and his greatest ambition was to be a football player. In his Junior year, he went out for the team. His tackling was vicious. His courage in meeting any situation was outstanding. He played the position of halfback and carried the ball very often.

One day early in his career when the center snapped the ball rather hard, he fumbled. From that hour an insistent fear plagued him whenever the ball was to come to him. Always he would think, "What if I fumble, what if I drop the ball?" When he was carrying back punts down the field, the same fear would nag him. And he did begin fumbling the ball often. Finally the coach told him that if he kept on fumbling, he would have to take him off the team.

But the coach was a rather keen student of human nature. He took young Bill aside, and this is what he said, "Bill, I know that you are not afraid. Your tackling is too hard and you face the biggest of opponents without one quiver of fear. I would rather have you between an enemy ball carrier and our goal line than anyone else I know. Now, tell me why you drop the ball."

Then Bill told him of his first experience and of the awful fear that kept seizing upon him every time he was called to carry the ball—the fear of fumbling. Then the coach said quietly, "Bill, I want to talk to you and then you talk to yourself. You simply have begun to believe that you are going to fumble. Now, I want you to change your form of believing. From now on whenever the ball is coming to you, I want you to say with a determination and believe it, 'I will catch the ball; I will not fumble; I will carry the ball!' Then ask God to help you—and He will."

From that moment on, Bill never fumbled again. He became one of the best players in the state. He changed his believing.

These two master emotions, fear or faith, will control you. You are what your believing is because you turn all the power of your being completely in the direction of your believing. The difference lies in whether you practice your faith or practice your fear. Fear not! Only believe.

$60 Is Now 'Top Money' For Old Age Pensioners

County departments of pensions and security are in process of putting into effect new and stricter regulations for receiving old age pensions, State Commissioner J. S. Snoddy revealed today. He said change have been made in order to make available funds reach people in greatest need of them.

"With no more money," the Commissioner explained, "the rapid increase in both aged population and number of pensioners has led to changes in order to stay within available funds and use them for those with least income."

Snoddy said the county workers are putting the new rules into effect by reworking budgets of individual pensioners based on information they have on file. Also they are applying these policies as they make reviews and receive applications.

"We want to be fair and determine everybody's payment under the same rules at the same time," Snoddy added.

In explanation of the changes, the Commissioner said that old age payments cannot be made in the future to any person who has $60 or more per month. Neither can a person's income plus his old age pension exceed $60. Exceptions to these two rules are made for persons receiving nursing care in their own or licensed nursing homes. Maximum old age payments have been and still are $60, the Commissioner added, except for cases in licensed nursing homes. In the past a $60 income would not have made a person ineligible as he might have had unmet needs in excess of that amount, Snoddy pointed out.

Snoddy said need will continue to be determined by standards now in effect, which allow $60 monthly for an aged person living alone or $55 for one living with another recipient, with additional amounts for shelter on an as-charged basis up to a maximum. In some instances there are also such special needs as medical care. Payments will continue at 80 percent of the unmet need up ot $60, with adjustments so that such payments plus what a person has of his own do not exceed $60.

"There may be persons now receiving pensions," the Commissioner declared, "whose income plus the payment exceeds $60, or who have an income of $60 or more. It is these who will be affected by this new policy."

Snoddy said other changes related to the method of considering joint income of husbands and wives, and to the rule that needs of the pensioner only can be included in an old age pension budget. He said that previously it has been possible to include the needs of any spouse who was not eligible for aid in his or her own right, as well as the needs of children under certain conditions.

"We do not want to cause hardship," Snoddy concluded, "but rather to provide an esuitable program for the needy aged within funds aavilable."

A TOUGH ONE, MOM—

How To Serve Jr. Snack Without Sacrificing Supper

OR. . .WHAT IS A "STARVING ARMENIAN"

The schoolbell rings its long awaited dismissal note. Hundreds of "little people" with voracious appetites pour from the classrooms and into school buses. And just a short time later they're invading the kitchen with ""I'm hungry, what we got, Mom?"

And here's mother, faced once again with the age-old problem of how to satisfy these youngsters hunger without spoiling his evening meal. What to do?

For these puzzled mothers, who can't or won't "make 'em wait" here are a few suggestions

Snacks composed of a milk drink with fresh fruit or with crackers or plain cookies or fruit juices and cookies is recommended. These light foods are refreshing and nourishing and are guaranteed not to spoil any meal if eaten in moderate quantities.

Watch that cookie jar, Mom!

Do not, we repeat, do not let the kids raid the icebox, picking out the leftovers. The leftovers might very well be a ham, or what's left of it and children seldom think far enough ahead to worry about the next meal with a luscious slab of ham staring them in the face.

Rich foods—cookies or cakes, etc.—will spoil anybody's appetite for the meal to come.

If light, after-school snacks do not satisfy your "brood" you are advised to revise family routines and move the night meal up an hour or so. With the days getting a little shorter all the time, this early supper does not prove as inconvenient for other family members as it might in other seasons. Best of all, the early meal will prevent the children from spoiling their appetites and allow them to eat a hearty meal full of the nourishing wholesome food their bodies need.

Of course, if Dad would miss the meal on account of this revision in hours it is naturally unthinkable. As we said Mom, what you gonna do?

How engineers design modern concrete roads to save lives and money

Highway engineers design these four important features into the main roads they are building today to give highway users the utmost in safety, comfort and service.

Controlled access provides safe entry or exit from the road at periodic intervals while allowing continuous speed for through traffic.

No grade crossings and no stop lights! On modern highways all traffic on intersecting roads goes over or under the highway.

Wide median strips separate opposing streams of traffic. Result: no blinding lights, no danger of a head-on collision.

Wide traffic lanes allow you more room. And maximum safety results when the lanes are paved with concrete. Concrete is skid-resistant, wet or dry. Its light color provides the best night visibility. Concrete lasts longer, costs less to maintain, gives low-annual-cost service.

The 41,000-mile National System of Interstate and Defense Highways is scheduled to be built by 1972. When finished it will provide safer, faster, more comfortable travel for everyone.

JOE MACK HYDE HURT IN CRASH

Joe Mack Hyde, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hyde, was seriously hurt in a wreck involving a motorcycle and an automobile late Wednesday afternoon.

The accident occurred at the intersection at the C. C. Ward and Spigener Funeral Home corner on the Selma Highway.

Reports are that Flem Higgins, driving an automobile going West, made a left turn into 13th Street when he and young Hyde collided. Hyde, who was going East, was thrown over the hood of the Higgins car and landed on the pavement. He was rushed to Chilton County Hospital and was being X-rayed Wednesday night. A committee was appointed by Chairman Callen Alred to meet with the City Council Tuesday evening to investigate the possibility of constructing the building on city property at the City Park. NEVER anticipate tomorrow's troubles and those of today won't be half the burden.

YOU can't expect people to see their own faults when there are so many others around.

SOME people find it awfully hard to impress others with the importance of their importance.

JUST about the time a man begins to think he knows it all—he cuts another wisdom tooth.

WHEN people are fond of airing another's faults, it usually means their own are on the shady side.

HOW NEWSPAPERS SERVE A NATION!----

"WITHOUT PUBLICITY there can be no public spirit, and without public spirit every nation must decay," said Benjamin Disraeli.

It is no odd coincidence that the U. S. and the American press have thrived simultaneously. Men since Jefferson have seen an irrevocable tie between the two facts. The third president of the young country, while serving as ambassador to France (1785-89), wrote his friend Continental Congressman Col. Edward Carrington from Paris:

> "Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

Despite such championing, the American press has had to battle through the ages to keep Americans informed as to what their elected and appointed servants were up to.

Alexander Hamilton, writing in "The Federalist" challenged the draft of the First Article of the Constitution:

"What is the liberty of the press? Who can give it definition which would not leave the utmost latitude for evasion? I hold it to be impracticable; and from this I infer that its security, whatever fine declaration may be inserted in any constituion respecting it, must altogether depend on public opinion and on the general spirit of the people and of the government."

Veteran newsman Allen Raymond's pamphlet, "The People's Right to Know," lists hosts of examples of the suppression of public information. J. R. Wiggins, executive editor of the Washington Post and Times Herald, and a man extremely sensitive to peacetime censorship, said in a speech at the University of Minnesota School of Journalism:

> "The right of the people to know about the conduct of their own government is being obstructed in the executive, judicial and legislative branches at local, state and federal levels. The obstruction has increased throughout an historic interlude in which the rank and file of citizens have become more competent than ever before to understand and to act intelligently about their own rule."

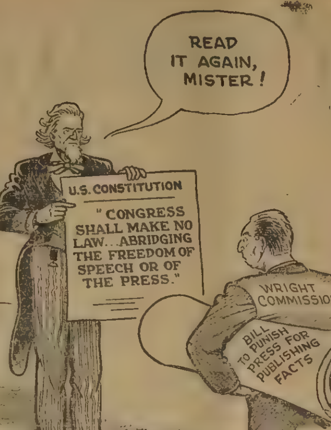
But newspapers keep at it, this job for which they were created, presenting each day a durable archive of events momentous and microscopic. Through the years they have alerted our way of life, the way we think, speak, dress, cook, sleep, house ourselves, dream and solve puzzles.

Newspapers made baseball the national game. In an age of diminishing church attendances, they bring readers daily religious thought by prominent men of the cloth. Most Americans have been on the alert for get-rich-quick promoters since the Boston Post exposed Ponzi 35 years ago. The murder of Don R. Mellet, crusading publisher of the Canton (O.) Daily News, after his attacks on crime in his area, caused a wholesale housecleaning in the region's politics. The blinding of Victor Riesel is one of the reasons behind the work of the McClellan labor racketeering investigation.

Loopholes in veterans' insurance, bribery, fraud, corruption, voting scandals, public nuisances, blight, vandalism, bad roads, dope peddlers, abortion rings, hoodlumism, all have been illuminated first by newsmen. Papers have, on their own, developed reforms, provided uncountable "causes" with the needed publicity. Which leads us to conclude with a thought expressed by President Truman at a Gridiron Dinner in 1947:

"This is the greatest governmental system in the world," said this frequent critic of the press. "Our press has helped to make it so. I am not here just to butter up the press. I do not think it is perfect. But, it is the best press in the world and it is doing a fine job. It is an integral part of our democracy."

THINK IT OVER!



READ IT AGAIN, MISTER!
U.S. CONSTITUTION
"CONGRESS SHALL MAKE NO LAW...ABRIDGING THE FREEDOM OF SPEECH OR OF THE PRESS."
WRIGHT COMMISSION
BILL TO PUNISH PRESS FOR PUBLISHING FACTS
GRAHAM HUNTER

An Alarming Proposal!

THERE IS GOOD reason for alarm over the recent recommendation of the Commission on Government Security that would make it a federal crime to publish information which had, by any means, "leaked" past government security arrangements.

All responsible American journalists recognize the need for safeguarding information that would affect the national security or defense. But once a secret escapes through government doors, through some failure of its custodians, federal power to suppress it by fines and prison sentences upon America's citizens and press could be terribly more dangerous than the security "leak" itself.

History makes it tragically clear that punishing the press for publishing facts is fatal to a nation's freedom. Aware of this, the framers of the first ten amendments to the Constitution of the United States provided that "Congress shall make no law. . . abridging the freedom of speech or of the press." And this principle has precedence as the first article of our Bill of Rights —not to favor the press but to perpetuate our people's freedom to be informed.

The violation of this principle proposed by the so-called Wright Commission would reduce our national law to the level of Peron's dictatorship in Argentina, where news reporters and their papers were subject to prosecution for the crime of truth.

ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

NOT TOO LATE TO START OVER

A certain young fellow slumped down in my office He said. "I am just a flop! Everything has gone wrong. Nobody believes in me any more. I guess I just lost faith in myself completely."

What was wrong? He had made a mistake It was his chance of a lifetime in the firm he was working with. But he had made a careless mistake and had been fired Now, to him, life was finished. But why?

At the beginning of each day, life begins afresh. At the close of each day, we emerge from an old world into a new. You can let each day that closes, close an old world to you. And the new day can be a pleasant vestibule or door to which you enter a new world . . . a new life.

Babe Ruth is known as the greatest home run hitter of all time. But what is not so well known is that he also holds the record for the most strike outs.

Someone asked him one day, "Babe Ruth, how do you feel about holding the record for the most strike outs?" He answered, "Well, I just figured up according to the law of averages. I have found out that for every time that I strike out twice, I knock a home run. That does not mean that I won't strike out more than twice in a row. I may strike out five times or six times. But when I average it all up, I always knock one home run for every two strike outs I make. And so when I knock a home run, I am thankful. When I strike out, I simply say this to myself, 'I am just that much closer to another home run.'"

If you have just struck out, you're not finished! You may start over again with God.

The religious leaders of His day brought to Jesus a woman taken in open sin. First of all, He informed her accusers that they themselves were not without sin. And then He turned to the woman and uttered these immortal words, "I do not condemn thee . . . go and sin no more." He was saying to her: "Forget the past. Leave it with me and start all over. I do not hold your past against you. I simply say to you 'start again.' Forget that you ever did wrong. You can start all over. It is not too late."

Any person reading this column should remember this: You have all the power in the universe behind you when you have God. He is willing to invest that power in you and with you. It is not too late.

Stop right now and say, "I will never be the same again! From this moment on I give myself unreservedly to God. I give Him my thoughts, my ambitions, my ideas, my health, my strength and my future. What I have failed to do, God can help me do. What I have wanted to be, God will help me to be. I can and will do 'all things through Christ which strengtheneth me.'"

As the Bible teaches us that God does not condemn us, then let us not condemn ourselves. Rise up! Let's start out again!

BRAINWASHED BY THE FLU VIRUS

By BOB TUCKER

There was a deep silence prevailing in the Doc's office that day. I was standing there minding my own business when out of the deafening quiet I heard her say, "Do you want him to have it?" "Better get 'em down here, haven't got much left." "What's that Doc?" "I say, better get them down here; what's the matter boy, can't you hear?" "Well, that's what I'm here for Doc, you see. . ." "Fella aught to keep his ears clean." That Flu can sure get you down." "Doc, I had it, I had it, I just can't hear that's all." "This'll fix you right up, boy; it's the Polysomp'n-or-other injection. Takes care of all known viruses. Double protection you know." Yes sir, but I, ouch!"

"Doc, about my hearing. . ." "Oh yes, you aught to do something about that, boy." "Well, over the weekend I started getting a little deafer than usual in my left ear, Doc and now I can't hear a thing with it. I thought. . . hey Doc you aren't listening!" "You know, boy, we're about out of that Flu vaccine." "Aw, Doc, I tell you I can't hear!" 'Oh, come on back here and we'll fix you up. By the way, have you had your Flu shot yet?" Now, just a minute Doc, I, OUCH! Yessir, I've had it, I've had it!" "Boy, you sure got dirty ears. . . I wonder if so-and-so has had his Asian Flu shot yet? H'mm."

Decorator's Notebook

The use of color in home decorating can give a room warmth and charm, yet home decorators often hesitate to experiment with new colors. A good rule to follow is neutral colors for wall paint and floor covering. Large upholstered pieces should be covered in solid fabrics. This permits the use of vibrant colors in smaller chairs and accessories.

In small rooms, window coverings should blend with the wall color and in larger rooms draperies in contrasting colors, stripes or prints can be used. Harmonizing colors can also be used in Venetian Blinds or use white blinds with tapes of a color picked up from the draperies. Interesting effects can be created with the new slat materials such as a delicate lace pattern, linen-finish tweedy slats in soft colors or spatter finish slats in muted blue with white or dramatic white and gold spatter. Venetian Blinds in these new finishes are appropriate for every room in the house.

What Makes Your Engine Wear?

Ask the average car-owner what the cause of engine wear is, and he'll probably reply: "Friction." Well, he's wrong. Engine wear is the result of a corrosive chemical process and not friction at all. What's more, this process can now be controlled by an easily installed apparatus that cuts engine wear by as much as 85%.

Winthrop A. Johns, a mechanical engineer who once conducted Diesel engine experiments for the U. S. Navy, test-proved the fact that acid compounds are formed in the normal process of gas combustion. These acids are collected by the circulating engine oil, and carried throughout the engine system. They attack cylinder walls, pistons and bearings, eat away metal and leave behind abrasive metallic salts. This corrosion, and the abrasive deposits, wear out the vital moving parts of the engine.

Mr. Johns further discovered that these acids can be sidetracked in such a way that, instead of eating away at the engine, they can feed on a piece of special magnesium alloy inserted into the engine—a "sacrificial" metal that gives up its life, so to speak, to save the engine. Now available to car-owners under the name of "Magna-Power," this apparatus is a simple rod of the special alloy inserted into a drain plug that fits into the oil pan of any popular make of car.

By sidetracking corrosive acids, the magnesium rods further reduce the formation of harmful sludge, varnish, and resin. This not only helps retain "new car" power, but slightly increases it.

An additional feature of "Magna-Power" is the addition of a magnet that catches loose metallic parts in the engine's oil and prevents their re-circulation.

Similar "sacrificial" plugs are available for the car's radiator and gas tank, making it possible for the average car owner to prolong all the vital parts of his car—inside as well as outside.

MONEY AND BANKING
In Everyday Living

HINT TO HOMEOWNERS: When you look around your house to see what surfaces need repainting, be sure to look up and down as well. The horizontal surfaces, experts say, are the most susceptible to wear. They are also easy to overlook. Floors or steps that badly need care, it's true, won't likely escape your notice for long. Ceilings and flat roofs, however, are sometimes forgotten—and delay in attending to any home maintenance need may add dollars to the ultimate cost.

STARTING PAY IS GOOD, these days, for college graduates. Average for men is about $400 per month. That's a far cry from the first paycheck most older people remember! Business and industry are giving increasing recognition to the value of college training; are offering more and more opportunity to young men and women with degrees. Of course, the cost of a college education has been rising, too, and may well continue to do so. No matter how small your children are now, it's none too soon to start providing for their "extra" education, by saving systematically at our bank.

"CURE," we're told, is a word used sparingly in the medical field. We don't want to make exaggerated claims for ourselves, either. We don't say, or ever mean to imply, that we can cure all our neighbors' financial problems. We do say this: We have been able to help many of our neighbors solve many such problems; and we will gladly do our very best to help you.

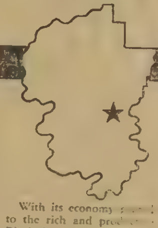
A Salute to
GREENE COUNTY
A Historic Center of Ante-Bellum Culture



With its economy [illegible] to the rich and productive Black Belt soil, Greene is one of the state's oldest and more historic counties. Founded in 1819, the county's early settlers came largely from Virginia and the Carolinas to develop a culture and civilization in the finest traditions of the Old South. The cordiality and graciousness of ante-bellum days still abound in modern-day Greene.

Diversified agriculture is the major economic way of life in Greene County today. The county's fruitful farms and forests provide occupations for most of the population.

In Greene County, and over Alabama, the Brewing Industry makes a large contribution each year to prosperity. Last year 23,500 citizens of Alabama earned more than $35,000,000 directly through the distribution of mild, refreshing beer and ale — the light, bright beverages of moderation. This means steadily growing wealth for our state and for all of us.

In this friendly, freedom-loving land of ours

"Who Says You Need Costly Shots To Relieve 'Hot Flashes' And Irritation From Change-Of-Life?"

Mrs. A. M., Watonga, Okla., adds, "Middle age was torture. Had costly shots 3 times a week but got no relief. Then took Pinkham's Tablets. They brought me new happiness, comfort!"

Model Photo

Science offers women new freedom from much of the misery of change-of-life, thanks to an amazing new tablet developed especially to relieve these functionally-caused discomforts. Doctors reported sensational results using this remarkable home treatment alone . . . and no costly injections!

Relief for 8 out of 10 Tested!

Irritability, tortured nerves were calmed. Dizziness relieved. Awful hot flashes subsided. Here's why.

Unlike aspirin and such "general purpose" remedies, this new tablet is a unique combination of special medicines . . . acts directly on the cause of these troubles . . . works through a woman's sympathetic nervous system to relieve tense feelings and physical distress that bring unhappiness to so many. Clinical tests prove this.

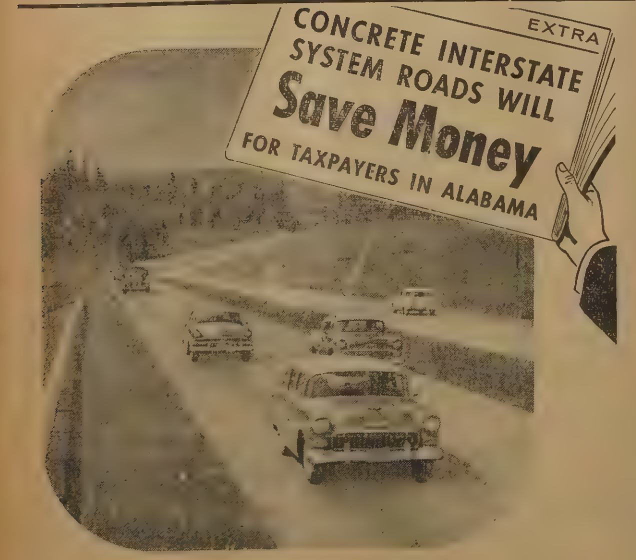
Now this amazing formula is at drugstores without prescription. Ask for "Lydia Pinkham's Tablets". Don't let change-of-life rob you of joy! Get handy Pinkham's Tablets. Contain blood-building iron. See how fast you can feel your happy self again — without costly shots! (Also liquid Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.)



Federal funds will pay 90% of the building costs of the great new National System of Interstate and Defense Highways. This state pays the other 10%—and pays all maintenance cost forever. That's why taxpayers favor the use of durable concrete for these roads. Concrete's maintenance costs are lower—much lower than the annual maintenance cost of the next most commonly built type pavement.

And since maintenance costs come out of your state's highway budget, the use of low-maintenance-cost concrete leaves more money in the highway fund to build other urgently needed new roads.

PICKS 4 WINNERS—

Gray's Pigskin Predictions Prove Almost Phenomenal

Last week's try at perfection came out even better than sportswriter Gray had anticipated. He picked four teams to win and win they did. We know this couldn't have been entirely his "extensive studying", but neither could it have been all "just luck" either. Here's this week's preview of the pigskin parade coming off this Friday night and who will take home the bacon:

By JERRY GRAY
A News Exclusive

The following predictions are derived after extensixe research and study on the part of the previewer.

In the games of this week (Fri., Sept. 27th we predict the following:

Maplesville will win over Hicks Memorial.

Calera will win over Jemison.

Carlowville will bruise Billingsley.

Isabella will win over Verbena.

Chilton County High will beat Montevallo.

In last week's games Clanton walloped Maplesville 33 to 0; Isabella toppled Jemison 19 to 6; Dallas County High romped Billingsley 42 to 0 and Marbury ran wild over Verbena's Red Devils.

Watch next week's paper for the outcome of this week's predictions and another prediction program.

Telephone Talk

By
IRVIN COMMANDER
Your Telephone Manager

HOW BIG IS A BARGAIN? A local homemaker studied the value of her telephone service. She found that telephone rates, in terms of what her dollars will buy, have actually gone down and the service is better than when she was a bride 15 years back. And the real cost of telephone service is down compared to other goods and services you buy. Food costs, for example, have gone up nearly twice as much as phone service. And it's a smaller item in the family budget. Before World War II, over 2 per cent of family income was spent for local phone service; today, less than 1 per cent. To put it another way, the cost of a day's service is less than the price of a loaf of bread, a pack of cigarettes or a quart of milk. Pretty big bargain, wouldn't you say?

MAN-MADE MOON—Sometime next spring, a powerful three-stage rocket will zoom into the stratosphere. About 300 miles up and at a speed of 18,000 m.p.h., the rocket will release a small, shiny sphere: the world's first man-made moon. Inside the satellite will be a product of Bell System research and manufacture—a special kind of transistor. Pioneered and developed by Bell Laboratories and Western Electric engineers, the tiny transistor will enable the artificial moon to send data by radio back to earth. So you might say that telephone research is really "out of this world."

* * *

I WAS WATCHING a construction crew building a new highway the other day. Seems like more and more roads are being built or improved around the state to keep up with growing traffic, and that's fine. Well, it's the same way with the telephone company. When traffic gets heavy on lines between cities, we build new voice highways to take care of your calls. You may be interested to know that these super-highways for phone calls have over four times the capacity of ten years ago. That means your Long Distance calls go through fast, especially when you call station-to-station and give the operator the out-of-town number you want. Try it!

CCHS Tigers Romp Over Maplesville 33 To 0

By JERRY GRAY
Special To The News

The Chilton County Tigers came to life after a stumbling start to score 5 touchdowns plus three extra points and rout a highly vaunted Maplesville team 33 to 0.

The Tigers were sparked by the superlative play of right halfback Neal Bice who slashed the Red Devil line to fragments while scoring three touchdowns, all of which came from good distances out.

Also scoring for the Tigers were Thomas Minor, who received a pass from quarter Charlie Gray and scampered across the goal line ahead of all pursuers.

Jack DeLoach, fancy stepping fullback was hurt on the first play of the game, but this didn't seem to hamper his play at all, as he came back to score a touchdown in the first quarter.

The scoring was as follows, two touchdowns in the first quarter, two touchdowns in the second quarter, one touchdown in the third quarter. Three extra poins were added to the scoring.

The CCHS Tigers defense was sparked by such names as Earl Parsons, Ace Dennis and Jimmy Fulmer. But the show didn't belong to only the boys mentioned. The team as a whole performed well.

Maplesville made several threats, but on every try the Tigers defense stopped them cold.

The Red Devils ground game simply didn't work. In the latter part of the first half they began to make their play through the air, but their aerial attack never quite jelled.

Next week the Tigers will take on Montevallo at Montevallo.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town

by Ben

SAM Stewart is being sent by his company, the Goodyear Service Stores to Akron, Ohio for two weeks Sam said he would combine pleasure with business and take his wife and child with him. He is planning a big time, seeing the sights of the city and whether or not we will be able to speak to him upon his return is yet to be seen, but we do hope he has a big time and are proud for him that he was chosen by his Company to make the trip.

THE man was applying for a job in the diplomatic corps. "What makes you think you are qualified for the position", he was asked by the clerk. "Well, I've been married for 20 years and my wife still thinks I have a sick friend".

DAUGHTER Carolyn is Program Director at WKLF Radio Station and Helen Parrish is full-time secretary and Director of Youth at the First Methodist Church. Helen was with hte radio station for many, many years and made thousands of friends while there. Carolyn is just getting into the swing of things out there, but having a very understanding boss and mighty fine people to work with she says she will make it fine. She's getting to like the work more every day.

STANTON Parent-Teachers are having a Pot-Luck Supper Saturday night of this week. The members and friends of the school are not only invited, but urged to come out and enjoy a big supper and community get-to-gether.

AS ONE newspaperman said to the other: "If you can keep your sanity in this business you just don't understand the situation".

YOU folks who are getting ready to do your Christmas shopping without paying the cashier when you leave the store had better stop and think twice before you shop. We don't suppose any of our readers come under this heading, but just thought we would remind you so you could remind somebody who might stoop to do a low-down thing like this. The past Legislature passed a bill where the store owners can now stop a person suspected of shoplifting IN the store. The way it was, the owner had to wait until the suspected thief got out on the sidewalk, but now if the thief is stopped and questioned in the store they cannot sue the owner as they once could. We hope it puts a stop to a lot of shoplifting around the Holiday Season.

"WELL Mark," said the mother to the little boy when he arrived home from school, "were you a good boy at school today?" "Sure," answered the lad, "how much trouble can you get into standing in a corner all day?"

Appreciation From Thomas Jr. P-TA

The following is a letter written to the Chilton County High FFA boys and their counselor from the Thomas Jr. PTA.:

Dear FFA Boys and
Mr. Thompson:

We, the PTA of Thomas Jr. High School want to thank you for the very nice FFA Mail Box stand for the school.

We will enjoy using such a well-built and attractive stand and again we thank you very much.

Sincerely,
Mrs. E. R. Dennis, Sec.

Says Local Group--

Amateur Boxing In Planning Stage

COULD PERHAPS FURTHER COMMUNITY CENTER CAMPAIGN

Reports this week, from reliable sources, said that the Clanton Civitan Club is making a sustained effort to deeproot Boys Amateur Boxing bouts in Clanton and Chilton County.

The source further said that a place to train and instruct boys will be available and that eventually the top contesters could compete in Golden Glove Tournaments.

"This is a new field for most of the people in this area" said the spokesman "but we feel that there are any number of boys in Chilton and surrounding Counties that would benefit greatly from this sport and training."

It was also stressed that the program is being designed for boys with or without training in boxing, which means that any boy who is physically capable can join in the sport.

Weight divisions are as follows: Flyweight, 112 pounds; Bantamweight, 118 pounds; Featherweight, 126 pounds; Lightweight 135 pounds; Welterweight, 147 pounds; Middleweight, 160 pounds; Light Heavyweight, 175 pounds and Heavyweight, over 175 pounds.

If enough interest is shown and the boys are enthusiastic about the project a try will be made to enter a team in the State Golden Glove Tournament in Montgomery.

Further information is available on this project and may be obtained by writing to P. O. Box 666, Clanton, Alabama.

Local Baseball Club Thanks Patrons And Backers

The Clanton Baseball Club wishes to take this means of thanking all of the merchants, business firms and baseball fans who aided us so much in obtaining our baseball uniforms and equipment for the past year.

We are also very grateful to the following persons and firms who were so co-operative all the year:

Rally Day At Oak Grove Baptist 6th

The First Sunday in October will be Rally Day in Sunday School.

Our goal in attendance is 150.

The second Sunday is Laymen's Day in the church. Our work is growing in all lines. You have a special invitation to attend these services, says Rev. W. R. Seymore, pastor.

Cleaning the leather-upholstered chair with saddle soap will oftentimes prolong its life.

LIONS "BOWL" GAME SHAPING TO GRUDGE TILT

And the rains came.

The local Lions Club is hoping that the rains have made everyone "Football hungry" so they'll all be looking forward to the long awaited match between the Maplesville Red Devils and the Isabella Mustangs.

Even if they are disappointed in this line of thought the abilities of both these teams this year are enough wthin themselves to attract the attention of most anyone.

Maplesville, apparently having hit her stride came out of the game with Hicks Memorial a 44-6 victor and Isabella took her most recent defeat standing up.

...This makes the two teams all tied up with two losses and one win which provides odds that even we won't speculate on. Interesting to say the least.

By the way. The time for this extravaganza of a game is Thursday night, October 24 at the Chilton County High School football field. Proceeds will go to the Lions Sight Conservation project.

Model Turned Aviatrix Coming To Clanton, 10th

GLAMOUR JOBS WEREN'T EXCITING SO SHE TOOK TO THE AIRWAYS

The life of a glamorous photographer's model, a TV show and free lance writing contracts—a variety of jobs coveted by millions of women—were not exciting enough for tall, willowy, red-haired Barbara Rust.

She gave up this three-year routine of posing and modeling to become one of the country's most competent aviatrixes.

"Rustie" will be in Clanton on Ocotber 10 appearing at the V. J. Elmore store at 9:30 a.m. as a living trademark of the Rust Craft Greeting Card Co. she represents.

She will fly her Luscomb airplane to the Gragg Field Airport and will motor to our city with police escort.

Rustie, who has participated in the Powder Puff Derby, the 3000 mile cross-country womens race, is the fourth woman in the world ever to fly a jet.

Rustie has only words of praise for her southern jaunt. She said, "The hospitality and service given to private pilots landing in the South is the most cordial I have ever received."

IT'S possible to find something good about every man—even if it's just his own opinion of himself.

IT'S possibly true that a man would be satisfied with enough—but he never gets it.

THE love of money may be the root of all evil, but you can't deny that it's also a token of success.

THE man who gets into the habit of thinking of himself alone—the world usually leaves him alone to do it.

MOST people never think to start saving for a rainy day until it starts to sprinkle.

IT'S a waste of time to stand up for a man who refuses to stand up for himself.

NO man is so blind as the man who refuses to see himself as others see him.

NOTHING jolts a narrow-minded person so much as having to admit he is wrong.

BAYONETS DO NOT HELP!----

IT SHOULD BE THE prayer of every American, North and South, black and white, that the White House meeting of President Eisenhower and the five Southern Governors is productive; and that, in spite of the President's desire to broaden the discussion to cover "problems of school integration", the conferees bear down on the subject urged by the Governor's Conference, "withdrawal of Federal Troops from Arkansas at the earliest possible moment."

Whether or not President Eisenhower acted within the law in sending Regulars into Little Rock to enforce integration at Central High School, will doubtless be argued at great length by sundry authorities. But, the fact of the paratroopers' presence, which Governor Faubus called "The military occupation of Arkansas", the fact of their herding school children with naked bayonets, and with what Senator Richard B. Russell has called "Hitler-like conduct", supersedes theories of Constitutional law to compound an error that cannot soon be erased. Yet it is only one of a series of errors that begun with a Federal reversion to the spirit of the reconstruction days by sending a northern judge to rule on the most explosive problem of our time.

There is at least the suspicion that Washington may be coming to a realization of its error in the announcement of Army Secretary Brucker that he had revoked orders to commanders in Atlanta and San Antonio for riot training of their troops.

It is all very well to affirm piously that there must be law or there will be anarchy. But where interpretation of the law causes such an upheaval in the traditional life and customs of the community, as the desegregation ruling in the South, there must be patience and understanding. From the Southern viewpoint, great progress has been made even in Arkansas and Little Rock. But bayonets do not help.

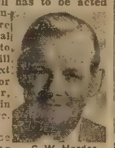
WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Whether or not next session of Congress makes decision it will cost 4 cents to mail a 3-cent letter, with other postal rates increased accordingly, is still a moot question.

* * *

While the House has passed a bill authorizing such an increase, it still has to be acted upon in the Senate. And there is a substantial question as to whether it will go through next session, or for that matter, any session in the near future.



C. W. Harder

* * *

If the raise does not go through, credit for blocking it should perhaps be given to Rep. Rhodes of Pennsylvania, who really put over a very sound and solid roadblock.

* * *

Rep. Rhodes is author of an amendment which would prohibit the Post Office from subsidizing any big magazine publisher more than $100,000 in any one year.

* * *

One of the biggest single losses incurred by the postal service is handling the big magazines as [illegible] for the [illegible] publishers.

Or as Rep. Rhodes figures it, it costs the Post Office $[illegible] million a year to handle Life, $[illegible] million for the Saturday Evening Post, $5.4 million for Look.

Under [illegible] amendment of a general postal rate increase [illegible], these publishers, and others, will pay the difference what it costs the service to handle their magazines over $100,000 per year. He estimates this would raise another $38 to $40 million per year which is now being borne out of taxes.

* * *

So, all of a sudden, this postal raise matter becomes a very hot potato.

* * *

It is almost a certainty the big magazine publishers will resist losing the big subsidy they now receive. And some of them are not without considerable influence in Washington, even to the extent of getting ambassadorships for their wives.

* * *

But on the other hand, Congress cannot well afford to tell the country that it intends to continue subsidizing with taxpayer's money some of these huge magazines who get as much as $37,000 for a single page in a single issue from the big corporations who can afford to [illegible] in these publications.

* * *

In fact, the nation's independent businessmen, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, have already gone on record as opposing the idea of indiscriminate raises in postal rates inasmuch as small business generally is quite dependent upon low cost postal service.

* * *

Thus, an increase of 33⅓% on regular first class postage, while the big magazines [illegible] what is tantamount to a subsidy, is not calculated to bring out the brass bands on Main Street to celebrate such a move.

* * *

It's quite possible that rather than let such a [illegible] get onto the floor, the [illegible] will be allowed to [illegible] in a Senate committee [illegible] too.

* * *

But if it does get to the floor, it could be one of the most interesting Congressional battles in some time. As they say in current jargon, Rep. Rhodes has really thrown quite a curve.

© National Federation of Independent Business

There are some observers who feel that past financial scandals such as Teapot Dome, the Boss Tweed Ring, the Penrose machine and the Pendergast machine would pale into insignificance if there were ever a deep delving into the operations of U. S. foreign aid programs.

C. W. Harder

If these observations were correct, it appears obvious that only small irregularities, per centagewise, on some $70 billions worth of foreign aid, would be indeed quite a tidy sum.

* * *

And as is well indicated by skirmishes between Congress and administrative branch over issue, Congress is not happy.

There is now in the Congressional Record the following paragraph: "Any further abdication of Congressional authority and control over appropriations for mutual security programs and expenditures and any further enlargement of the present unlimited blank check authority of the executive branch of our government will be legislatively unwise and constitutionally dangerous."

* * *

This was not just partisan oratory, either, as the above was part of a report made by Reps. E. R. Adair, Alvin Bentley, Marguerite Church and Lawrence Church, all GOP, and L. H. Foubtain and J. L. Pilcher of other party.

Adding fuel to the fire was the report by the Comptroller General covering reports on foreign aid operations by agents of the General Accounting Office in which it claimed there are alleged instances of graft and racketeering with foreign aid funds.

Only two copies of this report were released for the scrutiny of the 435 members of the lower house of Congress. In addition, at the request of the executive branch of the government, the report had been marked "classified." Thus information about how U. S. taxpayers' funds are scattered around the globe is now on the same basis as the latest technical developments on hydrogen bomb.

Congressman Smith of Virginia inquired why all the secrecy and was answered by Rep. Frank Coffin, Maine, that publication of report would interfere with country-to-country negotiations.

* * *

It is alleged that leaks on this information point the finger at some foreign officials.

* * *

Thus, there are some quite unhappy Congressmen who take the viewpoint that if there has been graft and corruption with billions of U. S. air funds, evidence of these matters should not be kept secret by executive fiat.

* * *

And obviously, it is felt, evidence dug up by the General Accounting Office is not slanted by any attitude on partisan politics, or pros and cons of global boondoggling.

* * *

As accountants the world over, GAC is not much interested in why things were done. It is only interested in where the money has gone, letting the chips fall where they may.

* * *

But as covered in the paragraph already put into the Congressional Record on the subject, it is held this business of marking this report secret is a dangerous precedent.

* * *

Because no nation, no government, has yet been successful in concealing graft. If there has been graft in foreign aid, graft, like murder, will out.

THINGS WE SEE and HEAR

By "TUCK"

We have two or three apologies to make this week due to the inopportune time in which we were overtaken by the Asian Flu. We use the term loosely because that seems to be the accepted ailment at this particular time. Anyway, we promised a couple of things last week that didn't come off as planned: One was a story we promised our good friend G. D. Jones that we didn't get to and the other was a promise to "Pig" Headley which we were unable to fulfill. Hope these two gentlemen respect our unquestionable right to have the Flu whenever it chooses and will understand. If they think they're put out they should try standing on yours truly's legs this week!

We're put out because our output is not keeping up our income and the outcome could mean that without income we will be put out and that gets us back around to. . . we'd better get back to work!

Cadet Marion C. Deaton was home for a few days recently and we had the pleasure of spending a good bit of time with him.

He is "between assignments" so to speak having finished up at Hondo (near San Antonio) and going still further West this time. He will get his wings soon and then, who knows. "Pete" says he has a girl friend out there. This we're glad to hear and just to keep the old boy from having to make any embarrasing explanations we'll add that he always has had "a" girl.

Seeing the old Central Alabama Hospital nearing complete destruction we started wondering just how many throats will have lumps in them with memories of some of the bygone days. The old place served Chilton County well and it seems fitting that it should be remembered in some way or other for the shelter it gave during some people's most trying hours. Now, its usefulness faded, it too is fading. It's old weakening walls saw much life and consequently death too, but it will always be remembered by those who received help within its inner workings when they most needed it.

A lady came to us recently with an article to be published and, in essence, this is what she said: "We have found that you people can get things over to the public better than we or any others can. . ." We'll bet that lady is batting near perfection when it comes to getting articles "published," in weekly newspapers.

Take note of the article in this week's paper on the Amateur Boxing bouts being organized by the local Civitan Club. It has its merit as a good clean sport for local boys. It is not seasonal and would provide entertainment and recreation for many teenagers. As we said, take a closer look—it has its merit.

"MR. LUTHER"—

"NEWS" LOSES A SUPPORTER AND GOOD FRIEND

Early this week the Chilton County News lost one of its staunchest supporters and most loyal friend in the person of Mr. Luther M. Yeargan who passed on to his reward early Tuesday morning, October 1st.

Mr. Luther often boasted to us that he was one of our oldest subscribers and then he would proceed to tell us just how long it had been.

He was a great talker with a keen sense of humor. The everyday cares of the world did not seem to bother him, at least not outwardly and he loved life and people. Especially did he care for children and they for him.

The "News" staff feels as if one of their number has been taken. Our sincerest sympathies to the immediate family and other kinfolks.

Your bereavement is truly warranted for we have lost a "Good Samaritan"; one who, in the hearts of the ones closest to him cannot be replaced.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible

I know that Thou canst do every thing, and that no thought can be withholden from Thee.—(Job 42, 2.)

Our Heavenly Father, being omniscient, knows when we sincerely struggle against the evil thoughts and desires that assail us; being omnipotent, in His boundless mercy He will help us when we truly repent and strive again for righteousness.

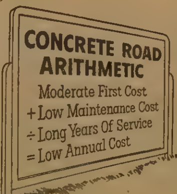
TWO LANES . . .
OR MANY LANES

THE BEST PAVEMENT FOR AMERICA'S GREAT NEW ROADS IS CONCRETE . . . on all counts!



The Federal Aid Highway Act of 1956 provides that the Federal government will pay 90% of the cost of building the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways. The states, however, must bear the entire burden of maintaining it!

In fairness to taxpayers that means that the pavement chosen should be the most durable. It also should be the least costly to maintain. Concrete is the answer on both counts!

Roads built to Interstate System standards may cost less—and in no case much more if built with concrete. And once built, concrete roads need far less maintenance and serve much longer than other kinds. All these facts are a matter of record!

Whether the roads have only two lanes or many, you, as a taxpayer, will profit from the choice of dependable, long-lasting concrete, the pavement which has proven best on all counts.

This Week's Doings At Mt. Pleasant

By Irene Riggins

"I determined not to know any thing among you, save Jesus Christ, and Him crucified." I Corinthians 2:2.

We were delighted with the messages brought to us by the Rev. Charlie Haggard and wish to thank him for having come our way. Also his wife.

We were glad to meet Mr. Moore who visited the church during the evening service.

Considering the inclement weather and the illness in our community we had good attendance at church. Remember that empty pew belongs to you.

The week-end guests of the Sanford Cole family were: Mrs. Opal Sampson and children of Guntersville, Mrs. G. O. Tullis of Arab and Mr. and Mrs. Vurbon Light of Guntersville.

Mr. Bascom Riggins of Birmingham visited his sister Mrs. Bonnie Riggins on Friday.

Mrs. Inez Morgan is doing nicely.

Miss Wynell Johnson has been ill this week, but is much improved and we hope she will be well again [illegible]

Mrs. J. E. Minor's condition remains the same.

We are sorry to hear of the illness of Vester Oaks and pray for his speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Payton of Birmingham have been visiting the Luther Payton family for the past week

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM PLANNED AT CONCERT HERE

The recent concert at the Thorsby Grammar School was well-attended and the visiting Dixieland Quartet of WVOK in Birmingham received an overwhelming request to return to Thorsby on Saturday evening, December 7th and render a Christmas Concert of old and new Christmas songs and carols. The Quartet promised they would return on that date—concert to begin at 7:30 p.m.

They also requested the local groups to be with them again on this Christmas program. Our local boys and girls who so graciously and pleasantly entertained on their part of the program promised to be present also. These boys and girls were commended highly by those who listened to them for their capable and beautiful renditions.

Tickets for the December Christmas Program will be sold in advance and at the door. This Program will emphasize "Christ" in the magical word Christmas. Look for that date, December 7.

AMERICAN LEGION PLANS ENTERTAINMENTS

The American Legion and Auxiliary plan a series of entertainments beginning with a Bingo Party at Legion Hall on Saturday night, October 12. These organizations do not seek the plaudits of multitudes, or the acclaim that comes from spectacular achievement. Rather, they find their greatest reward and happiness in the deep appreciation and heart-warming confidence and respect of the loved people in Our Hometown. This October 12 will initiate the clean entertainment offered by this group to those who have, over a period of time, requested a program of clean entertainment suitable to people of all ages. Look for further announcements concerning these enterainments.
